Trudeau Speaks

NO ELECTION THIS YEAR. TAXES CUT

OTTAWA (CP) - Prime Minister Trudeau promised Tuesday to cut federal income taxes and to wield a against hand government spending and hiring in an effort to stimulate the national economy.

Pledging to reveal specific new initiatives in coming weeks, Trudeau said the seriousness of the country's economic problems means there will not be a general election "at this time" indicating no election before next spring. The prime minister's nationally televised address follows the July 15-16 economic summit of leading industrial nations in Bonn, West Germany, where Trudeau promised to try to get five per cent real economic growth this year. The prime minister just returned Sunday night from holidaying in Morocco.

Trudeau outlined several steps that the government will take and said several cabinet ministers have been called back from holidays for meetings next week. Among the promises made by Trudeau are: -To cut $2 billion from current and planned federal spending that is estimated at nearly $50 billion in the current financial year.

-No growth in the civil service and an actual reduction in the number of federal civil servants next

-A hard stand against public service unions in wage negotiations and a promise that their salary increases will follow, not lead, those paid by private employers.

-Less government intervention in the economy, which Trudeau said means returning functions to the private sector", although he did not say what operations might change.

Finally, in his most specific promise, Trudeau said the Post Office will be made into a Crown corporation, rather than run as a federal department. Canadians are "increasingly fed up" with strikes in the change for some time. This will be the third time the government has tried to get a lagging national economy moving more strongly. In an October economic outline, small personal income tax reductions that lasted only throughout January and February were introduced. Then in a full

It is also disturbing that young people are not working, even though some are "too choosey", Trudeau said. And businessmen "who have had good profits this year" are not investing in job-creating projects. NEW PRIORITIES

It means there must be "a major re-ordering of government priorities" to create jobs, get more investment and look after senior citizens especially who are hurt by rising food and other prices, Trudeau said.

All the financing for the new policies still to be announced will come from "cutting from within", he promised, by slashing spending and government employment.

"These actions are necessary to meet the commitments given at Bonn, the prime minister added. He said he had received a

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday the trouble-ridden post office will be turned into a Crown corporation "so that once again Canadians will have efficient, businesslike postal service."

Trudeau said in a nationallytelevised speech that dealt mostly with the economy that "the situation in the post office is intolerable and has been for some time."

"Canadians are losing patience, they are increasingly fed up," he said. "So am I." Trudeau said that turning it into a Crown corporation would make the post office 'free from many of the constraints of a government department."

The idea of turning the post office into a Crown corporation, and thus operating it more like a business than as a heavilysubsidized government department is not a new one. It was proposed by Eric

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau, under fire some circles holidaying abroad when Queen Elizabeth arrived July 26 for her visit, paid a brief but warm tribute to her at the start of his national address Tuesday night.

Trudeau returned Sunday from a Morocco vacation following his participation in highlevel economic talks at Bonn and began his address with a reminder that he will be joining the Queen this week for the opening of the Commonwealth Games in Edmonton.

He added: " on behalf of us all how happy we are that Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, is once again able to visit our shores.

Crossed Mountie's mind that | Playing politics in Quebec pockets| office break-in was illegal OTTAWA (CP) — It crossed his mind before the event that RCMP plans to break into offices containing Parti Quebecois membership lists might be illegal, Robert Potvin told a royal commission into RCMP wrongdoings Tuesday.

But Potvin said he relied upon "the experience and discretion of my superiors" to see that he and other Mounties weren't called upon to do anything illegal.

1a.m. break-in, dubbed Operation Ham, took place Jan. 9, 1973. RCMP security service members took computer tapes containing the membership lists, had them copied, then returned the originals the same night.

Potvin, who later retired from the force, was senior NCO in the anti-terrorist unit at RCMP headquarters at the time. He participated in planning the operation.

He testified that he felt authority for the operation must have come from John Starnes, director-general of the RCMP Security Service said later the government at the time.

Furthermore, Potvin said, he believed "that in some advising the minister or people in the ministry" of plans for the operation.

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) — An old man tried frantically to stand as the Queen approached him.

It appeared for a while that the old gentleman wouldn't make it, as he got a few inches from his chair and fell back again. But in the nick of time he managed to get up and he tipped his well-worn grey hat in gallant style. A look of pure joy crossed his face when Her Majesty

12-day Canadian tour. LINE STREETS Only a handful of wellwishers greeted the Queen at the airport but thousands lined the streets of Grande Prairie, which has a population of 17,626. A small van packed with reporters and cameramen brought up the rear of the royal,motorcade. The crowd laughed at the the sardinecan sight, reminiscent of the old circus trick of cramming as many bodies as possible into a Volkswagen.

First stop here was a hospital where the Queen unveiled a plaque and turned the first sod at the site of a new medical building.

From there, the royal tour went to the Grande Prairie Regional College, where a band struck out and small majorettes went into a baton-touting routine. The Queen and Prince Philip went inside the college and watched the first act of a cultural show before going to a lunch with Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed.

Rondeau, 50, faces trial by Sessions Court Judge Louis Bouchard in connection with a Dec. 20, 1975, fire which partially destroyed a building he owned in nearby Bromont. Jean Bernier, 23, charged

Bernier said he had previously pleaded guilty to charges of fraud and municipal tax bill.

Rondeau pleaded not guilty in August, 1977, to the charges. The arson charge carries a maximum prison term of 14 years while the conspiracy charge is punishable by a maximum of

One of the sections to be sprayed, he said, is near an area where Nimpkish River meets Nimpkish Lake, the site of the proposed salmon project to be managed by the Nimpkish Indian band.

Is there an emergency or not?

It is Summer, as usual, in Canada. With our Prime Minister abroad - as are a number of our ministers. cabinet

In British Columbia, because of the beer workers' strike, hundreds of thousands of cases of beer are pouring in from the U.S. state of Washington - and millions of Canadian dollars thereby pouring out to the U.S.A.

Canadians, almost as though following the lead of their government officials, are likewise pouring into the U.S. and overseas, to the point where they are spending well over a billion dollars more than tourists are spending in

On our highways and in our garages are Japanese-made automobiles. On our rivers and lakes and ocean shores - thousands of Japanese outboard motors. On our snow-clad by-ways in Winter - the roar of Japanese snowmobiles almost deafens the skiers, more likely than not to be wearing Japanese-made skiis. The microwave oven in the kitchen, the transistor radio, the stereo system - as well as the television set likewise represents billions of Canadian dollars more poured into Japan than that country spends in Canada - thus we pile up trade deficits but, worse still, we export jobs that ought to be filled by Canadian men and women.

Those of our automobiles that are not Japanese most often are U.S. made Fords, GM, or American Motors. Despite the Autopact agreement with the U.S., we have learned the balance of dollars ends up with billions more work and come up with a low fuel consumption, Canadian dollars pouring into the States than vice versa.

These figures and these times are indicative, along with related statistics, that the Canadian economy is in a sorry state.

That vast one million unemployed - there is one statistic that can't be covered up, or buried under government "bread and circuses"! Another is the soaring rise in prices by at least ten per cent - but often much more that everyone seems to take as inevitable. - but makes our standard of living drop just so much more each

At a Terrace barber shop, one month this year, a haircut was $4. The next month it was $5. Just like that! By my reckoning, a 25 per cent jump. It took Canada almost 100 years to raise the price of a haircut to $1, but less than 30 years to raise it to four and only one month to jump it from $4 to

When will our government realize this country genuine emergency? facing a genuine emergency?
When will our politicians consider it their duty to level with the public - and tell them the days of lush living have to end - and end quickly! When will they reflect the severity of the situtation by curtailing their overseas holidays, taking salary cuts, putting clamps on the outward flow of Canadian dollars - except for investment purposes? When will they insist that Canadians get to alternate energy car it can make in Canada - out of Canadian steel, aluminum and plastics?

When will it turn to its own inventors for Canadian made planes, motorcycles, skidoos, radios, television, and other manufacturers some of which used to be among the world's

Can you imagine what would be the result if the Government was to say to its people: We shall give you five years to come up with an all-Canadian automobile with a consumption of 50 miles to the gallon, meeting pollution standards. After that, half of all cars sold in Canada will have to be Canadian. And within the next five years, 75 per cent!

If Japan wants to sell cars, radios, microwave ovens, etc., in Canada it should have to set up factories in Canada, hiring Canadian men and women to produce them. The same with U.S. products, such as shoes and clothing, and watches. Ditto the aviation industry, and the computer industry.

About fifteen years ago a Canadian scientist did a paper on the production and orbiting of a Canadian communications satellite. In it he proved such a satellite could be manufactured inCanada for far less cost than one in the United States. With modifications to the Rocket Research launching pads in Fort Churchill costing less than two and one half million dollars, he insisted, Canada could launch its own weather and communications satellites (such as ANIK) for a less than 2 million for the first, and subsequently lower costs for those after the first.

Yet, ANIK was launched in the U.S., at several times that amount - so have been all the other Canadian satellites that followed ANIK. This scientist (whom I knew, personally) stressed that what was more important than even the saving of millions of dollars, was the jobs that would be created in Canada, and the boon to the Canadian economy the "spin off" inventions and industries that would follow.

His paper was read, in Ottawa, received only scant acknowledgement from the National Research Council ... and ... like so many potentially great Canadians today he is probably working for the U.S. agency known the world over as N.A.S.A. (National Aeronautics and Space Administration.)

There is a "bottom line" to this story. A sad, sad, sad one.

This year, after 20 years of pioneering space techniques and upper atmosphere studies, the elaborate, sophisticated, computer-equipped and space age installation at Fort Churchill, that cost tens of millions of dollars to construct, which even has its own boreal observatory - is being closed down.

And I haven't heard a single word of protest raised by a single major Canadian politician, or a single Canadian newspaper.

Except this one!

In recent weeks there has been considerable comment over disagreements between the federal and provincial governments about the sharing of revenue from Loto Canada - particularly its new $1 lottery game. Unfortunately some of the statements which have been made have been misleading and quite inaccurate.

LEGAL IN 1969

By way of background I should explain that lotteries in Canada were not legal until 1969. At that time legislation passed by the federal government allowed the operation of both a national lottery (which has become Loto Canada) and smaller lotteries operating under the jurisdiction of provincial governments. There is no question that, from the start, both levels of government have been involved in the lottery field.

As you may recall, Loto Canada was initially introduced (as the Olympic Lottery) to allow Canadians - on a voluntary basis - to assist in the financing of the 1976 Olympic Games and the 1978 Commonwealth Games, which start August 3 in Edmonton. Revenues from Loto Canada sales have been distributed according to a formula which was agreed to by all ten provinces

Under this formula, 82.5 percent of net revenues go towards the costs of 1976 Olympics and 1978 Commonwealth Games; 12.5 percent of net revenues are returned to the provincial governments; and 5 percent is given to the federal government's Fitness and Amateur Sport Branch.

B.C. BENEFITS

To date, the Province of B.C. has received over $1,119,000 from Loto Canada, for use as the government secs provincial

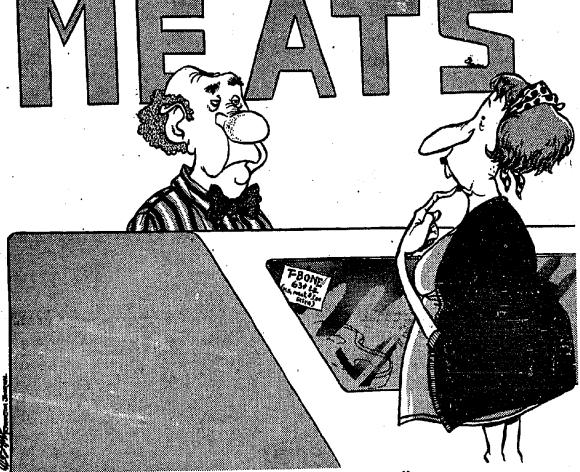

This funding formula expires at the end of 1979, when the federal government's commitments to the Olympic and Commonwealth Games will have been fulfilled. There have been some reports that Loto Canada itself was to have ceased operation at the end of 1979. This is not the case, and the federal government has never stated that Loto Canada would cease to exist at the end of 1979.

REVENUE-SHARING

The question of a new Loto Canada revenuesharing formula was raised at a recent federalprovincial Lotteries Conference, and is one which I, in my capacity as Minister responsible for Loto Canada, hope to resolve in my discussions with my provincial counter-parts. At the present time there is not agreement on the subject, and I think it is safe to say that this disagreement is at the root of much of the current contraversy. (The proposal I have given to my provincial counterparts, though, offers them up to half of Loto Canada's net revenue).

I am fully aware of the widespread concern based on some regretably inaccurate statements - that Loto Canada's new game, because it is operated on a computer terminal basis and does not require "salesmen", will reduce the amount of commission revenue available to volunteer organizations in our province. Market surveys. however, indicate this is not the case, and that the new game will not have a major impact on sales of these other lotteries.

In addition, Loto Canada fully recognizes the invaluable community role played by volunteer organizations and service clubs, and is currently finalizing plans which will provide them with extra revenue, as a result of the new Loto Canada game.

"I just came in to get an estimate."

CYCLING 100 YEARS LATER

The Eleventh British Commonwealth Games are being held, as everyone knows, in Edmonton, Alberta this August - and probably one of the most exciting events will be cycling.

Coinciding with the Games will be a set of four stamps featuring cycling and being issued by the British Post Office.

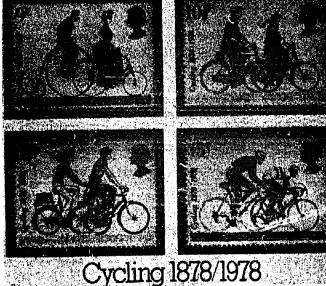

Cycling is a pleasure, a sport and a way of transport as the British Post Office's special series of stamp show. The four stamps show the penny-farthing (9p), a 1920 tourer (10½p), a modern small-wheel bicycle (11p) and the latest style road-racer (13p). A hundred years ago, cycle fans had to be tough, adventurous, athletic and probably male. In those early cycling days, life was precarious. Perched high on their penny-farthings, five feet above the ground, cyclists frequently fell from their top-heavy machines. In 1878, top riders covered 200 miles in 24 hours; today's record is 500 miles in 24 hours. Where yesterday's cyclists lumbered and trundled, today's riders can reach speeds of 60 mph on their super light-weight

The penny-farthing grew from the hobby-horse of the "jockey" whose 1790s straddled a beam coupled with two wooden wheels and walked along with great, exaggerated strides.

Every last Canadian incarcerated in an American federal penitentiary is coming home, all 80 of them. But only 35 of 230 Americans held in Canadian federal prisons want to go

And Boss Ballard wasn't entirely joking, even if Millhaven is supposed to be Canada's biggest "Big House," home of the toughest of the tough.

So of course, taking into consideration the quality and comfort of the accomfort of the ac-commodation, the table d'hote dining, the splendid recreational facilities, easy parole and all the privileges, only 35 of 230 Americans are willing to forsake the good life for time in tougher prisons back home.

East's best and West's worst

By THE CANADIAN PRESS respect for Weir, who rence, a final cut of the The Canadian Football League features two battles tonight, one for the temporary title of best in the east and the other quite possibly for worst in the west.

Toronto Argonauts, beaten 30-23 two weeks ago in Montreal, make a home stand against the Alouettes. Both teams have 2-1 records to co-lead the Eastern Conference.

In Winnipeg, both Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders will be trying for a first win to lift them out of the Western Conference cellar.

Argo offensive guard Stew Francis, who faced defensive tackle Glen Weir in the earlier contest, admits his effort was "medium".

"But I don't think we were intimidated or that they took any psychological advantage over us. I think we proved something by hanging in there and even with all the problems we had early in the game, we still had a chance to win.

The strikeout was the last out of the game in a 16-4 loss to the Braves.

The 37-year-old Reds' captain, who had captured the attention of the nation's sports fans with the second longest hitting streak in baseball history, was cheered loudly by an Atlanta crowd of 31,159, which stayed after the game chanting "Pete, Pete, Pete" until Rose returned from the clubhouse.

Holes still open in outhouse race

By Jim Morris

If you've got an old outhouse you don't know what to do with, why don't you race it this weekend in the annual outhouse races at Lakelse Lake?

According to Samuel Smith, a member of the race sponsor Lakelse Lake Lions, only a few entries have been received. He adds you can enter a boat right up to the time of the race.

'Oh yes. Right up to the last minute. Anybody can build one and bring it down." The rules for the con-struction of the boats are simple says Smith.

All you have to do is put an outhouse on a homemade base such as a raft. pontoon or float. The outhouse must be three feet by three feet wide and six feet high. It must be enclosed on three sides, except for windows, and have a roof. Any number of neonle can ride on the boat during the race, but Smith says one would be best.

To power the craft you can have up to a ten horse power motor. All racers must wear life jackets. Smith says no course has been determined for the race, but it will cover about one mile on Lakelse Lake at Oli's beach. Race time is set for 1 p.m. The race organizers will try and keep the faster boats and those with souped-up motors together and have them run in a race by themselves says Smith. Prizes will consist of cameras, lanterns and camping gear plus a special award for the funniest boat. The Lions would like to see twenty or thirty boats in this years race adds Smith. "Anywhere from ten up.

TORONTO (CP) - The federal government should recall Parliament immediately and introduce budgetary measures to improve Canada's economy, says Sinclair Stevens, Progressive Conservative finance critic.

Stevens said in an in-Sunday Parliament cannot afford to wait until Oct. 10 when the summer recess ends to tackle a slow economy and high unemployment.

"It is urgent that something be done now," he said. "There is no way government should stay on its holidays.'' said economists are forecasting economic growth at less than three per cent, an indication that Canadians will face "the worst winter on record."

THE KANGAROO LEAPS FORTH

James Cook's leadership qualities were never more apparent than when the "Endeavour" sailed slowly up Australia's west coast in May 1770. It was a tedious time.

Cook was troubled by the hazing incident involving his clerk, Orton. The unfortunate man had his clothes cut off while he was drunk and Cook regarded the episode as an indication of possible morale problems aboard ship. However, he was not to be deterred. His mapping of the coast continued. He selected names for almost every inlet and Water poured in "at an alarming rate". Fifty tons of guns, ballast, casks and other articles were thrown overboard. When the tide rose at dawn, it was still insufficient to float the vessel. Banks noted in his diary that there was no panic. The crew worked "with surprising cheerfulness and alacrity, with no grumbling or growling to be heard-no, not even an oath. though the ship in general was as well furnished with them as most in His Majesty's service."

Their efforts paid off.

Wives Worry About Husbands' Weekend

By Abigail Van Buren o 1978 by Chicago Tribuna-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This year, as in previous years, my husband has invited his sales team to our mountain cabin for a weekend of fishing.

This year, unlike previous years, his sales team now loved includes a young, unmarried woman who happens to be happe very attractive. (All the men are married and later. middle-aged.)

Abby, would you believe that some of the wives are making a big fuss because they feel that it is improper for a single girl to sleep under the same roof with their enough, you can gain some husbands?

All the wives respect your opinion, so please tell us what you think.

DEAR WIFE: The woman member of the sales team is entitled to the same benefits as the men. If your husband excludes her in deference to nervous wives, he'll be guilty CANCER of sexist discrimination. So relax. It's a new, new world,

DEAR ABBY: I have a sister-in-law who really turns me on. I know it's not love, it's just a physical attraction. Every time she touches me unintentionally, I go up the

My problem is I don't know if I should go ahead and try something or just lay back. If I lay back I'll go crazy, and if I go ahead, I run the risk of having her refuse and then telling my brother, and I sure don't want that.
What should I do? I am 16.

DEAR CONFUSED: Lay back. Lay WAY back. And in self-defense, do your best to remain untouchable.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for six years and it seems like 60. We have three beautiful children, 5, 3 and 13 months old. My husband is a steady worker, he makes a good salary, and he doesn't drink or run around. Those are his good qualities. But when he comes home, he always greets our children with a slap in the mouth. He always finds some excuse to hit one of them. He uses me as a punching bag if he feels like it, too.

He tells the kids, "Don't touch the car. It's MINE!" (Everything is HIS.) He doesn't talk, he yells.

The kids are scared to death of him and so am I. He hasn't taken me anywhere in two years. I begged him to go to the priest with me, but he refuses. He says if the priest comes here he'll throw him out. He won't take me to SCORPIO church so I pray at home, but I have to hide when I pray or (Oct. 24 to he'll say I'm cracking up. Maybe I am. Am I?

DEAR WORRIED: A physician can tell you if you're "cracking up." See one immediately. Tell him what's bothering you, and if he prescribes counseling, by all means go. If your community doesn't offer a refuge for battered wives and abused children, they should have one. You don't need your husband's permission to see a priest. And if you continue to live with this abusive man,
