News is one of written discourse example that has linguistic content utterances and has function to share information and current events. Tuchman (1978) characterizes news as an institutional method of making information to consumer by being located, gathered, and disseminated by professional person in mass organization.

News in the newspaper is presented more detail than news in television, radio station broadcast, and online news broadcast. It occurs because news in newspaper is in written form that is why the stories are more complex, longer and easy to catch up. Beside that, there is certain reason in deciding certain news as headlines news.

To discourse analysts, ‘discourse’ means actual instances of communication in the medium of language, while ‘discourses,’ in the plural, are conventional ways of talking that create systems of ideology, sets of beliefs and habitual action (Johnstone 2002).

The material in discourse analysis can be expressed in spoken or written discourse, usually refers to text. According to Fairclough (1997:4) “a text is traditionally understood to be a piece of written language – a whole ‘work’ such as a poem or a novel, or a novel, or a relatively discrete part of a work such as a chapter”. He also defines in broader conception in discourse analysis that a text is mainly understood as written or spoken language. Lemke (in Wodak) defines text as the concrete realization of abstract forms of knowledge (“discourse”). Wodak (2001) defines that discourse is viewed as form of knowledge and memory and text is illustrate concrete oral utterances and written documents.

Headlines news is describing the biggest news of the day. The headline news generally is written in different ways from other form of news in a newspaper. It is located in first page of the newspaper that make readers read it first.

One of the principles of the editor is deciding the use of language to be expediency of publishing. Language according to Taiwo (2007) “is no longer seen as merely reflecting our reality, but as central to creating reality”. In addition Fiske, 1994; Fowler, et.al. 1979 (in Taiwo) defines that words are never neutral, they carry the power that reflects the interests of those who speak or write. The phenomena of language in the newspaper has main role in making the issue to the reader in reading newspaper, and the readers will read the newspaper from the headlines. In this case, it is suitable with Rivers and Mathews (1994:43) stated “almost 98% from all readers read the news of information from the cover”.

Beside that, in writing the news there is reason in deciding the use of word or deciding the diction in order to make the intended meaning. The relation to choose the word is there is message that will be delivered to the reader. Implicitly, the uses of words in writing the news are based on some reasons.

Based on the previous reason the writer will observe The Jakarta Post and The Jakarta Globe by using Critical Discourse Analysis by Teun Van Dijk. So, the writer is expected to analyze LANGUAGE, IDEOLOGY AND POWER RELATION REFLECTED IN THE HEADLINES NEWS OF THE JAKARTA POST AND THE JAKARTA GLOBE.
