Editors’ Note

This international seminar on Language Maintenance and Shift II is a continuation of the previous international seminar with the same theme conducted by the Master Program in Linguistics, Diponegoro University in July 2011. We do hope that the seminar with this theme can become a yearly program of the Master Program in Linguistics, Diponegoro University, as we see that this topic still needs our serious attention due to the inevitable impact of globalization on the life of indigenous languages.

We would like to thank the seminar committee for putting together the seminar that gave rise to this collection of papers. Thanks also go to the head and secretary of the Master Program in Linguistics Diponegoro University, without whom the seminar would not have been possible.

The table of contents lists all the papers presented at the seminar. The first five papers are those presented by invited keynote speakers. They are Prof. Dr. Hanna (Balai Bahasa Provinsi Sulawesi Tenggara, Indonesia), Prof. Dr. Bambang Kaswanti Purwo (Atma Jaya Catholic University, Indonesia), Dr. Sugiyono (Language Center, Indonesia), Peter Suwarno, Ph.D (Arizona State University), and Herudjati Purwoko, Ph.D (Diponegoro University).

In terms of the topic areas, there are 33 papers on language maintenance, 24 papers on language learning, 19 paper on sociolinguistics, 15 paper on pragmatics, 8 papers on discourse analysis, 8 paper on morphology, 2 papers on syntax, 2 papers on translation, 1 papers on psycholinguistics, 1 papers on phonology, and 1 papers on semantics.

TEACHING RHETORICS THROUGH LANGUAGES IN ADVERTISEMENTS

Isry Laila Syathroh
SMK Negeri 9, Bandung, islaisya@gmail.com

Abstract

Advertisements are persuasive communication (Maggie-Jo, 1994). The language used in advertisement is very carefully chosen to have special effects. The words will create images as well as information, and often there will be more than one meaning of some expressions. Duran (1987) says that rhetorical pattern also can be found in the illustration of advertisement. Corbett and Connors (1999) point out that advertisement is a form of deliberative rhetoric. Deliberative discourse is an attempt to change the attitude and actions of the audience or the readers in regard to a matter of public concern. In using deliberative rhetoric, the author is trying to persuade a person to take some future action and that the recommended action is either good in itself or something that will benefit the person. The research is aimed to reach several purposes: 1) observing the text of advertisement, in terms of its type of language, creative strategy, type of sign and its assessment 2) ensuring English teachers that rhetorical pattern also can be found in advertisement, so it can be used as literature source.

1. BACKGROUND OF THE STUDY

One of the indicators in syllabus of Vocational School (SMK) for the 2nd graders is that students are able to use the expressions of convincing and persuading in order that their persuasion or opinion are accepted by other people. Persuasive texts can mostly be found in newspaper and magazines in the form of advertisement (ads). Maggie-Jo (1994) also states that advertisements are persuasive communication. The languages used in ads are very carefully chosen to have special effects. It is also in accordance with what Durant (1987) says that rhetorical patterns can also be found in the illustration of advertisement. Rhetorical language is an art of writing or speaking impressively to influence others. Thus, advertisements in magazines or newspaper can be used as an aid to teach rhetorics which used to convince or persuade others.

2. THE PURPOSE OF THE STUDY

This present study aims to investigate the use of languages in advertisements in teaching rhetorics to the 2nd graders of SMK and and also to investigate the students' perception in learning rhetorics using languages in advertisement.

3. THE RESEARCH QUESTION

In order to accomplish the purposes above, this study is therefore designed to examine the following research questions:

1. Can the languages in advertisement be used effectively as an aid to teach rhetorics?
2. How do the students perceive the use of languages of advertisements in learning rhetorics?

4. SCOPE OF THE STUDY

In conducting this research, the scope is set up in order to specify the study. The first is related to the term "Rhetorics" which refers to persuasive communication which is used to convince or persuade others. The next is the term "Advertisement" which refers to written advertisements found in magazines which contain persuasive languages.

5. SIGNIFICANCE OF THE STUDY

This research is expected may give contribution to English teachers of SMK to vary the techniques as well as the aids of teaching rhetorics, specifically teaching the expressions of convincing and persuading using languages in advertisement.

REVIEW OF THE LITERATURE

1. RHETORICS

Rhetorics is the art or discipline that deals with the use of discourse, either spoken or written, to inform or persuade or motivate an audience (reader) whether that audience (reader) is made up of one person or a group of persons (Corbett and Connors:1999:1). According to Tarigan (1985), the final aim of every language learning is that students are able to listen, speak, read and write by its language well. In order to be able to use language thoroughly, the students should have adequate vocabularies. Learning rhetorics is one of the techniques to improve students' vocabulary and also to understand literature. Rhetorics can be learnt by identifying its figures called figurative language.

2. THREE MEANS OF RHETORICS

There are three means of rhetorics (Aristotle, available at www.silvarhetic.com), namely: 1) logos (appeal to reason by presenting statistical data, for example), 2) phatos (appeal to emotion) and 3) ethos (appeal of personality or character. These three means of persuasive rhetoric can be used to analyze an advertisement.

3. COMPONENTS OF AN ADVERTISEMENT

There are some components of advertisement that can be analyzed (Christensen: 2004): the sender (the author of an ad), the messages (the text and the image) and the receiver (the reader) of an ad. Practically, there are some questions can be posed in analyzing an ad:

1. What does a straight-forward reading of the ad say? Or, what is its denotative meaning?
2. What type of signs does the ad employ? Is it iconic, indexical or symbolic?
3. What types of language does the ad employ? Is it imperative, suggestive or figurative?
4. What types of figurative language can reader find in the ad?
5. Is the ad classified into simple, compound, complex or sophisticated ad?
6. What creative strategy does the ad use? Is it generic, pre-emptive, unique selling proportion, brand image, positioning or resonance?

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

1. RESEARCH DESIGN

This study is conducted through descriptive study method. Descriptive study has purposes to specify, delineate or describe naturally occurring phenomena without experimental manipulation. Otherwise, Leedy (1989:140) explains descriptive research as the method of research that looks with intense accuracy at the phenomena of the moment and then describes precisely what the researcher sees. The setting of this study is one state vocational school in Bandung and the participants are one class which consists 20 students of the 2nd graders of that school.

2. DATA COLLECTION METHOD

To collect the data, the researcher relies on qualitative research method since he wanted to go deeply to generate data rich and embedded in context. Observation and questionnaire were the main sources of data collection. Observation was done to answer the 1st research question and interview was done to answer the 2nd research question.

To gain the answer for the 1st research question, there were several techniques done. First, the researcher asks students to choose one of their favorite advertisements from magazine. They were asked to analyze it in terms of its components. After that, they were asked to work in pair and persuade each other to use the products/ the service advertised in it. This technique was conducted in two sessions.

And to gain the answer for the 2nd research question, after the two sessions, questionnaires were distributed to students about how they perceive the techniques used in learning rhetorics, specifically in learning the use of persuading and convincing expressions.

3. DATA ANALYSIS

The data of this research were analyzed through qualitative data analysis. The data analysis was immediately conducted after the data from the observation and the interview transcriptions were available. All data were analyzed on the basis of the research questions stated in the earlier chapter. The data validation was achieved by comparing the result of two sources of data which were observation and questionnaire.

DATA PRESENTATION AND DISCUSSION

1. DATA FROM OBSERVATION

As stated earlier that to gain the answer for the 1st research question, there were several techniques done in two sessions. First, the researcher asks students to choose one of their favorite advertisements from any magazines or newspaper. They were asked to analyze it in terms of its components individually. After that, they were asked to work in pair and make a dialog to persuade each other to use the products/ the service advertised in it.

From the direct observation that the researcher did, the students seemed to be more eager to work in pair to make a dialog and to practice it with their partner. Before that, no advertisements were used in learning persuasive communication so that they found it was quite hard to find topics as well as the arguments to persuade others.

2. DATA FROM QUESTIONNAIRE

It has been stated earlier that to gain the answer for the 2nd research question, after the two sessions, questionnaires were distributed to students about how they perceive the techniques used in learning rhetorics, specifically in learning the use of persuading and convincing expressions. All the participants responded positively to the technique and they said they love the technique of analyzing advertisement and using the languages in it and also they found it very useful in giving them insight to make arguments in persuading others.

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

1. MAJOR FINDINGS

Based on the data that the researcher gained from the two data collection techniques (observation and questionnaire), it can be concluded that the techniques of using languages in advertisement in teaching rhetorics are very useful in enhancing students' eagerness to produce the expressions of persuading and convincing. It was also found that advertisement is very interesting to students since it is relevant to their lives and it can be found easily in magazines as well as newspaper.

2. RECOMMENDATION FOR FURTHER STUDY

This study was only done in one class of one vocational school in Bandung in which lasted in two sessions. Thus, the result of this study cannot be generalized into larger scope. Therefore, further study conducted in different settings with more participant students and also with the follow up activities, for examples writing is recommended to evaluate the technique of using languages in advertisement to teach rhetorics.
