FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CHARLESTON, IL--Five Distinguished Visiting Professors will teach workshops and give public lectures at Summer School 1984 at Eastern Illinois University.

Dr. Eugene Bonelli, Dean of the Meadows School of the Arts at Southern Methodist University, will teach a workshop on "The Arts as Catalyst for Urban Change: The Dallas Experience." The workshop will be given June 25-28 and will discuss the formation of the Dallas Art district by arts organizations, city government and private developers.

Dr. Mark Edwards, Associate Professor of the Department of History at Purdue University, will teach "Martin Luther and the Reformation" June 19-22. This workshop will look at the life of Martin Luther and his importance to changes that have occurred in Western society.

Dr. Morris Keeton, President of the Council for the Advancement of Experiential Learning, will teach a workshop called "Brighter Future for Adult Learners." This will examine changes underway in American higher education, and the desirable and probable transformation that may take place during the next decade.

Dr. Curtis MacDougall, Professor Emeritus of the Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern University, will teach "The Press as a Change Agent in the Twentieth Century and in the Next Century." This workshop will be given July 9-12 and will look at the significant role the press has played in the development of America and how that will continue into the next century.
