

University of Groningen

EU investor protection regulation and private law

Wallinga, Marnix Wibo

IMPORTANT NOTE: You are advised to consult the publisher's version (publisher's PDF) if you wish to cite from it. Please check the document version below.

Document Version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Publication date:

2018

Link to publication in University of Groningen/UMCG research database

Citation for published version (APA):

Wallinga, M. W. (2018). EU investor protection regulation and private law: A comparative analysis of the interplay between MiFID & MiFID II and liability for investment losses. [Groningen]: University of Groningen.

Copyright

Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Take-down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from the University of Groningen/UMCG research database (Pure): <http://www.rug.nl/research/portal>. For technical reasons the number of authors shown on this cover page is limited to 10 maximum.

Propositions belonging to the PhD thesis

EU Investor protection regulation and private law

A comparative analysis of the interplay between MiFID & MiFID II and liability for investment losses

M.W. Wallinga

1. Private law norms governing the liability of investment firms to compensate retail investors for investment losses fall outside the harmonisation scope of MiFID and MiFID II.
2. The European Commission is precluded from using its delegated rule-making power to introduce a principle of civil liability under MiFID II.
3. ESMA's soft law is capable of de facto bringing private law within the MiFID and MiFID II's harmonisation scope.
4. MiFID and MiFID II provide for minimum harmonisation of the conduct of business rules.
5. The interaction between the MiFID and MiFID II conduct of business rules and private law norms should be guided by the complementarity model. This model preserves the autonomy of private law norms governing the liability of investment firms towards investors, while presupposing that courts should have regard to the regulatory norms when adjudicating individual disputes.
6. National private law has a great potential to contribute to retail investor protection if the civil courts are up to the challenge of integrating the regulatory dimension into judicial reasoning.
7. The financial institutions' "special duty of care" developed by the Hoge Raad (Dutch Supreme Court) is far from special.