

Second Global Kids Online network meeting held in London

 blogs.lse.ac.uk/gko/second-global-kids-online-network-meeting-held-in-london/

The second Global Kids Online network meeting was held in London, March 2016. The meeting gathered current and potential international research partners, with some 40 academics and UNICEF staff from 14 different countries. Pilot partner countries (Argentina, South Africa, Philippines and Serbia) presented the lessons learned from conducting research on children's internet use in different countries, complemented by local analysis, findings and case study examples.

The second Global Kids Online network meeting was held in London, March 2016. The meeting gathered current and potential international research partners, with some 40 academics and UNICEF staff from 14 different countries. Pilot partner countries (Argentina, South Africa, Philippines and Serbia) presented the lessons learned from conducting research on children's internet use in different countries, complemented by local analysis, findings and case study examples.

The second Global Kids Online network meeting was held in London, March 2016. The meeting gathered current and potential international research partners, with some 40 academics and UNICEF staff from 14 different countries. Pilot partner countries (Argentina, South Africa, Philippines and Serbia) presented the lessons learned from conducting research on children's internet use in different countries, complemented by local analysis, findings and case study examples.

The second Global Kids Online network meeting was held in London, March 2016. The meeting gathered current and potential international research partners, with some 40 academics and UNICEF staff from 14 different countries. Pilot partner countries (Argentina, South Africa, Philippines and Serbia) presented the lessons learned from conducting research on children's internet use in different countries, complemented by local analysis, findings and case study examples.

The second Global Kids Online network meeting was held in London, March 2016. The meeting gathered current and potential international research partners, with some 40 academics and UNICEF staff from 14 different countries. Pilot partner countries (Argentina, South Africa, Philippines and Serbia) presented the lessons learned from conducting research on children's internet use in different countries, complemented by local analysis, findings and case study examples.

