provided by Diposit Digital de Documents de la UAB

FOOLISH, FATHER

Taught how to write, he never wrote No novelist — more lamb than goat — Was Trollope's son. He took, poor fella, Trained by Trollope to write a novella,

To sheep-grazing. Just why, Lord knows! Was it his father's woolly prose? Fixations father Fixed Ideas. Bah! There are no panaceas.

R. W. Stallman