- Discussion

General Overview

- Why a Scholarly Communications Committee?
- Why an Inventory?

Overview – All Questions

Overview – All Institutions

Question 1:

Does your library have an online repository for faculty research?

Question 2:

Does your library offer an eJournal publishing service?

Question 3:

Does your library offer an eBook publishing service?

Question 4:

Do you collect, publish, and preserve local research data sets? (e.g. numeric, geospatial)

Question 5:

Does your library preserve and make accessible conference proceedings and/or presentations?

Question 6:

Does your library have an Open Access Author's Fund?

Question 7:

Does your institution have an Open Access mandate?

Question 8a:

Which of the following educational or promotional activities are offered by your library?

- Maintain an OA guide on your web site

Question 8b:

Which of the following educational or promotional activities are offered by your library?

- Inclusion of OA journals in catalogue or other major discovery tool

Question 8c:

Which of the following educational or promotional activities are offered by your library?

- Offer sessions to faculty and or students on Open Access publishing

Question 8d:

Which of the following educational or promotional activities are offered by your library?

- Organize activities during Open Access week

Question 8e:

Which of the following educational or promotional activities are offered by your library?

- Promote the Directory of Open Access Journal, Creative Commons, or related services to researchers in your organization

Question 9:

Who has responsibility for Scholarly Communications activities at your library?

- Acadia, Dal, MSVU and MUN have librarians whose job titles/descriptions specifically include Scholarly Communications
- Other institutions either share the responsibility between a number of people – or else no one is doing this work in an official capacity

Question 10:

Of the Scholarly Communications services that are not yet offered at your library, which would you consider to be the most important priority for development?

- Top four:
  - Promotion
  - Research/digital repository
  - Data repository/data management
  - Advocacy

Question 11:

What are some of the challenges that your library faces in terms of developing your Scholarly Communications services?

Question 12:

Is there a role for CAUL-CBUA in helping your library to develop Scholarly Communications services?

Drill Down: Challenges and Opportunities

1. Research Repository
2. Open Journal Systems
3. Open Access Author's Fund

Challenges and Opportunities

Research Repository

IT Infrastructure

- OSS: Dspace (4) Islandora (1) Eprints (1)
- Local servers & backup
- Upgrades, patches, customizations
- Batch ingests

Content Recruitment

The phrase "if you build it, they will come" does not yet apply to IRs. While their benefits seem persuasive to institutions, IRs fail to appear compelling and useful to the authors and owners of the content.

Mount E-Commons

Welcome to the Mount Saint Vincent University (The Mount) E-Commons. The Mount E-Commons acts as an institutional repository and is a service of the Mount Library that collects, preserves, and distributes digital material. Institutional Repositories are important tools for preserving an organization's legacy; they facilitate digital preservation and scholarly communication.

Mount Saint Vincent University has an Open Access policy with regards to research produced by faculty, academic, and professional staff members, which can be viewed here

This site is organized into "Communities" and "Collections". Communities are usually departments with the Mount, and are often subdivided into "sub-communities," which feature the work of particular faculty members. Collections are a subcategories of Communities and may be divided along the lines of individual faculty members and their various, or more broader themes such as Mount theses and research projects such as the Social Economy Space. You can also do a full-text search of all of the items in the E-Commons.

The E-Commons is a space for a variety of scholarly and institutional output from the Mount and beyond. Our current content includes graduate theses, images from some of the Library's special collections, senate minutes, research project outputs (SE space) and faculty publications, among others.

Are you considering submitting to the E-Commons or want to know what it's all about?

Please review the guidelines and policies and/or contact us.

The image shows a screenshot of the Journal of New Brunswick Studies (JNBS/RÉNB) website. The page has a light beige background with a subtle circular pattern. On the left side, there is a navigation menu with links: HOME, ABOUT US, PEOPLE, CURRENT ISSUE, and DISCUSSION FORUM POLICY. The main content area features a large photograph of a cityscape, likely Fredericton, New Brunswick, with a prominent domed building. Below the photograph, the title 'JOURNAL OF NEW BRUNSWICK STUDIES' is displayed in a serif font. A paragraph of text describes the journal as a multi-disciplinary publication featuring original peer-reviewed research in both English and French, focusing on the cultural and social life of the province.

at the EDGE

At the Edge is a peer-reviewed, open access online journal that showcases the work of emerging scholars, particularly in the fields of eighteenth- and nineteenth-century literature and culture, or on Romanticism very broadly defined. At the Edge welcomes submissions from a wide variety of critical, theoretical, and interdisciplinary perspectives. In addition to essays that take more traditional approaches to literary and cultural research and writing, we strongly encourage innovative and creative forms of scholarly engagement that expand the genre of academic writing to reflect the changes and possibilities of publishing in a digital environment.

Survey Suggestions

- Regional data repository (Infrastructure)
  - Suggestions centered on a shared infrastructure
  - Does one institution want to coordinate this?
  - Should we go further and align goals/policies, divide up the work etc.?
- Institutional Repositories (Infrastructure)
  - Difficult to imagine harmonizing institutional goals & policies.
  - Coordinate on infrastructure?
  - Cooperate on metadata?

Survey Suggestions

- Preservation (Infrastructure)
  - Can CAUL help libraries cooperate on a regional preservation initiative such as LOCKSS?

Survey Suggestions

- Coordinating Open Access week activities for the region (Advocacy)
  - Would we be willing to cooperate on preparing and delivering a uniform message to the academic community from CAUL?
  - Are we more comfortable just networking on this and crafting our own messages?

Survey Suggestions

- Creating guides for librarians trying to establish research repositories (Information Sharing)
  - Networking or Coordinating (both?)
  - Suggestions from the survey focused on promotional tools and guides.

Discussion

- In terms of scholarly communications, do people view CAUL-CBUA as a networking and coordinating body or are there possibilities for more in-depth cooperation and collaborations?

Thank you!
