INTRODUCTION

Proverb is one of culture product in language use. Define as a short pithy saying in general use, stating a general truth or piece of advice in Oxford I-finger dictionary, the proverb according to Cram should be viewed as a lexical element with a quotational status. The proverb is a lexical element in the sense that it is a syntactic string which is learned and reused as a single unit with a frozen internal and external structure. (Cram, 1994: 73). These two explanation gives a strong linguistics further view that proverb needs to be explained than people could understand of its use and could realize of its important. Nowadays, people start to reuse this kind of watchword that also noticed need to be learned.

Asia is one of part of the world that full filled by proverbs, and Indonesia has a journey of history, which almost as equal as China, one of the oldest nation, culture, and civilization in the world. More than 700 living languages are spoken in Indonesia, most of them belong to Austronesia language family. Each of this language has their own heritage for their acculturation, such as use of proverb for their way of civilization, intelligence and mental capacity, until activity in general.
