

Cat erpillar

Incessantly nibbling all through the summer, these greedy beasts have an undesirable habit of crawling into beehives to feed on honey. They can be made into a highly nutritious dish by the Kalahari Bushmen.

Herpitor

These scavengers use a sea shell for a home. Some species have an undesirable habit of crawling into beehives to feed on honey. They can be made into expensive suitcases, handbags, shoes and watchstraps.

Alligator

Powerful enough to drag a man into the water, these primitive beasts emit hideous bellowing calls during the breeding season. Unfortunately, they're often made into expensive suitcases, handbags, shoes and watchstraps.

Comparing building blocks of life

Walter Pirovano

Comparing building blocks of life Sequence alignment and evaluation of predicted structural and functional features

Walter Pirovano