Abstract

This study focuses on analyzing the nominal group construction of the students' written texts. Nominal group here refers to a group of words which has a noun (a word which names a person, place or thing) as its head word and includes all additional information related to that noun. This discourse analysis will investigate the types of nominal group construction which is mostly found in the students' written text and the tendencies of the students in applying the nominal groups in their written texts. The unit analysis of this study is nominal groups written by the students. The students here refer to the fourth semester students of English Department of Tidar University (Universitas Tidar) who join writing class. Following Gerot and Wignell's theory (1994), most of the students apply Deictic-Ephitet-Thing construction in their texts. Based on the data analysis, it is suggested that the lecturers should introduce various construction of nominal group to the students in order they can write interesting texts (not monotonous).

1. INTRODUCTION

People use language to express their mind, wishes, and ideas. Language is a means of communication people use language to share ideas with others. Language predicts attitude and wishes of the users. Ramelan (1980) says that the use of language enables the members of a social group to cooperate with one another for their own benefits. Language has to be learned and used in a social community, without which the existence of language is beyond understanding.

It is a fact that English language is the most widely used language around the world. In current situation, English is used as the medium of information flow on science, technology, and culture as well. Since we are in developing country we should try to be able to write and speak English so that we can master the science, technology and culture in the world. By mastering English, it is easier for us to make a good relationship with other countries in order we can face the competition in the global era.

In line with the above statements, based on the current curriculum of English language teaching, the goal of English teaching and learning process is that the students are expected to be able to communicate in English. According to competency models developed by Murcia, Dornyei and Thurrell (1995), basically the competency or the ability to communicate is the ability to create and understand a discourse. A discourse can be defined as texts, either spoken or written texts in a certain context (context of situation and context of culture). Discourse competence concerns the selection, sequencing and arrangement of words, structures, sentences and utterances to achieve a unified spoken or written text. The discourse competence is supported by linguistic competence, actional, socio-cultural and strategic competence

Dealing with discourse competence, the ability to arrange nominal groups in sentences is needed since it will influence the meaning of a text. Nominal group is a group of word, which has a noun (a word that names a person, place, or thing) as its headword and includes all additional information related to the noun (Gerot, L and Wignell, P. 1994). On describing the nominal group, Gerot and Wignel (1994) and Halliday (1985) list the following functions and realizations:

Function	Typical Realization
Deictic	Determiner
Post Deictic	Adjective
Numerative	Numeral
Epithet	Adjective
Classifier	Noun/adjective
Thing	Noun

We have seen that nominal groups function as units within the clause as subjects, objects, complements and adjunct. This function is the expression of representational meaning, which is what the message is actually about, the identification of particular referents as participants or circumstantial elements in the process. Below are the examples.

Tuti	is	a nice girl.
S	V(P)	C

a = deictic
 nice = epithet girl = thing

Tuti	meets	a nice girl.
S	V (P)	O

Tuti	works	in the bank
S	V (P)	A

Based on the above background, this study aims at finding the type of nominal group constructions in the students' written descriptive text and the tendencies of the students in applying the patterns of nominal groups in those texts. Descriptive is kinds of text which is used to describe particular person, place or things.

2. RESEARCH METHOD

In this study, the writer applied a descriptive qualitative research. Since the study was devoted to investigate the nominal group constructions of the students' written texts, students' written texts are the objects of this research. They are in the form of paragraph in which there are more than five sentences in each paragraph. The students here refer to the fourth semester students of English Department of Tidar University in 2015/2016 academic year who took writing 2 subject. In analyzing the nominal group constructions of the students' written texts, the writer followed Gerot and Wignell's theory (1994).

3. DISCUSSION

In the data analysis, the writer applied Gerot and Wignell's theory (1994) by marking technique. Deictic is marked (D), post deictic (PD), numerative (N), epithet (E), classifier (C), qualifier (Q) and thing (T).

Deictic

Deictic element indicates whether or not some specific subset of the thing is intended; and if so, which. It is either (i) specific or (ii) non specific. The specific deictics are demonstrative and possessive.

	Determinative	interrogative
Demonstrative	This that those these the	Which(ever) what(ever)
Possessive	My, your, our, his, her, its, their, one's	Whose(ver)

Post Deictic

The post deictics identify a subset of the class of ‘thing’ by referring to its frame or familiarity, its status in the texts, or its familiarity/dissimilarity to some other designated subset. They are such as other, same, different, identical etc.

Numerative

Numerative elements indicates some numerical feature of the subset: either quantity or order, either exact or inexact.

	Definite	indefinite
quantitative	One, two, three, etc , A couple of...	Few, little, many etc
ordinative	First, second, etc. Next, last	Preceding, subsequent etc

Epithet

Epithet indicates some quality of subset, e.g. old, long, blue, fast. It can be objective or subjective.

Classifier

The classifier indicates a particular subclass of the thing; electric train, passanger trains, toy train.

Based on the data, it is found that there are 13 nominal group constructions (structure). They are as follows.

1. Deictic-Thing (D-T) = the stem (the stem has a function to store its food). (8%)
2. Deictic-Post Deictic-Thing (D-PD-T) = the other facilities (The other facilities are such as...) (2%)
3. Epithet-Thing (E-T) = good quality (many people need good quality) (7%)
4. Numerative-Thing (N-T) = five faculties (Untidar has five faculties) (9%)
5. Classifier-Thing (C-T) = Javanese culture (we must maintain Javanese Culture) (6%)
6. Thing-Qualifier (T-Q) = plants standing strongly (it can make plants standing strongly) (8%)
7. Deictic-Thing-Qualifier (D-T-Q) = a function to store its food (the stem has a function to store its food). (2%)
8. Deictic-Classifier-Thing (D-C-T) = the weekly newspapers (the weekly newspapers are usually thicker than daily newspaper) (10%)
9. Classifier-Thing-Qualifer (C-T-Q) = daily necessities needed by the society (we can find daily necessities needed by the society) (3%)
10. Numerative-Classifier-Thing (N-C-T) = two daily newspapers (Two daily newspapers are very famous.) (7%)
11. Epithet- Thing-Qualifier (E-T-Q) = good characteristics of the things (Good characteristics of the things are also important.) (4%)
12. Deictic-Epithet-Thing (D-E-T) = the important thing (Mobile phone is the important thing for our life.) (25%)
13. Deictic-Epithet-Classifier-Thing (D-E-C-T) = the famous daily newspaper (Suara Merdeka is the famous daily newspaper) (9%)

Based on the data analysis, it can be seen that the students tended to apply Deictic-Epithet-Thing (D-E-T) construction in their written descriptive. Deictic (D) element indicates whether or not some specific subset of the thing is intended. There two kinds of deictic, specific and non-specific deictic. Specific deictics are such as those, this, that (demonstrative), interrogative with what(ever), my, his, the etc. Non-specific deictics are such as each, all, both, every etc. Epithet indicates some quality of the subset, such as old, long, good, etc.

4. CONCLUSION

Nominal group is a group of words which has a noun (a word which names a person, place or thing) as its head word and includes all additional information related to that noun. Based on the data analysis, it can be concluded that in writing descriptive texts, the students tend to apply Deictic-Epithet-Thing (D-E-T) constructions their nominal group structures.
