

S. DALI KITCHEN

The walls are painted Primavera green the curtains are brisk white organdy, the oilcloth on the floor is De Hooch clean.

(A huge black beetle crawls upon the sink)

The pots are copper-bottomed hung to graze in rows of sheep above immaculate stove, the canisters are schooled on shelves in ordered size.

(The beetle runs, evades the frenzied blow)

The virgin lifts the snowy sink top up to stare at hollow's gaping, unplugged mouth to midnight's labyrinth, uncharted on her map,

(through which the beetles are threading to and fro).

Rose Roseberg

This review was set on the linotype machine by Ace Printery of Willimantic, Inc., using II point Old Style for body type and I2 point Tempo Bold for headings. Old Style is the traditional type specified for all legal documents. Composition, presswork and collating were done by the editors, utilizing a hand powered antique press. The edition was limited to 500 copies. #1/2