State rests case against Reiman

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Prosecution in the Johnson County murder-for-hire charge against SIUC Physical Plant assistant director rested its case Tuesday after less than a half day of testimony, triggering speculation that jury deliberation could begin today.

Dale Reiman's attorney, Richard E. White, said he will prove that the prosecution's key witness, David Scott Polk, is a "liar. Not mistaken, but a liar." The trial will resume at 9 a.m. in the Johnson County Courthouse in Vienna, about 50 miles south of Carbondale.

Reiman is accused of attempting to hire Polk, an inmate at the Shawnee Correctional Center in Johnson County, to arrange the murder of a male student worker. Reiman is accused in Jackson County of kidnapping and sexually assaulting the same student in December 1986. The name of the student is being withheld.

Polk told a jury of seven women and five men that Reiman paid him $750 to have the student kidnapped on New Year's Eve 1986 and held for three days. Then, the student was to be taken to a truck stop in Effingham where Reiman would threaten him over the telephone that he'd be killed if he didn't drop the charges, Polk testified.

"I told him (Reiman) that I didn't want to be involved. But I also told him that I would check it out," Polk said.

Shawnee Correctional Center records show Reiman probably visited Polk on Dec. 26, 28 and 29, 1986. Records show how long a person was at the institution, but not if a visitor actually talked to the requested inmate, witness Lawrence Haas, a Shawnee Correctional Center employee, said.

Guyon disputes IEA on staff size

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

Figures from an Illinois Education Association news release that were used in a Daily Egyptian editorial critical of administrative growth have been described as misleading.

"The staff figures are not an accurate representation of the staffing patterns of the University," University President John Guyon told Daily Egyptian editors in a meeting Tuesday.

The IEA member who compiled the figures was unavailable for comment.

The editorial quoted figures that indicate the University lost 152 full-time faculty members, while it added 29 administrative positions between the 1981-82 school year and last year. The figures also show the chancellor's office grew from 17 positions to 35.

The administration says the figures for the two years are based on different criteria.

The administration says the method of determining the number of faculty at the University changed in 1983, making a comparison between the 1981-82 school year and the 1986-87 school year inappropriate.

Guyon said an analysis from his office indicated faculty positions budgeted have decreased from 915 to 907 since 1983.

The IEA based its figures on

City debates ditching railroad relocation

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

It's time for Carbondale to explore alternatives to its railroad relocation project, Mayor Neil Dillard said at the City Council meeting Tuesday.

While discussing the possibility of ditching the Big Ditch plan, Dillard said the city should try to get funding while Rep. Ken Gray is still in Congress.

More than 70 percent of vehicles that cross railroad tracks in Carbondale do so at Grand Avenue, Walnut Street and Main Street, according to a report by City Manager Bill Dixon.

Gray, D-West Frankfort, has urged officials to look at less costly alternatives to the $67 million plan. The project would sink Illinois Central Gulf railroad tracks running through the city to about 30 feet below street level, eliminating street crossings.

About $5.7 million is currently available for the project.

The federal Highway Administration will not release funds for the project until the entire $67 million is secured, unless the city approves an alternative plan.

The council is expected to decide whether it will explore alternative approaches at its April 5 meeting.

Computer glitch zaps paychecks

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

The University's payroll office says a change in computer policy is what caused an employee's paycheck to be sent to the wrong address.

Catherine Ann Hagler, Daily Egyptian advertising supervisor, said her paycheck was sent to another Cathy Hagler who did not work for the University. "Fortunately," she said, the other Hagler "was honest" and mailed the check to the DE employee.

About 20 cases like Hagler's have come up since the University Directory — a campuswide, computerized list of people who receive Bursar's statements — was implemented in May 1987, said James D. Hamilton, payroll office director. Data in the directory includes a person's name and mailing address.

The error occurred because a University office worker changed the address without checking

Official: U.S. condoned Noriega's dealings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. government ignored overwhelming evidence of drug dealing, money laundering and other corruption by Panama since the mid-1970s, a former National Security Council official told Congress Tuesday.

Norman A. Bailey, who served as a senior economic adviser to the council from 1981 to 1983, said the administration had "unmistakable information" that Gen. Manuel Noriega's government was involved in drug trafficking, gun running,

Iraqi jets attack tankers, Iran attacks oil platform

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iraq said its warplanes attacked two supertankers serving Iranian coastal oil terminals Tuesday, and Tehran reported nine people were killed in Iraqi air raids on Iranian cities. The Iranian news agency also reported that Iranian naval forces attacked the Al Bakr oil platform off the Iraqi port of Faw in the northern Persian Gulf. It said the platform, not in use at the time of the attack, was set ablaze.

Armenian nationalists' strike affects Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union acknowledged Tuesday that a 6-day-old strike by Armenian nationalists over the disputed enclave of Nagorno Karabakh has disrupted the economies of two republics. Certain enterprises are not functioning and others are not functioning normally, Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said, adding that people stayed home from work today. Gerasimov said Stepanakert, the capital of Nagorno Karabakh, was almost shut down as Armenian nationalists struck for a sixth day to try to force Soviet authorities to transfer control of the region to Armenia.

Three bombs explode in Argentine theaters

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Bombs exploded almost simultaneously Tuesday in three downtown Buenos Aires movie theaters, injuring three people, police said. A fourth bomb planted inside another theater was defused in time by bomb disposal experts, police said. No political group immediately claimed responsibility for the wave of bombings that occurred during early afternoon showing when the theaters were not crowded.

U.S. balloonists ready to go round-the-world

MENDOZA, Argentina (UPI) — Two Kansas balloonists said Tuesday last minute technical problems have been resolved and they were ready for an attempt to make the first round-the-world balloon journey. A team of U.S. and Argentine engineers installed a new valve for the three-chamber helium and hot-air balloon as they raced to prepare the aircraft while weather and wind conditions were favorable, said pilot John R. Petrehn.

Controversy causes top Meese aides to quit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two top Justice Department officials, in a sharp blow to Edwin Meese, quit Tuesday because they believe the legal and ethical questions swirling around the attorney general are crippling the department's ability to function, sources said. Deputy Attorney General Arnold Burns, the No. 2 official under Meese, and Assistant Attorney General William Weld, the department's criminal chief, both submitted their resignations to President Reagan but refused to publicly disclose their reasons for leaving.

Future interpretation of INF treaty resolved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee cleared the way Tuesday for a final panel vote Wednesday on the historic INF treaty by declaring that future changes in the treaty's meaning must win Senate approval. The panel also said a potential controversy over whether the treaty covered futuristic weapons was defused with administration assurances that all weapons capable of covering the prohibited range of 300 to 3,400 miles — including any using exotic technology and still on the drawing boards — are banned.

Secret payments to Contras' families to end

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Families of Nicaraguan Contra fighters have gotten secret U.S. payments for years but the subsidies are due to end Friday and some administration officials fear the cutoff will lead to the collapse of the rebel army. These officials are hoping Congress will restore the funds, possibly by week's end, to avert a mass exodus from the already dwindling U.S.-backed Contra forces that have fought Nicaragua's Sandinista government since 1981.

Reagan qualifies earlier description of North

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan tried to qualify his earlier description of Oliver North as "a hero," saying Tuesday he simply meant that the Marine lieutenant colonel was highly decorated for his service in Vietnam. But Reagan also said he would await a judgment of a jury that ultimately will determine whether North and former national security adviser John Poindexter are guilty of any crimes in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Candidate: Student representation needed

Hagerman seeks more active voice for students

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

Chuck Hagerman wants to make student government better represented on both the University and state levels so student concerns can be heard.

Hagerman, 22, senior in biology and microbiology and vice president of the Undergraduate Student Organization, is petitioning to run for USO president on the Phoenix party ticket.

Hagerman said the last three presidents have been from the Phoenix party and have done a good job.

"I would like to keep the party active as long as it is producing good candidates," he said.

HAGERMAN'S PLATFORM includes:

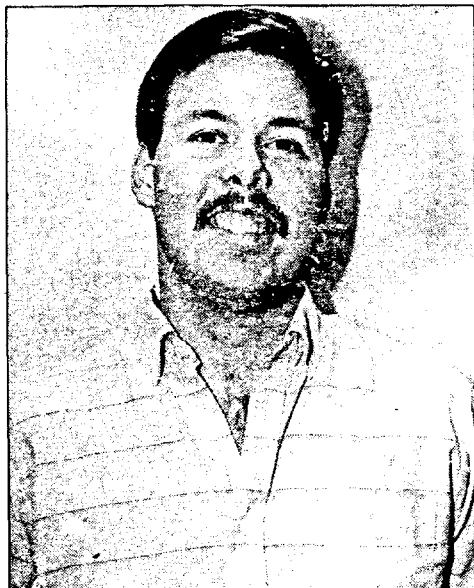

—Advocating lower tuition. The best way to lower tuition is to get SIU-C involved with the Illinois Student Association and support the $1 refundable fee to fund ISA, Hagerman said.

However, the fee should go through the USO first. If the consensus is that ISA is not doing a good job, he said, the fee can be refunded to the students.

—Continuing the Day of Action rally as a lobbying effort so students can help keep the cost of higher education down.

—Obtaining more financial aid for students. There needs to be a more accurate budget survey, Hagerman said. A separate budget should be created for the Pell grant and Guaranteed Student Loans, he added, because they each require different criteria for students to meet.

ONE BUDGET would not influence the other or raise or lower requirements. Having two separate budgets would give students more money, Hagerman said, adding, this needs to be worked on next fall.

—Supporting an increase in the minimum wage. An effort from students and the ISA could help influence this at least in Illinois, Hagerman said.

—Revitalizing downtown Carbondale. A mass transit system could help by giving students access to the area, Hagerman said. This could "get some nice things down there for students," he said, and students should be concerned about it because "we're not just students, we're citizens — we have to live here."

—Supporting voter registration by mail. Legislation pending before the General Assembly would allow people to register by filling out a card and mailing it in, Hagerman said. This would probably encourage more students to vote, he said.

A STATEWIDE voter registration competition between colleges and universities, like the competition between SIU-C and the University of Illinois also would encourage more students to vote, he said, adding, this would increase student awareness and make students a more powerful force in political decision making.

—Implementing Universitywide testing procedure guidelines. Testing in many courses is too subjective and doesn't reflect the material mentioned in the University catalog or syllabus, Hagerman said. A standard should be set stating how subjective a test can be and giving students a procedure to appeal test grades, he said.

IN HIS TWO years with the USO, Hagerman has served as chairman of the committee on internal affairs. He said serving on both the legislative and executive branches of the student senate has given him valuable experience.

Hagerman also has worked with USO commissions on projects such as Day of Action II.

Hagerman said he doesn't have any changes in mind for the USO, but would like to build and improve.

One of his main concerns is to make the commissions more active.

"They have been lacking," he said. They (commissions) used to be very active, he continued, and with the right people and better recruitment, they could do more than they do now.

RECRUITMENT and public relations need to be emphasized more, Hagerman said.

He is in favor of the name change for USO because "stating that we're a student government and not just a student club will get people involved."

Hagerman also would like to "keep up the professionalism" of the USO and keep a good representation of students. It's important to find out what the student body feels, he said, and they need to know where they can come to voice their opinions.

One of his main concerns is for a large voter turnout for in the USO election April 13. No matter who wins, the new president will have greater credibility if a lot of students vote, he said.

MORE VOTES also would mean that USO is more accurately representing the student body, Hagerman said. Candidates will work harder and be more concerned if they expect a large voter turnout, he said.

Having people run with a party makes it easier for the voters, Hagerman said. If they meet the presidential or vice-presidential candidate for the party and are impressed, they are more likely to vote for the senators running with the party.

"Win or lose, I plan on being up here (in the USO office) being active and letting others draw on my experience," he said.

Hagerman also explained why he is running with a party.

Having people run with a party makes it easier for the voters, he said. If they meet the presidential or vice presidential candidate for the party and are impressed, they are more likely to vote for the senators running with the party.

Voters also don't have to remember individual names, they can just remember the party, he said.

CANDIDATES WHO face opposition are more likely to get the vote if they are running with a party than if they are running independently, he said.

But the party name is really not significant, Hagerman said. It is just registered as a temporary RSO and "as soon as the elections are over, the party's over," he said.

"When the election is over, you work with whoever comes in," Hagerman said.

Hagerman said he and vice presidential candidate Nick Basil have spoken with all the senators running with the Phoenix Party and feel they would be excellent additions to the senate.

Postal rate boost raises questions

THE POSTAL RATE boost, according to a postal service spokesman, will help to ensure continued quality service.

But that statement raises the question: "Just what is the postal service's idea of quality?"

Since 1968, when the price of a first class stamp was 6 cents, the overall inflation rate in the United States is 231 percent. The price of a stamp will soon be 25 cents — that's a 316 percent inflation rate for the postal service.

While the postal service points to a larger volume of mail and added delivery addresses — seven million additional pieces of mail delivered in the last fiscal year — that's no excuse for its rising prices. In fact, it seems that more pieces of mail would lower the cost of sending a letter, since transportation costs wouldn't rise with each letter.

THE POSTAL SERVICE says the average American family will end up paying approximately $10 more annually because of the increase. If the rates would stay fixed for a long period of time — say a decade or so — perhaps the United States could live with the higher cost. But this will be the third time since rates have gone up since 1981.

True enough, the postal service now has added responsibilities because of the Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987. It has to pay health benefit costs previously subsidized by the federal government, but this is one of the rare legitimate reason for an increase.

The postal service says no increases are foreseen in the near future, but that's a familiar line. They said the same thing in 1985, when first class stamps went up from 20 to 22 cents.

PRESIDENT REAGAN HAS wanted privatization of the postal industry for a long time, and a special commission has just recommended it. While some may say this is a naive solution to a complex problem, maybe the postal service needs that sort of threat hanging over its head to improve service and management procedures.

The postal service gives figures that show average American production workers averaged a little more than a dollar an hour in 1944, enabling them to purchase 33 stamps. That average is now approximately $9 per hour, enabling the purchase of 36 stamps. This is all good and well, but isn't the point of a legal monopoly to keep costs down and service at a peak?

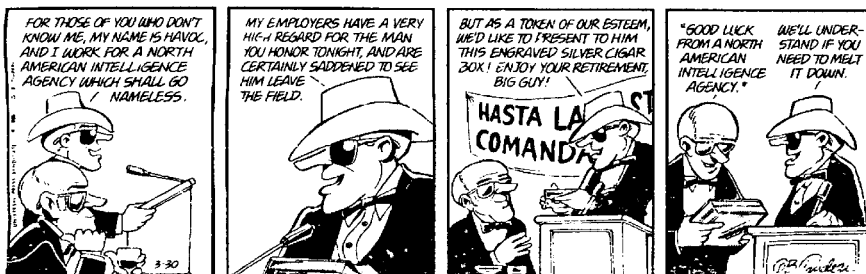

In the last 10 years, the postal service has achieved five deficit years and five profit years, with a net profit of 560 million dollars. With better management, it should be able to realize a profit annually and pass the savings back to the customer. That means a rate decrease isn't out of the question when profits are up.

Loopholes foil affirmative action

Southern Illinois is my home. I was born here. I am trying to raise my children here.

I'm peeved. Southern Illinois is a place where we are supposed to be able to grow and prosper, but it seems to me they have found a way to stunt our growth. They use millions of loopholes in the law to stifle our progress. Affirmative action, which is what we are fighting for, is not working because of its loopholes. They make a law, but with these loopholes they actually avoid what the law was created for — to ensure equal opportunity to all.

We are one of the richest countries in the world, but you can walk down the streets of any town or city in any state and see poverty. The governments of cities, states and the nation should focus their attention on the poverty and starvation in their own backyards.

With the poverty and joblessness that is all around us, it is even more disturbing when you look around for blacks in the work force. It is appalling to see there are no black county workers, no black fire fighters or law enforcement officers and very few blacks working in area businesses.

As an example of what I am talking about, let's look at one situation in Williamson County. May Construction Co. of Carterville was awarded about $100,000 for the extension of the waterlines in the No. 9 community area. Even though this money was allocated to upgrade our poor black community, there are no blacks working on these lines. I definitely feel blacks should have jobs in such projects.

The problem basically lies with the way the contracts are written. Since Ike Kirkakis is one of the people who write these contracts, why don't he and the other people include affirmative action? Why do they fail to require something so simple yet so powerful and far-reaching as far as its impact on the poor? We must begin to see strong affirmative action guidelines written into these contracts and they must stipulate the hiring of minorities.

The Williamson County Coalition has been formed to make sure that poor people and, in particular, poor black people are given a fair shot at those jobs that are available in our area. We will strive to bring about a change in the overall attitude of blacks and whites in Williamson County.
 — Dwain Hurd, Colp

Quality of Daily Egyptian has improved

In this letter, I want to undertake the unpopular task of actually praising the Daily Egyptian. For the past six years, I have been a regular and avid reader of the DE, saving a few minutes of my daily schedule to glance through its pages. Often, I have been amused, or even outraged by the fluctuating standards of journalism, or by the thoughtlessness of some editorials and letters. And, almost every day, I have had my red pen to damn the proofreaders who never failed to miss awkward sentences, misspelled words, fragments or totally incomprehensible headlines.

I am sure these daily oops-searches are practiced by many other readers as well. But this spring, something curious happened. Unlike in the past, I now find myself spending more than a few minutes to browse the DE and actually reading it — not merely for its errors, but for its refreshingly improved journalistic content, from the editorials to the staff essays and reviews, even including the day-to-day reportage of news items.

The spring staff of the newspaper, led by its obviously superior editor-in-chief, Toby Eckert, has proven that the DE can be informative, thoughtful and even something to be proud of.

I don't question the value of the negative criticism often voiced in these columns. The DE should improve its proofreading staff. It should address campus policy issues more frequently. It should include more stories related to art and culture. It should reconsider the lame wisdom of printing "Sunglasses." But I do think we also should praise the DE staff when it challenges our perpetually low expectations of it by impressing us with quality journalism. To the writers and workers who close themselves hour after hour in the news and printing rooms of the DE: keep up the good work. — Aaron Aji, graduate, English

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Committee, whose members are the student-editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a Journalism School faculty member.

Letters to the editor may be submitted by mail or directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247 Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten, double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letter of less than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters submitted by mail should include the author's address and telephone number. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

Polk, who had a money order for $750 from Reiman deposited in his inmate trust fund on Dec. 29, denied Reiman a visit on Jan. 3, 1987.

"I didn't want to see him at all," Polk said. "I beat him out of his money and that was my whole purpose and I didn't want to face him."

Polk said he didn't hire anyone to kill the student for Reiman.

Polk said he had told his parents in January or February about Reiman's request, but they thought he was lying.

Polk said he has known Reiman for about 13 years. Reiman was youth director in the Murphysboro church Polk attended.

Polk said he had always known Reiman as "a friend."

White, in his opening statements, pointed out that Polk waited seven months to report the incidents.

"He did tell his mother and his mother didn't believe him," he said.

Polk said he wanted to tell prison officials about his encounters with Reiman until after he had seen a television report on Aug. 19 that Reiman had been charged in Jackson County with sexual assault and kidnapping charges. Polk's statement was not recorded.

"I didn't really know if Dale was for real or not," Polk said. "When I saw it on TV, I knew he had seriously kidnapped the kid and wanted to have him killed."

On Aug. 20, police recorded two interviews with Polk.

In the first interview, Polk told police about Reiman's plan, but didn't tell officials of his involvement.

Detectives turned off the tape recorder and told Polk that they "didn't feel the whole truth has been brought out"

Reiman status reviewed

By John Mohler
Staff Writer

Although Physical Plant Assistant Director Dale Reiman's accrued leave of absence extends to around May 1, the University administration may take "immediate action" to determine his job status if he is convicted of a solicitation-to-commit-murder charge in Johnson County, said Personnel Services Director William Capie Tuesday.

Capie said "it would be premature to speculate" on the review procedure or actions to be taken. The final decision will probably be made by President John Guyon, he added.

Johnson County Judge James Williamson said Reiman's trial could be concluded by Thursday.

Reiman began his leave of absence Sept. 15, the day after he was arrested for solicitation-to-commit-murder charges in Jackson County. The charges allege that Reiman hired a Shawnee Correctional Center inmate to arrange the murder of a male student worker.

An accrued leave of absence is time accumulated from vacation or sick leaves.

Reiman, who has worked for the University since 1977, was appointed to his present post in June 1986.

Reiman also was arrested by Carbondale police on Aug. 5 and charged in Jackson County with the kidnapping and sexual assault of the same student worker over a four-day period in December 1986.

Reiman has pleaded innocent to the 21 related charges in Jackson County.

because they had records that showed Reiman had deposited $750 in Polk's account, witness Richard Evans, Illinois State Police director of criminal investigations, said.

"He (Polk) admitted he received the cashiers check, but said he was afraid of being charged with conspiracy," Evans said. "We told him he would not be charged because we felt we would not have a case without his testimony."

In the second recorded interview, Polk explained his involvement.

White said, "Evidence shows that he (Polk) lied in the first interview and that he lied in the second interview that was not recorded."

"Sometimes it's difficult to tell if someone is lying or not," he said.

After the second interview,

Polk said he called Reiman while officials were present to ask if he was still interested in having the student killed.

"He acted really shaky but said, 'I was just kidding' and asked if I enjoyed the money," Polk said.

Court records show that White could have as many as 29 witnesses, including Reiman and his father, Whyne.

Murder-for-hire is a class X felony, punishable by a minimum of six years and maximum of 30 years in prison. Reiman was arrested and charged with the felony on Sept. 14.

Reiman, who is on a leave of absence from the University, also faces 21 charges of kidnapping and sex-related offenses in Jackson County.

social security numbers, Hamilton said.

"We are going to have to write a memo to all the offices to tell them to do a better job," Hamilton said.

Before the directory came into use, each office had its own system of changing addresses and people had to notify several offices of their address change, Hamilton said. With the computerized directory, he said, the process of changing addresses is centralized and simplified.

However, the simplified process leaves room for human error, University Controller Jeff Holder said.

"There are a lot of benefits, but also a lot of problems," he said.

Michael E. Schwartz, assistant director of data base information for Computing Affairs, said while the old decentralized system gave offices more control over address changes, it also allowed for redundant, obsolete data.

The University Directory "gives all the offices the opportunity to have current data," Schwartz said.

Charles H. Hundersman, vice president for financial affairs, said Hagler's case was the only one he knew about, adding that he didn't realize the scope of the problem.

"When people start entering data into the system, mistakes are going to occur," Hundersman said.

public records that show the number of positions filled on a single day.

Ernest Lewis, associate vice president for academic affairs, said the category from which the IEA drew its figures for administrative positions from a part of the report that included people whose time is split between administrative and faculty duties. This includes some chairpersons, an assistant chairperson, directors, assistant directors and coordinators.

The IEA itself has argued that chairpersons should be considered faculty rather than administrators.

Lewis said some other people included in those categories also have faculty duties in addition to their administrative positions.

The increase cited in the chancellor's office is due partly to the Internal Audit Commission, which was moved from the president's office to the chancellor's office staff in 1983.

The number of positions in the chancellor's office and the Internal Audit Commission combined was 35.5 in the 1981-82 school year. Currently, 34.6 people are employed in the chancellor's office, including those who work in the internal audit division.

Excluding people in the internal audit division, the chancellor's office has grown from 20.5 positions in the 1981-82 school year to 23.6 positions now.

Herbert Donow, president of University Professionals of SIU, a teacher's union, said of the figures, "The implication that this is part of a top-heavy administrative superstructure is a little bit misleading."

"I don't disagree with the general point of the editorial," he said.

He said that some of the positions that have resulted in an increase in administration are beneficial to the University and should not be criticized.

The IEA and UP are the two unions vying to represent University employees should they decide to unionize.

SIU-C bids on quake office

5 locations in 4 states will compete

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

SIU-C and four other universities located in the New Madrid Fault zone are vying to house the Marion-based Central United States Earthquake Consortium on their campuses.

The CUSEC Board of Directors will hear competing proposals from SIU-C, Southeast Missouri State, University of Louisville, University of Arkansas at Little Rock, Memphis State and Fulton County, Ky. at its meeting on April 4 in St. Louis.

James Maher, CUSEC board chairman, said relocating to a university is only an alternative. The CUSEC offices may stay in Marion, he said. The proposals to relocate came after CUSEC director and founder Erie Jones died on Dec. 29, 1987. "Jones lived in Marion and that's why his offices are there," Maher said. CUSEC coordinates the earthquake emergency efforts of Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee.

"We would be looking for a location that will tie the seven states into a common thread in planning for a catastrophic earthquake," Maher said. The author of the proposal for SIU-C, said he could not comment about what the University has offered CUSEC.

"All I can say is that we're interested in having it here," John Sexton, associate professor in geology, said.

SEMO proposal author David Stewart also said he could not comment, but pointed out that SEMO is located the closest to the fault of all the competing universities. Carbondale is located about 90 miles northwest of the New Madrid fault near New Madrid, Mo. Seismologists say an earthquake registering more than 7.3 on the Richter Scale could hit the area at any time before the end of the century.

Stewart said that a quake of that magnitude would do more than $50 billion worth of damage.

In the winter of 1811-1812 three major earthquakes were reported along the New Madrid fault. They were thought to have an 8.8 reading on the Richter Scale. Scientists estimate that earthquakes occur about every 75 years. The last earthquake of any consequence along the New Madrid Fault occurred in 1895.

The New Madrid fault line extends from the southern tip of Illinois to East-Central Arkansas. It is about 120 miles long and 40 miles wide and can affect an area 300 miles on either side of the line.

Chemist: U.S. needs to develop technologies to revive economy

By Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

America needs to revive its dwindling economic competitiveness with European countries by researching and developing new chemical technologies a chemist said Monday.

Mary Good, president of engineered materials research for Allied-Signal Inc., pointed out the loss of major U.S. markets to Japan in the areas of electronics, machine tools, and automobiles. She said the industrial rise of Pacific Rim countries, along with other economic and political factors, have resulted in the U.S. trade deficit.

The chemical industry has been most affected by the shift in the world economy, she said. Economic competition from abroad has forced the industry to invest in long-term research and development. Good said. Research and development spending has resulted in a 5 percent increase in productivity in 1986, double all other manufacturing.

"The U.S. chemical industry is one of the few remaining segments of the economy where the U.S. still has a significant, positive balance of trade," Good said. "The health of this industry should be a high priority for the nation."

"We must recognize that the molecular science of chemistry is at the heart of new technology," Good said. Chemical data bases are the foundation for the molecular design programs in the development of new drugs, high-performance materials, specialty chemicals and biotechnology products.

Science and mathematics are the basis for new chemical technology, but according to the National Science Foundation, American high school students receive only one third as much exposure to science and mathematics as students in Japan, West Germany and the Soviet Union. Good said interest is even falling in computer science.

"In our country, the demand for competent scientists and engineers is currently being met by foreign students,"

Good said. The country is losing more and more of those people to industries in their homelands, she said.

"Unless we make an effort to attract more of the best minds into science and strive to incorporate the new technologies into academic curricula, competition will over take the United States," Good said.

Japan accounts for about one-third of America's trade deficit and the nations of Hong Kong, South Korea, Singapore and Taiwan are responsible, or a larger portion than all of Western Europe, Good said.

America's productivity levels are the highest in the world since the 1940s, but she said U.S. productivity grew slower than most other advanced industrial countries.

On the positive side, Good said the falling value of the dollar has opened some foreign markets for U.S. goods and several manufacturing industries are producing at capacity, she said.

Study cooks up sweet recipes

By Amy Gaubatz
Staff Writer

It looks and tastes like sugar, but it's not.

A study of granulated fructose, made from the starch of corn, is being conducted by the Department of Food and Nutrition.

The study involves 150 families living in rural and urban areas, throughout Illinois that were given a full year's supply of fructose. "They have to tell us how they have used it, and send in recipes," Jeannette Endres, of the food and nutrition department, said. She added that they have received 149 recipes.

Endres said that by conducting the study, they (researchers) hope to produce a cookbook, which explains how to use fructose. She said they will also work with A.E. Staley Inc., a manufacturer of fructose, to put the product on the market for retailers to use.

Representatives from A.E. Staley Inc. which supplied fructose for the study, met with the researchers Monday, to share information about the sugar substitute and taste products that were made with it, Endres said.

"We planned how we can work together in the future and looked at how far we have gotten with our testing."

"Since they are the manufacturers, they are in the position to tell us what works and what does not," she said of the company. "They have a lot of technical expertise. They can tell us reasons why consumers are having problems (with fructose) and why they are not."

The study, which began last October, is being funded by the Illinois Corn Marketing Board, and A.E. Staley Inc.

Fructose is available at health food stores, Endres said. "We are trying to learn more about it, so we can utilize it more and get a larger market for it."

She said advantages of fructose are that it is made from Illinois corn and it does not raise blood sugar levels.

"Fructose is considered a fruit sugar," she said. "It occurs naturally in fruits."

"It's excellent with anything," she added. It can be sprinkled on cereal, or used in pies, cakes, puddings, or koolaid.

"It looks and tastes just like sugar, but its characteristics in baked goods are not the same," she added. "With some cakes, we haven't come up with the right formulation."

"You can't just substitute fructose for sugar, you have to change other ingredients. You might have to add more or less liquids, fat or eggs," she said. She added that fructose tends to be sweeter than sugar and therefore can be used in smaller portions.

The families being studied use fructose in their own recipes, and they sometimes combine it with other sweet-

New attraction added to BG's comedy series

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

A Famous Funnies Comedy Series, which will feature such successful comedians as Emo Phillips, Mac King and Fat Paulsen, has been added to the comedy series at BG's Old Time Deli and Saloon, 1620 W. Main St.

The series began Monday night with Michael Floorwax.

The series will be featured one night a week, usually on a Sunday, manager Drew Weeks said.

"On May 1, we will have Emo Phillips, who had his own HBO special," he said. "He is recognized as one of the top stand-up comedians in the country."

Phillips, a Chicago native, will perform two shows at BG's. "He has a very unique brand of humor, different from traditional comedy," Weeks said.

Phillips has a whining type voice which would be hard to imitate, he said. "He's a big star for us to get. Normally he would be playing at places like Shryock," Weeks said. "I would place him just one peg below (Richard) Pryor."

Phillips has released three comedy albums and has been a guest on "Late Night with David Letterman," "The Tonight Show" and "Saturday Night Live."

On May 8, Mac King from Los Angeles will perform a combination magic and comedy act, Weeks said.

King has been in concert with Jerry Lewis, Jay Leno and on many talk shows, Weeks said. He also has done several commercials, including ones for Kentucky Fried Chicken, Command Performance Hair Styles and Louisville Sluggers bats.

Pat Paulsen will perform on June 5. "He is running for president again this year, just as he does every election year," Weeks said.

He is remembered by most people for his presidential nominee skits, Weeks said. "He isn't big and he doesn't look like a politician. He has this hound dog type face."

Paulsen became famous during his performance on the Smothers' Brothers shows in the 1960s, Weeks said.

Since then, Paulsen has been on many talk shows, had his own TV special and starred in the movie Harper Valley PTA.

"People over 25 definitely remember Pat Paulsen," Weeks said. "He has a dry humor and deadpan delivery."

'The King and I' satisfying

Tuskinoff's performance good as king

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

Filling the shoes of Yul Brenner's classic performance as King Mongkut in "The King and I" seems a monumental task, but David Tuskinoff's performance Monday night at a sold out Shryock Auditorium was a satisfying alternative.

Tuskinoff, though no Yul Brenner, was a commanding presence as the stubborn, but charming and flamboyant king.

"The King and I," Richard Rodgers' and Oscar Hammerstein's Tony Award winning musical, is about Mrs. Anna Leonowens, a widowed Englishwoman, who arrives in Siam (now Thailand) to tutor the many children of the king.

Fully expecting the king to meet the terms of their agreement and permit her to live in a house of her own, Anna soon learns that the king not only makes promises, but also breaks them. The king insists that she live in the palace with his many wives and children.

Anna tries everything to persuade the king to change his mind. Although the king refuses, he realizes he cannot make Anna serve his whims like all the other women in his kingdom.

The cultural clashes between the king and Anna provide the basis for most of the play's humor. The king's gallant stances and belittling demands do not frighten Anna, and his absolute confusion and anger about her actions are extremely humorous.

to portray the king — and delivers a performance as thoroughly humorous as the original.

The musical repertoire, which includes the famous "I Whistle a Happy Tune," "Getting to Know You," "I Have Dreamed" and "Shall We Dance," still proved enchanting after more than 35 years of performances.

There also were scenes that still proved delightful, including "The March of the Siamese Children," when Anna first meets the King's children, and "The Small House of Uncle Thomas," a humorous ballet version of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" that the King's wives and children perform for visiting English dignitaries.

Annelza Wolf delivered a wonderful performance as Anna, who was just as humorous as Tuskinoff in portraying Anna's anger and frustration at the actions of the headstrong King.

Twelve men want "Mr Irresistible" title

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

Twelve University students will compete for prizes and the title of "Mr. Irresistible" during the second annual Male Pageant at 8 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium.

Participants are representative of male students throughout the University, Joe Greenspan, American Marketing Association president, said. "They come from all organizations, some fraternities and some international students. We tried to get different students so it isn't a RSO (Registered Student Organization) male pageant," he said.

About 20 males filed applications for the pageant with AMA, from which the top 12 were selected to compete, Greenspan said.

Prizes include a large trophy, $100 and a restaurant gift certificate.

But the contestants have to spend money before they get to compete for the $100 prize, George Meredith, sophomore in finance, said.

"It costs money if you don't have things like a costume for the theme part," Meredith said. "And if you want a tan, that costs money too."

All the contestants said they were nervous.

"I'm more worried about being flexible," William Currie, senior in speech communications, said. "You can go out there and perform all you want, but if your not flexible and creative on stage the whole thing will fall through."

Many of the contestants said the pageant was a show of equal rights.

"This is an opportunity for me to support equal rights for men," Kent Eaton, senior in management and marketing, said.

Meredith said, "It's about time the guys had a chance to ham it up."

To win the title of Mr. Irresistible, contestants have to compete in five categories: casual wear, beach wear, talent, theme wear and tuxedo wear.

Overall, the contestants are judged on their looks, sense of humor, walk, confidence, body tone and structure, morals and personality.

AMA hasn't heard opposition toward the male pageant, he said. "It's so unique that people just think it's kind of funny," Greenspan said.

IBHE OKs merger program to combine agriculture majors

By Jonni Murray Aabury
Student Writer and Ed Rahe
Staff Writer

The Illinois Board of Higher Education recently approved a proposal by the College of Agriculture to merge three of the college's majors into one general major with four specializations.

Beginning in the fall semester, students majoring in agriculture education, general agriculture, agriculture education and mechanization and agricultural sciences will become part of a new major called general agriculture.

Students majoring in agriculture education and mechanization will major in general agriculture with a specialization in agriculture information or agricultural mechanization.

The agriculture education major will be replaced by a specialization in agriculture education.

The fourth specialization will be agriculture sciences.

The general agriculture major will require students to complete a common core of 17 semester hours of agriculture coursework.

Each specialization will require a minimum common core of nine additional semester hours of agriculture coursework. Electives will total 40 semester hours of agricultural classes.

Donald Elkins, associate dean for instruction at the College of Agriculture, pointed to the declining enrollment in the general agriculture and agriculture education and mechanization as one reason for the merger.

According to a College of Agriculture report, enrollment in the current program has steadily declined, with the general agriculture major dropping from an enrollment of 159 in 1980 to 42 by 1986.

Another reason for the change was that students majoring in general agriculture had no departmental home. The students were previously advised through Elkins' office.

General Agriculture

students will now have the advantages of faculty advisers and a departmental chair to administer the program.

"The general program had no home. With the change, students enrolled in the new general agriculture major will be advised through the Department of Agriculture Education and Mechanization," Elkins said.

James Tweedy, dean of the College of Agriculture, said planning of the merger began in fall 1986 when faculty members from the Department of Agriculture Education and Mechanization suggested a merger.

Tweedy also said that an external review team, representing different universities, recommended a change.

Education and Mechanization Chairman Robert Wolff forecast no problems for the change, adding everyone had a chance to review the program and both the faculty and board favored the merger.

Groups to lobby for tax increase

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — More than 90 education, labor and social service organizations have united to pressure legislators to raise income taxes to increase funding for education and social service programs, organizers said Tuesday.

The Coalition for Adequate Revenue for Illinois, or CARE for Illinois, will be coordinated by the League of Women Voters of Illinois and the Chicago Urban League, and will lobby lawmakers to raise both corporate and individual income taxes.

"Our state does not have enough money to meet basic needs, to provide vital human services, and to make sure our children get a quality education," said Diane Greenholdt of the League of Women Voters of Illinois. "While many Illinois residents may not yet be feeling the effects of this crisis, it will hurt everyone if left unchecked."

For the second consecutive year, Gov. James R. Thompson is promoting higher state taxes and has said he will unveil a specific tax increase proposal in May. The call for higher taxes is expected to be the center of debate for the spring legislative session, which resumes April 12.

"The clear charge to concerned citizens and other organizations, including those in this coalition, is to quickly descend upon Springfield and the Illinois General Assembly to mount a decisive challenge for an increase in the state's income tax for both individuals and corporations," said James Taylor of the Chicago Urban League.

"One of our major tasks is to get state government to understand that a dollar appropriated for education and other human services is an investment, not an expenditure," he said.

The coalition is not yet supporting a specific tax increase proposal, instead focusing its efforts on persuading legislators of the need for additional state revenues, Greenholdt said.

The coalition includes local and statewide advocates of nearly all social service interests, including education, health care, child care, homeless, handicapped, elderly, mental health, and domestic violence.

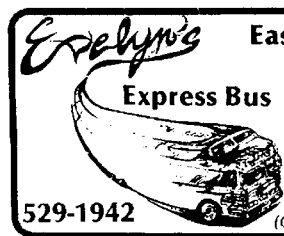

Police Blotter

Police arrested a University student on charges of auto burglary after he was discovered in the parking lot at 700 W. Freeman St. with property stolen from two cars earlier Tuesday morning, Carbondale police said.

Brent Allen Struthers, 18, of 600 W. Mill St., was taken to Jackson County Jail after officers investigating the car burglaries found him with a car stereo and other stolen property.

Stereo equipment, food items and other property valued at $767 was stolen from the residence of Yok Lan Peh, 21, at 516 S. Rawlings St. between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday, Carbondale police said.

A burglar broke into two change machines at Clothespin Laundromat, 815 S. Illinois Ave. between 10 p.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday, Carbondale police said. Stolen cash and damage to property totaled $450. Police have no suspects.

U.S. angered by raid in Panama

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration sternly expressed outrage Tuesday at a violent raid on opposition leaders and American journalists in Panama and threatened stronger measures to oust Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

The White House announced "limits to our patience and our policy endurance" in the aftermath of arrests and beatings Monday by pro-Noriega security forces, depicted as a potentially ominous turn of events in Panama City.

With at least five American journalists among those detained and later released, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the administration was "willing to look at all the hard options" for forcing Noriega from power.

At the State Department, spokesman Charles Redman underscored the renewed threat to Noriega by declaring the United States "will do what is necessary to protect U.S. citizens."

Panamanian Ambassador Juan Sosa, loyal to deposed President Eric Arturo Delvalle, called for Noriega's removal "by any forces, by American forces" and told

Catholic church offers help

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Panama's powerful Catholic Church said Tuesday it has asked Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega to resign and offered to mediate between the military strongman and his opponents for a "peaceful and constructive" solution to the nation's political crisis.

It was the first time the church has publicly linked itself with the opposition demand for the resignation of Noriega, the country's de facto ruler who is wanted in the United States on drug charges.

Noriega was scheduled later Tuesday to address a group of Latin American delegates in Panama City attending a "Solidarity Conference" in support of his regime.

Diplomats and opposition sources said all but one of the 37 opposition activists and a dozen foreign journalists arrested in an armed raid on a five-star hotel in Panama City by government agents Monday had been released by midday Tuesday.

reporters in Washington, "We want Noriega out now."

However, Fitzwater discouraged speculation of military action to remove Noriega from Panama — perhaps to face drug smuggling and racketeering charges in the United States — or restore civilian democratic rule.

"Our policy remains the same," he said, "and our intention (is) that we would not be using military force."

President Reagan summoned a group of senior national security advisers to the White House to examine additional steps the United States could take against the Noriega regime. Officials later said no decisions were made and no action appeared imminent.

Asked during a White House ceremony what might be done to protect Americans in Panama, Reagan said only that U.S. officials were "doing our best."

Sandinistas, Contras meet for second day

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Negotiators for the Sandinista government and the Contras met for a second day Tuesday to define enclaves where the U.S.-backed rebels will begin gathering this week for the start of a 60-day cease-fire.

The Tuesday session followed a two-hour meeting Monday in which little progress apparently was made. Reports in the government press said the Contras were trying to stall the talks, and a rebel negotiator told reporters his forces would not lay down their weapons until there was "real democracy" in Nicaragua.

The Contras, who were five hours late for Monday's negotiations, arrived Tuesday about one hour late for the talks at the border post of Sapoa, 85 miles southeast of Managua. The negotiators met in closed session for about two hours before taking a lunch break and were expected to end the talks at 5 p.m.

"The talks are proceeding in the same tone as yesterday. They are frank, direct and respectful," Sandinista spokesman Manuel Ezpinoza said when negotiators broke for lunch.

The two sides, which managed only to agree on a "working plan" for the meeting, said they would end the negotiations Tuesday evening. If no agreement on the enclaves is reached, Contra leaders said they would seek a second round of talks.

But President Daniel Ortega said the two sides should remain in Sapoa until an agreement on the cease-fire zones is achieved.

"Our delegation arrived in Sapoa ready to discuss this theme and will not leave until we have a concrete agreement, no matter how long it takes," Ortega said.

The two sides said they would try to negotiate a permanent end to the nation's 7-year-old civil war during the 60-day cease-fire, scheduled to begin Friday.

Comprise reached on Contra aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Republican and Democratic leadership reached a tentative agreement Tuesday night on a $43 million humanitarian aid package for the Nicaraguan Contras and pressed for congressional passage this week.

The preliminary agreement between Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, and Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois did not directly meet the GOP demand for an automatic vote later on military assistance for the Contras in case the peace process with the Nicaraguan government collapses.

The Republicans have insisted on this military safety net for the Contras, but the Democratic leadership said it could undermine the cease-fire that is to go into effect on Friday.

The proposed pact apparently shifts the burden of determining who may violate the cease-fire to Nicaraguan Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo and a group of independent observers.

Republicans wanted the aid agreement to state that President Reagan would be guaranteed a vote in Congress on a new military aid request for the Contras if he determined that the Soviet-supported Nicaraguan government had violated the accords the two groups signed last week in Sapoa, Nicaragua.

Israelis cut off West Bank

Palestinians defy curfew; riots continue unabated

ABU DIS, Israeli-occupied West Bank (UPI) — Israeli troops turned away drivers trying to enter the West Bank Tuesday and cut telephone lines to the curfew-bound Gaza Strip as part of an unprecedented crackdown designed to prevent a new round of Arab violence.

Despite the restrictions, demonstrations erupted in more than 15 West Bank towns and U.N.-run refugee camps and some rock-throwing was reported in Gaza.

Soldiers in the northern West Bank village of Zeita shot and wounded at least 13 Arabs who attacked troops with rocks and Molotov cocktails, Palestinian sources said.

In the northern Israeli town of Umm El Fahm, hundreds of Israeli Arabs staged a demonstration calling for an end to the 20-year occupation of the West Bank and Gaza and voicing support for the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Large numbers of police watched from a distance and a helicopter hovered overhead, but there was no violence, state-run Israel Radio said.

U.S. slams Israeli ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Tuesday it regrets the Israeli government's closure of the occupied territories and urged the "harsh" restrictions be speedily lifted.

Spokesman Charles Redman said, "We regret the restrictions that have been imposed since they affect the entire Palestinian community, including many people who were not involved in the disorders. We hope these restrictions will be lifted quickly and not be resumed."

Secretary of State George Shultz is to arrive in Israel next Sunday, beginning another round of talks in the Middle East to push his plan for direct Arab-Israeli talks on the future of the occupied territories.

So far, none of the potential negotiating partners has agreed to take part in the plan, and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir has rejected Shultz's plan for an international conference, involving the Soviet Union, as a way of inaugurating the process of negotiations.

severe crackdown in the territories since Israel seized them in the 1967 Middle East war, prevented all non-residents, including reporters, from entering the West Bank and stopped Arab residents from leaving the territory.

All 650,000 Gaza residents were confined to their homes for three days under the order issued Monday night.

Some cars bearing West Bank license plates were permitted to enter the territory to return home, and about 800 Gaza residents stranded by the military clampdown were allowed to go home Tuesday morning.

Gaza residents also were allowed out of their homes for about one hour to shop for food, military officials said.

Curfews were clamped on six West Bank towns and six others were put under army blockade, allowing residents to leave their homes but not the village. Telephone lines to Gaza were cut and Palestinian sources said several youths were arrested for violating the curfew.

The 63,000 Jewish settlers in the territories were not affected by the measures.

11 dead in S. African raids

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Military officials said Tuesday that 11 black guerrillas were killed in three clashes with the army, and the outlawed African National Congress threatened to step up attacks on the white-led government.

In Paris, opponents of apartheid accused South Africa of complicity in Tuesday's assassination of ANC representative Dulcie September, 45, who was shot outside the movement's offices in the French capital.

South African Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha denied the charge of involvement in September's death and blamed the slaying on rivalries within the ANC. Law and Order Ministry spokesman Brig. Leon Mellett dismissed the allegation as "ridiculous and far-fetched."

"This is an emotional allegation against South Africa that is uncalled for. If they have evidence, they must present it to the world," Mellett said in Cape Town.

In the latest reported confrontation between the army and the ANC, soldiers killed four suspected ANC guerrillas Monday in a bushland gun battle in the Venda black homeland in northeastern South Africa, near the borders with Zimbabwe and Mozambique, a military official in Pretoria said.

The deaths brought to 11 the number of suspected ANC rebels killed since Friday. Four were killed in a commando raid into neighboring Botswana Monday and three in an earlier border clash Friday, military officials said.

ANC leader Oliver Tambo called Tuesday for intensified attacks inside South Africa against "the police, the army and personnel associated with" Pretoria's white-led government.

ANC official shot in Paris

PARIS (UPI) — The African National Congress representative in France was assassinated in front of her office Tuesday, bringing accusations and quick denials that South African hit men were responsible.

A passer-by found the body of Dulcie September, 45, lying in a pool of blood outside the ANC office in a narrow street of downtown Paris.

Police said September was hit by five bullets, including two fired at close range into her face, between 9 a.m. and 10 a.m.

Dr. Buzz's Advice To The Drug Worn
A weekly column answering alcohol and drug questions.

Dear Dr. Buzz,
Last weekend my roommate almost flipped out doing LSD—she really had a bad trip. None of us knew what to do to help. It's lucky it turned out okay. What could we have done?
Signed,
Lucky & Relieved

Dear Lucky:
Lots of things can happen when you do LSD or other hallucinogens. Since the dosage is seldom consistent, the effects can vary from person to person, and each experience is different. It is impossible to predict the type of trip that you will have. It is important for someone to stay with anyone who is having a bad trip. Reassure them and keep the environment as calming as possible, stay away from crowds, loud music, arguments, etc. Remember that under the influence of LSD perceptions can be greatly exaggerated and the person may be experiencing great anxiety and fear. Often they are trying desperately to regain contact with themselves and reality. Be as consistent as possible in your communication with them. Don't ask a lot of questions but just try to help them relax. In case the person becomes so out of control that they may become injurious to themselves or others they may need professional help. The local crisis line, called Network, can provide input concerning whether the person having a bad trip should be taken to the emergency room or not. Generally, speaking, Daytona Beach or Corpus Christi is a better trip than psychedelics.

Dear Dr. Buzz,
What's the deal—I'm hearing about AIDS everywhere. Somebody said if I drink and do drugs I could get AIDS. Is this true?
Panicked

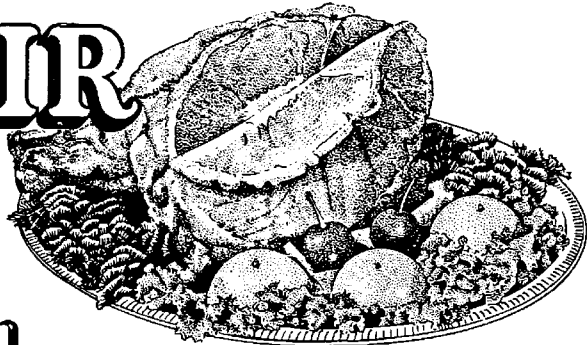

Dear Panicked:
Drugs and alcohol ARE known to cause a variety of health problems. So what's the connection between alcohol and drugs and AIDS? Researchers, so far, have discovered that alcohol, speed, marijuana, and nitrate inhalants (poppers) all damage the immune system, leaving the user more open to infection and cancer. The cause of AIDS is a type of virus called a retrovirus which changes the structure of the cells it attacks. IT MAY REQUIRE the presence of an already damaged immune system before it can cause disease. Also, alcohol and drugs alter the judgment of the user, who may become more prone to engage in activities which put people at high risk for AIDS, (indecimate sex, needle usage, etc.) Don't panic, get smart. The AIDS crisis has brought about a growing health awareness. This may mean re-evaluating not only drug & alcohol use, but your choices about sexual behavior also.

If you have a question about alcohol or drugs, send it to Dr. Buzz c/o the Wellness Center or call 536-4441. Look for your answer in Dr. Buzz's column.

Workshop for foreign students set

By Amy Gaubatz
Staff Writer

Students who study abroad may experience reverse culture shock when they return to their homelands after their studies are finished.

International Programs and Services is helping international students ease the re-adjustment process by conducting a "re-entry workshop," April 9 at Touch of Nature Environmental Center, at Little Grassy Lake.

The workshop, for students who will graduate before December 1988, will consist of work sessions, a nature walk, lunch and a speech on culture shock and the experiences of moving from one country to another.

During the workshops, various students will speak about what it was like coming to America, what they expected it to be like and what they expect to be confronted with when they go back home. David Brussell of International Programs and Services, said.

Transportation from the Student Center will be provided for the students.

Anyone interested in attending the workshop should contact the International Programs and Services Office at 453-3000 before Monday.

Dole ends his plan to trim Bush

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Dole, conceding the inevitable, ended his campaign for the White House Tuesday and enthusiastically endorsed George Bush, virtually guaranteeing that the vice president will enjoy the support of a unified Republican Party.

"One thing you learn how to do pretty well in our business is to count," the Republican senator from Kansas told a large crowd of supporters in the historic Senate Caucus Room. "You come to trust your instincts to tell you when it's over. In my heart, I know that that time is now."

"I congratulate George Bush and wish him well in November," added Dole, surrounded by his family and many of his congressional supporters. "Because I've said many, many times, the bottom line is keeping the White House Republican. That's the bottom line."

In the only departure from his prepared text, Dole said that in the fall he would be "doing all I can for our nominee, George Bush."

Bush, in Stevens Point, Wis., said of Dole, "He's been a worthy warrior, a tough competitor.... He's pledged to keep the White House in Republican hands, and I look forward to working with him in the future to that end."

Dole's call for party unity and his endorsement of Bush was a sharp contrast to the bitter feud between them that marked much of the campaign.

Dole, the Senate Republican leader, on many occasions argued that Bush was unelectable.

Almost all of Dole's support now is expected to go to Bush; some of his backers already have started to endorse the vice president

Bush lacking delegates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even if all Sen. Robert Dole's delegates and all uncommitted delegates back Vice President George Bush, he still lacks the 1,139 votes needed to win the GOP nomination, United Press International's tally showed Tuesday.

Although Bush is virtually assured of the nomination — since Dole dropped out of the race Tuesday — the vice president does not yet have enough delegate votes to claim the nomination at the Republican National Convention in August in New Orleans.

Bush wins big, Dukakis leading

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Vice President George Bush scored a runaway win Tuesday in Connecticut's Republican presidential primary, while Michael Dukakis took a wide early lead over Jesse Jackson in the Democratic contest.

Initial returns showed Dukakis, governor of neighboring Massachusetts, ahead of Jackson and Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore, who had been looking to Connecticut for upset wins in the Democratic contest.

Bush had a clear lead over Kansas Sen. Robert Dole, who dropped his challenge for the GOP nomination Tuesday afternoon. With 319 of the state's 739 precincts, or 43 percent, reporting, Dukakis had 60 percent, or 61,291 votes from Democrats to 26 percent, or 26,231 votes, for Jackson and 8 percent, or 8,259 votes, for Gore.

On the Republican side, Bush had 71 percent, or 29,601, to 20 percent or 8,317 votes, for Dole and 3 percent, or 1,252 votes for Robertson.

Victories by Bush, who grew up in Connecticut, and Dukakis would give them complete sweeps of primaries and caucuses in the six New England states.

Vote at a glance

REPUBLICANS

Bush — 46,095 votes, 25 delegates;
Robertson — 2,177 votes, 0 delegates.

DEMOCRATS

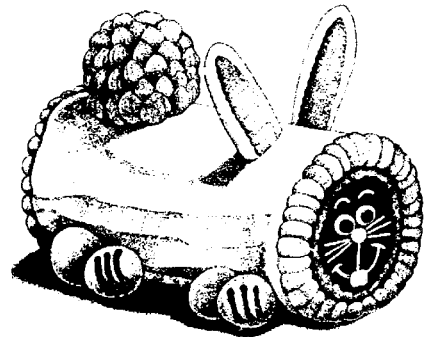

Dukakis — 93,629 votes, 38 delegates;
Jackson — 42,986 votes, 14 delegates;
Gore — 12,794 votes, 0 delegates;
Simon — 2,026 votes, 0 delegates.

Robertson's failed lawsuit may backfire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Rep. Pete McCloskey, R-Calif., said Tuesday he may sue Republican presidential candidate Pat Robertson to recover about $400,000 in costs, stemming from Robertson's failed libel suit against him.

McCloskey, in a lunch speech at the National Press Club marking Freedom of Information Day, praised the role of the news media in uncovering facts and witnesses related to Robertson's suit.

On the Robertson suit, McCloskey said, "The legal question now is whether we countersue. We're considering that now."

Robertson sued McCloskey in 1986, over accusations that the Robertson had used the influence of his father, a senator, to get him out of combat duty in Korea.

Robertson moved to drop the suit just before Super Tuesday, March 8, and U.S. District Judge Joyce Green, in agreeing to the motion, said the dismissal was tantamount to a finding for McCloskey.

Under libel law, however, prevailing parties are not given attorneys' fees unless they can show the suit was filed frivolously or was an abuse of the law.

McCloskey said his lawyers have proof Robertson has said of the McCloskey charges that "McCloskey believes he is telling the truth but ... his memory is bad."

Face it Beachy, you're a flaming sexist, you see women as sex toys.

I am not a sexist. I think women are every bit the equal of men, Kara.

They can be doctors, lawyers, judges, even the President of the United States.

Excuse me, Beachhead, your subscription to Hustler just got here.

Goetz conviction appealed

Subway vigilante wants vindication

NEW YORK (UPI) — Subway gunman Bernhard Goetz Tuesday asked an appeals court to overturn his conviction and six-month jail term for illegal gun possession in an attempt to clear his name after a three-year battle with authorities.

"Hopefully, this matter will come to a final conclusion with Bernhard Goetz being set free from the criminal justice system," his lawyer, Barry Slotnick, said.

Goetz, 40, who has been free on $5,000 bail, went to the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court in Manhattan in search of vindication late Monday.

Reached at his Chelsea apartment Tuesday, the subway gunman refused to comment.

The thin, bespectacled electronics specialist shot and wounded four youths with an unlicensed silver pistol on a subway train on Dec. 22, 1984, after one of them demanded $5.

Goetz, who had been injured in a mugging four years earlier and had applied but was turned down for a gun permit, claimed he shot the young men in self-defense because he was afraid he would be hurt in a robbery.

The white subway gunman

"He had no previous record. He had applied for a pistol permit. He had previously been attacked. He is a decent, law-abiding citizen."

—Barry Slotnick

became a hero to many crime-weary Americans but was vilified by some activists who charged the shooting of four black youths was racially motivated.

Goetz was cleared of attempted murder, assault, and reckless endangerment charges on June 16 after a sensational two-month trial before state Supreme Court Justice Stephen Crane of Manhattan.

But a jury of four women and eight men convicted Goetz of third-degree criminal possession of a weapon.

The subway gunman was sentenced to six months in jail on Oct. 19.

Goetz is appealing both the conviction and the sentence.

Slotnick argued that the judge "directed" a guilty verdict on the gun charge by not giving the jury an option to acquit the subway gunman because of extenuating circumstances.

The defense lawyer also called the sentencing "improper," saying Goetz should never have been ordered to serve time in jail.

"He had no previous record. He had applied for a pistol permit. He had previously been attacked. He is a decent, law-abiding citizen," Slotnick said.

"Hopefully, he will be vindicated," the attorney added.

Prosecutors declined comment until they file papers on April 27. The appeal was not expected to be decided for six months.

All four of the victims lived in Bronx housing projects and had arrest records at the time of the shooting.

Three have sued Goetz for $68.5 million.

Darrell Cabey, 22, the most seriously injured youth who was paralyzed and brain damaged in the shooting, filed a $50 million suit against the subway gunman.

James Ramsey, 21, who is serving an eight and one-third to 25-year prison term for raping a pregnant teenager, wants $8.5 million in damages.

Troy Canty, 22, who is working as a cook for Phoenix House drug rehabilitation center in Westchester where he had undergone treatment for more than 18 months, asked for $10 million in his suit.

All three cases have been consolidated.

Man throws self at truck, saves others

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 76-year-old man died to save the lives of three children by throwing himself in the path of a truck and pushing the children to safety, police said.

Ralph Norman, 76, of the Bronx jumped in front of a United Parcel Service truck that had crashed with a school bus Monday and was careening toward the sidewalk where two boys and a girl stood, police said. Norman shoved aside the children and the overturned truck crushed him.

Norman "pushed the children out of the way before being crushed by the truck, according to witnesses," police spokesman James Coleman said. "I guess this guy's a hero."

Police said Norman did not know the children.

Norman, who lived in a $75-a-month basement apartment, was returning home from a grocery store when the accident occurred.

Larry Coleman, 36, said Norman visited with him 15 minutes before the incident. He said Norman was "the type to help everybody."

Surrogate mom sold story to supermarket tab

Whitehead Gould seeks visitation rights to daughter

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UPI) — Mary Beth Whitehead Gould admitted Tuesday that she sold the story of her wedding and photos of Baby M, the child she bore under a surrogate motherhood contract, to a supermarket tabloid for $20,000 last November.

Whitehead Gould, visibly pregnant by her new husband, told a judge deciding how often she will be able to visit the 2-year-old girl now known as Melissa Stern that she sold the story not to seek publicity but to avoid it.

Whitehead Gould said she knew there would be widespread media interest in her November marriage to her second husband, New York accountant Dean Gould, and that she hoped the agreement with Star magazine would keep other reporters away and keep the ceremony from becoming "a three ring circus."

Whitehead Gould's attorney, Joel Siegal, said outside the courtroom that Whitehead Gould also was broke at the time of her marriage and needed the $20,000 to pay bills.

Whitehead Gould's alleged penchant for publicity has been a key issue in the visitation hearing, the final chapter in an unprecedented legal dispute over Whitehead Gould's right to change her mind and reclaim the daughter she had agreed to bear for a childless couple.

The couple, William and Elizabeth Stern of Tenafly, argued in the first day of the hearing Monday that Whitehead Gould would "undermine" their parenting efforts and harmfully exploit the child for publicity if allowed visitation.

The New Jersey Supreme Court ruled unanimously last month that a $10,000 surrogacy contract requiring Whitehead Gould to give up all contact with Baby M amounted to "the sale of a child" and was invalid.

The court denied Whitehead Gould's request for custody, but said she remained the legal mother and is "entitled to visitation at some point." The justices ordered another hearing in state Superior Court, where the original Baby M trial was held, to decide how often and under what conditions visitation should be allowed.

Whitehead Gould had two-hour, court-supervised visits with her daughter each week while waiting for the Supreme Court decision and has continued those visits since the ruling.

Whitehead Gould described a loving relationship with her daughter and denied any hatred for William Stern.

"I know she loves me," Whitehead Gould said in a soft, calm voice in the Hackensack courtroom. "There's something special there."

Church: Swaggart's out for 1 year

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — The National Assemblies of God Tuesday ordered that disgraced TV evangelist Jimmy Swaggart be barred from preaching for at least one year for his admission of "moral failure" involving a prostitute.

G. Raymond Carlson, the church's general superintendent, announced the disciplinary action at a news conference at the church's world headquarters after informing Swaggart in Louisiana by telephone.

Swaggart, who may appeal the decision to the church's General Presbytery, which holds its annual meeting in August, had no immediate comment. A spokesman said Swaggart would issue a statement this morning.

The Assemblies of God's Executive Presbytery determined Swaggart shall be without a pulpit ministry for not less than one year and that he shall undergo rehabilitation for not less than two years. It also barred distribution or use of tapes of Swaggart in the United States or abroad.

Swaggart's suspension means he cannot preach at all for the first year and in a second year only under supervision from the church.

Swaggart could have been expelled from the church.

The decision was made by the Executive Presbytery after the 206 members of the 232-member General Presbytery meeting for two days voted Tuesday that the 13-member group should determine Swaggart's fate because it is responsible for ministers' credentials.

The voice vote was described as unanimous, although some members of the Louisiana District had sought unsuccessfully to push their recommendation of three months suspension.

Carlson, who read a prepared statement at the news conference, said he talked with Swaggart and that they had prayed. Carlson said the two men did not discuss the length of time Swaggart has to accept the church's punishment and what Swaggart's decision would be.

"I believe that the church is strong and that the church is strengthened and purified by this (the decision)."

—G. Raymond Carlson

"It is hoped that Jimmy Swaggart will agree to this program of rehabilitation and that such program will be redemptive and restorative in the life and ministry of our brother and to the testimony and influence of the church of Jesus Christ."

The General Presbytery met for six hours Monday and its members reconvened for about two hours Tuesday morning before a decision was reached.

"I believe that the church is strong and that the church is strengthened and purified by this (the decision)," Carlson said during questioning by reporters.

Swaggart told members of his 7,000-plus congregation in Baton Rouge on Feb. 21 that he was guilty of an unspecified "moral failure." Swaggart told church officials he met with a prostitute once, Church spokeswoman Juleen Turnage said.

But Deborah Murphee, who is wanted in a New Orleans suburb on a prostitution charge, said Swaggart paid her $50 a meeting on several occasions for more than a year to perform obscene acts. She has signed what her lawyer called a six-figure contract with Penthouse magazine for a tell-all interview and a nude photolayout.

It was Swaggart who last year revealed that television evangelist Jim Bakker had a sexual tryst with church secretary Jessica Hahn.

Two charged with forging Hebrew text

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two Italian printers who specialize in restorations of ancient Hebrew texts were arrested Tuesday on charges of selling a forgery of the first printed Passover Haggadah, a 400-year-old book about the Hebrew exodus from Egypt.

Raphael Podde, 45, and Gabriel Reguer, 49, partners in the Pardes Rimomim Press in Woodmere, N.Y., were charged with conspiracy and wire fraud in an alleged scheme to defraud collectors of ancient Hebrew books and documents by selling and attempting to sell counterfeit copies of the Guadalajara Haggadah.

According to the four-count federal indictment, Reguer, using the alias "Rollie Bland," sold an entire counterfeit Haggadah to two Brooklyn collectors for $60,000 in September 1986 and attempted to sell another Brooklyn collector a second counterfeit copy for $90,000, but the deal fell through.

The indictment also said Podde sold three counterfeited pages of the book to a collector of Hebrew documents for $12,000 in 1986 and sold to the same collector a counterfeited page of another Hebrew book said to be printed about 1490 for $7,000.

Duke's King of defense earns respect in NCAAs

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — As Duke's poorest shooter, Billy King emerges an unlikely hero.

He has scored in double figures only twice in 34 games and averages less than 50 percent from the foul line.

He also has the defensive skills that have earned him the nickname "Secretary of Defense" and the respect of opposing teams.

The senior co-captain and the Blue Devil's relentless man-to-man defense Saturday will face Kansas in the semifinals of the NCAA Tournament at Kemper Arena in Kansas City, Mo.

Duke, 28-6, is ranked fifth nationally while Kansas, 25-11, is the unexpected team at the Final Four.

"Billy is definitely a cornerstone of the team because he is one of the big leaders," said Duke's leading scorer and rebounder, Danny Ferry, a 1988 UPI All America selection. "We look to him a whole lot because he covers up so many of my mistakes and everybody else's."

King, a 6-foot-6, 205 pounder from Sterling, Va., is more modest about what he does for his teammates, preferring to focus on one-on-one competitions against the most prolific threat on an opposing team.

"I'm just a competitor going against other great competitors," King said. "Going into each game, I know I face a challenge, especially when it's a guy like (Temple's) Mark Macon."

Last Saturday, Duke conquered top-ranked Temple 63-53 in the East Regional final at the Meadowlands in New Jersey and King's constant defensive pressure created a nightmare for Macon, generally regarded as the premier freshman in college basketball this season. The 18-year-old Macon made only 6 of 29 shots, in-

"We wouldn't be in the Final Four without Billy's ability to stop individual players. Billy understands his role on our team and he is a very mature basketball player."

—Coach Mike Krzyzewski

cluding 7 air balls.

Macon joined a club of other well-known players whose offensive production has been limited by King's defensive tenacity. Perhaps the best example this season came Feb. 7 when David Rivers, the third leading scorer in Notre Dame history, shot only 3 of 17, largely due to King's persistent hounding.

King, who plans to pursue a career in broadcasting or politics, says he typically studies several tapes of an opponent before the showdown.

"If I go into a game and allow him to do something easy at the beginning, then everything I've gotten a reputation for is null and void," said King, who has made 53 steals and has taken a team-high 22 charges this season.

"I've got to establish myself early and try to put some doubts in the other guy's mind."

Coach Mike Krzyzewski, who has directed the Blue Devils to an 89-18 record the last three seasons, has built Duke's success on a foundation of reliable, consistently tough defense.

Arizona coach says guards will control game's tempo

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Arizona Coach Lute Olson said Tuesday he would allow his experienced guards to determine the tempo of Saturday's NCAA basketball semifinal against Oklahoma.

"They've played 37 games, we've played 37 games," Olson said at his weekly news conference. "At this point, it gets down to who can get who to play their game."

The coach said the Wildcats would not try to hold the ball as much as Villanova did last Saturday in a 78-59 loss to the Sooners in the Southeast Regional final. Olson added, however, the Wildcats would not try to match Oklahoma in a running game.

"We don't average over 100 points a game, so it is obvious we're not going to chase up and down the court like they do," Olson said.

The Sooners, 34-3, averaged 104 points per game this year, with an average victory

—Coach Lute Olson

margin of 23 points. Arizona, 35-2, averages 85 points per game, but has a victory margin of more than 21 points, second only to the Sooners among Division I schools.

Guards Steve Kerr and Craig McMillan, both three-year starters, will draw the assignment of dictating the tempo. Olson said they have developed a feel for how a game is going.

"If the momentum is there, fine. Then (they'll) let it go a little bit," Olson said. "But if the momentum isn't right, we have people who can sense that immediately and will adjust as needed."

Olson said Oklahoma's players are more athletic, but gave his team the advantage in major-college experience.

The coach also praised his counterpart at Oklahoma, Billy Tubbs.

"I think all you have to do is look at his record through the years," Olson said. "The guy has done a great job. I think he rubs some people the wrong way because he has a lot of confidence in what he does and he speaks his mind."

This is the second time Olson has taken a team to the Final Four. He said that unlike the last time, when Iowa went in 1980, players and coaches will not be as available for interviews and parties.

14th Eastman Award goes to Kansas' Danny Manning

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — Danny Manning, a two-time All-America from Kansas, was named the recipient Tuesday of the 14th Eastman Award, which is given to the top player as determined by a vote of college basketball coaches.

Manning became the Big Eight Conference's all-time leading scorer this season and has more than 2,800 points and 1,000 rebounds in his career. He is also a three-time Big Eight player of the year.

The Jayhawks lost just three times in 60 games at home in the Manning era, which will end in the Final Four. Kansas meets Duke in the NCAA semifinals Saturday

"This means a lot to me because the coaches across the country voted on it," Manning said. He also thanked his family and teammates "for being so unselfish."

Manning was given a half-size replica of the Eastman Award by former Kansas State Coach Jack Hartman, who was beaten by a Manning-led team in his final game with the Wildcats.

The actual trophy, a figure of a basketball player dribbling down court, is on display at the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. Each winner's name is inscribed on the trophy.

Harrer, Philippou receive conference honors in track

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

The Missouri Valley and the Gateway conferred their weekly honors upon members of the Salukis' men's and women's track teams, which both competed at the Saluki Open in Cape Girardeau, Mo., Saturday.

Senior Ron Harrer was named Missouri Valley Athlete of the Week with his discus throw of 179-feet.

Sophomore Christiana Philippou was the Gateway Athlete of the Week for setting a school triple jump record 40-feet, 1-inch.

Ron Harrer

Christiana Philippou

Harrer was an All-American in the discus last year. Harrer threw 190-7 on March 19 at Southwest Louisiana Invitational to qualify for this season's nationals.

At the Saluki Open, Harrer threw the javelin 200-8 to win the event. He placed second in the hammer throw with 167-5 and fourth in the shot put with 51-1/2.

Philippou's previous personal best was 40 feet at the Gateway Indoor Championships. The NCAA qualifying standard for the triple jump is 41-4.

Philippou also won the long jump at 5.92-meters.

said having Mary Jo Firnbach (.263) and Smugala (.434) precede her in the batting order helps.

"Usually teams that are smart won't throw good pitches to a No. 4 hitter," Gibbs explained. "But with the good No. 2 and No. 3 hitters we have on this team, they have to pitch to me as well. I've seen better pitches this season."

Gibbs was a top catcher for the Carbondale Community High School softball team. She also played basketball and tennis.

Last season Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer moved Gibbs to the outfield, until a shoulder injury forced Gibbs to the infield. Even so, she was the only freshman to make the All-Gateway team.

A successful arthroscopic surgery in late December has Gibbs playing at full strength again.

"She's stronger than last year," Brechtelsbauer said. "Shelly's done extremely well. She hits with good power."

To Brechtelsbauer, Gibbs'

"It's a real asset to have individuals that can play more than one position. I know that where ever I put her, I get a top-rated performance."

—Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer biggest contribution is her ability to play almost every position on the field. Before the shoulder injury, pitching coach Gary Buckles had Gibbs work on a pitching delivery.

"It's a real asset to have individuals that can play more than one position," Brechtelsbauer said. "I know that where ever I put her, I get a top-rated performance."

Again, Gibbs credits her father's direction for her versatility.

"As long as I can remember, my father told me that if I learned to play everywhere, I'd have a better chance to be successful," Gibbs said. "So I took thousands of fly balls as well as thousands of ground balls with him."

Gibbs said she sees a lot of good things ahead, both for herself and the team.

"Nothing but good things," Gibbs said. "The people on this team are a joy to play with. We'll only get better. There's so much talent. As a coach, it would be wonderful to have this much versatility to work with."

In that kind of environment, Gibbs is willing to play whatever position Brechtelsbauer dictates.

"I'd like to play where Coach thinks I'm needed. I'm comfortable in that situation," she said.

Pitcher Dave Henley has been out of action since the Florida trip because of a bad back.

"We know we're going to have trouble with him, Meyer and Beattie," Jones said. "All of them could be out all year or they could be back tomorrow."

—Nine Saluki regulars are batting over .300. Chuck Verschoore (.524), Cliff McIntosh (.478), Joe Hall (.393), Rick Damico (.387), Rick Gaebe (.360), Chuck

Locke (.350), Dave Wrona (.333), Doug Shields (.321) and Brad Hollenkamp (.304) have led the team to a .359 average. Saluki opponents are hitting .265.

—The rash of balks called by major league umpires in spring training descended upon Abe Martin Field on Sunday. Three balks called on Saluki pitchers had Jones and pitching coach Kirk Champion shaking their heads.

"I don't understand those,"

Jones said. "I don't know where they all came from. In my own mind, I'm having a tough time seeing where it's a balk. Maybe I don't understand the balk rule."

—Ex-Saluki Jim Adduci, who played in Japan last year, is fighting with Ruppert Jones for the last outfield spot on the Milwaukee Brewers. Adduci was originally drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1980 after hitting .425 with 14 HRs and 59 RBIs for the Salukis.

finer parts of the game.

"But that's the exciting thing about having a young club like ours. There is growth. You can see the improvement. A great future is ahead of them," she said.

Other notes:

—Although SIU-C, Bradley, and Indiana State each had a 3-

1 record and tied for second at the Saluki Invitational over the weekend, only Bradley was awarded the second-place trophy. Using a tie-breaking procedure based on run differential, Indiana State took third and SIU-C fourth.

—Traci Furlow, who allowed just one earned run during three mound appearances at the Saluki Invitational, has a 2.59 earned run average for the season. Lisa Peterson leads the team with a 1.72 ERA.

—Freshman Kim Tummins has the top on-base percentage. She's reached 21 times for a .525 average.

Itchy not satisfied with team's play

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

If the weather permits, the Salukis will try to start a new winning streak in a doubleheader against Missouri today in Columbia. Tuesday's game against St. Louis was rained out. The game is rescheduled for April 4.

St. Francis snapped the Salukis' seven-game winning streak in the first game on Sunday. Coach Itchy Jones was not pleased with the effort given by his players, who blew a four-run lead in the second game.

"It seems to be a thing we've gone through the last couple of years," Jones said. "It's like we're content to play .500 on the weekend. We've never had that much success here in the last five or six years in baseball that I feel our team should get complacent."

As Jones said earlier in the season, coaches are probably the greediest people in the world. The Salukis are 12-6 this season and 158-118-2 over the last six years. The .568 winning percentage during that span is better than the football team (.522) and the men's basketball team (.414).

Other notes:

—Pitcher Dale Kisten, who owns a 19-8 career record, made his first relief appearance in two years when he relieved Lee Meyer in the sixth inning of Sunday's second game. Kisten took the loss as he allowed three runs, two of which were unearned, two walks and a hit in the inning. He settled down and retired the side in order in the seventh.

"Dale went out on the mound and wasn't sharp at all," Jones said. "I thought he really changed his style of pitching. He tried to be a power pitcher. Maybe because he was only pitching an inning or two, he felt like he could throw harder."

Jones was hesitant to use Larry Beattie for the second day in a row. Beattie recorded his second save on Saturday. The Saluki bullpen had just three saves all of last season.

"Beattie's arm is okay," Jones said. "Beattie is the type of guy that we'll try to use for one inning only because of his arm and knee trouble. We'll try to give him and Lee Meyer as much time as we can."

No range driving team crazy

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The women's golf team's quest to capture the Gateway Conference title is being hurt by the lack of a driving range to practice on.

The team has lost the privilege of using the driving range at the Jackson Country Club, where it practices, and has been unable to obtain the use of a field on campus.

The troubles began when the Jackson Country Club's board of directors voted to no longer allow the team to use the small driving range before the beginning of the spring season.

"I can see their point of view, actually," Coach Diane Daugherty said. "We were taking practice time away from paying club members."

"Plus the fact that we hit the ball correctly, so we create a lot of divot holes. They weren't too crazy about us tearing up the range, so I really can't blame them at all."

Since then, the team hasn't been able to find a field on campus that it can get some driving practice on.

"We just need a place where we can drive the ball and not end up losing all our practice balls," Daugherty said. "Two hours a day would be fine."

Michael Perkins, assistant athletic director, says he is uncertain why the team hasn't been able to find a field.

"There is a field behind the baseball field, but the rugby team practices there right now," Perkins said. "Other than that, I'm not sure what the situation is."

The team has been attempting to use the soccer fields across from the Carbondale Community High School.

"That hasn't been working out very well," Daugherty said. "They have soccer practice there right after school gets out, so if we're lucky we'll get 15 minutes of practice. And if it rains at all, that field's a complete washout."

"We don't get to practice shots with a 6- or 7-iron," she said. "When we're in a tournament and we have to use a 6- or 7-iron, we're not consistent at all. It really hurts our play."

"It's a little like (basketball coach) Rich Herrin tossing a ball out to his guys, letting them play five on five, and calling it a practice."

The softball team hopes the tarp protects the field enough from Tuesday's rain to enable them to play a doubleheader against Southeast Missouri at 3 p.m. today at IAW Field. Sunshine is in today's forecast.

Rain threatens softball doubleheader

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

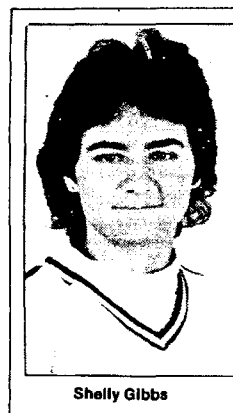

SIU-C and Southeast Missouri have a history of having the weather turn sour whenever they try to meet on the softball diamond, and it looks like that tradition is continuing.

Last season only one of four scheduled games between the two were played. One doubleheader was canceled because of cold, another game was called because of rain.

Plans to play today's 3 p.m. doubleheader at IAW Field look dim. As of Tuesday evening, 2.84 inches of rain had fallen on Carbondale in a 24-hour period. IAW Field, across from the Recreation Center, was flooded after a portion of the tarpaulin cover had blown away and exposed the right side of the field.

"If it were to quit raining soon, if the sun comes out, if the wind blows, and if we get lucky, we might still get the game in," Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said Tuesday evening.

Today's forecast calls for sunshine, with increased cloudiness later in the day. The high will be in the 50s-60s, with winds out of the northwest at

Gibbs gets honored

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Softball second baseman Shelly Gibbs, who lives with her parents in Carbondale, said she has her dad to thank for her success on the diamond.

"If he hadn't pushed me and told me what he knows about the game, I couldn't be where I am," Gibbs said.

That being the case, her father, Gary Gibbs, should be beaming at his daughter's latest accomplishment.

Gibbs, a 5-foot-5 sophomore, was named the Gateway Player of the Week for helping lead SIU-C to a 3-1 record at the Saluki Invitational last weekend.

She became the second Saluki to receive the honor this season after shortstop Theresa Smugala was named the conference's top player last week.

For the Saluki Invitational, Gibbs had seven hits, including two doubles and two runs batted in, to lift her season average to .358. She leads the team with eight doubles, only one shy of Jenny Shupryt's school record of nine, set in 1985.

The only thing that is giving Brechtelsbauer hope of getting the game in is the late afternoon start.

Southeast Missouri was a preseason No. 4 Division II pick by Women's Fast Pitch World magazine. Returning for Coach Lana Flynn from last season's NCAA regional final squad are Julie Hume (.371) and Chris Wood (.313).

"Southeast is stronger than some of the Division I teams we face," Brechtelsbauer said. "They are a strong, strong hitting ball club."

The Southeast Missouri lineup is bolstered by junior college transfer Laura Weston. The Otahkians recruited a top pitcher in Shelle Wadsworth and returns Beth Russell (16-3, 0.98 ERA).

Brechtelsbauer said the Salukis are playing as well as some veteran clubs, but still need to improve fielding skills.

"We have to eliminate errors," said Brechtelsbauer, whose team has 25 errors in 16 games. "We still have a great deal to learn in the finesse, the
