Charter Day Celebration Scheduled for Thurs. 11 A.M.

Warren To Denver Cutler Address

The two hundred and forty-seventh Charter Day of the College of William and Mary will be celebrated with the usual colorful and impressive exercises on Thursday, February 8, at 11 a. m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. There will be an academic procession to open the program.

This year's commemorative services will be brightened by such men as Charles Warren, distinguished lawyer from Dedham, Mass. and Washington, D. C. former assistant U. S. District Attorney, constitutional author and commentator, Pulitzer prize-winner of 1923 for his "Book of Supreme Court" and Robert Bliss of Washington, former minister to Sweden and Ambassador to Argentina as well as trustee of the Carnegie Institute.

Mr. Warren will deliver the annual Cutler Lecture, choosing for his topic the very interesting and particularly appropriate subject "The Supreme Court and the Disputes Between the States."

Mr. Bliss will read selections from an ancient royal proclamation concerning the college and Dean James W. Miller will read part of the 247 year old College Charter.

To commemorate a relative event simultaneously, the members of the original Page family of Virginia who have migrated to several parts of the nation, have been invited to do honor to Col. John Page. The Colonel was the first colonist to convene his colleagues together for the purpose of establishing William and Mary, 250 years ago this February.

The Cutler lectures are an annual event sustained by the James Good Cutler fund established in 1926, and bears its donor's name. Eminent speakers of the past have been James M. Beck, George Wickersham, John H. Latane, Guy D. Goff, William E. Dodd, Patrick J. Hurley, Newton D. Baker, Ethelbert Warfield, Alexander W. Weddell, William Y. Elliott, and Harold J. Laski.

Bryan is First Speaker At Bruton

Dr. John Stewart Bryan will be the first speaker on the Bruton Parish Lenten programme of Sunday evening lectures. The theme of this Lenten study series which commences next Sunday with President Bryan's talk, is "Christianity in the Modern World."

This will be the first time the William and Mary college president has spoken to a student religious group in church. Other prominent men including members of the faculty will continue this series of lectures through Lent, ending Palm Sunday, March 17th. All students interested and those of the faculty who may wish to come are invited to an informal buffet supper preceding the lecture from 4:30 to 6 in the Parish House on Duke of Glouceer St. Immediately following the lecture a discussion group will be held where questions may be asked of the speaker.

The time is six o'clock Sunday, February 11th, the speaker is President Bryan, the place is Bruton Parish Church, and the topic is "Christianity in the Modern World." This pertinent subject should surely be a source for an interesting exchange of ideas in the discussion group which will follow President Bryan's talk.

Cast for "Our Town" Set; Production Scheduled for Feb. 29th and March 1st

Thornton Wilder's very familiar and popular play, "Our Town", the next play of the season, has been cast and has now gone into rehearsal after many meetings for reading and discussion so that the William and Mary Players might get acquainted with the growing up, the marrying, and the living and dying in a small town. "Our Town" has not only received amazing rave-notices from all the important newspapers, and won the Pulitzer Prize for the best play of the 1938 season, it has been played with enormous success by professional and amateur companies all over the country. "Our Town" is a play that a person can see repeatedly and enjoy more each time. The Fine Arts Department and the William and Mary Players will present this play in Phi Beta Kappa Hall on the nights of February 29 and March 1.

Perhaps the most unusual fact about "Our Town", except that there is virtually no scenery, is that there is a stage manager—a prologue and interpreter and commentator—who directs the course of the play and assists with the mechanics. David Quinlan has been chosen for this role. The Gibbs family is made up of Doc Gibbs, Mrs. Gibbs, George, and Rebecca, to be played by Thomas Forsyth, Edna White, Carlton Laing, and Marva Blair respectively. Mr. Webb, editor of the "Grover's Corners Sentinel", is to be played by William Parry, Mrs. Webb, by Arlene Murray, a promising first-timer, Emily Webb, by Sue Shaffer, and little Wally, by Robert Forsyth.

The other parts, large and small—other inhabitants of Grover's Corners—are to be taken by Anthony Manzi, Norris Lineweaver, James Buchholtz, John Sumner, Louis Eppinger, Walter Bara, Henry Kibel, and George Gotshall. Several extra parts have not yet been cast.

The cast is looking forward with excitement and anticipation to February 29 and March 1. The novelty of such an unusually-written play as "Our Town", and the familiarity of many persons with this play put the actors on their mettle.

Cavaliers Hold Pow-Wow 2nd Conference Meet

Calling upon all the youth of Virginia to attend and participate in its sessions, the second Virginia Youth Conference will meet in Richmond at Grace and Holy Trinity Church on February 9th, 10th, and 11th. The conference will be officially opened on Friday afternoon by an address by his Excellency, James H. Price, Governor of Virginia.

The purpose of the Conference, to quote Miss Jimmie Woodward the chairman from Randolph Macon Woman's College, is as follows: "We want the Virginia Youth Conference to be the forum where every young Virginian may discuss his needs and work toward their attainment. We want the Virginia Youth Conference to be the medium of co-ordinating the efforts of all the youth organizations in the State to make a better Virginia. We want, finally, the Virginia Youth Conference to be a link with other Southern organizations to restore the South to its proper place in the Nation."

With this end in view the conference will have a discussion on the "Issues before the 1940 General Assembly" which will be in session at the time. Honorable William D. Medley, State Senator and Honorable William Neff from the House of Delegates will lead this discussion. Following this various round-table discussions will be held on: Citizenship, led by Professor George W. Spicer, University of Virginia; Education, led by Dr. Francis Chase, Virginia Education Association; Public Health, led by Dr. E. M. Holmes, Jr., State Department of Public Health; Youth in Rural Areas, led by Mr. James S. Wills, Director of the Virginia Farm Security

Sax'n England Speech Subject Mon., Feb. 12

Kemp Malone Of Johns Hopkins U. To Speak

Professor Kemp Malone of Johns Hopkins University will deliver on Monday night, February 12th in Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium at 8:00 P. M. the fifth in the series of general lectures arranged for the year by the Faculty Committee on Lectures, Art, and Music, subject will be "Saxon England."

Professor Malone is a native of Mississippi. He carried on his graduate study at Emory University, the University of Chicago, the University of Copenhagen, the University of Iceland, and Princeton University. His Ph. D. degree was conferred by the University of Chicago. He is by training and interest essentially a philologist and literary historian. He is particularly recognized for his scholarly work in the field of Anglo-Saxon and Old Norse. Mr. Malone has been professor in Johns Hopkins University since 1926. He is co-founder and editor of the Journal of American Speech, and is on the editorial boards of Modern Language Notes and of the American Journal of Philology. Furthermore, he is a member of all of the most important American and Foreign language societies in his particular field as well as of the Phi Beta Kappa Society.

Two important books which he has published are The Literary History of Hamlet and The Phonology of Modern Icelandic. In addition to articles published in literary journals upon his special field of research, he has published original verse. An exhibit of some of his writings will be on exhibition in the Library.

Professor Malone will be able to speak with authority upon England in the Anglo-Saxon period, a period of such interest and importance to both students of the English language itself and to those concerned with early English history. So much of later English popular literature has taken its inspiration from this age when the English language and people were forming that every cultured person is quite familiar with it. His general reading, apart from any specific study, will supply almost everyone who comes to hear Professor Malone with an excellent

Rev. Gibson Opens Series At Bruton

The Rev. Churchill Gibson will open the series of Lenten services to be held at Bruton Parish Church beginning on February 7, Ash Wednesday, at 8:00 p. m.

Dr. Gibson is well known among the young people throughout the state and his sermon should appeal to the students at the college. He is a former rector of the Robert E. Lee church on the campus of Washington and Lee University. Dr. Gibson served as Chaplain of both Washington and Lee and V. M. I.

At present, Dr. Gibson is rector of St. James Church in Richmond, Virginia. He is active in the National Guard, and holds rank of major in the organization.

Young People's organizations especially desire Dr. Gibson's services for conferences and round table discussions. His close contacts with the students and cadets at W. & L. and V. M. I. have given him an adequate understanding of young peoples' problems.

All students are invited to attend the Lenten services which will be held at 8:00 each Wednesday evening in Bruton Church.

Voting Begins on Twenty Five Nominees for Beauty Contest Varsity Show Tryouts Ended

Rehearsals In Progress

The final tryouts for the William and Mary Varsity Show were held last Thursday night in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The Show is scheduled for presentation on March 14-15 in the same hall.

In a two hour display of talent, which included singing, dancing, impersonations and comedy sketches, 30 students performed on the stage before the scrutinizing eyes of a special casting committee composed of Tom Forsyth, Tim Hanson, Dave Quinlan, Jim Talley, and Harold Lazaron. The purpose of the tryout was to recruit more talent for the series of skits which will make up the revue. This supplemented the first tryout held late in November and revealed several new and promising performers and comedy acts.

Approximately 30 skits have been outlined and formal rehearsals, have already begun. Several of them have been cast, but there are still a number of openings to be filled.

Debate Team Plans Trips; Tryouts 14th

Stedman Eure, President of the Men's Debate Council, has announced that the annual tryouts for the Varsity Debating Teams will be held on Wednesday, February the fourteenth, at 7:30 in Philomathean Hall. The purpose of these tryouts is to select the members of the Varsity Teams who will represent the College on the forthcoming debate trips to rival schools. This year there will be three of these trips; and three teams, of two men each, will be chosen to make the trips. All upperclassmen who are at present members of the Council are eligible for the tryouts and the teams will be chosen only from those who do try out. Each prospective varsity debater is expected to come to the meeting with a well prepared talk of from five to ten minutes giving a brief of both sides of the question. Resolved, That the United States should adopt a policy of strict (both economic and military) isolation towards all nations engaged in civil and international armed conflict, outside of the Western Hemisphere. This question is one of three that are to be debated on the forthcoming trips.

We "Air" Pride Mark Founding 247 Years Ago

As part of the Charter Day celebration of the college's 247th year of formal existence, the regular Tuesday afternoon program of the "This Is William and Mary" series was dedicated to Dr. James Blair, the first president of the college and to the work he did in its founding.

The program took the form of a series of connected skits that illustrate the difficulties that Dr. Blair had to overcome in securing a charter for the college and revenue for its support. In the opening scene we have Dr. Blair making his formal request of Queen Elizabeth for the chartered and her assurance that it would be granted. In the second scene we overhear a gentlewoman of the Queen and a courtier discussing what they consider the preposterous scheme of a college in the wilderness.

In the third scene Dr. Blair is arguing with Dr. Seymour for funds to establish the college. In the end Dr. Blair overcomes the red tape of the court and the other obstacles that stand in his way, and the charter is finally granted. The program closed with a reading of the proclamate of establishment, by Louis Rives. The entire program was tied together by the narration of Thomas Forsyth, who acted as the announcer.

The part of Queen Mary was played by Hope Hunt. Carlton Laing took the part of Dr. Blair, and Art Cosgrove that of his opponent, Mr. Seymour. The parts of the Lady-in-Waiting and Courtier were played by Virginia Teal and Bernard Ransone. Miss Althea Hunt directed the program which was planned and written by Mr. Forsyth.

Balloting Ends Friday

The results of the preliminary balloting in the Flat Hat beauty contest have been tabulated and voting will begin to pick the best ten from the 25 nominees. The ballot box will be stationed in front of the Library from Wednesday until Friday. Tear out the ballot found at the bottom of the page.

Approximately 500 ballots were cast for 72 girls in the nominating preliminary vote. The ultimate purpose is to select the ten most beautiful co-eds for the "Parade of Beauty" and another short skit in the varsity show to be presented March 14 and 15.

No attempt is being made to pick the queen of the campus—just the ten prettiest. Consequently, the listing is alphabetical. It is realized that certain "eligibles" may have been overlooked, but this is not the fault of the contest committee, it is the fault of the voters. The freshmen led in this preliminary balloting with a total of 11 nominees, followed by the senior and Junior classes with six each. The sophomores are represented by two girls.

The complete list of 25 (alphabetically) is as follows:

- Jeanette Appleby.
- Ruth Barton.

Haigh Piano Team Is Well Received

An entertaining program of classical and modern music arranged for two pianos was played by Ida Deck and Andrew Haigh in Phi Beta Kappa Hall Wednesday, January 31, at 8 p. m. A large and appreciative audience witnessed the performance.

Miss Deck and Mr. Haigh accomplished the most desirable goal of two pianos programs—to play as one person. Their rendition of Bach's Prelude and Fugue displayed their technical skill, and the compositions of modern composers received many favorable comments from the music lovers in the audience.

The following numbers composed the program:

Organ Prelude and Fugue in G major (arranged by Gerard Williams) J. S. Bach.

Sonata in D major, Mozart. allegro andante allegro con spirito Variations on a Theme by Haydn, Brahms.

Tocatta, Ricercata, and Finale on the Chorale "Singt dem Herrn ein neues Lied", Parker Bailey.

Moy Mell (The Happy Plain) Arnold Bax.

Polonaise from "Boris Godunoff", Moussorgsky-Haigh.

ASCAP Offers Prize; Varsity Show Eligible

By adoption of a revue, the William and Mary Backdrop Club, producers of the annual student Varsity Show has become eligible for national recognition by way of a national collegiate fellowship established this year by the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers.

The A. S. C. A. P. recently announced a national college fellowship competition for student musical comedies, revues, operettas, or operas. Eight cash awards of $720 each will be paid to the winning authors in each of eight regions and all winning plays will be submitted to Broadway and Hollywood producers through the A. S. C. A. P. It is estimated that 350 colleges of the 976 invited had annual musical plays of some sort. Committees from college faculties will be judges. Mr. Mills, founder of the contest, hoped the students' fresh viewpoints might raise the level of Broadway musical comedies which he said, "Had become routine 'legs' and 'smut'."

The Vocational Guidance Conference presents an unusual opportunity for women students to find out more about a vocation that is contemplated, or to settle upon some attractive field for future employment.

Mrs. Wes Whitfield Walker, Assistant Professor of Art at the Richmond Professional Institute, will speak on advertising and art designing. Mr. Thomas Pinckney, Director of Public Relations at this school, will lead a conference on public relations. Miss Althea Hunt, Director of the William and Mary Theatre will be in charge of the conference on theatre and radio. As guest speakers she will Beaver, Director of Studies at Washington School for Secretaries, will speak on "Secretarial work as a career for women." There will also be someone to speak on the opportunity for women in business in South America.

The rooms in which these conferences will be held will be announced shortly.

It is hoped that the women students will attend the group or groups of their preference and ask questions freely. The Vocational Guidance Conference is planned entirely for the women students

March 8-9 Date Of Mid-Winter Formals

The annual mid-winter Formals have been scheduled for Friday and Saturday March 8th and 9th, announced Chief Aide Elmo Legg last night. The committee has not yet divulged the name of the orchestra that will play for the dances, but it is understood that they are now working to complete the arrangements and that the band will be announced in the Flat Hat next week.

Following the usual practice, the Friday night dance will be formal while the Saturday night dance will be informal. Prices will be on a low scale so that everyone will be able to attend, the top price being $2.50 for the set of both dances with a "date ticket."

Mr. Legg also announced that the Aides are working on plans to improve the formal as well as the regular Saturday night dances, in order that they may become affairs that are much more appealing to the student body than they hitherto have been. Students are urged to turn in their suggestions to Legg or any of the President's Aides in order that this reformation may be made as complete as possible.

John Blair's Tomb Scene of Exercises

The Williamsburg Committee on the Observance of the One Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of the Commencement of the Supreme Court of the United States requests the honor of your presence at the ceremonies of placing a wreath on the grave of John Blair on Thursday, February the first, at half past three o'clock in Bruton Parish Church Yard, the City of Williamsburg.

John Blair was born in Williamsburg, attended the College of William and Mary, and represented the College in the House of Burgesses. He was master of the Williamsburg Masonic Lodge and first Grand Master of Virginia Masonry. A member of the Virginia Court of Appeals, he was appointed in 1789 by President Washington to the Supreme Court of the United States. It is peculiarly fitting that as a part of the national observance of the establishment of the Supreme Court that Williamsburg honor such a distinguished son.

Varsity Club Dance Is Usual Success

The Varsity Club's third annual dance held last Friday night in Blow Gym was its usual howling success. The Club's dance committee came up with a little known orchestra led by Bill Loren, but this aggregation captivated the 500-odd patrons who danced and listened to its arrangements from 9 until 1:15 a. m.

Although never ballyhooed as a gala social affair this dance always turns out to be one of the best of the school year. Practically all of the expense is for the orchestra as the Club does not go in for elaborate decorations, consequently the music is of a high grade.

The proceeds are put into a fund to entertain visiting athletes and into a scholarship fund. This year's dance, like its predecessors, was a financial success.

Drama Week Spotlights Williamsburg Takes Bow

The accent is on Drama this week as the nation celebrates the Twentieth National Drama Week from February fourth to eleventh. This celebration is sponsored by the Drama League of America in order to focus the eye of the general public upon the highly important and inspirational contribution which Drama—in its many forms—makes to our national life.

William and Mary College need not yield the spotlight to anyone in its contributions and devotion to Drama. Our town, Williamsburg, was the site of the first theatre in America and has kept alive the tradition of drama ever since then. The fine stage productions at the college, directed and produced by Miss Althea Hunt—who has the honor, by the way, of being one of the few college representatives of the Drama League of America—have consistently upheld the best traditions of the theatre and have been a source of constant inspiration and entertainment.

This year, for example, the college will present Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize Winning "Our Town", and later in the year Euripides tragic spectacle "Alceste". The college in addition to this usually presents several radio programs each semester featuring dramatic productions. There is also the student production, the Varsity Show; the new edition of which will be shortly unveiled.

Williamsburg will also take a bow for its contribution to Drama as a citizen's committee has already begun plans for a Williamsburg Summer Pageant to be staged here at the college stadium beginning this summer. The pageant promises to be a venture of national importance and is written by Paul Green, contemporary American playwright and author of the highly successful Roanoke Island Pageant of last summer, "The Lost Colony."

To satisfy completely any further appetite any individual might have for the drama, the college library is featuring books on the theatre on its shelves in the reading room during this week. The less ambitiously appetitive individual can take in his quota of the drama at the local cinema which features many first runs of good movies.

Seniors! Get Busy On Your Essays

Mr. Charles P. McCurdy, Secretary of the Alumni Association of the College of William and Mary recently announced that the Association is conducting a contest with a twenty-five dollar prize. The contest is to be in the form of an article written by a William and Mary Senior on the topic "Our Alma Mater". It should be an appraisal, presenting the undergraduate point of view.

Those seniors who are interested may obtain rules for this contest at the Alumni Office or find them printed on the front page of the January 9th Flat Hat.

Rosa Ellis Speaks At WSCGA Meeting

A Women's Student Government meeting was held on Monday, February 5th in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 7:30. Rosa Ellis, President of the Judicial Council, and William and Mary representative to the N. S. F. A. (National Student Federation of America), gave a brief talk on her trip to the Convention, held this year in Minneapolis, and stressed the importance of the problems discussed there.

Jean Clarahan, President of Mortarboard extended an invitation to all women students to attend the vocational guidance program, sponsored by Mortarboard through the A. S. U. W. Dean Landrum has planned the program and chosen the outside speakers, and it promises to be helpful to all who are interested in securing information about specified fields.

An announcement was made concerning the Virginia Youth conference to be held in Richmond on Friday and Saturday of next week.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Barnyard Philos. Sounds off Again

The reactions to the first "barnyard" philosophies were rather discouraging. Everyone thought it was obscure, childish, moronic, or, worse than that, pointless. One girl very naively told me that she liked the story about the man and his choice of the coin because it showed the great lesson that there is charity in the world and therefore there is still hope for the college graduate.

(Ed Note—Any resemblance of the last mentioned girl to a senior co-ed is denied by the W.S.C.G.A.) No one, as far as the author can tell, liked the philosophy it was supposed to contain but unlike mine mule, "He shall come back for more." Perhaps I should explain about the mine mules. After all the mule is a member of our barnyard even though it may be a bit underground.

Miners who know the mule from working with him will tell you that he is a remarkably intelligent animal. The particular mule I have in mind was called "Collegiate" because he was always kicking about something. Collegiate had not been working long before the driver had become aware that the mule never bumped his head twice on a low hanging beam, no matter from what direction he approached the beam. Well, as I said before, unlike the mule Collegiate, I shall bump my head against the scathing criticism of all five people who read the first article.

A second philosophy is born. Before the memory of that icy, paralytic, pre-exam feeling wears off let me tell you about the words of wisdom which occurred to me before one of my exams. I can not tell the name of course, because that would be discriminating publicity and my marks in English, Economics, Chemistry, and Physics are bad enough without having the professors down on me. Well, I sat studying my work, I recalled an old family platitude which is preached by an oculist in our neighborhood. He says, "Some men are gifted with imagination, which, when it concerns affairs of the day is called foresight." Read that over again slowly. My friend the oculist has something there.

A beautiful proverb like that can't go without an example of practical application. I remembered it because of poor preparation for an exam, but let's go to a more pleasant subject. How about orchestras? Yes, orchestras for the spring formals. You know, if there is enough excitement started about this subject, a poll by the Flat Hat might show that the plectrated music of Accordion Joe or a like band is not what William and Mary wants for their dances in June. Of course this is just an example of having foresight and obviously is not meant to arouse no comment on the orchestra for the spring dances. Anyone noticing the double negative in the preceding sentence can call the author an ignoramus, but before condemning him, remember that if any should say that the reader wasn't fit to live with pigs the author would take the reader's part and say that he was.

An announcement was made concerning the Virginia Youth conference to be held in Richmond on Friday and Saturday of next week.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Pres. Hutchins Defends Action

Amid thunderous cheers of approval by the student body, the University of Chicago's President Robert Maynard Hutchins has delivered a vigorous indictment of football and an explanation of why the sport was dropped from the Midway campus program.

"There is no doubt on the whole that football has been a major handicap to education in the United States," Pres. Hutchins affirmed. "I think it is a good thing for the country to have one important university discontinue football."

Continuing, Pres. Hutchins said, "Though football is a wonderful game for the spectator, it is no so good for the participant as many other sports. It is time-consuming, and the time is consumed just when the player ought to be devoting himself to the new courses begun with the opening of the academic year. Other sports develop cooperation, team spirit, sportsmanship and fair play just as well as football."

At a special student forum, only two of about 30 students eligible to participate in the discussion opposed the discontinuance of football as an intercollegiate sport.

Safety Is By-Word Of College Pilots

Student pilots in U. S. colleges and universities are careful and take no chances.

That's the conclusion that must be drawn from the report of the Civil Aeronautics Authority that collegians have flown more than 25,000 hours without a serious accident.

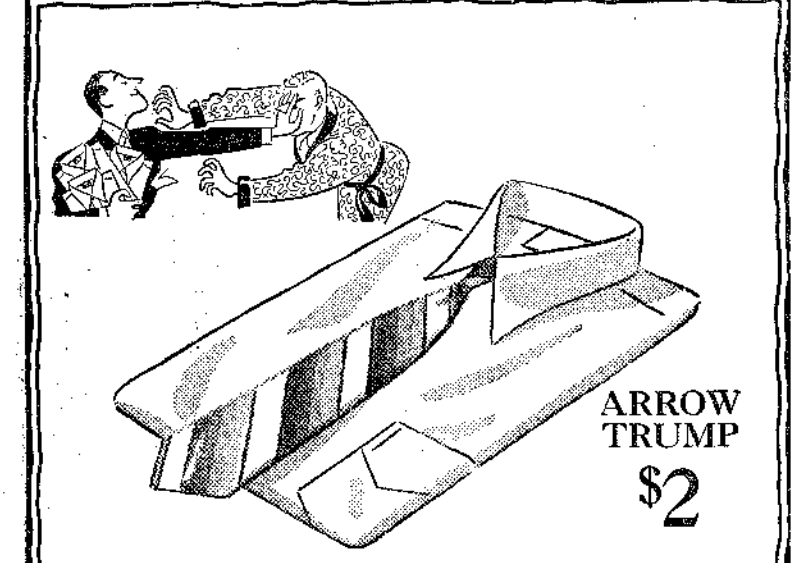

Began in August, 1939, the C. A. A. pilot training program now has 9,310 participants. Exactly 1,200 of these have reached the solo stage of their training program.

Harman to Lead Virginia Cavaliers Against William and Mary

THIS WEEK

By FRANK RAFLO

1940 is the year for Utopias. It is the year in which the ashes of Europe are destined to give forth a new world order and the ashes of the Republican party a new political campaign.

Surrounded by such perfection we should like to paint our picture of the Utopian William and Mary, a land where everyone had what he wanted at the time he wanted it.

William and Mary would be located in Colonial Williamsburg, a small town on the Virginia peninsula where the weather was adjustable according to the individual whims of the students.

In the middle of October each year, an enthusiastic student body would journey up to Navy to see the Indians sink the fleet before a record crowd of 35,000.

This team would go through undefeated until Thanksgiving Day when President Bryan would declare a week's holiday after the three touchdown drubbing given the Spiders in the annual classic.

The Richmond newspapers on the following day would give the Indians full credit for their victory and lay the blame for the Spider defeat at the feet of their own triple threat back.

Shortly afterwards, Christmas holidays would begin and everyone would make the 10:27 with no trouble.

The basketball five would start practice and through the efforts of science each boy would add three inches to his height. Everyone would know that the new order was here to stay when William and Mary played the University of Virginia at Charlottesville with Gummy Proctor refereeing and no foul would be called against the Indians.

The budget bureau of the Athletic Association would allot enough money to the basketball team so that all the men who went out for the team and had the tenacity to stick it out would get a new uniform.

Semester exams would result in three Frosh football players making under C on one course. (Even a Utopia can't be infallible.)

The Southern Conference Swimming tournament and the Southern Conference Indoor track meet would be held at William and Mary at the same time in the new, vast gymnasium which was built on the athletic field adjoining the recently completed William and Mary theatre.

There would be no need to issue a call for Spring football practice because the boys would be out there every day on their own keeping in condition of their own initiative, and from love of the sport.

Finally alarm clock which rang before nine in the morning would be destroyed, a lavatory would be installed in the library and columnists like us would long be given their just due.

Frosh Win Over Division 44-42 To Remain Undefeated

Coach Rube McCray's freshman court team, sporting an undefeated season in state competition with a record of four wins and no losses will tackle what may be their toughest assignment of the year when they meet the Norfolk Division of the College of William and Mary in a return match on the opponents home court Saturday.

The Division boasts an outstanding record winning all of its games to date with the exception of a 44-42 defeat at the hands of the Paposes and in particular a top heavy victory over the vaunted Richmond freshmen, who the Indian Paposes will meet here on the fourteenth of this month.

McCray's five eked out a 44 to 42 victory in a bitterly contested game at Norfolk, Saturday night, when they took the measure of the Division's team by virtue of a last period scoring drive.

Showing a high powered offense and an equally strong defense the Paposes were victorious over the sensation Hopewell five, led by Ray Keenan, and a small but scrappy group of b.d. players from Wilson High School of Portsmouth. In the latter game which the Indians won by the overwhelming margin of 45 to 15, guard Eddie Nowland and towering Al Helander were outstanding, taking high scoring honors, and aided by Al Vandevoghe, Hal King, and Elvis Wade, formed the first squad of two that McCray can put on the floor.

A slow first quarter showed a score of 8 to 4 in the Freshmen's favor and with the advent of the second period an entire new team that was sparked by the scrappy play of Jimmy Cockrel started the scoring thrust that turned the game into a rout.

McCray appeared well satisfied with the team's play at this period for when pressed for a statement he said: "The team is coming along very well, and with the strength of both squads almost equal we should be able to provide next year's varsity with some good material."

McCray appeared well satisfied with the team's play at this period for when pressed for a statement he said: "The team is coming along very well, and with the strength of both squads almost equal we should be able to provide next year's varsity with some good material. It is to be stressed though that we are still concentrating on fundamentals and basic plays in order to accustom the men to an entirely new system."

45 Men Answer Spring Call

15 More Men To Report to Squad Later

Boys Spend Part Time Inside Preparing For Real Spring Grind

Coach Carl Voyles called his football squad out of their winter hibernation last week as he officially started Spring practice. The forty five men who responded to the call found that it was no easy task to make football teams.

The first three days of practice were spent in the gymnasium with the full squad doing calisthenics and running through plays.

Coach Carl Voyles will get a chance to see his powerful freshman team in action against real college competition. Also, he will be setting up a visionary line-up for the opening game with North Carolina State next September.

Fencers Open Against Va. Feb. 10

The William and Mary fencing team led by Captain Paul Makler, will open its season here on February 10th against the University of Virginia.

The Indian swordsmen have a schedule which includes eight dual meets against southern and eastern opponents and participation in the Eastern Intercollegiate Fencing Tournament at Lafayette on the 22nd and 23rd of March, as well as in the Southern Conference Tournament at Chapel Hill on April 5th and 6th.

NORTHERN TRIP

The highlight of the season will be the northern trip the first week in March during which time the team will meet Lehigh, Stevens, Institute, Rutgers and Drew.

At Lafayette the team will be out to better its second place finish in the conference meet chalked up last year.

As the season gets under way most of the positions are filled with a few exceptions. Kibel, Makler, and Glassman will handle the foil assignments; Makler and Kibel are sure starters in the epee section with Glassman and Meyer fighting it out for the third post.

The schedule: Feb. 10 Virginia, here Feb. 15 North Carolina, here. Feb. 17 Richmond, here. Feb. 27 Norfolk Division, here. March 2 Leigh, there. March 4 Stevens Inst. there. March 7 Rutgers, there. March 8 Drew, there. March 23 E. I. F. C., there April 5 and 6 S. C., there.

Bowling Heads List of 14 Sports in Intra-murals

Handball and Ping Pong Entries Close February 8; Practice Tickets for Bowling on Sale at the Gymnasium

A crowded intramural program is planned for the present semester. Starting off with bowling the program will include handball, pingpong, wrestling, boxing, volleyball, swimming, horseshoes, badminton, archery, softball, canoeing, golf, and track.

Entries are in for the bowling tournament and it will start on this coming Monday. Sheets are posted in Blow Gymnasium for handball and pingpong and all men who expect to participate are asked to sign up before Thursday, February 8, when entries close.

As soon as the above mentioned tournaments are well on their way volleyball will be started. Last year's competition in volleyball was as keen a competition as was had here in a long time with S. A. E. finally emerging the winner.

Swimmers Point For W. & L. Meet

The varsity swimming team has dropped two meets so far this season but all indications point to a fair season.

The final score of the North Carolina meet was 44-31 in favor of the Tarheels. The end of the meet at Charlottesville on Saturday with the University of Virginia found the Cavaliers ahead in the scoring by a score of 46-29.

However, the outlook for some wins is very fine. The next match will be with Washington and Lee and it should result in a William and Mary victory.

The Indians have some of the best in the Southern Conference on their squad but they lack the balanced team necessary for a good winning combination.

The start of the new semester finds bowling heading the list of intramural events. When entries for the tournament closed last night over fifty men had signed up to participate.

In order to speed up the tournament each man will be assigned a special time in which to bowl. Two consecutive games will be bowled by each in the qualifying round and the highest fifteen men will be chosen for the finals.

The bowling tournament is a recent addition to the present intramural program, having been revived last year after being dropped from the program in 1933. The revival was due mainly to the efforts of a large group of students who felt that bowling should be an intramural sport and requested it.

Women's Bowling To Run From Feb. 5th to 12th

The Women's Intramural Bowling Tournament, won last year by Gamma Phi Beta and Jefferson Hall, began Monday, February 5, and will continue through February 12.

Following bowling, basketball has been planned for February 19 through March 15, and the intramural representatives are requested to sign for practice on the Jefferson Gym bulletin board.

The backbone of the swimming team so far this season. They are being counted upon to win a few of the remaining meets.

Indians Out To Avenge Early Season Defeat

Come From Behind To Overcome Tech And Score 38-33

In one of the most thrilling finishes to be seen in this vicinity, the Indian eagles came back in the last ten minutes of a previously listless ball game to provide the 800 spectators with a demonstration of ability under pressure.

For the first thirty minutes of playing time the contest was marked by the poor shooting and seemingly frenzied play of both squads: Tech maintaining an 18 to 11 lead at the half.

With Captain Mackey, Charlie Gondak, the Andrews brothers, and Art Carol playing the outstanding roles, the Braves held V. P. I. scoreless for the first ten minutes of the second half.

With three minutes remaining to play Mackey and Tom Andrews combined to tie the score once more by virtue of two field goals and two free throws.

High scoring honors for the evening went to Tom Andrews with 11 points, Mackey, the runner-up netted 10. Tech's lanky Bill Ingram tallied 11 points to share the games honors with Andrews.

ANDREWS HIGH

Stuessey declared after the game that "the team morale is higher than it has been all season, and the team is playing harder ball. The spirit that they are showing combines to make it most pleasing to me."

RICHMOND HERE

Also witnessing the game was Captain Stuart Hoskins, of Richmond, and teammate Jimmy Ely. They promised to "give the Indians a good game, but it certainly looks like a tough one, for W&M has a very good team."

On their recent trip into the Carolinas the Indians broke even in their two scheduled games, winning over Furman and dropping a close one to The Citadel on the 27th and 29th of January.

Morgan Mackey and Virgil Andrews each netted eight points and Tom Andrews and Chuck Gondak, seven, to score most of the William and Mary tallies in their 36 to 35 loss when they met The Citadel, while left forward Freeman contributed nine points for the home team in garnering high scoring honors for the night.

In Greenville, where the Indians met Furman, Tom Andrews rolled up seventeen points, Captain Mackey eight, and Virg Andrews eleven, to win a Southern Conference game 47 to 37 before a crowd of 700.

Orange and Blue Show 12 and 1 Record But W and M Is Strong

Williamsburg will hold the center of the state's basketball spotlight Wednesday night when the high-riding Virginia Cavaliers invade the William and Mary Indians' stamping grounds in an effort to continue their domination of Virginia basketball.

Headed by the state's leading scorer, Bill Harman, the Cavaliers boast a record paralleled only by the famed "Five Smart Boys" of Roanoke who ruled local courts in last season's contests.

Division Girls Win Over Local Frosh 31 to 23

Opening the 1940 girl's basketball season was the freshman game with Norfolk Division in Jefferson Gymnasium Saturday afternoon.

During the first half the William and Mary freshmen outplayed the Division by a score of 18-13. During the second half of the game the Division picked up and took advantage of every opportunity given them.

Mims was high scorer for William and Mary and Naylor was high for the Division.

Because of bad weather the Richmond Division did not come down to play the Reserves, so the latter played among themselves.

As yet a definite varsity team has not been selected. Ann Mitchell and Betty Douglas are the only two left from last year with monograms.

The line-up of the freshman vs. Norfolk game was as follows:

Needed:-- Shot of "Sisu"

In previous editorials the Flat Hat has tried to establish the fact that student government organization would be a good thing for William and Mary. Assuming the advantages of such organization to be established, the Flat Hat will analyze, psychologically and otherwise, why it has not been established. To borrow a word from the Finns, "Sisu" is lacking.

To as potent a virtue as ever stemmed the tide of invasion or inserted an unpredictable chapter into the history of warfare, the Finns have given the name "Sisu". A small word with big implications, "Sisu" finds its nearest equivalent in the English term "determination." The connotations of "Sisu", however are richer and more varied than any English synonym. It means loyalty, in the way Pearl Buck's Chinese characters were loyal to the "Good Earth"; it means a spirit of independence of the type that brought about the Boston Tea Party and subsequent Revolution. It means patriotism; it means lasting and intense devotion to liberty; it means stoicism and personal pride in personal achievement; and finally it means religion.

It is not necessary to carry student movements to the extremes of making them a religion, but the campus student government organizations — especially the men's—could certainly utilize the rest of the implications of this little word.

The promising movement by the men's committee on student government started anew in the fall seems to have stalled, and even the comparatively efficient W. S. C. G. A. never has attained much determining power. Certain small groups of students (men and women) bubble with enthusiasm off and on and even student opinion in general runs hot as well as cold at certain times, but interest is never strong enough or sustained long enough to establish any permanent machinery. The students, including their leaders, the faculty, and the administration just need a good shot of "Sisu."

Relax!
It's Human

The Flat Hat is interested to observe the extent to which politics will determine the first ten "beauties" for the Varsity Show in the forthcoming election and the subsequent "squawks" that will flare up all over the campus. This contest will present an excellent example of "party loyalty" i. e. sorority sisters vote for sorority sisters. To this the Flat Hat says, "So What?"

The average (non-calculating) being usually passes off his ignorance of why such and such is happening or is going to happen by saying "propaganda," or "politics." What's more, the average (non-calculating) listener nods his head in agreement to this trite observation. These two words are among the handiest crutches in the English language because their connotations are so broad and elusive that few people have a clear conception of what they stand for. The Flat Hat is not going to do the obvious by defining these words, but just wants to impress the fact that politics (like babies) is here to stay and it is senseless to think that natural impulses are non-existent at grand old William and Mary.

The possibility of the evil of politics rearing its ugly head in this beauty contest is not a pressing issue because this is not a vital matter, and, anyway, voters cannot go far wrong in choosing 10 pretty girls from a list of 25 pretty girls; ; but when it comes to the big campus elections in the spring . . . As long as there are a lot of average people and a few leaders in any society there will be politics, parties, patronage, and all that goes with them, so there is nothing to be alarmed about as far as William and Mary is concerned.

how's about it

These are unhappy days for those young gentlemen and scholars who were so fortunate as to be pledged to a social fraternity last autumn. These are the days when fraternities of William and Mary teach our privileged freshman the great lesson of true humility and good fellowship. This is one advantage of fraternity life which will undoubtedly come as a pained revelation to some sensitive soul.

These days, usually seven in number, are vestigial evidence of man's earlier social habits in his first dim beginning. Among all uncultured and backward peoples there have been tribal customs which correspond to this fine old fraternity tradition of "Hell Week." These primitive practices consisted mostly of varied and assorted forms of physical torture which left the virile young male animal rather badly beaten up but happy in the knowledge of his survival and full fledged clan membership.

Today in spite of all that has been said and written of the dignity of man it is very evident that this is still a popular manner of thinking. Of course it is a long way from running the gauntlet to assuming the fraternity angle. An Alpha Alpha Alpha paddle is much to be preferred to an Iriquois war club. However, whether a club can give more immediate pain than a paddle is, we think, arbitrary; but the amount of physical harm is definitely in favor of the club.

We would say though that while the death rate and bodily injuries resulting from such practices has decreased through the years, the amount of personal humiliation has proportionately increased.

There are fraternities and colleges who have abolished and condemned this "Hell Week" performance as unbecoming and unfitting young gentlemanship in the pursuit of knowledge. We ourselves must admit that it is difficult to follow the collegiate reasoning which approves of such juvenile horseplay. It may be as Doctor Pangloss said, "All is for the best in the best of all possible worlds." Anyway being in the best of all possible colleges we'll see what the boys in the back room will have and order up another paddle.

After much to do about nothing, we settled down to collect some somewhat literary stuff.

To our editor— Getting out this paper is no picnic; If we print jokes people say we are silly;

If we don't they say we are too serious; If we clip things from other papers, we are too lazy to write them ourselves;

If we don't we are too fond of our own stuff; If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius;

If we do print them, the paper is filled with junk. If we make a change in the other person's write-up, we are too critical;

If we don't we are asleep. Now like as not someone will say

We swiped this from some other paper. Well . . . ! So what . . . !

seasons greetings

Here we sit embrothed at Steve's Mulling over our pet peeves. Our shoes are wet with oozing clay;

Our orange juice, squeezed yesterday. While translating forty lines of Chaucer,

Our coffee slops into the saucer. While at the flies we aim our swipes,

Our thoughts revert to our pet gripes: The way at two our lamps do flicker,

You'd think the generator was run on liquor. The way at every Danse Macabre,

Our dates are wolfed by L. V. Haber. Our feelings run to revolution and conflagration,

When caught in the whirl of registration. When we counted on but twelve hours for graduation,

They told us we lacked three hours in Marriage Relation. We intend the next individual to slay

Who accosts us with joke called "Confucius Say" Our boredom is more than we can master

Each time we tune in on "She Lost It At The Astor". But our rage is impossible to equal

When our room-mate intones its corny sequel. We always sink to deep black mood

When our date's blonde tresses are encased in snood. When, by mistake, our beer glass drops,

Steve ups and says "I call de cops!" But we shouldn't be vexed by this slap at all—

We can always get beer at Tom's CAPITOL. The VARSITY SHOW is taking on form,

Such bustle and action makes our heart warm. BUT, why doesn't somebody hold for high ransom

That diminutive impressario, Arthur B. Hanson? But now we must end this meditation solemn,

IT'S time to turn over to the printer this column.

W. S. & P. D. P. S. — We've got so used to this life of ease,

That we're planning to graduate by degrees!

CANNON FODDER

In any draft for war we college students will be among the first in action. We make darn good cannon fodder, we're healthy enough to take the bad food, constant shell and gas barrages, the trench mud and lice all in our stride; and we're able enough to handle a gun or a grenade and kill a man; and what's more we're usually more than willing to be included in the sucker's list of any man's army.

NEW DEAL JOKER

Ridiculous you might say, for you figure that right now, twenty-two years after the last war, nobody is foolish enough to repeat the tragic and false crusade to "save the world for democracy." Yet only a few months after the present war has started in Europe there are signs which indicate that Uncle Sam is willing to discard his red, blue and white trappings and don khaki. The New Deal has been junked and under the cover of peace demagoguery, the Roosevelt administration has lifted the arms embargo, is now carrying on war provocations over Finland, is preparing a gigantic armaments program, is trying to legalize minority groups, and worst of all has slashed to shreds the Social Security program so vital to the well-being of the people.

ANTI-SOVIET BLOC

Why this sudden reversal in New Deal tactics? How do we fit into the European picture? To answer these questions it is necessary to review some of the events leading up to the present conflicts. The original desire of Britain after the last world war was to encourage the establishment of a strong Germany that could be used not only as a weapon against Russia but also in order to break the dominant position France held in Europe after Versailles. When the British backed rearming of Nazi Germany had succeeded in ending France's dominance, British diplomacy was enabled to concentrate on its other main objective—the organization of a four power pact of Britain, France, Germany, and Italy, against the Soviet Union. TWO WARS Britain wanted to compose its growing differences with Germany at the expense of Russia, and thus be rid of a rival imperialist state and a dangerous socialistic state. The signing of the Soviet pact, however, bankrupted this policy, and the conflict between the rival imperialisms of Germany and the Allies which had been reconciled for the time being, broke into the open and war was inevitable. The Soviet-Finnish conflict followed close be-

The week-end is over, exams are passed, the grades are in, the hangovers are present and the gossip is slight. Congratulations to the Varsity Club on the splendid dance which was given Friday night.

We saw— Larry Pettit playing second base in the Rapp league while Hornsby was catching, and Rapp was pitching—Who!

Ed Cook putting in his bid for the Iron Stomach Club.

Dick Simulson with Bob Wade's girl, Peggy Duryea, she of the five A's.

One of the larger social events of the season was staged at the Theta Delta house last Saturday night, and though it conflicted with the basketball game, the rest of the student body didn't care.

Two situations which might bear noticing were: "Sonny" Hodges with the exotic Kitty Jones (while the S. A. E.'s and the P. K. A.'s got a hunch and dated elsewhere), and talkative Joe Lawler cutting a mean "buck and wing" with the diminutive Trudy (I wish I could think of something to say) Green.

Question of the week— Is it true that Wes Newhouse and Martha Gaines have agreed to disagree?

MOST IN LOVE OF THE WEEK

Buddy Strange to Carolyn Cook —"It's All Over Now." Dick O'Mara to Dot Overholser —"I Must Have One More Kiss, Kiss, Kiss."

Paul Kratzig to Lucille Peavey —"My Little Fraternity Pin." For the whole Campus—"Now's the Time to Fall in Love."

Item: Through the grace of Providence and Dr. Morales, Dave (Oh, was it a party!) MacMillan has graduated. He's returning this semester to take a seminar in Klinge 403. This course meets once weekly, the other six nights are still open for enrollment.

Ed. Note: We wish Shirley Baker would wear a coat so that we could keep our mind on our work. ( We worry about her catching cold.)

William-and-Mary-Go-Round

My Day . . . Got up early this morning, about ten a. m. The first thing I thought about was the delightful dance I had attended Friday night. They had some orchestra from somewhere and every one seemed to have an enjoyable time and I was so glad. All the diplomats were there and seemed to be having a wonderful time handling things very diplomatically and their young companions seemed to understand perfectly.

But then that all happened yesterday. First thing this morning I took my usual canter winding up at an interesting little lecture on the "Principles of Banking" at eleven o'clock. Needless to say I was exhausted from my waitzing of the night before and just managed to stay it out. Then to luncheon . . .

All afternoon I read and listened to "Bustie" in the corridor outside my room. He had a number of his playmates with him and was playing some new game of "throw the brick at the bottle." It made quite a mess, but I always believe in letting the children have their way.

At dinner we had as guest a Mr. Edward Cook who amused us all with droll stories about funny girls he knew.

I slumped in the evening going to a college basketball game. I wanted to go to a recital, but the boys just wouldn't take no, and unfortunately I said yes. Both teams dilly-dallied for hours until someone fired a gun, everyone cheered and "Bustie" said we had won. Then they took me to a place called "Chez Sacalis" where the funniest little man with the funniest little accent showed us to our places. Many young folks were there and I overheard a number of them saying "Call a cop, Steve, call a cop!" Wasn't that odd? Finally we left and I was glad to get home and to bed after another very busy day.

WHAT'S UP . . .

hind. These two wars are but the two halves of a whole war which Chamberlain tried to forge at Munich and which was split into its constituent halves by the Soviet-German pact.

NON-AGGRESSIVE WAR

This pact put the Allies on the spot and they cast about for means to continue their foreign policies. On the one hand they did not want to attack Germany vigorously, for that would forever close the doors to a peaceful settlement and a unity of forces against Russia. And furthermore an intensive war would be followed by the inevitable economic chaos and unrest of the people with the dreaded possibility of social revolutions. This was especially true if Russia were left unmolested, she might sweep Europe with revolution. From this followed the ingenious policy of a non-aggressive war against Germany.

AGGRESSIVE "PEACE"

On the other hand to tackle both Germany and Russia was too large an order as things stood. Hence at the moment the policy is to wage an indirect war or aggressive "peace" through third parties: one little nation after another is to be moved to the front without the Allies committing themselves until the moment is ripe. Thus Finland has been moved in the north and Turkey is being moved in the south. Following this the Scandinavian countries are to make their entry onto the scene. They are to be used not only as a base against Russia but also to put the Allies in a favorable position to attack Hitler from his vulnerable north if he does not make an early peace.

Here is where we come in. The Allies need us to break this stalemate as it now stands, and to merge the two wars into one. In other words there is the hope of uniting the whole world, including Germany, Italy, Japan and above all the United States into a great "democratic front" against Russia. Or there is the other alternative that with American help Britain and France can even consider not only the elimination of Russia but along with this the possibility of eliminating their old German rival. President Roosevelt has become reconciled with big business and is now grooming Uncle Sam for his starring familiar role in this new unholy combination.

The three teams will leave the college on February the twenty-sixth and will be gone approximately one week. Two of the teams will go north, debating most of the larger colleges along the route and will have their northern terminus at New York City. The other team will go as far south as Duke University, debating many of the schools in Virginia and North Carolina. According to the present schedule the teams will debate about fifteen schools on their trips and have thirteen home debates, making a total of twenty-eight forensic encounters with some of the best competition in the East.

In addition to this varsity schedule there will be several Freshmen home debates and perhaps a short trip to some of the Virginia colleges. Any Freshman who is interested in joining the council and thus making himself eligible for the team should attend the next meeting of the council on Wednesday evening, Feb. seventh at 7:30 in the Philomathean Hall of the Wren Building to secure full details.

HARMAN STARS

In Harman, Virginia has the state's greatest offensive threat and a duel between him and Tom Andrews or Morgan Mackey promises to brighten the interest of the game. Both Andrews and the stocky Indian captain are well up among the top scorers and should press the redoubtable Cavalier for the evening's offensive honors.

Capable reserves from the Virginia bench has been another important factor in their success, but Steussey's team wants this game and proved that they have the necessary fight and ability under pressure in their victory over Virginia Tech last Saturday night, to possibly upset the pre-game done. Saturday night the Indians tackle an up and down Hampden-Sydney squad that has anything but an impressive record. However, the Tigers are always a threat and with Syd Weed, speedy forward, to provide the scoring drives, they will not be any setup for William and Mary. The game is scheduled for Blow Gym at 8 o'clock.

McCray has been teaching the five men the figure eight system on the offense, a method originated by Pitt's mentor Bill Carlton and has been drilling the squad for the past week on a set system of play and organization of the offense for the forthcoming games with Fork Union on Monday, Richmond the 14th, and a return game with the Norfolk Division scheduled for the 16th. All of the games are to be played here.

NYA Pinch At W-M

If the present plans for cutting the appropriation to the National Youth Administration go through, approximately 40,000 college students will find themselves in the position of "the little man who wasn't there" when next school term comes around. Funds will be lacking to continue aiding them.

The President has recommended to Congress that the appropriation to the National Youth Administration for the fiscal year 1940-41 be included in the regular budget as a part of the appropriation of the Federal Security Agency. Along with practically every other agency except the Army and Navy, the NYA will suffer a cut. NYA will be reduced by $15,000,000.

Is Tradition
To W & M

On Thursday, its Charter Day, the College of William and Mary will pay honor to Colonel John Page, founder of the Page family in Virginia, who was the "first mover" towards establishment of the college by calling a meeting of "some private Gentlemen at James City in the month of february 1699"—just 250 years ago — to launch the project.

John Page's descendants were among the principal early benefactors of the college and have maintained close connections with the institution for nine generations. Members of the Page family from a number of states have been invited for the day. Among them is a present member of the college's Board of visitors, Miss Gabriella Page of Richmond, Va., and many alumni.

William and Mary owns a fine collection of fourteen original portraits of the Page family, which will be hung for the occasion in the president's house at the college. These canvases, by Sir Peter Lely, Bridges, Wollaston and others, were presented some by the late Dr. Richard Channing Moore Page of New York, some by the late Mrs. Mary Newton Stanard of Richmond.

The visitors will be tendered a luncheon in the Great Hall of the Sir Christopher Wren building, the original college building, restored by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Colonel John Page's son, Matthew, was one of the original trustees to whom King William III, and Queen Mary, of England granted a charter for the college on February 8, 1693. His son, Mann Page I, was a trustee and visitor and sent six sons to William and Mary, of whom two became visitors in their turn. One of them, Mann Page II, also was the representative of the college in the colonial House of Burgesses at Williamsburg.

The eldest son of Mann Page II was John Page, who was Governor of Virginia for three terms. As a student at William and Mary he was an intimate friend of Thomas Jefferson, and like his father was representative of the college in the House of Burgesses. Not only did his sons attend the college, but two of his daughters married men who became presidents of it, John Augustine Smith and Robert Saunders. A third married Robert Nelson, chancellor of the college.

There have been nine members of the Page family on William and Mary's Board of Visitors, and successive generations have maintained other connections with the college. In each generation from Mann II to the present day, Pages have been enrolled as students, averaging about four members in each of nine generations. One was a charter member of Phi Beta Kappa, established at William and Mary in 1776.

The Page family were prominent in public life in colonial and revolutionary Virginia. For five generations, from old Colonel John Page in 1688 down to the eve of the Revolution, five Pages were members of the Governor's Council of the colony. Governor John was a member of the Committee of Safety in the revolutionary period and made heavy financial contributions to the colonists' cause; he was lieutenant-governor of Virginia in this period and after the constitution was adopted he represented the state in Congress. His brother, Mann Page, was a member of the Virginia House of Delegates and of the Continental Congress.

In many fields succeeding members of this family added distinction to their name. A number chose careers in the army or navy. During the 1860's, practically every male member was a Confederate officer. One surviving today is Philip Nelson Page of Buenos Ayres, who is one of the last two remaining of the Virginia Military Institute cadets who made a heroic and ghastly charge at the battle of New Market.

Here's a Practical Instructor . . .

"The truth doesn't hurt" seems to be the policy of Mr. William P. Carr, instructor in economics at Loyola University.

In a recent accounting class, Mr. Carr advised his pupils that part of their test would consist of true and false questions. Then he instructed them to bring the following with them when they came to take the exam:

1. A bluebook.
  2. Mental facilities.
  3. A coin.
- The purpose of the first two is obvious. But the coin? Mr. Carr said that it's for the students to flip in answering the true and false questions.

College Editors Are Strict Isolationists

Despite the fact that collegiate writers on foreign affairs have all the sympathy in the world for the cause of the plucky Finns in their fight against Russian aggression, the great majority of the college newspaper editorialists do not favor the proposed government loan to Finland.

The almost-unanimous opinion of the collegians is that such a loan would be a violation of U. S. neutrality and would tend to draw us into the conflict. In addition, they maintain, this money should be used in this country for relief funds. There is a suggestion, too, that the people of the U. S. should think first of their own fellow citizens before they contribute to Finnish relief funds raised by private groups.

The Santa Barbara State College El Gaucho argues the point in this manner: "Neutrality, like life, is just what you make it. And to be effective, neutrality's motto must be 'what's good for the goose is good for the gander.' That is why this tendency to look the other way when it comes to dealing with Finland in the current conflict with Russia is a dangerous practice. It is an open breach of true neutrality, whether it assumes the guise of humanitarianism, democracy or what-have-you. It is a road to war, deeply worn by the travel of would-be neutrals."

FLICKER FLASHES

By PHIL LICKER

Opening gun on this week's flicker program is something well off the beaten track in film fare. It is EARL OF CHICAGO, in which Robert Montgomery once again demonstrates his versatility as brilliantly as he did in "Night Must Fall."

Although a Hollywood product EARL OF CHICAGO is made in the manner and will hardly find favor with the mass audience. Those who go in for the arty side of the cinema—super characterizations, and all that, will be thrilled pink by this one. Edward Arnold, Reginald Owen, Edmund Gwenn, E. E. Clive, and Billy Bevan are the supporting players. "Aqua Rhythm", a Grantland Rice Sportlight, and a color cartoon are added.

Robert Montgomery, a gangster who becomes a British Peer, with Edward Arnold in "Earl of Chicago," playing Wednesday only.

Now that the wars are popular again we might as well expect a procession of spy films. First in the line is BRITISH INTELLIGENCE, featuring Boris Karloff and Margaret Lindsay, and dealing with sinky spies of the First World War.

A good deal of second-hand destruction takes place as a competent cast unravels the sinister doings of a certain prime minister. The climax arrives with bombs and an air raid. One note that will jar you is the scene in which a German corporal named Adolf is bawled out. The closeup following will bring howls!

If you'd like to recapture those joyous "high school" days, then Friday is the day to do it. Assisted by Jane Withers and a spontaneous crowd of juveniles HIGH SCHOOL will re-create the rosy dreams of your youthful days.

Obviously the film is totally unsophisticated and if you go to it, plan to let your hair all the way down. Otherwise you won't get the full "kick" out of the antics of Jane and comical Cliff Edwards. Background of the film is the Thomas Jefferson High School in San Antonio, Texas, a widely publicized institution by virtue of its corps of ROTC boys, girls' lariat groups, and the like.

The Saturday attraction should bring squeals of delight to our beautiful coeds as BROTHER RAT AND THE BABY assumes the screen. This, of course, is the zippy sequel to the original 'Brother Rat', and features practically the same cast . . . Priscilla Lane, Jane Bryan, Jane Wyman, Wayne Morris, Eddie Albert, Ronald Reagan, plus Arthur Treacher and a cute baby.

The story is picked up where the first one left off, and carried forward in the same romping manner, and riotous vein. It is swiftly paced and relies on situation and complication for most of its laughs, which it gets in quantity. For extra good measure a Popeye the Sailor cartoon is added—"Shakespearean Spinach". Also an excellent RKO Sportscope titled "Sky Game"—about duck hunting.

A tempo that is fast, and frequently furious, makes MY GIRL FRIDAY one of the topflight comedy pictures of recent years. Next week—Monday and Tuesday—it brings a new team of Cary Grant and Rosalind Russell to Williamsburg to delight and entertain you as you have seldom been entertained or delighted.

This is, as you probably know, the film version of a hit play by Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht, first titled "The Front Page." It is a racy, action-plus yarn, a bit spicy in its dialogue here and there, and grand, laughable entertainment.

From the way it looks now it would seem that Williamsburg will see the famed GONE WITH THE WIND during the entire last week of this month! Seats will soon go on sale. If that booking falls through, however, the first week in March is definitely the "time" for the "wind."

Restoration Offers History Fellowships

Kenneth Chorley, President of Colonial Williamsburg, Incorporated, announced today that this organization is prepared to provide, through its Department of Research and Record, a limited number of Fellowships to individual students and scholars who are carrying on investigations in the history of colonial Virginia. These Fellowships will be granted in connection with the publication of the "Williamsburg Restoration Historical Studies," under the auspices of this institution at Williamsburg, Virginia, and will be made upon the condition that the recipients shall submit the completed product of their researches for publication in the series. The scope of this series has been defined as the history of Williamsburg and the origin, development, and expansion of the civilization of which this city was the center. For the encouragement of projects of special merit in the social, economic, intellectual, religious, and political history of Colonial Virginia, the Department of Research and Record is prepared to grant Fellowships varying in value according to the needs of the individual student.

Awards of these fellowships will be made early in the Spring of 1940. In the selection of recipients, particular attention will be given to young men and women possessing marked intellectual ability, character, and initiative, as well as sound academic preparation in history. It has been announced that early application for Fellowships will be advantageous; candidates for Fellowships must have applications on file not later than March 15, 1940.

In making these awards, the Director of the Department of Research and Record will be assisted by members of an Advisory Board of Historians, consisting of Dr. Charles M. Andrews, Farnam professor of American history, emeritus, Yale University; Virginius Dabney, editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch; Dr. Samuel E. Morison, professor of colonial history at Harvard University; Dr. Richard L. Morton, head of the Department of History at the College of William and Mary; Dr. Arthur M. Schlesinger, professor of American history at Harvard University; Dr. Earl G. Swem, librarian of the College of William and Mary; and Dr. Thomas J. Wertenbaker, Edwards professor of American history at Princeton University.

All requests for application forms, bulletins, or other information regarding these fellowships should be addressed to the Director, Department of Research and Record, Colonial Williamsburg, Incorporated, Williamsburg, Va.

(Continued from page one) abuses under the act whereby an occasional person will try illegally to get insurance, and said that there were ways and means of checking up on such a person and that the police took care of the rest.

Discussing the 2.7 per cent tax levied on the employer to pay for the insurance, he recommended that it be lowered to a 2.5 per cent tax as the surplus to pay for the insurance was already too large. He did not believe, however, that the tax should be shifted onto the worker, although he realized that in the end the worker as a consumer helped pay for the tax when the employer raised his prices.

At the end of the discussion, Mr. Evans, carrying on the informal tradition of the Seminar, laid himself open to questioning by the large audience present. Students of the college, Rosa Ellis, Virginia Taylor, John Dillard Betty Wood, and Walter Measday acting on the panel, lead the discussion. When the audience had spent itself the audience left in anticipation of the next Seminar to be held on February 15 and dealing with the National Labor Relations Act.

Dr. Henneman Leaves For Barnard College

Students and faculty alike were reluctant to see the popular Richard H. Henneman, assistant professor of psychology, leave to take a similar position at Barnard College, but best wishes are held for his continued success and advancement. Professor Henneman will teach an advanced experimental course at Barnard as well as conduct experimental research, his particular field. He continues to hold a contract with William and Mary and will return to teach at summer sessions in Williamsburg.

Dr. Henneman has been replaced by Professor William C. H. Prentice, former graduate assistant at Harvard, B. A. degree from Swarthmore College, Rhodes Scholar, and has studied under Professor Koehler who is the leading figure in the development of Gestalt psychology.
