

CONTRIBUTORS

Marcia Alesan Dawkins is a doctoral fellow at the Annenberg School for Communications at the University of Southern California. Her primary research explores connections between racial passing and rhetoric.

Katherine Wardi-Zonna is a licensed Psychologist and Assistant Professor of Psychology at Gannon University, Erie Pennsylvania. Her areas of interest include therapy process and outcome, clinical supervision and multicultural training.

Anissa Janine Wardi is Associate Professor of English and the Buhl Professor at Chatham College in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Andrew Jolivéte is an Assistant Professor in the American Indian Studies Department and teaches in the Ethnic Studies Program at San Francisco State University. He is a mixed race studies specialist.

Pascha Antrece Stevenson is a lecturer in the Department of English at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln.

Chong-suk Han is a Dean's appointment faculty member in the Sociology Department at Temple University and a doctoral candidate in Social Welfare at the University of Washington School of Social Work.

'Lai Olurode is Professor and Dean, Department of Sociology, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Lagos, Lagos, Nigeria.