Verse Choir Has Returned from Southern Tour

SURPASS ALL ENTHUSIASTIC ANTICIPATIONS OF SUCCESS

Programs Well Received

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN IN THE WORKING PLAN OF THE CHOIR

(Climaxing a tour of the south, which surpassed all enthusiastic anticipation of the tremendous success, twelve members of the Verse Speaking Choir, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Jenks, returned to San Jose Saturday evening.

From the moment the group left the home of Miss Jenks with the "bon voyage" of Dr. James DeVoss, who saw them off, until their return a week later, the students enjoyed a worthwhile trip which they will probably never forget.

Interest Created

In each of the cities where they appeared, Miss Jenks and the students were received with great enthusiasm, and were guests of either principals, members of the faculty, students, or interested onlookers. Everywhere a great deal of curiosity was shown in regard to the origin and working plan of the choir. The nov-

Friends Mourning the Passing of Mrs. Mattie O. Joy

STATE COLLEGE KEENLY FEELS THE LOSS OF A FRIEND

Mrs. Mattie O. Joy, who was the appointment secretary at San Jose State College for the past three years, died at the Hollywood Hospital in Los Angeles, Tuesday.

Mrs. Joy has been a member of the administration at San Jose State since 1929, before which time she held a position at her Alma Mater, Boston University, as faculty adviser, and vocational counselor for women in the College of Business Administration.

She received very valuable experience traveling with her father as confidential secretary on his business trips throughout the United States and Europe. After taking the war emergency course in personnel management at Harvard, she practically created for herself the position of educational director for the Schrafft Candy Factory of Boston. She then took the position at the Boston University.

She held this position four years and then came west and accepted a position as assistant to the Director of University College, the Adult Education Department of the University of Southern California.

Mrs. Joy was the one who established the present plan of student teachers at San Jose, that of having the student apply in the sophomore year for teaching credentials, of becoming a candidate in the third year and a student teacher in the fourth year.

It has been through her efforts that so many of our graduate teachers have been placed in very satisfactory positions throughout the state.

San Jose State feels the loss of not only an administrator, but also a friend, in the passing of Mrs. Joy.

Their last group of songs: "Chip of the Old Block," by Squire; and, "What Shall We Do With a Drunken Sailor," by Chanty, both songs of the sea; "Daughters of Time," by Harvey Gaul, was the last of the group. All were done with spirit and vigorously applauded. Clarence Robinson accompanied.

Bringing their concert to a grand climax, the Club sang the Cantata: "Vision of Sir Launfal," by Cadman. It was difficult to do and was done well. The soloists, Charles Hansen, tenor, and True Tourtillot, baritone, contributed greatly to its charm. The whole effect was abetted by the use of an organ, played by Clarence Robinson. Sylvan Wetmore also assisted at the piano.

H. Cowell, Noted Artist Will Give Recital on June 7th

Henry Cowell, eminent American composer and pianist, will give a recital of his works and talk on modern music in the Morris Dailey auditorium on Tuesday, June 7th, at 11 o'clock. Mr. Cowell is in the United States for a short time and will return to Berlin, to continue his studies under a Guggenheim Foundation fellowship.

He brings with him a new electrical device, perfected in conjunction with Leo Theremin, originator of the Theremin-Vox—an electrical musical instrument which grew out of radio research. The Cowell Rhythmician is a keyboard instrument which can be tuned to any possible combinations of rhythm.

Students of arts and science should be greatly interested in the program which has proven a success in eastern universities. The recital is open to all upon payment of a small admission fee at the door. The affair is sponsored by the class in Music History.

Spartan Glee Club Presents Ninth Concert in Morris Dailey Auditorium

The Spartan Glee Club, directed by George T. Matthews, gave its ninth annual concert last night in the Morris Dailey auditorium.

The program opened with a group of four songs: "Salutation," by Gaines; "Waters Ripple and Flow," a Czecho Slovak arrangement by Deem Taylor; "The Three Knights," Edward German; and, lastly, "The Street Fair," by Nash. All were well done, and received well by the audience. Clarence Robinson accompanied.

Frank Triena, concertmaster of San Jose State symphony, accompanied by Jean Stirling, played the "Praeludium and Allegro," by Pugnani-Kriester. In response to the tremendous applause, he gave the "Ave Maria," of Schubert; and, responding to the still insistent audience, gave a second encore: "Florillo Etude." Mr. Triena displayed real artistic ability. His tone quality was marvelous.

The Spartan Glee Club, accompanied by Sylvan Wetmore, gave a group of three Old English folksongs. The first: "My Johnny Was a Shoemaker," Airs from Cornwall; "Should I, Wasting in Despair," Old English; and, the final number of the group: "May Day Carol," Air from Essex County.

Mr. William Erlendsen, of the faculty of the music department, played "Ballade in F Minor," of Chopin, with deep expression and excellent tone control. In answer to the thunderously applauding audience, Mr. Erlendsen encored with a "Viennese Dance" by Friedman.

The Spartan Glee Club sang

Director of Pacific Opera Company Arrives for Interview

By Bernard Callery

A little breathless from climbing stairs, Arturo Casiglia, director of the Pacific Opera Company, arrived for his interview. Yes, he was born in Palermo, Sicily; but if I wanted to know anything about his "secret" past, he wouldn't tell me. I wormed out of him the fact that he attended the Royal Conservatory of Sicily for nine years; and that he had fought for eight years for his country. In 1918 he was made assistant conductor and chorus master of a theatre in Milan, which, he said, is the "jumping off place" for every student interested in an operatic career. After two years as assistant conductor, he was made conductor of grand opera in the same theatre. He ended his European career in Parma, Italy, where—he laughingly mentioned—operas were presented for from four to six months, rather than for two weeks, as in this country.

Comes to America

"I then came to America," continued Mr. Casiglia, "and conducted in Boston for eight months; from there I went to Mexico City in a like capacity, and finally came to San Francisco in 1925. I organized the Pacific Opera Company. It is our aim to give an opportunity to resident artists to show their ability and at the same time to give the public an opportunity to hear a finished performance at popular prices. Many of our young artists have since made a name in Eastern cities."

Chance for Young Students

Mr. Casiglia became dramatic. "There is no need to travel abroad when the same opportunities for stage appearances are offered at home. Lawrence Tibbet, Rosa Ponselle, to mention a few, never have gone to Europe to study."

"What effect will the reduction of salaries by the Metropolitan have on American opera?" I asked.

"Now is the chance for American artists at the Metropolitan," cried Mr. Casiglia, emphatically. "The time will come soon when we shall have to use American artists only. Radio performances of English operas are good, but the public likes to see the singer upon the stage."

Worked With Artists

Mr. Casiglia mentioned so many opera stars with whom he had personally worked that I caught the names of but a few. They, however, are imposing enough: Tibbet, Gigli, Martinelli, Jeritza, Schipa, Bethberg, the Ponselle sisters. He and Lauri Volpi were in the war together.

Passion for Opera

"Why did you choose opera as your especial musical field?" I asked.

"There is a passion for Grand Opera in Italy. The majority of the Italian people do not know music, but they know many of the operas by heart. It is not unusual for a person there to see the same opera fifty times."

Produced Many Operas

"Must be hard work to produce an opera?" I remarked.
"Operas are all difficult to produce," he smilingly assured me. "If you produce them well, the old operas, especially. It is hard

The Correct Way

Q.—How does one tender felicitations to a newly engaged or married couple?

A.—The man may be congratulated, but this is not necessary. Never congratulate the lady. Either or both are to be wished happiness.

Q.—Who, properly, gives an engagement shower or an announcement party?

A.—An engagement shower may be given by a friend of the bride-elect; never by a member of her own family. An announcement party is given by the mother of the bride-elect or any other member of her family, or by a friend, never by herself.

Q.—What should one say to one's hostess in leaving her home?

A.—It is correct to say that one has enjoyed the visit or affair, that one has had a pleasant time, or to thank the hostess for the enjoyable evening or visit. Never say "I have enjoyed myself."

Q.—What is the correct form of introduction?

A.—One presents a gentleman to a lady, or younger lady to an older one, and a younger man to an older one, or if one of the persons is notable, the other is presented to him.

Say "Mrs. Brown, this is Mr. Jones," or

"Mr. Jones, Mrs. Brown"

"Mr. President, this is my mother," or

"Mr. President, my mother."

Q.—How does one acknowledge an introduction?

A.—Say, "How do you do," and the name of the person if possible. It is not obligatory to shake hands. Do so, however, if the other extends his. Never say, "Pleased to meet you."

Q.—Is it obligatory for a gentleman to open a car door for a lady and to help her in or out, closing the door after her?

A.—It is obligatory, unless haste is so very necessary that the usual courtesies are not expected.

to please with something old."

Among others, Mr. Casiglia has produced Lohengrin, Tannhauser, Tristan and Isolde; all the Verdi operas; all the Puccini operas; all the Mascagni operas. He produced "La Wally" for the first time in San Francisco. Also, the "Lorelie." Both of these are by Alfredo Catalani, whom Mr. Casiglia calls "The Italian Wagner."

Details of Production

"How much time does an artist need to prepare for an opera?" I inquired.

"I find it necessary to work one year with artists," explained Mr. Casiglia. "Artists take one year because they have first to learn the words and get into the spirit of the opera. Six months time is necessary with my chorus, who, by the way, are all San Francisco singers. I worked but two months with Livia Marraeci, the present star of "La Traviata"—but she knew the opera already."

"Expensive?" I asked.

"The orchestra costs more than anything else. There is an average cost of fifteen hundred dollars for each opera. On many of the operas there are royalties to be paid for every performance."

Appreciative Public

Mr. Casiglia declared that California has the best operatic public in the United States, and that San Francisco produced the best

Trabue Accuses Interfering Parents of Assisting Unemployment

With the assumption in mind that "everyone can do anything," many parents take the responsibility of picking jobs for their children. This, according to M. R. Trabue, is extremely unfortunate, and has a great deal to do with the present unemployment situation.

Recently an Employment Stabilization Research Institute has been formed, and already valuable information has been assembled. The object of the organization is to minimize unemployment.

Vocational guidance tests, perfection of retraining and placement technique and determination of factors causing unemployment and ways of offsetting them are the means used to attain this end.

Trabue believes that many persons have been misfits in their chosen line. He gives many examples of this condition. He tells of a man who studied art for years yet was color blind. Another fellow, a college graduate and a Phi Beta Kappa, tried selling bonds, but failed. He should have done research work, Trabue suggests.

The same is true with many girls who are trying, for instance, to hold stenographic jobs when they should be packing cookies for a bakery, or wrapping things.

Everyone cannot do everything, therefore to prevent misfits parents should encourage their children in lines in which they can do well and are interested in, rather than to suggest a position which sounds good but does not appeal to the student.

The University of Pavia, Italy, was founded by Lothaire, grandson of Charlemagne, in 825, and celebrated its eleventh century in 1925. Its renaissance began in 1361.

audiences in California. "Not so long ago," he declared, "one Grand Opera in San Francisco attracted 7000 people, and $24,000 were taken in."

Opera in English

The ideal of Mr. Casiglia is to produce opera in English. He appears dynamic enough to do so. Tibbet, he says, can attract more people than an Italian operatic star.

"There are some very good singers," continued Mr. Casiglia, "but they are not good on the stage."

Nearly Civic Organization

The Pacific Opera Company is practically a civic organization. For the past two years it has received financial aid from the city of San Francisco. Formerly, the company had subscribers.

Mr. Casiglia mentioned that in the larger cities of the United States, generous people buy a block of tickets for an opera and distribute them gratis to deserving students. He made the reflection, however, that students who had to work to see their musical productions generally appreciated them more.

"One more question, Mr. Casiglia. What opera do you like best?"

"I like the opera the public likes!" returned Mr. Casiglia, making an unaffected exclaim.

Just Among Ourselves

Note—This column is personal to the president and the college. Opinions are requested not to make use of material.

Just received a telegram telling of Mrs. Joy's death. We have all expected it for some time, as the doctors have held out no hope for months. But it's so utterly baffling. To see a dear friend, the most abounding health vitality suddenly contract ease that takes her away from us, that's beyond my simple understanding.

Mrs. Joy had a way with the keenest intelligence, greatest tact, unlimited patience and courage. She just lighted to go into some old office, and some out with her. Difficulties, misunderstandings, tempers were all in the work with her. She solved difficulties, cleared up the misunderstandings, calmed the temper. She stated her decisions calmly, looking you squarely in the eyes. Your happiness important to her, but not at the expense of the truth.

Glad me, but we shall miss I'm glad we had her with us for those three short years.

The Verse Choir is making Jose State history. That song trip was a grand success. The schools of the whole state have choirs, thanks to the work done here. Hope the may come when we can do trips for many of our groups. Canto's program was well a greater public. Men's Club, A Capella, Style 5 Band, Symphony Orchestra, ers, etc. All should have Good for them, good for the lege, good for the public.

At this writing, the election seems to be a big success. I never seen such enthusiasm. Everyone is trying to think pally. Of course, those music jors will go solid for you can't expect the physed to back — I wonder how that youngster ever got name on the ballot, etc., etc. quite candid, too, about qualities, aren't we? Candidates themselves write tributes? They'll make great ion writers some day. I'm little disappointed about thing: There were two places in the quad which he election posters. ## Students To Aid in Solution of Cheating

The officials at the University of Utah have called upon the students to help them in their fight of class room cheating.

A questionnaire was distributed to all students in which it asked such personal questions as to whether any help had been given during examinations in the manner of notes or text book "ponies." Students were asked to tell about such practices that had been observed. The quizzes were unsigned by those who took them.

Luella Hayes and Jimmy Stevenson Are Married Here

CULMINATION OF COLLEGE ROMANCE SURPRISES FRIENDS

Culminating a college romance and completely surprising all but their immediate families, James E. Stevenson and Miss Luella F. Hayes, popular young San Jose people, were married at a quiet ceremony at the home of the bride last Friday evening.

Mr. Stevenson is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph A. Stevenson. Rev. Stevenson was formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian church here. Miss Hayes is the daughter of Walter G. Hayes of Watsonville and is the secretary of Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie, president of San Jose State College.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson were prominent students at the local college several years ago. Mrs. Stevenson graduating and becoming a member of the faculty while Mr. Stevenson transferred to the University of California and pursued his studies.

The bridegroom, while a student here, was prominent in dramatic and musical circles. He is a former president of San Jose Players and while a student made a world tour playing in a ship's orchestra. The bride was prominent in collegiate social circles, being an officer of Phi Kappa Pi sorority.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry M. Campbell, Rev. Stevenson's predecessor at the First Presbyterian church.

Following the honeymoon, the young couple will make their home on Hanchett Avenue.

Five states, Arizona, Delaware, Nevada, New Mexico, and Wyoming, have only one congressman each, although they have, of course, two senators each. Vermont, Utah, New Hampshire, and Idaho have only two congressmen each. New York State has 43 congressmen, the largest of any state.

Kappa Kappa Sigma Takes Pleasure in Annuouncing Its New Members

Kappa Kappa Sigma, national sorority, which was recently welcomed on the State College campus, has the honor of announcing its new members, the Misses Thelma Douglas, Beth Bailey, Beth Nelson, Olive Graham, Marie Mothorn, Lazelle Towle, Ann Epperson, and Mrs. Ann Kidd Morrison.

The young ladies were formally initiated on the evening of May 20 at the Hotel Sainte Claire. The room was attractively decorated in the sorority's colors of grey and coral. The symbolic banner draped the table before which the new members stood. An impressive candle light service was conducted by the officers who were gowned in ceremonial robes.

Following the initiation the group adjourned to the main dining room to be seated at a U-shaped table.

Miss Grace Corners, who had charge of the dinner arrangements, pleasantly surprised her sisters with dainty table decorations in pastel shades. The old fashioned motif was carried throughout. The floral center-delicately colored flowers which reflected lovely colors from the tall tapers which burned on either side. Dainty old fashioned French bouquet corsages were at the place of each guest. Old fashioned ladies were attractive in place card design. As is the custom at the formal initiation dinner, framed mottoes, telling what the sorority stands for, marked the place of each new member.

At this time the new members were cordially welcomed by the president, Miss Hope Allario, on behalf of the sorority girls.

Besides the new members, the following members were present: Misses Hope Allario, Marion Tower, Marion Reis, Betty Hickey, Helen Stewart, Marie Frances Mosnett, Mesdames Dovey Worley, and Wanda McCormack; the officers. Other members were: Misses Grace Corners, Muriel Collingswood, Gusta Wessing, Edna Clough, Winifred Meriani, Genevieve Bush, Gladys Burch, and Mesdames Leah Rhodes and Gertrude Owler.

The faculty guests for the evening were Miss Helen Dimmick and Mrs. Rodger Moore (Gertrude Witherspoon), the sorority advisor.

Does Your Hair Curl Naturally?

Edna Wolford (Cecily Cardew) and Robert Steffens (Algernon Moncrieff), who appear in San Jose Players' production of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," promise to give outstanding presentations.

"Importance of Being Earnest" Will Be Presented Tonight

PLAY EXPECTED TO BE MOST SUCCESSFUL OF SEASON

Tonight and tomorrow evening the San Jose Players are presenting the last of the plays on their 1931-2 season, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde.

The play is considered by many the outstanding comedy of the famous English dramatist, and it promises to be, as Players are presenting it in distinct stylization, the outstanding presentation of the year.

Yancy Williams, who appeared for Players in "The Queen's Husband," will be seen in the leading role of John Worthing. Yancy was also featured in the 1931 Fiesta de las Rosas pageant, and in this role has an opportunity to surpass his past performances.

Playing opposite Williams will be Marie Anderson, who created such an impression in her interpretation of the ingenue in the "Queen's Husband."

Appearing for the first major roles for Players, Edna Wolford and Robert Steffens show promise of giving performances that will class them among the leading members of the organization.

Both have been seen widely in amateur dramatics throughout the valley and through their efforts the roles will come up to Wilde's creation.

Dick Sanders in the role of Dr. Chasuble is carrying the major portion of the comedy in the Wilde satire. Playing opposite him, Ruth Montgomery, president of Players, will be seen in the role of Miss Prism.

Other prominent players in the cast are: Louise Mendelsohn, Jim Fitzgerald, and Alfred Dunn.

Tickets for the production may be obtained in Players room or may be obtained at the door on the nights of the performance.

Season tickets for the 1932-3 season may be reserved at the door at both performances.

Sanders Is Elected Student Affairs Head

Saure, 122 votes, for the office.

A run-over contest is also scheduled for chairman of finance, with "Bud" Applegarth, 441 votes, competing. Junior Wilson votes, and Carl Palmer competing. Junior Wilson came in third.

Ronald Linn, prominent debater, was elected forensics manager over Harry Jennings by a vote of 632 to 595.

Don Madsen and Milton Jenkins led the field for music manager, with 449 and 327 votes, respectively. Ed Brown and Fred Steen placed third and fourth.

Dick Sanders, with 879 ballots, won the student affairs office over Louise Mohr, who polled 426.

A run-over election will be held next week.

Verse Choir Returns

ety of the effect of harmonic and rhythmic speech created a great deal of interest, and from the many comments which were given it would seem that many choirs will be formed in the south in the near future.

Programs Varied

Because of the large repertoire of selections which have been arranged this year the group was able to vary programs considerably, which proved satisfactory on days when four programs were given.

The choir appeared at many high schools and junior colleges, as well as at the University of Redlands, and several service clubs.

On Tuesday, when the group had luncheon at the Mission Inn at Riverside, they were asked to perform for the guests there.

Before their return the group enjoyed a theater party at the Chinese theater in Los Angeles, where they saw "Grand Hotel."

From every angle the trip was successful, and Mr. Schafer, principal of the Redlands High School, is quoted as having said, "Nothing that San Jose State or any other college has done has left such a favorable impression upon this high school and other neighboring high schools and junior colleges as this Verse Choir has."

Spanish Club Holds Second Meeting at the Home of Lindemans

The second meeting of El Circulo Cervantes was held last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ben Lindemann on Willow street.

Business occupied the first of the evening. It was decided that membership in the club would be limited to college students only, though outsiders were welcome as guests. Mrs. Elder was voted an honorary member. Plans were also made for the next meeting, two weeks hence, which will be held at Dr. MacQuarrie's home, and a picnic which had been scheduled for this quarter was postponed until fall.

The program followed. Frances Mannina talked on "The Origins of the Spanish Drama," and Mr. Bailey gave a speech on the causes and results of the Spanish revolution. A quartet, composed of Lena, Bertha, Glouille Lindemann, and Francisco Novarro, sang Spanish songs to the accompaniment of a guitar. The quartet sang intermittently all during the evening from a balcony, forming an effectively enjoyable background for the whole affair.

At the close of the meeting all adjourned to the dining room where were served home-made tamales and coffee.

S. G. O.'s, I. D. K.'s, Minors Lead in the Baseball Leagues

THURSDAY GAMES LISTED FOR BENEFIT OF SUPPORTERS

The Intra-mural baseball league is now half over and the teams are now beginning to assume places in the standings according to their ability. The games Tuesday were all hard fought and mostly very close.

The I. D. K.'s won over the Majors by forfeit by a score of 1 to 0. The Majors were forced to forfeit because they had only 6 eligible men on the field at the end of the fifth inning. Before this game the Majors and I. D. K.'s had both lost no games.

The S. G. O.'s defeated the Science Club by a close score.

The Print Shop defeated the Tau Delta Phi team by a score of 8 to 5. Steve Berratta clonked out a home run with three men on, bringing in four runs. Later on in the 7th inning rally which the Tau Delta Phi's pulled, Roumasset also banged out a homer. But the famous 7th inning rally was not sufficient to amass enough runs to defeat the Print Shop.

The Minors continued their winning streak by defeating the Commerce team by a score of 2 to 0. The game was technically a pitcher's battle with good fielding on both sides which held the hits down considerably. The main feature of the game was an argument on every play. But all in all Rose and Saunders umpired a good game.

The standings of the teams are as follows:

Spartan League
Name of Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
I. D. K.	3	0	1000
S. G. O.	2	0	1000
Majors	1	1	.500
Faculty	0	2	.000
Science	0	3	.000
Gold and White League
Name of Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Minors	2	0	1000
Commerce	2	1	.667
Tau Delta Phi	2	1	.667
Print Shop	1	1	.500
N. S. K.	0	2	.000

According to the standing the I. D. K.'s and the S. G. O.'s are tied for first place in the Spartan league. These two teams will clash next Thursday and the results should be very interesting.

In the Gold and White League the Minors are leading with an average of a thousand per cent. The Commerce Club are in second place, having lost one game.

The games for Thursday are as follows: Faculty vs. Majors, I. D. K. vs. S. G. O.; N. S. K. vs. Print Shop; and Minors vs. Tau Delta Phi.

Pre-Theological Group Will Meet Thursday

Phy-Ed Department Plans Meet With Stockton Amblers

The Physical Education department is negotiating with the Ambler's Swimming Club of Stockton, for two meets one to be held here Friday, June 3, and the second to be held next week at Stockton. Thus far, complete arrangements have not been made.

Little is known of the Stockton club's strength, other than that they boast the membership of several strong swimmers.

Hauser, former State student, will probably perform for the Amblers. He created quite a sensation in swimming circles while attending San Jose, and it will be interesting to watch him compete against former team-mates.

Students of Oberlin Hold Mock Convention

Oberlin, O.—In one of the most uproarious two-day mock national conventions ever held here, the Oberlin College students last week nominated Owen D. Young as their choice for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, and adopted a platform which included, after two days of wrangling and changing of votes, a plank calling for a referendum on prohibition, if and when it seems a great majority are in favor of repeal.

The nomination of Young, distinctly a dark horse in all the early voting, came on the sixth ballot, after Newton D. Baker had received almost enough votes on the fifth ballot to nominate him.

On the first night of the convention the delegates first voted no on prohibition, 552 to 546. Later in the night—or early in the morning as it turned out to be—the convention reversed itself and threw out the wet plank in favor of one calling for stricter enforcement of the prohibition laws.

On the second day, however, the final "moist" plank was passed by an overwhelming vote. This was the first time in the history of the oldest political mock convention in the country, that the mock convention at Oberlin had been Democratic.

Back in 1884 the first Republican Mock Convention was held here, and with the exception of a short period early in this century, a convention has been held here every presidential year since then.

In earlier years the choice of the Oberlin convention was so often the choice of the Republican party, that it was said "As goes Oberlin, so goes the Nation." Later, however, Oberlin has chosen rather to select the man who "should be president," rather than the one whom was expected to be president.

The Oberlin convention, held in a huge circus tent on the campus, follows several weeks of campaigning by the managers of various candidates. Each state and territory is represented by its proper number of delegates at the convention.

One of the leaders in early Oberlin conventions was the late Senator Theodore E. Burton.

State Enters Team in Track Meet at Kezar Stadium Sat.

BREAKING OF TRAINING MAY HURT CHANCES IN MEET

With only four days left before the sectional tryouts to be held at Kezar stadium, the Spartan Club entries, Salvato, Taylor, Leslie, and Harper are having a difficult time to regain their mid-season form.

Immediately following the Fresno Relays the four broke training, neither of them having considered entering the Olympic Games Sectional tryouts. With the arrival of entry blanks which were sent to Coach Blesh, they finally decided to enter the various events.

The lapse in their system of regular training has made the present workouts much more difficult. With the possibility of racing three times in their events, namely, the trials, semi-finals, and finals, so that the men need plenty of stamina if they must compete in all three races.

This, however, effects Salvato and Harper more than the other two entries, as they are in the track events, whereas Taylor and Lewis will compete against the leading broad jumpers and high jumpers in Central and Northern California.

Lafayette College Celebrates Founding

Easton, Pa. — Duplicating in part the scene on the first day of classes in 1832, students and faculty members of Lafayette College last week took part in simple exercises marking the beginning of the second century of the existence of the college.

In 1832 43 students who had come to Easton from Germantown with George Junkin, first president of Lafayette, were called to their classes by a Negro boy who blew a blast on a large horn.

Last week the end of one century and the beginning of another in the life of the college was marked by the blowing of a bugle on the steps of Colton Memorial Chapel, following which the Alma Mater song was played by a brass quartet.

Then members of the board of trustees, faculty, students and guests gathered in the chapel for the presentation of a book, "The Biography of a College," by David Skillman, author of the volume, and secretary of the board of trustees. Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette, presided.
