Thesis Title:

If teams are so good: Science Teachers' Conceptions of Teams and Teamwork.

Supervisor:

Professor John Lidstone

Citation:

This research has produced an understanding of science teachers' lived experiences of teams and teamwork in departmentalised secondary schools in Queensland. As a result of this research, Dr. Smith concludes that there is currently a mismatch between the approved teacher professional standards and the lived experiences of science teachers and proposes that this situation may be ameliorated by the acknowledgement of teacher knowledge and skills within a team supportive policy and organisational framework in schools.
