Fire forces hospital in Montreal to evacuate 250

MONTREAL (UPC) -About 250 patients were escorted safely from Notre Dame Hospital in the largest evacuation in city history Friday because of choking, black smoke that spread through the eight-story building from a small fire in the sub-basement.
More than half the Montreal fire department rushed to the hospital and within two hours they had the fire contained in the sterilization section in the sub-basement next to the kitchen.

The blaze in one of Quebec's largest hospitals was reported at 6:36 a.m. EDT and within minutes an evacuation began of the top three floors because of the suffocating smoke curling upwards through the ventilation system.

Fleets of buses and ambulances converged on Notre Dame Hospital from across the city. About 250 patients, some of whom had undergone heart surgery Thursday, were taken to other Montreal hospitals: Hundreds of other patients were moved to other wings of throughout the hospital.

Notre Dame ahead of the

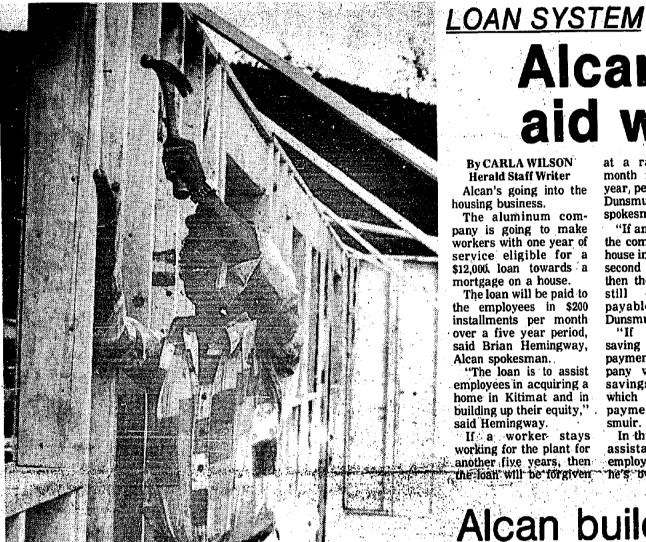

"Everyone was calm and did what they had to do,' hospital spokesman Jacques Charbonneau said. "Every member of our staff was here and everyone did their job exceptionally well. It was an exceptional thing to see."

Charbonneau said the first priority was to evacuate the critically ill patients. "We started by moving people from the critical ward out the building and by moving other patients from the eighth floor down to the sixth Charbonneau estimated 250 patients were taken to other hospitals, where they were expected to remain for a few days. Several hundred others were moved to other wards of the massive Notre Dame Hospital complex.

Fire department deputydirector Reg Campeau said the hospital patients were never actually threatened by the flames. "The problem was the smoke pervading

The Malouf report, named after inquiry chief Superior Court Justice Albert Malouf, will also probably attempt to establish the cause of the $2 billion overrun in the Montreal Games.

The Montreal Olympics project was originally budgeted at $300 million but the final cost soared to an estimated $2.3 billion, nearly eight times higher than the original estimate.

'My report will be given to Quebec cabinet the tomorrow (Friday) and I expect they will study it over the weekend," said Justice Malouf, dubbed "The Sphynx" because of the stoic manner in which he headed the 34-month, $3.4 million

Malouf, along with commission counsel Jacques Dagenais, Francois Beaudoin and Gilles Trudel, were given a mandate in 1977 to find the cause of the costoverrun, who was respon-sible for it, and to recommend ways of preventing recurrences and recovery of as much of the money as possible. Speculation on the report is that Malouf will probably recommend more detailed scrutiny before municipal contracts are awarded and a greater degree of bublic

Malouf would recommend that citizens be allowed to meetings and be allowed to ask questions 'during a special question period open

Another possibility is that Malouf will recommend legislation allowing the Quebec government the final right of approval over expenditures which go beyond normal municipal activities.

of six major amendments made to the Residential Tenancy Act which was introduced in the legislature recently by Jim Nielsen, minister of consumer and corporate affairs.

'A rent increase limit which is less than the rate of inflation does not reflect increases in operating costs and has the effect of reducing the real price of renting," said Nielsen.

'This in turn artificially increases demand and compounds our existing rental shortage problem.' The rent increase limit may be varied in the future to reflect the prevailing effect of inflation. Permanent occupants of hotels, motels, and lodging houses with more than two months residency will be protected under the new amendments.

"These tenants may now enjoy a reasonable living standard without the fear of eviction or excessive rent increases," said Nielsen.

At the same time, operators of these buildings will be able to collect security deposits. Also rent

The Sunday Night Big Event on channel 2 features The Great Smokey Road Block. Henry Fonda stars as a truck driver nearing retirement who steals back his 'rig' and heads across the country with a madan, and five of her girls in tow. Sounds a little bit like a comedy, a little bit like drama. Should be interesting for light television viewing.

Although the Monday night movie on BCTV and NBC have slightly different titles, they feature the same plot and the same actors. Therefore I can draw no conclusion other than they are showing the same movies again. NBC's 9 p.m. movie entitled Secrets of Three Hungry Wives stars James Franciscus, Jessica Walter, Gretchen Corbett, Heather MacRae, Craig Stevens, Eva Plumb, Stevens, Raymond St. Jacques and John Riley. This drama is centred around three suburban housewives who are prime suspects in the slaying of a notorious playboy who was blackmailing each of them. Entitled Secrets of Three Wives on BCTV, it also airs at 9 p.m.

The only other movie feature this week is on Thursday at 9 p.m. on NBC and is entitled Amateur Night at the Dixie Bar and Grill. This world premiere drama delves into the behind-the-scenes lives of some of the contestants at Dixie's.

This week Look at Me examines how parents discipline their children. Airing Sunday at 5 p.m. on KCTS Discipline Your Children emphasizes that the key to understanding is that the best discipline comes from inside someone, from inside your child. This program discusses the problem of children's temper tantrums, toilet training, and teaching right from wrong.

Henry Fonda narrates The World of the Beaver, a survival wildlife documentary which couple information and close-up photography of the life of the North American Beaver.

This special airs Saturday at offers information that varies from light-hearted (beavers hate ice and snow because their web feet can't get a grip) to the critical (the dams they build stop up streams so that ponds and mini-ecosystems will be created by the flood waters). The photography is spectacular and includes some of the beavers' enemies including pumas, otters and some fascinating close-ups of a grizzly as well as many of the animals with which they live in perfect harmony. This should definitely be on your list of things to watch and especially if you have westerns this week. Gary Up, airing Saturday at 3:30 Cooper stars in High Noon as p.m. on channel 9, and a retired marshal who has learned a killer he had sent to jail will return to town to seek revenge. High Noon is rated as one of the most suspenseful and thrilling gunfights ever filmed. This classic airs on channel 9 Saturday at 8 p.m. Really, if you only watch one show this week, try and catch this one. Cooper stars in another western movie, a Samuel Goldwyn production, entitled The Westerner This classic story tells the tale of the violent days of the old west. Cole Harden (Cooper) is a wandering cowboy and becomes involved in the fight between the cattlemen and the homesteaders for control of West Texas. This airs on channel 9 at 10 p.m. Satur-

If you enjoyed these westerns mentioned above, you can also enjoy the behind-the-scenes filming of movie making. It explores different facets of western movies including tough marshals and heroic acts, to The World of the Beaver the ranch and the real life cowboy. Watch this on KCTS at 11:40 p.m. Thursday.

Cooper, in a totally different role, is examined in the production of The Pride of the Yankees airing on channel 9 Thursday at 9:05

Cooper plays the great Lou Gehrig, world famous athlete, who has become a symbol of American sportsmanship. This saga brings you behind the scenes and on the diamond in the world of professional baseball.

Hopes are fading for mountain's 35

By LARRY ROBERTS
VANCOUVER, Wash.
(UPI) — There are 35 known deaths from the violent Mount St. Helens' eruption and with hopes fading for 42 others still listed as missing, authorities have halted further aerial searches.

"To be realistic, there are no more bodies being found," said Lewis County Sheriff Bill Wiester at a news conference at search headquarters in Toledo, Wash., Thursday. "What we're worried about is having one of the choppers crash and kill four or five people. It's just not worth that risk. If there was any sign of life still up there, then they would land on the edge of the crater if they had

In 12 days of the helicopters' crossing and recrossing of 600 square miles in 550 missions, crews rescued 197 people including one who later died of burns, recovered 21 bodies and pinpointed at least another dozen death sites where victims were presumed buried under volcanic ash and mud.

The byelection for the seat on School District 88's board of trustees is this Saturday.

The election is important for more than the usual reasons. Certainly it is important for you to get out and vote for the candidate of your choice. Even though the person who is elected will only sit until November, the person voted in will have a say in how your children are educated. Regardless of what the candidates say about how they are only one voice on the board, they will have a voice and even one person can be heard and make changes if necessary.

More important though is that the board will be looking at this election as they make their decision on whether or not to cut the number of trustees from nine to seven.

A poor turnout at the polls Saturday will mean the board can demonstrate a lack of interest and difficulty filling seats here. Cutting the number of seats on the board means that even the one voice you are electing Saturday won't be there to be heard after November.

EDITOR'S JOURNAL

by GREG MIDDLETON

Sometimes you wonder. In a letter to the organizers of a film festival and series of seminars here on the topic of human rights, Frank Hamilton, the superintendent of schools for School District 88 questions the benefits of such an

In Hamilton's somewhat obtuse letter, Hamilton says, the board's decision was made because the board has not seen the films and "the educational benefits of teaching values and human rights to a situation."

Well, the organizers of the event are furious. They are angry partly because they offered the board input and a chance to see the films before they were shown, and because the plan was not to show the films to all 700 junior and senior high school students but a selected few top students who could afford to miss a couple of hours of class time.

The board seems to have missed this point.

The organizers of the film and talk festival, who are representatives of the local women's centre, the United Nations club and some local teachers, just about split a gut at Hamilton's inference that an attempt, even if it is to 700 students at once, might not have any benefits.

One of the teachers cite racist attitudes among both local teachers as well as students. Martin Stead, who is leaving here to go and spend a couple of years teaching for Canadian University Students Overseas, says he has been deluged by a barrage of out and out racist jokes since it became common knowledge he is going overseas.

He finds the board's position that they would have to vet the films somewhat unusual. The board does not demand to see every film a teacher uses.

Stead, who says he is "used to being treated as a professional" figures the board is stepping out of line and denying the professionalism he and the other teachers are bringing to this event.

Stead comments that you can't educate the parents and that this film festival wouldn't end racist and sexist attitudes among students here but it is a start. The program was to be handled gently and was to help get a few people thinking. Frances Birdsell, who made the presentation to the board, says she made the offer of allowing board members to see the films, some from the International Development and Educational Research Association, others from the provincial government's Educational Media Centre and possibly some from the B.C. Teachers Federation and the National Film Board.

She says this was ignored. And what does the board say? The chairman of the board, Jack Cook, feels the reasons for not endorsing the program were valid. He added that the proposal was "sprung on us" and says the board has parents to consider. "It's pretty controversial stuff," Cook told me in a telephone interview.

And there you have it. The board appears more concerned about a bit of possible flack from some racist parents than in teaching some human values and a little about human rights to the students here.

Speaking of values, Laverne Hislop should take note in her campaign pledge to further Christian values in the school that this is forcing her religion down the throats of the children of Buddhists, Moslems, Jews, Sikhs, Mormons, and athiests, as well as the agnostics and Bahais. Pretty offensive stuff.

MP REPORTS

Comments from Parliament

By JIM FULTON

For years federal governments have treated housing not as a basic social need but rather as a tool to pump up or slow down the economy. We are trained to see housing starts as one of the indicators of our economy and by the same token one of the means by which government can influence economic stability.

Currently, with the government bent on restraint to cool down inflation, we have excessively high interest rates - about 15.5 per cent which depress housing starts, force construction workers onto unemployment rolls, keep potential homebuyers out of the housing market. They also force existing homeowners, faced with renewing mortgages at four to nine per cent higher than they are currently paying, into foreclosure.

Instead of cooling down inflation in the housing market, that is reducing prices, the effect is that the rates and mortgages, our governments should be ready to take some initiatives. At a time of high unemployment in both construction and the lumber industry, what would make more sense than massive housing starts throughout B.C.? In the Northwest it is easy to see the need and the potential for action. This must be a priority for every level of government.

Now we are being told, by the bankers, that the fact that interest rates were at 17.5 per cent has been beneficial, that the "inflation psychology," our expectation that incomes and prices will continue to go

Does this mean we have adjusted our expectations per cent, the 14% per cent rate looks good.

It is not spoken aloud too often, but at 14% per cent on a loan of $50,000 over 25 years, the borrower will pay back more than three times the principal of his loan - $184,200. If he renews at a higher rate after five years, of course he will pay even more than that.

Taxes. Collect and spend them. The books may be wildly out of balance - as they have been now for years - with the spending far outrunning the collecting.

When the unbalance runs into the billions, as it invariably does, the economy goes into a tailspin and the dollar takes a tumble. Up to that time, when it become personal, and the long-suffering taxpayer feels the pain of higher and higher prices in his pocketbook, it has been the government's business and responsibility.

Billions are beyond the comprehension of the average work-a-day Canadian, so let Pierre Trudeau and Company worry about it.

But when high-flying dollars in their multiple-zero totals descend from those head stratospheric heights of the billions, the taxpayers begin catching on, taking an interest and even working up a sweat.

Long experience has shown that the government can work in peace with its multi-billion sums — it's when the arthmetic gets down into the smaller, easily understandable levels that it gets into difficulties.

In short, could the job be soundly rationalized, even partially justified in either city?

So bless them, Treasury board, which is supposed to oversee the sensible spending of your tax-dollars, investigated.

These points were determined.

1. No Fisheries Department or Treasury Board rules had been bent, much less broken.

2. No cost analysis had been done between bringing Ms. Kate Glover to Ottawa on an "extended travel", status" at an extra $7,600 for seven months, or simply moving her out of Vancouver permanently.

Excellent and controversial movies are featured in Terrace this week as Luna and Coal Miner's Daughter make their northwest rounds. The Bugs Bunny-

Roadrunner Movie finishes the weekend at the Tillicum in Terrace, for all the children young and old. Bugs has always been the best cartoon around, with the old flicks from the 40's still making the new Grape Ape-Scoobydoo Saturday morning fare look like kindergarten art with their terrible plots and horrendous animation.

Bugs Bunny ends Saturday to make room for Luna, Jill Clayburgh's Italian movie about incest and other family games.

Luna, played by Clayburgh during her hot year last year when she was nominated for an Academy Award for An Unmarried Woman, is an opera singer with an emotional problem and a problem child to make things worse. Her son is a heroin addict and when she finds this out, she goes to great lengths to try to heal

There are some rather frank incest scenes, and Bernardo Bertolucci's direction of the film is rather slow. Without meaning to be facetious, Luna isn't for the whole family. Not only will the kids not understand what's going on, but they'll be bored as well.

Terrace is no renter's paradise

By GAIL DOTINGA Herald Staff Writer

If you're looking for a place to rent in town, good luck.

And you'll need lots of it with the vacancy rate at zero per cent.

Most apartment managers in town have waiting, lists of people wanting to get in, one's list is three months long. A check with landlords in town shows few prospects of getting in at the end of this month. The turnover is so low that one manager of 'a large apartment received no notices of tenants moving out in May.

Where vacancies, most people feel the rent is too high. One of the newer apartment buildings in Terrace has vacancies but charges over $300 a month for a one bedroom suite. "I'm not having a hard time filling the suites, a lot of people come by and say they'll think about it because they feel the rent is too high," said the manager.

"Landlords don't seem be fussy about prospective tenants. they'll pick the first one with a cheque in its hand." said

Cousins, project manager with Community Living

The people that are being turned the most or having the hardest time appears to be those with children.

"Landlords don't seem to want the noise or else they are scared that the place will get wrecked, noted Cousins. It's also hard for families to find a place to rent that is large enough. In most instances once a place is found the rent is too high.

"Especially for those with lower incomes, they finally tind a place but can't afford the rent and they're back at square

POPULATION GROWTH ONE OF THE REASONS

Why is Terrace in this mess?

It's a question municipal planner, John Mc-Nairnay, has been trying to answer himself. He points to several reasons that he feels have caused the present tight rental situation.

Small increases in staff by government offices and businesses over the past several years have been responsible for some of the increasing demand for housing. The Kitsault mine reopening has also has an impact on Terrace:

"The population has just continued to grow," McNairnay said. "Two years ago we had a 40 per cent vacancy rate but these small increases in staff and overall population have brought it down to zero per cent.'

"There's not much the city can do, we have land zoned for high density and that's about all added McNairnay. do," we can However, a local developer feels there is not enough land zoned for high density.

"Most of what is zoned for apartments is area built up with standard housing, making it very expensive to buy," he said. "Also, you're destroying good housing.'

Currently the developer is in the process of getting land rezoned for an apartment he wants to build.

Another problem the developer raises is that it. is too costly to build rental units, the returns are not profitable for that type of investment. His units will be luxury apartments because he feels it's the only way to make money in the rental

Others in the business agree that apartments buildings are not good investments due to the high interest rates and the rising cost of construction.

According to one realtor, building rental units are also discouraged by the government.

There are too many rules and regulations favoring the tenants, no one wants to put up with that hassle," said A.J. McColl.

Record price is paid for painting

NEW YORK (UPI) - Five bidders took less than seven Sotheby Parke Bernet minutes to run the price of a auction house said the 19th-century painting from an opening $500,000 to a record $6.4 million.

The price paid Thursday for #Juliet and Her Nurse! by British artist J.M.W. Turner was almost $1 million more than has ever been paid for a work of art.

A spokeswoman for the painting was bought by an unidentified person about 61/2 minutes after the bidding opened ::

Business in the housing market has been described as brisk by realtors in town. "There's a bit of a shortage but buyers still have a fair selection to look at. sald A.J. McColl, a local

"The market is especially good for used homes," added Stan Parker, publicity agent for the Northwest Real Estate Board.

The average price of a house in town is around $70,000 but prices range from $30,000 to $130,000.

'It'll keep going up too, we're now starting to see houses selling for over. $100,000 in Terrace," added

Although the demand is there it does not appear that it will be supplied by construction of new houses. Building permits for residential dwellings are up from last year but not by

"It's certainly no record year," said one city hall

Several contractors in town report business is average in fact one even had less work than last year in residential building.

"There is always the need for houses but people just can't afford them," said contractor, Dave McKeown.

In an attempt to reduce the cost of housing some people have turned to pre-fab homes. Last year Omineca Building Supplies sold approximately five pre-fab homes, this year they've sold eight and expect to double that number before the year

SINGLES, POOR ARE HIT HARDEST

Her place is noisy, roughly finished and there is little space to store her belongings. She uses her own fridge and stove because the ones in the suite barely function. Judy Cousins' situation is similar to many others, you take what you can get, however inadequate, because you may not find another place. With a zero per cent vacancy rate, there just isn't a choice.

Most of these people in the meantime keep looking for another place, either one with cheaper rent or one that's more comfortable.

Judy is no exception. Right now there are no prospects till the end of June when the teachers move," she said. "I know of one lady who looked hard for six weeks before she found a place." Another couple who have been living in a small, one bedroom suite and paying close, to $300 for it, have been trying to find another place for six months.

For people on limited incomes there can be enormous stress and frustration from not being able to compete in the housing market.

"If people are forced to live in crowded and inadequate conditions, naturally it will add stress which could lead to other family problems," said Richard Voss, director of the Mental Health Center. Terrace "In these type of situations it's always the poor MESS's Paul Squazzin was sixth in the triple jump. Ross Dickie took fourth in the javelin, while John Amos tossed the discus for a fifth place.

In the juvenile girls category, Skeena's relay teams took seconds in both the 4x100 and 4x400 events, with Debbie Schaeffer of Skeena taking fourths in both the 100 and 200 metre races and Hanna Thornton coming into the meet unheralded and winning the 400.

Juvenile boys aggregate winner Marc Ringuette won both the long jump and high jump, was second in the 200 metres and third in the 100.

Gary Moen won both the 400 and 800 metres handily. Rob Cooper finished second behind Caledonia teammate Ringuette in the triple jump.

Kitimat's Dave Tomaz had a fine day on the field, winning both the shot put and the discus. Cal's Blaine Dennill won the javelin.

The northwest zone team leaves next Thursday for the B.C. provincial meet in Vancouver.

Brett leads all-stars

BOB WELCH...

Third baseman George Brett of the Kansas City Royals and outfielder Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees are the only members of winning teams among the eight leaders in the American League's All-Star balloting announced Friday by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The first returns show Brett with 269,919 votes for third base and a substantial lead over second-place Graig Nettles of the Yankees, who has 155,385 votes. Carney Lansford of the California Angels ranks third with 135.547 votes.

Celtics, Jabbar clean up

LOS ANGELES (UPI) -Larry Bird had a landslide Earvin victory over Earvin "Magic" Johnson of the Los over Angeles Lakers in the NBA's Rookie of the Year balloting, but the star of the Boston

Celtics had no comment.
Instead of appearing in Los Angeles to accept the award Thursday, Bird was in Florida at a Boy Scout meeting. But as far as opposing players were con-cerned, it was consistent. Bird was always in the wrong place, all season.

Bird led the Boston parade, with Bill Fitch copping Coach of the Year honors and Red Auerbach being named Executive of the Year. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the world champion Los Angeles Lakers prevented a Celtics' sweep with an un-precedented sixth Most Valuable Player award, surpassing the previous record of five MVPs won by the Celtics' Bill Russell.

Local artists chosen for show

By SINA QUEYRAS Herald Staff Writer

Local artists Dave Comfort and Jan McLeod recently had works chosen for a traveling Art

Comfort entered two paintings and both were accepted with praise for technique and composition. The titles of is paintings are 'Ladyslipper and Stump" and "Mushrooms and Mapleleafs.

Comfort is mainly concerned with drawing from nature, and spends a great deal of his time photographing and drawing birds, animals and landscapes. He has had previous exhibits in Terrace which have been successful, and is now lithograph and etching. These will be on display at a proposed exhibit this

McLeod entered some porcelain work and landscapes on plates, and her plates were selected for the exhibit. She had been doing some work in stoneware and is now back to doing porcelain. Her works will be on display with Comfort's this fall.

The traveling skhibit is called North By Northwest, and it is made up of B.C. artworks. The . exhibit will spend a year traveling around to the small towns of B.C., starting in Prince George and ending in Kitimat. It will be in Terrace planning to do some sometime next May.

Revivals making theatre rounds may be 1980, but Broadway these days has a flavor that recalls 1943, 1954 or 1957.

The last three are the years the musicals Oklahoma, Peter Pan and West Side Story premiered

All have returned now, and five more revivals are planned: Music Man (1957), Brigadoon (1947), Can-Can (1953); My Fair Lady (1956) and Camelot (1960).

True, 12 somewhat more modern musicals also are running, ranging from the brand-new Reggae to the senior-grade Ohi Calcutta! that first bared its cast to New York audiences in 1969.

Does all this mean Broadway is stagnating, retreating to the past, afraid to gamble the $1-million-plus it costs to put on a musical, playing it safe with the golden oldies?

No, says producer Zev Bufman. He thinks Broadway is in "sort of a holding pattern" while it prepares to loose what he feels will be an explosion of new musicals and plays next season.

Oklahoma, Peter Pan and West Side Story. And he'll revive Brigadoon

He offers no apologies for bringing back the vintage hits. He thinks they're as Shakespearean plays. He feels there has been a temporary, but severe, shortage of new musicals that could fill theatres: "That's why I've resorted to the classics.'

Bufman, 49, a former Israeli commando who emigrated to the U.S. about 25 years ago and now lives here and in Miami, got a start in showbusiness through a Hollywood bond rally for Israel. He was asked to address the rally, not realizing that many of the 600 people present were influential film folk.

His speech, in a Jewish accent he's since lost, led to a minor acting job in the adventure epic called Flight to Tangiers.

He began easing out of acting and into producing in

He says he's working on a deal to give revivals a permanent New York home at the midtown City Centre. He hopes that operation can start in December.

If all goes well, he says, he'll revive three major Buiman is co-producer of musicals a year, each three hit revivals, which he running 10 weeks and supprefers to call classics — ported by subscription. The idea is to make the City Centre "a musical theatre library.

He's involved in this project, he says, because by December "I think we'll have reached a saturation point as far as filling 10 houses with classics on Broadway.

"So we'll pull back and work mostly out of one theatre, at City Centre. I also feel there's now enough new material collecting, new Broadway shows, that the other theatres will be

B.C. Ferries proudly introduces the M.V. Queen of the North"

Scheduled service from Prince Rupert commences Saturday, May 31st

THE SHIP. Our new "Inside Passage" vessel the M.V. "Queen of the North" has been completely refurbished from stem to stern. At over 8,000 gross tons, she provides far greater carrying capacity than the "Queen of Prince Rupert" which formerly plied this route:

Staterooms on three decks provide accommodation for passengers during the overnight, 20-hour cruise. In addition to these, airline-style recliner seats have been installed on the spacious promenade deck for daytime or overnight travel comfort. Other improvements for passengers are larger view lounges, the Chartroom Cinema and, just for children, Captain Kids' play area.

THE TRIP. Every British Columbian, sometime, must see the full extent of their own magnificent coastline. Those who already have, never tire of it. This year why not you?

The "Queen of the North" sails year 'round between Port Hardy, at the north end of Vancouver island and Prince Rupert, our gateway to Alaska and the Queen Charlotte Islands, From October through May, her southern terminus is Vancouver. Frequent weekly stops, both north and southbound, are made at Bella Bella and Ocean Falls.

SCHEDULE. During the summer, departures are on alternate days from Prince Rupert and Port Hardy. In the off-season period from October through May, the ship makes two round trips a week from Tsawwassen and

RESERVATIONS for staterooms and vehicles are strongly recommended. When making reservations, please be prepared to give full particulars on the make-up of your party, size and type of vehicle and alternate departure

20,000 Americans to GI'S: "We Think of You" By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A great big thank you from all the soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines in the U.S. Forces in Koreal You have helped to relieve the loneliness of over 20,000 military personnel stationed in Korea by providing them with a glimpse of home through a stranger's eyes. It all began when a soldier named Allen wrote to you about the depression many GIs feel as they walk away from mail call empty-handed.

You ran his letter asking your readers to write to those forgotten kids half a world away, and you gave the address: Commanding General; Eighth Army; Seoul, Korea; APO, San Francisco, Calif. 96301.

Letters came in by the thousands, cutting a broad swath through America's heartland. Envelopes bearing postmarks from Canada, Puerto Rico and each of the 50 states came in by the bundles!

There were letters from children. One boy sent his week's allowance ($1) so that a serviceman would be able to buy

Another youngster sent a letter and enclosed five rare and valuable 3-cent stamps. Obviously someone in his house hold was a stamp collector. (We returned the stamps.)

There were letters from mothers and grandmothers, opening with "Hello, Son"! They told of their experiences in wars of a different era; some told of their relief when their sons came back from Vietnam - or of their emptiness when no une returned to them.

Many letters carried news from home. They wanted to make sure we knew that the U.S. hockey tenm had benten the Russians. They were proud of their country, and proud of us for serving in the military.

School children wrote to express their feelings of loneliness, fear, doubt and burt — feelings they couldn't share with their parents or friends. But somehow they felt a serviceman would understand.

What a morale-booster those letters were! What happy excitement you created here.

So, Dear Abby, we send our thanks to you and all those generous American people who wrote. Thanks, on behalf of every serviceman who has ever been lonely. Sincerely THE U.S. FORCES IN KORKA

DEAR U.S. FORCES: God bless each and every one of you in every corner of the world, working to defend our great country.

DEAR ABBY: I have a job I really like. It pays well, and my boss (whom I'll call Mr. R.) is the greatest. During the daytime he never makes a move toward me, but when I work evenings he gets a little too friendly. Mr. R. is married and I'm not, but I do have a boyfriend. And even if I didn't have one, I wouldn't be interested in Mr. R.

because he's old enough to be my father. Last night while working late, he turned on the stereo and asked me to teach him how to disco. I told him I had a sore toe (not true). Then he said I didn't have to worry about his wife walking in on us because she lives in the suburbs and doesn't drive.

Can you give me a few suggestions on how to keep Mr. R. in his place? I don't want to hurt him — just discourage him. WORKING GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Tell him you like your job and don't mind working nights, but your boyfriend holds a black belt in karate, doesn't live in the suburbs — and he does drive.

DEAR ABBY: Every year I make a donation to the American Cancer Society in honor of my father.

No, he did not die of cancer. He had cancer, but recovered after undergoing surgery and treatment.

If more people would celebrate their loved ones' recoveries in this manner, even more lives might be saved in the future. THANKFUL

Eleanor Froese put her money where her falth was when she opened a religious book store.

Store has "Something Good"

By KEITH ALFORD

Special to the Herald The Something Good bookstore at 4617 Lazelle in Terrace is not your average bookstore. And Eleanor Froese, the owner and manager, is not your average business person.

Something Good is an avowedly Christian bookstore and gift shop. Froese, a 30-year resident of Terrace, had for some time been displeased that there was no where in the North that materials with a Christian emphasis were readily available, so she finally decided to open one. "While she and her family were reading together a book by Oral Roberts on Postive Thinking, one phrase stuck in her mind, "something good". On Dec. 1st, 1976, she opened her store with that Since that opening, Froese has become something of a lay expert on religious trends, both internationally and locally.

As one might expect, talking to her about various editions of the Bible is fascinating. Currently, the best seller among Bible and religious books as a whole is the New International Version.

Protestant and Roman Catholic Bibles are different. The Catholic Church accepts more books in their canon (or scriptures) than do Protestants. But as part of the ecumenical movement, many Bibles are being edited for both traditions. The Good News for Modern Man version has just come out with a Roman Catholic version, after being quite popular with various Protestant traditions. The Jerusalem Bible, an English translation of French Roman Catholic Biblical Scholars is selling well to both major traditions.

Two rather strange items are related by Froese. The Living Bible, a paraphase rather than a new translation, is edited in only the Protestant canon. recently an Archbishop has placed his imprimitar, or seal of approval on it. so now il is becoming as popular with some Roman Catholics as it has been with some Protestants.

Froese also notes that some things just can not be changed. Recently, a new edition of the King James Version was introduced, in the New Testament only. It took out all the "thee's" and 'thou's" and replaced them with "you's". It did not sell In fact, it sold so poorly, that Froese really doubts that the planned rewording of the Old Testament will be completed.

Other old standards in Biblical translations such as the Revised Standard Version and the New English Version are not selling well at her store. She thinks this is because there are so many new editions on the market that these have just lost their

The number two paperback and number one hardback book for months now have both been written by Joni Eareckson, a teenage girl who was a diver and broke her neck in one of her dives.

On the gospel music bullet, and leading those charts since the beginning of the year is Bob Dylan's (remember him from the 86's)u SlownTrainn Coming album. That's interesting for three reasons. It's Dylan's best selling album in 10 years, the '60's are 10 years gone, and Dylan comes from a Jewish relative," Froese's says.

The non-church people buy

There are certain times of the year when people purchase most of their religious articles. Naturally, charts, number one with a Christmas is first. Easter is, however, third. Mother's Day is second (Father's Day is fifth - "perhaps they are not as religious"). Just after Easter as a religious buying time is Spring, the time when parents and friends are buying gifts for those being confirmed or taking first communion. Froese tries to be more than just a merchant. She attempts to give personal service to all those who come into her store. And, for her, Almost every church in that includes more than just made She has that arrangements denominations stop in to pick Terrace's Welcome Wagon up materials. With almost distributes certificates for a every church involved in in- free book at her store. When depth Bible study programs, newcomers to our community come in, she makes sure that they know where the church of their choice is located and when its services are. She gets to know her customers and their children by name.

Froese engages in personal counselling with some of the people who come in to buy materials. And she follows it up. She gets calls from people in Telegraph Creek and Dease Lake thanking her for the help she has been able to give them.

Froese maintains a "prayer list" for people who have asked her to pray for them. Soemtimes, if the store is now crowded she will even hold an informal prayer time there and then for a troubled person.

And Froese is not one who thinks that TV stops people from reading. When the show "Heroes of the Bible" was running on television, she had one customer come in and buy a Bible who had previously thought that it contained nothing but a long list of "do's and don'ts". Froese marked many of the main Bible stories for her, in the version she bought.
