PRÉFACE

Il nous fait plaisir de présenter le deuxième volume du Catalogue des catalogues canadiens en art contemporain, qui répertorie les publications dans ce domaine depuis 1981. Ce catalogue est une extension de notre intérêt pour la collecte et la diffusion de l'information en art contemporain au Canada et, à ce titre, nous croyons qu'il constitue un apport utile. À la fois source d'information et outil promotionnel, il reflète la diversité des catalogues publiés par les musées et galeries du Canada.

L'intérêt particulier au Canada pour l'art inuit et amérindien, ainsi que la haute qualité des catalogues accompagnant les expositions en art inuit et amérindien contemporain nous a paru justifier leur inclusion dans notre répertoire.

Pour leur appui et leur coopération, nous désirons remercier tous les musées, galeries et artistes. Nous devons une reconnaissance particulière à Diana Nemiroff et à Michèle Waquant pour leur intérêt soutenu et la contribution essentielle qu'elles ont apporté à la réalisation de ce projet, et à Joyce Blair qui a travaillé sans relâche à la distribution du catalogue. Nous remercions également le Conseil des Arts du Canada pour son aide financière.

We are pleased to present this second volume of the Catalogue of Canadian Catalogues on Contemporary Art comprising catalogues published since 1981. Our ongoing concern with the collection and diffusion of information on contemporary art in Canada has persuaded us that the publication of our catalogue continues to provide a valuable source of information. In its dual function as a resource tool and a means of distributing Canadian catalogues on contemporary art, our publication reflects the diversity of catalogues produced by Canadian museums and galleries.

The special interest in Inuit and Amerindian art in Canada and the high quality of catalogues produced in conjunction with exhibitions bringing together various collections of Inuit and Amerindian contemporary production led us to include publications on these subjects.

We would like to thank all the museums, galleries and artists for their continued help and co-operation on this project. We are grateful to Diana Nemiroff and Michèle Waquant for their sustained interest and invaluable contribution to this publication, and to Joyce Blair who deserves special credit for her tireless effort in the distribution of this catalogue. We would also like to thank the Canada Council for financial assistance.

GUIDE DE CONSULTATION

En première section, les catalogues sont classés par ordre alphabétique d'artistes sauf pour les catalogues d'exposition de groupe où l'ordre s'applique au titre du catalogue.

Chaque commentaire inclut une description bibliographique et un court résumé des catalogues.

Les données bibliographiques sont classées suivant: 1. nom de l'artiste ou titre du catalogue 2. auteur(s) 3. musée et lieu de publication 4. année de publication 5. nombre de pages 6. nombre d'illustrations 7. dimensions (la largeur précède la hauteur).

Les catalogues sont commentés dans la langue de publication; les commentaires des catalogues bilingues sont rédigés en français et en anglais.

Seulement les catalogues reliés sont indiqués comme tel.

On trouve à la fin la liste complète, classée selon l'ordre alphabétique des titres et regroupée par musées et galeries, de tous les catalogues publiés à partir de 1981 et disponibles à Artexte. Cette liste comprend des publications qui, à cause de leur brièveté, ne sont pas commentées dans le catalogue (elles sont indiquées par un *). Il y a en plus une liste des catalogues ou livres d'artiste, des publications indépendantes, ainsi qu'une liste des catalogues inclus dans le volume I et qui sont maintenant épuisés. Les catalogues d'art inuit et amérindien sont intégrés dans le classement par musées et galeries (et sont indiqués par un (I)).

READER'S GUIDE

Reviewed catalogues are listed alphabetically by artist in the case of a solo exhibition, or in the case of a group show, by catalogue title.

Each review includes biographical data on the catalogue and a brief resume of the content.

Bibliographical data is ordered as follows: 1. artist's name or title of catalogue 2. author(s) 3. gallery and place of publication 4. year 5. number of pages 6. number of illustrations 7. dimensions (width precedes height).

Reviews appear in the language in which the catalogue was published (either French or English); bilingual catalogues are reviewed in both languages.

Unless otherwise indicated, all catalogues are softcover.

At the back of this publication is a complete listing, ordered alphabetically by title under the gallery's name, of all catalogues produced since 1981 available through Artexte's distribution service. This listing includes publications which are not reviewed here (indicated by *), mainly because they are small publications or brochures. In addition there are listings of artists' catalogues/books and independently published catalogues as well as a listing of catalogues included in Volume I which are now out of print. Inuit and Amerindian catalogues are integrated into each gallery's list and indicated by (I).

About VILE: Mail Art, News & Photos from the Eternal Network; Anna Banana, Michael Scott, et al.; Banana Productions, Vancouver, B.C.: 1983. 106 pp., 144 illus. 21.5 x 28.3 cm.

Poetry, photos, letters, a variety of mail art, as well as a history of VILE, a magazine dedicated to mail art, a journal of the Banana/Gaglione performance "Futurist Sound", and a discussion of mail art are contained in this light-hearted compendium of activities by artists in the network.

Agit. Prop: Performance in Banff; Lorne Falk, Clive Robertson; Walter Phillips Gallery, The Banff Centre School of Fine Arts, Banff, Alta.: 1982. 35 pp., 21 illus., 21 x 27.5 cm.

A series of performances by Canadian, American and European artists linked by the theme of politics (large and small P). Robertson's text provides a brief history of European and Canadian agit-prop in the thirties and speculates on its relationship to contemporary performance. Statements by the artists: Bruce Barber, Marcella Bienvenue, Stuart Brisley, Elizabeth Chitty, Sonia Knox, Marcel Odenbach, Ulrike Rosenbach, Martha Rosler. $5.00

Alternate Photography; Richard Rhodes; YYZ, Toronto, Ont.: 1983. 28 pp., 35 illus., 20.5 x 23.3 cm.

Photos by Peter MacCallum, Stan Deniston, David Clarkson, Jayce Salloum and Isaac Applebaum were selected for their "non-graphicness" and connections with the expansive sensibility of modern art; as well, this photography was first shown in the "alternate" artist-run spaces in Toronto. Statements by the artists. $3.00

ANDERS, EUNICE, Eunice Anders: Recent Works in Fibre 1975-1982; Helen Frances Gregor, Joan E. Foster, Mary Eileen Hogg; Art Gallery of Windsor, Windsor, Ont.: 1983. 24 pp. 18 illus., 1 col., 17.7 x 25.6 cm.

A brief foreword and introduction; lines of poetry accompany illustrations of the artist's weavings. $2.00

Appropriation/Expropriation, Recent Work from the Halifax Community; Mary Sparling, Bruce Barber, Jan Peacock; The Art Gallery, Mount Saint Vincent University, Halifax, N.S.: 1983. 29 pp., 32 illus., 22 x 28.1 cm.

Works which incorporate already existing imagery by fifteen artists, including Garry Kennedy, Susan McEachern, Cathy Quinn/Barbara Lounder and others. Barber's text sets the activity of appropriation in an historic context, while Peacock's analyzes the individual works in the exhibition. $5.00

ARISS, HERBERT JOSHUA, Encounters: An exhibition of Paintings and Drawings from 1967-1982 by Herbert Joshua Ariss; Dr. John Bruce, Paddy O'Brien; London Regional Art Gallery, London, Ont.: 1983. 72 pp., 58 illus., 10 col., 25 x 21.5 cm.

A comprehensive and analytical look at this artist's work preceeds excerpts from his journals, comments by former students, numerous illustrations, a chronology and bibliography. $7.50

ARNOTT, RYAN, Marriage Last Leaves of Fall; Dunlop Art Gallery, Regina Public Library, Regina, Sask.: 1982. 10 pp., 3 illus., 18 x 19.1 cm.

An artist's book made for the exhibition. Contains images of a lightbulb, a leaf of paper, a tree's leaves and a poem/text ruminating on the theme. $2.00

Art & Correspondence from the Western Front; A.A. Bronson, Michael Morris, Hank Bull; Western Front, Vancouver, B.C.: 1979. 65 pp., 50 illus., 18.4 x 21.6 cm. Art as sensibility, the nature of the artists' correspondence network, and the collaborative identity of the Western Front are touched upon in the introduction. The catalogue, which is divided into four sections dealing with the work of Kate Craig, Glenn Lewis, Eric Metcalfe, Michael Morris & Vincent Trasov, five of the eight founders of the Western Front, serves as an important document of ten years of activity. Includes biographies and bibliographies. $4.00

Art et féminisme; Rose-Marie Arbour, Suzanne Lamy, Diane Guay, Suzanne Foisy, Johanne Lamoureux, Thérèse Saint-Gelais, Nicole Dubreuil-Blondin, Aline Dallier; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qué.: 1982, 213 pp., 94 illus., 20.5 x 26.6 cm, français & English.

À propos de ce catalogue on est presque tenté de parler d'un livre. De l'exposition, 41 artistes dont on trouve une photo et une biographie à la fin de la publication; des œuvres reproduites, souvent accompagnées d'une explication de l'artiste, en peinture, sculpture, photo, performance, vidéo et huit textes, les uns plus descriptifs, les autres plus réflexifs.

More a book than a catalogue. Forty-one artists were included in the exhibition, and each one has a photograph and biography in the catalogue. Paintings, sculptures, photographs, performances and videos are reproduced, often accompanied by an artist's statement. Eight essays complete the catalogue, some more descriptive, others more theoretical. $15.00

Art in Architecture: Art for the Built Environment in the Province of Ontario; Jeanne Parkin, William J. S. Boyle; Visual Arts Ontario, Toronto, Ont.: 1982. 276 pp., 363 illus., 23.1 x 30.5 cm.

Divided into three sections - case studies of art in architecture, a guide to competitions, contracts and government assistance, and an illustrated index of artists and work - this volume aims to provide practical information to stimulate the collaboration between artists and architects. $19.95

Art/société 1975-1980; Richard Martel, Marcel Saint-Pierre, Éditions Intervention/Musée du Québec, Qc.: 1981. 119 pp., 171 illus., 21.5 x 28 cm.

Pour tous ceux qu'intéresse un point de vue différent sur l'art, cet ensemble de données sur les rapports entre l'art et la société est une source précieuse de renseignements tant visuels que théoriques.

Marcel Saint-Pierre dresse un bilan minutieux de pratiques trop souvent occultées dans nos sociétés capitalistes. Il situe les prises de position et l'engagement social et politique de certains artistes et de certains mouvements artistiques dans une histoire qui a ses racines au 19ème siècle et il en décrit les récents développements au Québec, dans la région montréalaise.

Richard Martel brosse le portrait des engagements artistiques dans la ville de Québec depuis 1975 tout en témoignant des rapports entre les artistes et la société dans différentes régions de la province de Québec.

La dernière partie de ce catalogue forme un corpus de 10 textes qui vont de la conférence de M. Saint-Pierre lors de Québec '75 au manifeste de l'atelier Amherst en passant par un essai sur l'art et la lutte des classes au Québec.

Atlantic Visions de l'Atlantique: Crafts from Canada's Four Atlantic Provinces/Artisanat des quatre provinces atlantiques du Canada; Moncrieff Williamson; Atlantic Caucus of the Canadian Crafts Council, St. John's, Nfld.: 1982. 141 illus., 19 col., 28 x 21.6 cm, English & français.

This exhibition was promoted and supported by numerous organizations, governments, arts and crafts communities and other contributors. It brought together 136 artists and gave out twenty awards of excellence. The introduction describes the moment in history when art and craft were separated, siding with the egalitarian principles of the Bauhaus, and concludes by noting the humour of Maritime artisans.

Cette exposition fut parrainée et soutenue par de nombreux organismes, les gouvernements, la communauté artisanale et plusieurs intervenants. Elle a réuni 136 exposants et accordé vingt prix d'excellence. L'introduction aux œuvres décrit le moment historique de coupure entre art et artisanat, prend parti pour les principes égalitaires du Bauhaus et conclut en soulignant l'humour des artisans des Maritimes.

BACHINSKI, WALTER, Bachinski: A Decade; Paul Duval; Kitchener-Waterloo Art Gallery, Kitchener, Ont.: 1976. 36 pp., 78 illus., 1 col., 23 x 23 cm.

The introduction speaks of the breadth of Bachinski's graphic techniques and the concern for the human condition evident in these etchings, drawings, relief and free-standing sculptures. $3.50

BARKLEY, ALAN, Alan Barkley: Sculpture; David MacWilliam; Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, Ont.: 1980. 12 pp., 10 illus., 1 col., 25.3 x 20.5 cm.

Illustrations of two large wood sculptures and a videotape. In an interview with MacWilliam Barkley discusses the role vernacular structures have played in his work and his interest in how one's movement changes the experience of a structure. $2.00

BAXTER, IAIN & INGRID, Baxter², Any Choice Works 1965-70; Marie L. Fleming; Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, Ont.: 1982. 111 pp., 82 illus., 10 col., 21 x 27.1 cm.

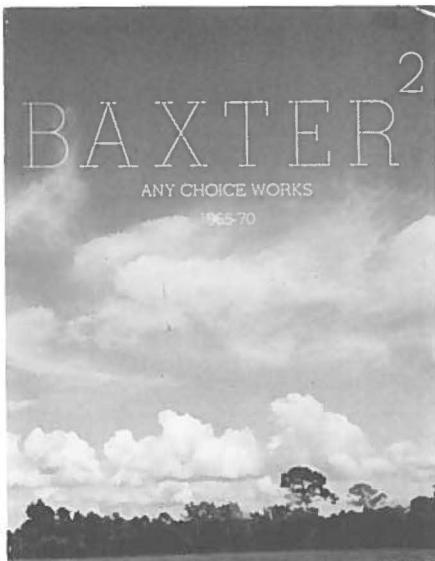

A very thorough scholarly account of the period when the Baxters worked under the rubric N.E. Thing Co. Baxter's early development is treated and themes which run through the work are discussed. The influence of Zen, McLuhan, Duchamp, and the communications media are noted. Appendices list formats and terms adopted by N.E. Thing Co.; detailed exhibition chronology and selected bibliography. Very fully illustrated. $15.00

BAXTER, IAIN & INGRID, Sensitivity Information Research by the N.E. Thing Co. Ltd. On Snow, Ice, Water, the North, and the General Phenomenon of Winter; Roger Boulet; The Peter Whyte Gallery, Banff, Alta.: 1974. 76 pp., 56 illus., 20.3 x 20.4 cm. Each page reproduces a sheet of "sensitivity information". Includes detailed resume of activities, exhibitions, catalogues and articles. $2.00

BÉDARD, ROBERT, Parallaxe, photographies de Robert Bédard; Montréal, QC., 1978. 59 pp., 49 illus., 25.5 x 23 cm.

Parallaxe est un livre d'artiste sur Montréal fait à partir de photos prises en 1976 et 1977. Bédard est attiré par les vues intimes, les plans peu encombrés, une ville à l'échelle humaine mais distante et silencieuse. $5.00

BELL, ALISTAIR, Alistair Bell: Prints 1935-1981; Ian M. Thom; Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, Victoria, B.C.: 1982. 96

pp., 195 illus., 7 col., 21.7 x 28.1 cm.	field painting.	$5.00
Thom discusses the career of this Vancouver printmaker, defining his work in terms of its superb drawing, excellent craftsmanship, and the spirit of his subject matter. Contains a fully illustrated detailed catalogue of the exhibition.	$7.00
BEN-HAIM, ZIGI , Zigi Ben-Haim ; William Zimmer; Art Gallery of Hamilton, Hamilton, Ont.: 1982. 25 pp., 20 illus., 6 col., 25.8 x 23 cm.
Using paper, wire mesh, pigments and concrete, this New York artist makes works which suggest the dichotomy of spirit and matter.	$8.00
BENTHAM, DOUGLAS , Douglas Bentham : 'Enclosures and Opens' 1975/76; Douglas Bentham, Robert Christie; Art Gallery of York University, Toronto, Ont.: 1976. 29 pp., 12 illus., 28.3 x 21.7 cm.
Reproductions of twelve welded steel sculptures by this Prairie sculptor. The text discusses the evolution of Bentham's work from traditionally conceived pieces which emphasized mass to a flatter, more linear, open sculpture standing directly on the ground and analyzes the formal qualities of the works in the show. Includes artist's statement.	$3.00
Nora Blanck, Doug Biden ; Greg Bellerby; Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, Victoria, B.C.: 1981. 31 pp., 24 illus., 3 col., 21.7 x 28 cm.
Each artist is introduced separately. Blanck's concerns as a painter are with patterning and decoration, while Biden's drawings and prints reveal an interest in surface and in the nature of symbols.	$5.00
BOLDUC, DAVID , David Bolduc: Recent Work ; Sandra Paikowsky, Donald F. P. Andrus; Sir George Williams Art Galleries, Concordia University, Montreal, Qc.: 1979. 36 pp., 26 illus., 1 col., 21.8 x 28 cm.
Reproductions of all the paintings in the exhibition; chronology and extensive bibliography. The text examines Bolduc's work since 1967, placing it in the context of Toronto abstraction and American colour-

Relief structuriste, structurisme, le lieu de jonction où la forme et la couleur se fusionnent dans la recherche de l'harmonie et de la nature dans son essence même. Après une analyse de l'oeuvre se trouvent plusieurs citations de l'artiste tirées de THE STRUCTURIST, revue dont il assume la publication depuis plusieurs années. 105 œuvres de l'exposition sont reproduites en miniature et décrites à la fin de ce catalogue dont la conception est spéciale.
Structurist relief, structurism, a place where form and colour merge in the search for harmony and the very essence of nature. Following an analysis of the work are several quotes by the artist, taken from THE STRUCTURIST, a magazine that he has been publishing for a number of years. 105 works are reproduced in small format and described at the end of this very distinctive catalogue.	$8.00
Robert Bourdeau & Philip Pocock ; David Burnett; Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, Ont.: 1981. 32 pp., 17 illus., 4 col., 25.7 x 20.5 cm.
In a thoughtful essay, Burnett reflects on the language of photographic analysis, following these remarks with a brief contrast of the techniques and subject matter of these two Canadian-born photographers, and an interpretive description of the subject matter each one chooses in order to get at the meaning of the works. High quality reproductions.	$6.00

BUTLER, JACK, K. J. Butler, Recent Work; Mark Holton, Robert Enright; Confederation Centre Art Gallery and Museum, Charlottetown, P.E.I.: 1981. 16 pp., 17 illus., 19.1 x 28 cm.

Butler's artistic career has been decisively marked by his work as a medical artist and his contact with non-Western culture in the Canadian Arctic. Consideration of the mythopoetic and erotic aspects of his use of the female figure in paintings, drawings and hand-made paper constructions.

$1.00

Sheila Butler/Wendy Coad: Figurative Paintings; Michael Parke-Taylor; Norman Mackenzie Art Gallery, University of Regina, Regina, Sask.: 1982. 9 pp., 4 illus., 2 col., 21.6 x 28.1 cm.

A complementarity between formalist, painterly concerns and figurative imagery with moral or psychological overtones is seen to link the work of these two Prairie painters. Includes biographies and checklist.

$3.30

Through political commitment, teaching, the modernist stance of the artist fascinated with the urban environment, social and public art, we find a different view of the artistic scene of Québec since the forties. Andrus' analysis is very detailed and is divided into three sections which follow the stages in the artist's career. Elaborate chronology, numerous notes, exhaustive descriptions of the illustrations and a comprehensive bibliography make this catalogue essential.

À travers l'engagement politique, l'enseignement, le modernisme de l'artiste attirée par les sujets urbains, l'art social et public, on découvre une vision différente de la scène artistique québécoise depuis les années 40. L'analyse de Andrus est très fouillée et se divise en trois volets qui suivent les étapes de la carrière du peintre. Une chronologie détaillée, de nombreuses notes, une description complète des illustrations et une bibliographie exhaustive complètent cet ouvrage essentiel.

Alberta Art Gallery, Lethbridge, Alta.: 1983. 2 pp., 5 illus., 1 col., 58.8 x 46.6 cm.
In an essay on the reverse side of a poster, Allison discusses the humanizing pleasure of looking provoked by the sensuous colour and complex patterns of these braided sisal works. $5.00

CHRISTIE, ROBERT, Robert Christie/Five Years; Ken Carpenter; Mendel Art Gallery, Saskatoon, Sask.: 1982. 27 pp., 21 illus., 5 col., 21.3 x 27.9 cm.

One of a series of exhibitions by contemporary Saskatchewan artists. The text considers formative influences on Christie and CICANSKY, VICTOR, Victor Cicansky: Clay Sculpture; Bruce W. Ferguson, Carol A. Phillips; Norman Mackenzie Art Gallery, University of Regina, Regina, Sask.: 1983. 63 pp., 55 illus., 20 col., 21.7 x 28.1 cm.

Eschewing notions of linear progression and a heroic treatment of the artist, Ferguson's thoughtful essay presents a history of Cicansky's ceramic sculpture, relating it to ideas of the vernacular and regional realism. Cicansky's main theme is seen to be the domestic garden as site of the interdependence of man and nature. A complementary essay by Phillips considers the social and cultural aspects of Cicansky's working-class upbringing in Regina and relates these to his monumental images of the immigrant as "culture hero of toil". Well designed with good colour reproductions. $25.00 which derives from his concern with relationships between man and nature. Extensive bibliography. $4.00

COGSWELL, BARRY, Barry Cogswell: Ethiopian Landscape/Brittany Landscape; Ted Lindberg, Scott Watson; Charles H. Scott Gallery, Emily Carr College of Art and Design and Vancouver Art Gallery, Vancouver, B.C.: 1981. 24 pp., 25 illus., 6 col., 28.1 x 21.7 cm.

A well-illustrated catalogue. Lindberg discusses the sources of Cogswell's work, Watson places it within the historical context of the sacred landscape. Includes artist's statement and biography. $4.00

COLLYER, ROBIN; Robin Collyer; Philip Fry; Agnes Etherington Art Centre, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.: 1982. 95 pp., 64 illus., 21.6 x 28 cm, English & français.

A direct, clear, interesting and well presented didactic undertaking. Nineteen descriptions/interpretations by the author, full of pertinent observations, are superimposed on the artist's formal statements. The reader can "see" the works easily and in this all the more since each additional piece of information relies on carefully chosen photographic documents. In the postface, the main characteristics of Collyer's works are underlined: influenced by formalism, his open visual fields are based on literality, but very early on displacements, allusions and evocations occur. The artist feels committed to a concrete and social life and develops a critical standpoint that takes on the aesthetic, intellectual and moral constituents of life in society while exhorting the spectator to make his own judgements.

Une entreprise didactique directe, claire, intéressante et bien présentée. Superposées aux propositions formelles de l'artiste, les 19 descriptions/interprétations de l'essayiste abondent en remarques pertinentes. Le lecteur (la lectrice) peut "voir" les œuvres sans effort, d'autant plus facilement que chaque nouvelle information s'appuie sur des documents photographiques choisis avec soin. Dans la postface sont dégagées les caractéristiques de la démarche de Collyer. À la suite du formalisme, ces "compositions à champ visuel ouvert" sont fondées sur la littéralité mais s'y ajoutent bientôt le déplacement, l'allusion, l'évocation. C'est la démarche engagée dans la vie sociale concrète d'un artiste qui assume ses responsabilités en adoptant une attitude critique et qui prend en charge les composantes esthétiques, intellectuelles et morales de la vie en société en exhortant le spectateur à formuler ses propres jugements. $8.00

COMTOIS, LOUIS, Louis Comtois: Paintings 1974-1979; René Payant; Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, Ont.: 1980. 20 pp., 4 col. illus., 22.5 x 19.8 cm.

Payant's text gives careful consideration to the nature and effect of colour and the structure of colour in these paintings, insisting that their sense lies in the mobility of the spectator's eye. $3.00

CONDRON, BRIAN, Slowly I Turned...; Lily Koltun; Art Gallery of York University, Toronto, Ont.: 1981. 45 pp., 35 illus., 28.2 x 21.7 cm, English & français.

A handsomely produced catalogue of a suite of photographs whose theme is the spectacle and spectators of Niagara Falls. The text underlines the orgy of looking Niagara Falls has given rise to and evaluates the formal accomplishment of the photographs.

Une publication élégante d'une série de photographies qui ont toutes pour thème le spectacle et les spectateurs des chutes Niagara. Le texte souligne la débauche contemplative provoquée par les chutes Niagara et évalue la qualité formelle des photographies. $10.00

Contemporary American Prints: From Universal Limited Art Editions/The Rapp Collection; Peter Gale, Tony Towle; Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, Ont.: 1979. 64 pp., 38 illus., 4 col., 23 x 24.9 cm.

A brief introduction to the Rapp's collection followed by an account of the collaboration between Universal Limited Art Editions and the artists who produced prints there. Reproductions of works by Rauschenberg, Dine, Frankenthaler, Johns and others; detailed catalogue. $7.50

Convergent Territories. The Gallery As Artist's Studio; Ree Schonlau, Lorne Falk; Walter Phillips Gallery, The Banff Centre School of Fine Arts, Banff, Alta.: 1982. 24 pp., 81 illus., 12 col., 22.3 x 27.4 cm. The second such installation conceived by the gallery and the first to bring three artists into the gallery territory as workspace. Each of the artists designed a section of the catalogue, providing evidence of the process involved in exploring and adapting to the space, as well as work produced. Schonlau considers the creative possibilities of the gallery as alternative (working) space, while Falk's essay, written after the experience, offers some provocative insights into the dynamics of the situation.

Curnoe/Ewen/Falk/Moppett: Mayo Graham; Norman Mackenzie Art Gallery, University of Regina, Regina, Sask.: 1982. 72 pp., 27 illus., 4 col., 28 x 21.6 cm.

Greg Curnoe, Paterson Ewen, Cathie Falk and Ron Moppett are linked by their sense of humour and personal idiosyncracy. Their work is seen to exemplify "grand painting", meaning large scale, bright colour, broad gesture and texture. Includes statements by the artists and illustrations of all the works in the show. $16.50

Steve Daigle and Wayne Tousignant: Paintings and Sculptures; Art Gallery of Windsor, Windsor, Ont.: 1982. 18 pp., 18 illus., 20.9 x 21.7 cm.

Decoration and Representation; Val Greenfield, Neil Printz; Alberta College of Art Gallery, Calgary, Alta.: 1982. 36 pp., 17 illus., 5 col., 26.8 x 21.1 cm. Paintings, ceramics and mixed media works by five New York artists represented by the Holly Solomon Gallery: Brad Davis, Robert Kushner, Kim MacConnel, Rodney Rippes & Ned Smyth. The text considers the work by each artist individually, placing the renewed interest in decoration and representation within the general context of revivalism and revisionism of the last ten years. $4.00

DEROUIN, RENÉ, Empreintes et reliefs, René Derouin; Gilles Daigneault; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qc.: 1981. 20 pp., 11 illus., 1 coul., 24 x 25.5 cm. Une manière différente d'envisager la gravure nous est présentée ici à travers des bois gravés de très grandes dimensions. L'intérêt de l'artiste pour les réalités géologiques et nordiques est souligné par un texte où sont décrites ses recherches depuis les années 60. Des notes biographiques et bibliographiques complètent l'ouvrage. $4.95

Le dessin de la jeune peinture; France Gascon; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qc.: 1981. 46 pp., 33 illus., 25.3 x 21.5 cm.

La pratique du dessin chez neuf peintres québécois dans la trentaine constitue l'argument de l'exposition. Le texte justifie ce choix et propose des réflexions sur la marque, le support, sur le dessin en lui-même et par rapport à la peinture issue du modernisme ainsi que des descriptions sur les recherches de chaque artiste. Biographies, reproductions des dessins et bibliographie choisie donnent de bons repères sur les œuvres et le thème de l'exposition. $3.50

The Discernible Image: An Exhibition of Contemporary Art; Alan C. Elder; Burlington Cultural Centre, Burlington, Ont.: 1982. 28 pp., 14 illus., 16.6 x 21.6 cm. Reasons for the emergence of a concern with images in recent painting are suggested in an introduction and in interviews with the artists. Works by Peter Dykhuis, Paul Hess, Douglas Kirton, Tonie Leshyk, Jonathan E. Smith, Riduan Tomkins & Tim Zuck. $1.00

Dix ans de propositions géométriques, le Québec 1955-1965; France Gascon, Louise Letocha; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qc.: 1981. 39 pp., 21 illus., 22 x 23 cm.

L'analyse de France Gascon sur les recherches plasticiennes donne des renseignements précieux pour comprendre les positions esthétiques de la décennie 55-65 au Québec. Des reproductions pleines pages, une mise en page claire et sobre, des compléments biographiques, chronologiques et bibliographiques concourent à faire de ce petit catalogue une référence intéressante.

Drawing-A Canadian Survey 1977 - 1982/Dessin contemporain canadien; Peter Krausz, Denis Lessard; Centre Saidye Bronfman, Montreal, Qc.: 1983. 136 pp., 33 illus., 4 col., 28.2 x 21.6 cm, English & français.

Sixteen artists, including Sheila Butler, Betty Goodwin, John Scott, are each represented by two works in this handsomely produced catalogue. Krausz's text looks at the unfinished, vital quality of drawing, while Lessard's provides a valuable critical overview of Canadian and some American drawing exhibitions held since the beginning of the seventies.

Seize artistes, dont Sheila Butler, Betty Goodwin, John Scott, etc., représentés chacun par deux œuvres dans ce catalogue à la mise en page élégante. Le texte de Krausz considère le dessin sous l'angle de sa vitalité et de son inachèvement; alors que Lessard nous offre une vue d'ensemble, intéressante du point de vue critique, des expositions canadiennes et américaines de dessins qui sont produites depuis les années soixante-dix.

DUTKEWYCH, ANDREW, Andrew Dutkewych, Cascades series; Sandra Paikowsky; Sir George Williams Art Galleries/Galerie d'art Sir George Williams, Concordia University, Montréal, Qc.: 1982. 10 pp., 5 illus., 23.5 x 18 cm, English & français.

The waterfalls here are made of steel and do not refer to landscape, but rather to the concept of sculpture. A formalist sculpture which stems from minimalism, the work explores the notions of frontality, scale and discreet sensuality. The photographic documents are by Gabor Szilasi and the French translation by Sylvie Panet-Raymond: these contribute to the quality of this publication.

Les cascades dont il est question ici sont d'acier et ne réfèrent pas au concept de paysage mais à celui de structure. Sculpture formaliste, issue du minimalisme, cette pratique pose la question de la frontalité, de l'échelle et d'une sensualité discrète. Les documents photographiques sont signés Gabor Szilasi et la traduction française a été faite par Sylvie Panet-Raymond; ces deux contributions concourent à la qualité de la publication.

Esthétiques actuelles de la photographie au Québec, onze photographes; Sandra Grant Marchand; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qc.: 1982. 35 pp., 11 illus., 21 x 24.7 cm.

La photographie québécoise est issue du documentaire ce qui explique les préoccupations sociales qui l'animent dans le choix des sujets, collectifs ou individuels. Mais les pratiques actuelles font une place de plus en plus grande à la subjectivité de l'artiste dont on reconnaît la présence et qui réfléchit sur le médium. Reproductions, biographies ainsi qu'une bibliographie choisie documentent le catalogue de cette exposition itinérante qui a été présentée aux Rencontres internationales de la photographie à Arles en 1982.

FAUTEUX, ANDRÉ, André Fauteux, Ten Years-dix ans; Karen Wilkin; Agnes Etherington Art Centre, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.: 1982. 61 pp., 56 illus., 22.8 x 21.5 cm, English & français.

The photographs by T.E. Moore are rich, varied and well reproduced. The presentation is carefully laid out, the analysis of the work is precise and provides a comprehensive view of the sculptor's development and his influences, notably Anthony Caro and Kenneth Noland. The French translation, elegant and learned, makes the misprints even more regrettable.

L'ensemble des photographies de T.E. Moore est riche, varié et très bien reproduit. La présentation est soignée; l'analyse de l'oeuvre, conduite avec minutie, permet de comprendre la démarche du sculpteur et l'influence des américains comme Anthony Caro et Kenneth Noland sur son oeuvre. La traduction française est élégante et même savante, ce qui fait regretter les trop nombreuses coquilles dues à une mauvaise correction d'épreuves.

Fiction: Ian Carr-Harris, General Idea, Mary Janitch, Shirley Wiitasalo; Elke Town; Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, Ont.: 1982. 96 pp., 132 illus., 24.4 x 27.4 cm.

The four artists were chosen not for their shared sensibility but rather because the work of each contains elements of fiction. Town examines the literary, philosophical and artistic meaning of fiction as a critical concept. "Fictions" by three of the artists and brief essays on each artist. Illustrations documenting past work and biographies.

FISCHL, ERIC, Eric Fischl, Drawings/Dessins; Bruce Ferguson, Centre Saidye Bronfman, Montréal, Qc.: 1983. 21 pp., 8 illus., 24 x 21.5 cm, English & français.

Fischl's work, ironical and sensuous, offers an abundance of formal inventiveness and reveals a dramatic reality. As the essay explains, it is a visual narrative put together from snatches, its main theme being the dismantling of the family and the couple. The catalogue also offers a photographic and technical documentation on the works and the artist.

L'expression plastique de Fischl, ironique et sensuelle, est d'une grande richesse d'invention formelle et témoigne d'une réalité dramatique. Comme l'explique le texte "Au milieu d'une histoire", il s'agit d'une narration visuelle constituée de bribes ayant pour thème principal la dislocation de la famille et du couple. Le catalogue offre aussi une documentation photographique et technique sur les œuvres et l'artiste.

HANSEN, GAYLEN C., Gaylen C. Hansen; Peter White; Glenbow Museum, Calgary, Alta.: 1981. 40 pp., 28 illus., 8 col., 28.1 x 21.7 cm.

In an illuminating essay, White identifies the importance of place — Palouse, Wash. — in Hansen's work. The paintings depict a transformed reality, fantastic but real. The affinities of his work to Egyptian and Roman wall paintings and its relationship to the humorous realism and formalism of the tall tale is considered at length. Illustrations of all the works in the exhibition.

JOHNSON, TERENCE, Terence Johnson: Forts; Linda Milrod, Terence Johnson, Ron Shuebrook; Dalhousie Art Gallery, Halifax, N.S.: 1981. 15 pp., 23 illus., 15.4 x 22.3 cm.

A statement by the artist which describes how an interest in navigation and historic forts as earthworks gave rise to these graphite rubbings and constructions in cast iron, slate and lead, followed by an interpretive essay which enlarges the context of the works in terms of issues in contemporary sculpture. $2.00

JOHNSON, TERENCE, Ships/Logs; Terence Johnson; Southern Alberta Art Gallery, Lethbridge, Alta.: 1982. 6 pp., 3 illus., 28 x 21 cm.

A note by the artist relates principles of navigation to a sculptural concern for space/time relationships in his work. $3.00

25.5 cm, English & français.

Between constructivism and minimalism, between the geometrisation and idealisation of forms, between the neutrality of the materials and the purity of the work; the rigour of the artist appears in the phenomenological description of "Wall Line Vertical". The catalogue is sober and clear, well documented and completed by a list of the works in the exhibition, a biography and a bibliography.

Entre constructivisme et minimalisme, entre géométrisme et idéalisme des formes, entre neutralité des matériaux et pureté de l'oeuvre, la rigueur de l'artiste apparaît au milieu de la description phénoménologique de "Wall Line Vertical". Le catalogue est sobre, clair, bien documenté et complété par une liste des travaux de l'exposition, une biographie et une bibliographie. $2.50

Latitudes + Parallels: Focus on Contemporary Canadian Photography/Latitudes + Parallèles: Convergences sur la photographie canadienne contemporaine; Penny Cousineau, Tom Gore, Shirley Madill; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1983. 109 pp., 80 illus., 30 col./coul., English & français.

The body of this catalogue consists of eighty large reproductions of the photographs by twenty-seven artists selected for this travelling exhibition by Penny Cousineau, Tom Gore and William E. Ewing. Juror's statements by Cousineau and Gore discuss the selection process and the nature of a juried exhibition, with emphasis on the work submitted for this show, and the consequences of such pre-established selection criteria as the stipulation that works be produced in the 80s.

Le catalogue consiste, pour l'essentiel, en quatre-vingt reproductions d'œuvres des vingt-sept artistes choisis pour cette exposition itinérante par Penny Cousineau, Tom Gore et William E. Ewing. Cousineau et Gore nous donnent les raisons qui ont motivé leur choix, discutent de la nature d'une exposition régie par un jury, et de son influence sur le choix des œuvres ainsi que l'effet qu'un critère, tel que celui d'exiger que les œuvres aient été produites dans les années quatre-vingts, pût avoir sur leur choix.

MACDONALD, MURRAY, Spatial Conjuncts: Steel and Aluminum Works 1981-1982; Jean Tourangeau, Lynn Hughes (trans.); Montreal, Qc.: 1982. 12 pp., 6 illus., 22.3 x 18 cm, English & français.

Small scale sculptures in steel and aluminum by an artist who had previously been working in environmental installations. Short essay by Tourangeau looks at this transition, placing it in the larger context of recent sculpture's rediscovery of representation, and provides an analysis of the spatial characteristics of the objects. Biography.

Des sculptures de dimensions modestes en acier et en aluminium faites par un artiste qui se spécialisait dans l'installation environnementale. Un court texte de Tourangeau commente cette transition en la plaçant dans le contexte, plus large, de la redécouverte de la représentation par la sculpture des dernières années, tout en offrant une analyse des caractéristiques spatiales des objets. Une biographie est incluse.

Menues Manoeuvres: Sylvain P. Cousineau, Serge Murphy, Yana Sterbak: France Gascon; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qc.: 1982. 55 pp., 48 illus., 21 x 25 cm.

Ni peinture ou sculpture, assemblage, collage, objet trouvé ou installation, les œuvres de ces trois artistes ne se conforment à aucun "nom", mais utilisent chaque "genre" avec une liberté très personnelle. Cette liberté se manifeste autant par les matériaux utilisés (souvent d'ailleurs, des objets trouvés) que par les citations plutôt critiques d'éléments formels de toute l'histoire de l'art. France Gascon consacre un bref essai à chacun des artistes, précisant leur démarche individuelle et les aspects formels des œuvres de chacun; et dans son introduction elle décrit leurs affinités et différences apparentes malgré les divergences évidentes. Le catalogue inclut de nombreuses reproductions des œuvres de chaque artiste, une courte biographie et bibliographie. $3.50

MICHENER, ROBERT, Robert Michener - Farm Paintings: Mary Fox; Southern Alberta Art Gallery, Lethbridge, Alta.: 1983. 2 pp., 5 illus., 1 col., 58.5 x 81.4 cm. A poster as a catalogue with an essay on the reverse, in which Fox presents these minutely detailed landscape paintings as responses to the estrangement of man from nature. $6.00

Des Mille Manières... Lectures/Oeuvres d'art: Lucette Bouchard, David Karel, Pierre Filteau, Nicole Dubreuil-Blondin, Jean-Claude St-Hilaire; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qc.: 1983. 66 pp., 36 illus., 5 col. (dépliant), 23 x 30.5 cm.

Une exposition et un catalogue didactiques qui visent surtout les étudiants du collégial (mais aussi le grand public). Quatre méthodologies d'analyse sont présentées par quatre professeurs d'histoire de l'art. Dubreuil-Blondin s'attardant au formalisme, regarde une oeuvre de Jack Bush. Filteau utilise l'approche iconologique dans une analyse d'une peinture de Marius Dubois. Karel, théoricien de l'art, nous présente une oeuvre de Louis Cane et enfin St-Hilaire, en utilisant la grille structuraliste, commente les sérigraphies de Lauréat Marois. Finalement une oeuvre de Jocelyne Alloucherie est analysée par les quatre. Chaque auteur utilise cette occasion pour justifier son choix d'approche et nous donner un bref historique de chaque méthodologie en nous présentant quelques précurseurs importants: Greenberg, Panofsky, Lévis-Strauss.

MINDEN, ROBERT, Robert Minden, Separate from the World/À l'écart du reste du monde: Robert Minden, National Film Board of Canada/Office national du film du Canada, Ottawa, Ont.: 1979. 72 pp., 21 illus., 1 col., 21.5 x 30.5 cm, English & français.

Robert Minden's account, the extract of a letter from Tolstoy and the Doukhobors' personal recollections in three languages accompany these nostalgic photographs taken between 1973 and 1979. An illustrated narrative of the persecuted Russian pacifists who came to Canada at the beginning of the century to cultivate the soil, without the notion of private property, non-violent and thoroughly devoted to God.

Un témoignage de Robert Minden, l'extrait d'une lettre de Tolstoi et les réflexions des Doukhobors accompagnent en trois langues des photographies prises entre 1973 et 1979 qui sont d'une profonde nostalgie. C'est le récit illustré de ces Russes pacifistes pourchassés chez eux et venus au Canada

au début du siècle vivre de la terre, sans propriété privée, sans violence et soumis à Dieu. $9.50

Mirrorings: Women Artists of the Atlantic Provinces; Avis Lang Rosenberg; Art Gallery, Mount Saint Vincent University, Halifax, N.S.: 1982. 45 pp., 15 illus., 21.8 x 28.1 cm.

A thematic exhibition of art by fifteen women including traditional forms like quilts and hooked rugs as well as sculpture, painting, drawing and photography, offered as "illuminations of our lives". The essay provides a critique of the term women's art, examines the concerns of the individual artists in the show, and discusses the levels of support accorded women artists in the region. Statement by each artist and brief biography. $6.00 variety of model agreements to be used between artists and dealers, and also in the case of sales, commissions, exhibition loans and lectures. Other areas covered are performance art, print publishing, copyright licences, rentals and video art. $30.00

Montréal; Diana Nemiroff; Alberta College of Art Gallery, Calgary, Alta.: 1981. 46 pp., 26 illus., 7 col., 27.1 x 21.2 cm.

Seven Montreal artists, including Pierre Boogaerts, Eva Brandl, Tim Clark, Sorel Cohen, Roland Poulin, Serge Tousignant and Bill Vazan who work in sculpture, photography and performance. The essay relates the diversity of the work to the openness of the Montreal milieu in the 70s typified by the parallel gallery Véhicule. Statements by some of the artists. $4.00

Mise en Scène: Kim Adams, Mowry Baden, Roland Brener, Al McWilliams, Liz Magor, Jerry Pethick; Scott Watson, Lorna Farrell-Ward; Vancouver Art Gallery, Vancouver, B.C.: 1982. 132 pp., 139 illus., 23.3 x 29.9 cm.

Illustrated with photos of sculptural installations during construction and upon completion, also some plans and models. An erudite interpretive essay by two of the curators; lengthy statements by the artists; interviews. Very complete documentation.

MOORE, DAVID, Three holes in the ground; Leo Rosenthaler, Gernot Nebel; Montreal, Qc.: 1981. 71 pp., 30 illus., 25.5 x 25.5 cm.

An artist's book made after an earlier exhibition. Photos showing the process of making three life casts are juxtaposed with poetic texts in which the subjects attempt to link their sensations to those of the victims of the volcanic eruption at Pompeii. That natural disaster is compared to the threat of man-made nuclear disaster. $10.00

MOPPETT, CARROLL, Carroll Moppett: Sculpture and Drawings; Victoria Baster; Glenbow Museum, Calgary, Alta.: 1981. 16 pp., 14 illus., 3 col., 21.7 x 21.7 cm. In a sensitive essay, Baster traces the sculptural antecedents of these small painted reliefs and wooden sculptures. Examining their scale, materials and figurative allusions, she concludes that it is by integration of referential content and literal materiality that all of Moppett's works achieve their effects. High quality reproductions of the sculptures and drawings; checklist and biography. $5.00

MOPPETT, RON, Ron Moppett; Lorne Falk, Nancy Tousley, Mayo Graham; Walter Phillips Gallery, The Banff Centre School of Fine Arts, Banff, Alta.: 1982. 20 pp., 42 illus., 26 col., 25.4 x 21 cm. Reproductions of paintings, sculptures and mixed media work done between 1976 and 1982. Texts provide insights into his resistance to stylistic definition, interpretations of his "sign language" and a natiotional experiential depiction of Moppett and his work. Checklist and biography. $6.95

MORGAN, JOEY, Joey Morgan: Jericho Detachment Project: RCAF Hangars 5, 7 & 8; Greg Snider; Southern Alberta Art Gallery, Lethbridge, Alta.: 1981. 16 pp., 22 illus., 2 col., 28.1 x 21.7 cm.

A site work which seeks to understand the boundaries of a demolished seaplane base in Vancouver using latex "skins" to lift off chosen segments of the surface of the site. Illustrations of the natural "artifacts", the site, and the work in progress. $6.00

Murder Research; Image Nation (21), Toronto, Ont.: 1977. 50 pp., 32 illus., 18 col., 21.1 x 20 cm.

New Canadian Photography/La Nouvelle Photographie Canadienne/ Image Nation 26; David Hlynky, Jayce Salloum; Canadian Centre of Photography and Film/Image Nation/Centre canadien de la photographie et du film, Toronto, Ont.: 1982. 63 pp., 48 illus., 38 coul., 22 x 28 cm, English & français.

As the interview published in the catalogue informs us, the selection was made by Jayce Salloum; it includes seventeen photographers chosen on the grounds of the novelty content of their works and their growing reputation. This publication also offers an analysis of the development of each artist by Hlynky; a controversial essay by Salloum on the novelty and the Canadian content in these practices, and a set of reproductions, each artist being given two pages.

La sélection fut faite par Jayce Salloum comme nous l'apprend l'entrevue publiée dans le catalogue; elle comprend 17 photographes choisis en raison de la nouveauté de leurs recherches et leur réputation grandissante. Cette publication offre aussi une analyse de chaque démarche présentée par Hlynky, un essai polémique sur les concepts de nouveauté et de "canadianité" de ces pratiques écrit par Salloum ainsi qu'un ensemble de reproductions dans lequel deux pages sont consacrées à chaque artiste. $6.00

New Directions: Toronto/Montréal; Fela Grunwald, Diana Nemiroff; Art Toronto 82 (3rd International Art Fair), Toronto, Ont.: 1982. 43 pp., 14 illus., 1 col., 21.7 x 23.6 cm.

Fourteen artists whose work may be identified with the "new" figuration, including Brian Burnett, Rae Johnson, Renée Van Halm, David Elliott, Lynn Hughes, Michael Jolliffe. The essay offers an analysis of the renewed importance of the image, emphasizing the critical function of the insistence on content. Two strategies are noted: an emphasis on the intact marginality of the artist, and the use of the images and forms of the communications media as subject.

New Uses for Television; David Craig, Edward Slopek; The Confederation Centre Art Gallery and Museum, Charlottetown, P.E.I.: 1981. 6 pp., 1 illus., 21.7 x 28.1 cm.

A reflective essay by Craig associates television works by artists with the ethical tradition in art; a videotext by Slopek. Artists include Slopek, Norman Cohn, Martha Rosler, Tom Sherman.

New Work by a New Generation; Robert Houle; Norman Mackenzie Art Gallery, University of Regina, Regina, Sask.: 1982. 87 pp., 40 illus., 15 col., 22 x 28 cm.

The short introductory essay discusses the relationship between contemporary art concepts, techniques and styles, and tribal imagery, symbolism and ritual which is deeply entrenched in the heritage of these fifteen young North American Indian artists. The paintings and sculptures of this "new generation" straddles two divergent cultures and yet still retains both the personal identity of the artists and the strong iconographic characteristics of traditional Indian art. Includes extensive biographies, artist's statements and full-page reproductions.

Paradise/Le Paradis; Martha Langford, Glenn Lewis, Avis Lang Rosenberg; National Film Board of Canada/Office national du film du Canada, Ottawa, Ont.: 1980. 99 pp., 12 illus., 9 col., 21.7 x 23.5 cm, English & français.

More than a catalogue, Paradise is a book entirely devoted to the search of the myth of origin that still continues to haunt the imagination. The five artists use photographs, slides and xeroxes to rediscover visual traces of the myth. Three texts explore the subject through a description of this quest which Jung said would manifest itself in the 20th century in the communist myth of the golden age and in Western dreams of a welfare state.

Plus qu'un catalogue, Le Paradis est un livre tout entier consacré à la recherche de ce mythe d'origine qui continue de hanter l'imaginaire. L'image photographique, la diapositive, la xérographie furent utilisées par cinq artistes pour en retrouver la trace visuelle. Trois textes approfondissent le thème dans la description de cette quête dont Jung disait qu'elle se matérialisait au 20e siècle dans le mythe communiste de l'Âge d'or et dans les rêves occidentaux de l'État Providence. $9.50

PASKIEVICH, JOHN; A Voiceless Song/Un chant muet; Photographs of the Slavic Lands/Photographies du monde slave: Joseph Skvorecky, Martha Langford; Lester & Orpen Dennys and National Film Board of Canada/Lester & Orpen Dennys et l'Office national du film du Canada, Toronto, Ont.: 1983. 95 pp., 68 illus., 26.3 x 22.2 cm, English & français.

There are books to read and books to look at. Rather than following the thread of words, the narration trails glances, postures and landscapes, revealing the photographer's trustful and complicit relationships with his subjects. It is a photographic practice searching for its roots, a denunciatory gesture which stands up for the weak and the oppressed against alienation. Reality has overflowed the theoretical a priori, and the artist respects this.

Il est des livres à lire et des livres d'images. La narration ne suit pas ici le fil des mots mais des regards, des poses, des paysages et révèle le photographe dans la relation de complicité et de confiance entre ses sujets et lui. C'est une pratique photographique à la recherche de ses racines, dénonciatrice et qui prend parti pour le faible et l'opprimé contre l'aliénation. La réalité a débordé les a priori théoriques et l'artiste l'a respectée.

Greenwood posits an inherently disturbing element underneath the Apollonian order and clarity of Pratt's art which gives it a complexity that opens it up to paradoxical interpretations.

Greenwood postule l'existence d'un élément fondamentalement perturbateur sous l'ordre apollonien et la clarté de l'art de Pratt, ce qui lui donne une complexité qui le rend susceptible de recevoir des interprétations paradoxales. $1.00

PRATT, MARY. Mary Pratt; Joan Murray; London Regional Art Gallery, London, Ont.: 1981. 24 pp., 24 illus., 7 col., 25.5 x 21.5 cm.

Joan Murray discusses Pratt's particularly intimate vision, her subtle eroticism, her technical precision and her working procedure which tends to begin from photographs and slides. The author relates Pratt's work to the American Photo-Realists, to the earlier generation of Canadian realists Alex Colville and Hugh Mackenzie and to the 19th century Quebec painter Ozias Leduc.

L'art des années 70 au Québec: P. Boogaerts, P. Gnass, C. Kiopini, C. Knudsen, R. Mill, L. Plotek, R. Poulin, R. Racine, S. Tousignant, I. Whittome. Les auteurs essayent non pas de faire un survol où un aperçu représentatif, mais de démontrer la pluralité de l'art au Québec. L'esquisse historique de Réal Lussier place cette exposition dans une grande ligne de manifestations très importantes pour le développement de l'art au Québec. France Gascon explique le mandat de l'exposition, le choix des artistes et, en les regroupant légèrement, elle analyse les œuvres de l'exposition. Josée Bélisle en compilant les itinéraires personnels de chaque artiste, fait une analyse descriptive du développement

CATALOGUES VOLUME I

Le volume I du Catalogue des catalogues canadiens en art contemporain comprend plus de 400 titres qui ont été publiés par les principaux musées et galeries entre 1970 et 1981. Quelque 300 catalogues y sont commentés, notamment des publications indépendantes d'artistes et de galeries alternatives. Le volume I représente donc une source d'information de premier ordre. Il est disponible à ARTEXTE au coût de 2$, port payé.

The Catalogue of Canadian Catalogues on Contemporary Art Volume I lists over 400 catalogues published by major Canadian museums and galleries from 1970-1981. More than 300 titles are reviewed including independently produced publications by artists, alternative galleries and others. Volume I is therefore an excellent resource and is available from ARTEXTE for $2.00 including postage and handling.

Artexte est un centre sans but lucratif, spécialisé dans la collecte et la diffusion de l'information en art contemporain canadien et étranger.

Ouverte depuis 1980, la librairie d'Artexte offre les catalogues des expositions récentes et en cours, plus de 80 périodiques et une collection importante de cartes postales d'artistes et de disques canadiens, américains et européens. On peut consulter à notre centre de documentation des dossiers sur les artistes, les événements, les institutions et les publications. Notre service de distribution, en plein essor, propose le choix le plus complet de catalogues d'exposition en art contemporain. Artexte offre aussi d'autres services, notamment des listes sur des sujets spécifiques (tels que la performance ou la vidéo), et un guide qui facilite l'utilisation du centre de documentation pour des personnes de l'extérieur de Montréal. Il est possible d'obtenir des listes sur demande, pour lesquelles une modique somme sera exigée pour couvrir les frais de manutention.

Artexte is a non-profit centre for the collection, diffusion and distribution of information about contemporary art in Canada and abroad.

Open since 1980, Artexte's bookstore carries current exhibition catalogues, over 80 magazines and a large collection of art postcards and records from Canada, the U.S. and Europe. Our Documentation Centre contains information on artists, events, institutions and publications available for consultation on the premises. Our rapidly expanding Distribution Service offers the largest and most complete selection of Canadian exhibition catalogues on contemporary art. Other services offered by Artexte include lists of information on specific subjects, drawn from the Documentation Centre (e.g. performance and video catalogues) and a Guide to the Documentation Centre facilitating access to information for researchers outside of Montréal. Lists can be compiled upon request for which we will charge a small fee to cover basic costs and handling.

SABISTON, CAROLE, Sailing: Carole Sabiston; Greg Bellerby; Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, Victoria, B.C.: 1982. 2 pp., 7 illus., 1 col., 48.7 x 63.8 cm.

A poster with a short essay on the back, introducing these fabric collages which take the form of sails. $3.00

SAWADA, MIHO, Miho Sawada: New Works - Transparency; Glen E. Cumming, Dr. Tom C. Tritschler; Art Gallery of Hamilton, Hamilton, Ont.: 1981. 17 pp., 16 illus., 23 x 20.4 cm.

A brief text describes the essentially visual rather than tangible nature of these three-dimensional and environmental pieces which employ reflective surfaces such as mylar. $3.00

SCHAFER, R. MURRAY, R. Murray Schafer; Sounds Unseen/Je n'ai jamais vu un son; John Silverstein, Christopher Tyrell, R. Murray Schafer; Presentation House, North Vancouver, B.C., and The Gallery/Stratford, Ont.: 1982. 3 pp., 3 illus., 22.9 x 23 cm, English & français.

Semaine de la vidéo féministe québécoise; Christine Ross; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qc.: 1982, 17 pp., 21 x 28 cm.

Vingt-huit bandes vidéo-féministes réparties en vidéo-fictions et vidéo-documentaires. Cette plaquette comprend une description technique et un résumé de chaque oeuvre. $0.50

SEMCHISHEN, OREST, Byzantine Churches of Alberta. Photographs by Orest Semchishen; Hubert Hohn ed., Robert B. Klymasz; The Edmonton Art Gallery, Edmonton, Alta.: 1976. 80 pp., 30 illus., 22 x 23.5 cm.

Semchishen's photographic study of Eastern Rite churches in Alberta represents an important historical document of these striking architectural structures. Hohn attempts to clarify the concept of documentary photography with regards to Semchishen's work and analyses in detail his photographic vision which is based on his personal commitment and concern for the preservation of his subject. $5.00

SEMCHUK, SANDRA, Sandra Semchuk: Excerpts from a Diary; Penny Cousineau, Stephen Cummings; Mendel Art Gallery, Saskatoon, Sask.: 1982. 30 pp., 18 illus., 28.2 x 21.7 cm.

Illustrated with sequences from the photographic narrative which Semchuk calls an "autobiographical fiction". Interesting thoughts from Cousineau on Semchuk's self-portraits in the context of contemporary feminist photography. $6.00

SEWELL, RICHARD, Richard Sewell: The Drint Suite "An Excavation of a Drawing"; William J. S. Boyle; The Gallery/Stratford, Stratford, Ont.: 1981. 16 pp., 18 illus., 20.4 x 15 cm.

The essay discusses Sewell's procedure at length, using the word "drint" to suggest the combination of drawing and printmaking procedures, exploding the myth of the drawing as a unique image. Illustrations of individual drawings and installation shots. $2.00

SHELTON, PETER, Peter Shelton: Sweathouse and little principals/trunknutes, Whitehead floater; Christopher Knight, Barbara Fischer; Open Space Gallery, Victoria, B.C.: 1982. 17 pp., 20 illus., 2 col., 21.5 x 17.8 cm.

Knight analyzes the evocation of place in the work of this young American sculptor which often contains architectural or biomorphic references. Also includes an interview with Shelton by Fischer, biography and bibliography. $2.00

SHUEBROOK, RON, Ron Shuebrook: Reliefs and Drawings; Gemey Kelly; Southern Alberta Art Gallery, Lethbridge, Alta.: 1983. 16 pp., 10 illus., 1 col., 17.3 x 17.3 cm. Traces the roots of Shuebrook's work in Abstract Expressionism and provides a detailed formal analysis of recent drawings and reliefs, concluding that they are both formal and romantic. $4.00

TOM SHERMAN, Un aspect différent de la télévision, Tom Sherman: Vidéogrammes et écrits; Manon Blanchette, Tom Sherman, Louise Gagné; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qc.: 1982. 41 pp., 4 illus., 13.5 x 21 cm, français & English.

À partir d'une analyse descriptive de deux de ses vidéogrammes, Tom Sherman compare la télévision et l'art vidéo. Il étudie la possibilité d'une large diffusion de l'art vidéo à la télévision.

Dans "La théorie du lapin et la transformation psychologique des données", Sherman se sert de son expérience de la nature (ici un lapin) pour illustrer le concept de la transformation psychologique des données. Ce catalogue comprend une courte introduction par la conservatrice Manon Blanchette et une biographie/bibliographie compilée par Louise Gagné.

Through a descriptive analysis of his two videotapes East on the 401 and TVideo, Tom Sherman discusses the differences and relationship between television and video art and the possibilities available for wide spread distribution (e.g. television) of video art. In "The Rabbit Theory of Data Transformation", Sherman uses his own experience of nature (in particular a rabbit) as a means of illustrating the concept of data transformation. The catalogue also includes a short introduction by the curator Manon Blanchette and a chronology/bibliography compiled by Louise Gagné.

SIMONDS, CHARLES, Charles Simonds, Home Making; Lorne Falk, John Beardsey; Walter Phillips Gallery, The Banff Centre School of Fine Arts, Banff, Alta.: 1982. 16 pp., 46 illus., 29.1 x 43.9 cm.

The newspaper tabloid format of the catalogue suggests the improvised, temporary nature of this exhibition in which American Charles Simonds transformed the gallery into a working studio. Falk's article emphasizes the experimental aspect of the convergence of the two contexts, while Beardsey deals with Simonds' background and looks at the thirteen works of clay and found objects which were made during the exhibition.

The Sixth Dalhousie Drawing Exhibition; David Bolduc, Barry Hale; Dalhousie Art Gallery, Halifax, N.S.: 1982. 15 pp., 16 illus., 1 col., 15.5 x 31.9 cm.

Abstract, eclectic and exotic, with a drift towards landscape and the characteristics which link the work of Toronto painters David Bolduc, Alex Cameron, Erik Gamble, Paul Hutner and Gordon Rayner. Reproductions of their drawings are prefaced by notes by Bolduc and an introduction by Hale on the modernism of three generations of Toronto artists. Biographies. $1.50

SMEDLEY, GEOFFREY, Geoffrey Smedley; Luke Rombout, Scott Watson; Vancouver Art Gallery, Vancouver, B.C.: 1982. 105 pp., 75 illus., 23.1 x 28.5 cm.

A beautifully designed catalogue with exceptionally fine photographs of the work as well as drawings and sketches by the artist. Watson's essay, "Naming the piece: Geoffrey Smedley and the Post-Modern Imagination", provides reflections on the meaning of post-modernism and an extended consideration of Smedley's work, past and present. $8.50

SPALDING, JEFFREY, Jeffrey Spalding: The Black Paintings 1973-1975; Victoria Baster; Southern Alberta Art Gallery, Lethbridge, Alta.: 1982. 3 pp., 3 illus., 2 col., 25.5 x 20.1 cm.

A fold-out containing an essay which examines in detail the origin of these works in Spalding's concern with systemic art making and in relation to minimalist tendencies of the late sixties. $3.00

SPIEGEL, STACEY, Stacey Spiegel, (Mayim) Water; Goldie Rans, Brenda Wallace; London Regional Art Gallery, London, Ont.: 1982. 16 pp., 12 illus., 25 x 21.5 cm.

Gallery Director Brenda Wallace writes briefly about the new building and galleries of the London Regional Art Gallery. Guest curator, Rans describes in detail the large installation by Speigel and the drawings made in preparation for the piece. $1.00

The Stereo Show; Tom Gore; Open Space Gallery, Victoria B.C.: 1982. 39 pp., 14 illus., 21.7 x 13.8 cm.

Technical and philosophical statements from many of the photographers in the show; bibliography on stereo photography. $3.50

STOKES, LOUIS, Louis Stokes: Wood Sculptures 1976-1982; Ted Fraser, Joan Murray; Art Gallery of Windsor, Windsor, Ont.: 1982. 24 pp., 29 illus., 2 col., 24.1 x 21.7 cm.

Symbolic and participatory aspects of Stokes's large-scale, abstract wood sculpture which makes extensive use of the spiral motif are discussed in two essays; includes chronology. $4.00

SULLIVAN, FRANÇOISE, Françoise Sullivan, rétrospective; Claude Gosselin, Martine Bousquet-Mongeau, David Moore; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, QC.: 1981. 101 pp., 110 illus., 7 coul., 29.2 x 29.2 cm.

Dans ce catalogue la perspective historique place la carrière de l'artiste dans une dimension qui déborde la simple individualité. Les nombreux moyens d'expression - danse, sculpture, peinture, photo-actions - dont Sullivan a exploré les possibilités et son engagement qui n'a cessé de se nommer depuis le Refus Global, la situent en effet au coeur de l'activité artistique québécoise depuis près de quarante ans. Les trois essais du catalogue entraînent le lecteur dans des interprétations qui se déploient et se replient en spirale et qui rejoignent ainsi les recherches de l'artiste dans ce qu'elles ont de fondamental. Les très nombreuses photographies et reproductions ajoutent encore à la qualité de cet indispensable document sur une des plus importantes figures de l'art québécois contemporain.

TAMASUKAS, OTIS, Prints by Otis Tamasukas; Ingrid Jenker; MacDonald Stewart Art Centre, Guelph, Ont.: 1982. 16 pp., 9 illus., 3 col., 22.9 x 20.5 cm.

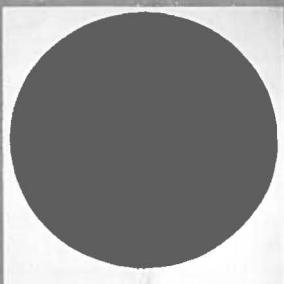

Experimental prints frequently combining procedures such as etching and lithography and making use of collaged elements. $3.25

Tendances actuelles au Québec; Louise Letocha, Yolande Racine, René Payant, Sandra Marchand, Lise Lamarche, Gilles Godmer; Musée d'art contemporain, Montréal, Qc.: 1980. 168 pp., 126 illus., 15 coul., 25 x 25 cm.

Par cette exposition le Musée renoue avec de ce moyen d'expression au Québec. Payant aborde la question de la peinture sous l'angle de sa pertinence dans la culture québécoise. Les axes de développement de la photographie artistique constituent la base d'une sélection de trente-cinq photographes dont parle Marchand. Dans l'essai de Lamarche sur la sculpture il est question du jeu des institutions et du jeu des artistes à travers les catégories proposées dans l'exposition. Selon Godmet la vidéographie québécoise est soit de préoccupation sociale, soit expérimentale et son histoire est liée à celle des groupes de production.

Sculpture, painting, installation and photo-works by fourteen artists including Barbara Astman, David Craven, Vera Frenkel, Noel Harding, Lisa Steele. Includes an introduction and statements by the artists. $5.00

TOUSIGNANT, CLAUDE, Claude Tousignant sculptures; Normand Thériault; Musée des Beaux-Arts de Montréal, Montréal, Qc.: 1982. 72 pp., 17 illus., 7 coul., et un dépliant de 4 illus., hors-texte, français & English.

une tradition qui se donnait pour but de témoigner de l'orientation de l'art québécois le plus actuel. Ce faisant, un ensemble d'oeuvres des années 70 sont réunies selon des catégories bien définies malgré l'éclatement des valeurs et des cadres et la remise en question de l'objet esthétique dont parle Letocha. Racine trace un portrait historique de la gravure en soulignant l'impact des facteurs économiques et des politiques de diffusion sur la situation précaire

Les propositions minimales de Tousignant sont mises en lumière par un texte dont l'axe de réflexion formaliste traite du langage, celui de la peinture — sa matérialité, la sensation et l'objet peint. L'exposition est placée sous le signe d'une limite, celle où les propositions plastiques ne sont plus des "monolythes" mais des éléments visuels et des outils plastiques qui entretiennent avec l'espace des rapports si étroits que c'est la salle toute entière qui devient l'oeuvre. Dans ce catalogue, la mise en page est surprenante: pages en français et en anglais en alternance.

Tousignant's minimalist statements are brought to light by a formalist reflection on language, that of painting - its materiality, sensation and the painted object. The exhibition stresses the limit where plastic statements stop being "monolithic" to become visual elements and plastic means existing in a relation to the surrounding space that is so close as to make the entire room become the work itself. The design of the catalogue is a surprising one in which French and English pages alternate.

Les trois artistes dont il est question dans le titre étaient six. De toutes façons, la traduction française des deux textes est un pur jargon et atteint par moments un niveau surréaliste. À titre d'exemple: "l'occasion narcissique de jouir au requin dans l'étang".

The three artists in the title are actually six. The French translation is pure gibberish, and at times reaches a surrealist level!

Wan/Lake; Chantal Pontbriand, Diana Nemiroff, Bruce Barber; Theodore Wan, Vancouver, B.C., Suzy Lake, Toronto, Ont.: 1982. 38 pp., 70 illus., 7 col., 28.2 x 21.7 cm.

Viewpoint: Twenty-nine By Nine; Glen E. Cumming; Art Gallery of Hamilton, Hamilton, Ont.: 1981. 80 pp., 58 illus., 19 col., 22.1 x 25.8 cm.

Employment of photography, interest in portraiture, and an ongoing concern for drawing are a few of the characteristics frequently present in this diverse show of twenty-nine Ontario artists chosen by nine curators from Ontario. Two-dimensional work by David Bolduc, Suzy Lake, Tony Calzetta, Lynn Donoghue, David Craven and others.

Suzy Lake's "Are You Talking to Me?" and Theodore Wan's four part "Hospital" series are illustrated. Nemiroff's text examines the performative aspects of Lake's work, while Barber supplies a lengthy contextualizing of Wan's work as institutional conceit. Pontbriand's introduction locates the shared concerns of both artists' work in their post-modern manipulation of the conventions of photography.

Western Front Video; Kate Craig; Western Front, Vancouver, B.C.: 1982. 93 pp., 102 illus., 25.5 x 29.8 cm.

In the form of a ringbinder with separate single sheets for each event, the catalogue can be updated by adding new sheets. The contents are divided into Special Productions (videos by guest artists at WF); Performance Documents, Music Documents, Literary Documents. Each tape is described and illustrated with an image from the monitor; date, running time and colour or black & white is noted for each one. $15.00

WHITTOME, IRENE, Irene Whittome, 1980-82; Jacqueline Fry; Alberta College of Art Gallery, Calgary, Alta.: 1982. 36 pp., 11 illus., 29.2 x 18.6 cm, français & English. Encaustics/Room 901/le 4 juillet 1982/La Gauchetière/Saint-Alexandre.

L'oeuvre se situe, nous dit Fry, entre topographie et introspection, entre sérialité et dématérialisation, entre peinture et sculpture, entre musée et jardin. De ses trois lieux d'insertion simultanée à Montréal — l'atelier de l'artiste, la galerie Yajima et le Musée d'art contemporain — à l'espace de la galerie en Alberta, la proposition de l'artiste prend une nouvelle dimension d'autant plus qu'elle voisine Encaustiques, une oeuvre de 1980.

The works are situated, says Fry, between topography and introspection, between seriality and dematerialization, between painting and sculpture and between museum and garden. From the three simultaneous spaces in Montreal — the artist's studio, Yajima Gallery and the Musée d'art contemporain — to the gallery space in Alberta, the artist's statement takes on new dimensions, and this all the more so because of the addition of the 1980 work Encaustiques. $4.00

Art or scientific photography, political or social concerns, representations of the self; the works by April, Astman, Conde and Beveridge, Corman, General Idea, Raskin, Robideau, Semak and Smylski were chosen for their use of the word. In the catalogue itself, besides a brief introduction, the use of language has been restricted to a biographical note on each artist, who, in some cases, have added statements.

Photographies d'art ou de science, préoccupations politiques ou sociales, auto-représentations, les travaux d'April, Astman, Conde et Beveridge, Corman, General Idea, Raskin, Robideau, Semak et Smylski ont été choisis en fonction de l'utilisation qu'elles (ils) font du mot. Et dans le catalogue, sauf une courte introduction, on a limité l'usage des mots à une description biographique de chacun des exposants à laquelle ceux-ci selon le cas, ont ajouté un texte explicatif de leur travail. $9.50

ASHEVAK, KAROO, Karoo Ashevak; Jean Blodgett; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1977. 76 pp., 50 illus., 21.5 x 27.5 cm.

An exhaustive study of the powerful and unique work of this reknowned sculptor from Spence Bay. The author considers his sculpture against the cultural and deeply spiritual background of the Netsilik people giving particular attention to elements of shamanism inherent in the work. Techniques of carving and assembly, materials, tools, working procedures, subject matter and visual motifs are also discussed. Extensive bibliography. $6.00

BAKER LAKE: Prints and Print-Drawings 1970-76; Sheila Butler, Bernadette Driscoll; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1983. 91 pp., 102 illus., 14 col., 25.5 x 20.5 cm.

Graphic work by nineteen artists working at the Sanavik Co-operative at Baker Lake, including Luke Anguhadluq, Ruth Annaquusi, Myra Kukiyaut, Jessie Oonark, Harold Qarlitsaq, and Marion Tuu'luk. Driscoll briefly discusses the work of each artist, particularly how each combines formal elements with subject matter to achieve a coherent and powerful visual statement. Butler examines the elements of the Eskimo's pictorial language and its relationship to their cultural and social life; the translation into graphic work of the Eskimo's highly developed sensitivity to spatial relationships; and changes in Eskimo art production due to acculturation. The aesthetic and technical considerations of translating a print-drawing into a print are outlined. $12.00

The Bessie Bulman Collection: An Exhibition of Contemporary Eskimo Sculpture; Jacqueline Fry; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1973. 18 pp., 31 illus., 21 x 27 cm.

A discussion of how the collector's personality is reflected in this first important Winnipeg collection of Eskimo art. Bulman's specific taste was oriented towards figurative sculpture representing the Eskimo environment or daily activities. Extensive catalogue list of sculptures from fifteen Arctic communities. $1.25

CHESTERFIELD, A.A., A.A. Chesterfield, Ungava Portraits/Gens de l'Ungava 1902-1904; William C. James; Agnes Etherington Art Centre, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.: 1983. 47 pp., 21 illus., 21 x 29.2 cm, English & français.

An employee at the Hudson's Bay Company in Poste-de-la-Baleine at the beginning of the century, Chesterfield photographed the Inuit and Cree of the region. Those photographs, devoid of any sentimentality, are particularly intense, exposing the poverty and harsh living conditions of the natives, so dependent on the white man. The introduction admirably places the meaning and scope of these documents both in the history of photography and on social and ethnological levels.

Au début du siècle un employé de la Compagnie de la Baie d'Hudson au Poste-de-la-Baleine a photographié les Cris et les Inuit de la région. Ces clichés sans romantisme sont d'une intensité peu commune et dénoncent la pauvreté et l'âpreté de la vie des autochtones sous la dépendance des Blancs. Le texte de présentation situe admirablement le sens et la portée de ces documents tant sur le plan de l'histoire de la photographie que sur le plan ethnologique et social. $5.00

La déesse Inuite de la mer/The Inuit Sea Goddess; Nelda Swinton; Musée des beaux-arts de Montréal/The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, Montreal, QC.: 1980. 60 pp., 60 illus., 21 x 29.5 cm, English & français.

Nelda Swinton présente une étude minutieuse de cette figure importante de la mythologie inuite en donnant un tableau des variations régionales dans l'appellation de la déesse et dans le mythe lui-même, les lieux qu'elle fréquente, ses caractéristiques physiques et la représentation dans l'art contemporain inuit. Elle décrit aussi l'influence que la déesse possède sur les animaux et les hommes, les tabous qu'elle entraîne et le rôle propitiatoire du Shaman. L'omniprésence de la déesse dans la vie inuite est soulignée et une description est donnée du festival annuel de Sedna, organisé par les Inuits de la Terre de Baffin.

Nelda Swinton presents a detailed study of this powerful figure in traditional Inuit mythology, explaining regional differences in the goddess' name and the myth itself, her abodes, her physical characteristics and their depiction in contemporary Inuit art. Her sphere of power over animals and man, taboos and the shaman's role in propitiating the sea goddess are also discussed. The goddess' pervasive presence in Inuit life is outlined and a description is given of the annual Sedna Festival held by the Inuit of Baffin Island.

Grasp Tight the Old Ways, Selections from the Klamer Family Collection of Inuit Art; Jean Blodgett, Harry Klamer, Henry B. Collins, Dorothy Jean Ray, James W. Van Stone; Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, Ont.: 1983. 172 pp., 192 illus., 16 col., 21.5 x 27.5 cm.

An extensively researched and well produced catalogue with abundant reproductions. Jean Blodgett, the author curator, in her introduction outlines her selection criteria and her wish to provide a representative and yet diverse look at the Klamer collection. The body of the catalogue is divided into fourteen sections, each devoted to an Inuit settlement. Blodgett has chosen to concentrate on the individual artists within each community rather than providing an overall discussion of all the works in the collection. A rare addition is a small selection of Eskimo artifacts, accompanied by explanatory comments by three Inuit experts. The catalogue includes a selected bibliography and a helpful map of Inuit art centres.

The Inuit Amautik: I Like My Hood To Be Full; Bernadette Driscoll, George Swinton; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1980. 128 pp., 117 illus., 6 col., 23 x 30.5 cm.

Driscoll studies the traditional Inuit woman's parka, the amautik, from numerous points of view: characteristic features, regional differences in design and decoration, materials, Western influences, and its relationship to women's traditional role in Inuit society. Her second essay, "The Amautik in Inuit Art and Society" considers the frequent depiction of the amautik in Inuit art. Swinton looks at the rich symbolic content of the amautik and its relationship to Inuit myth and culture. A glossary and bibliography complete the extensive information provided by this catalogue.

Inuit Myths, Legends & Songs; Bernadette Driscoll; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1982. 80 pp., 75 illus., 7 col., 23 x 30.5 cm, English & Inuktitut.

The eight artists whose drawings are presented in this catalogue have portrayed the stories, legends and themes of Inuit mythology recounted by their ancestors through the generations. The author introduces the reader to some of the major legends and their recurrence with surprising similarity within the different regions of the Arctic. Summarized transcripts of videotaped interviews with each artist accompany many of the illustrations allowing for a comparison insuring a proper identification and description of the stories depicted in each drawing. The eight artists are: Helen Kalvak and Agnes Nanogak from Holman; Ruth Annaqtuusi, Janet Kigusiuq, Myra Kukiiyaut, Victoria Mamnguqsualuk and Nancy Pukingnak from Baker Lake; and Davidialuk from Povungnituk. Extensive bibliography.

Ministic Sculpture; Jacqueline Fry, Robert Fraser; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1977. 186 pp., 66 illus., 24.5 x 24.5 cm, English, français & Cree.

Jacqueline Fry outlines the history of the Ministic Carver's Co-op describing the various changes that occurred in the works due to the orientations (aesthetic or commercial) of the different directors. She also discusses the criteria for selection of the sculptures, analyses a number of the works and relates the artists' stories behind some of the pieces. Robert Fraser, in his brief history of Garden Hill, Manitoba, differentiates between the history of the community and the story of its people.

Jacqueline Fry effectue un survol de l'histoire de la coopérative des sculpteurs Ministics, décrivant les changements stylistiques dans les œuvres qui reflètent les orientations diverses, esthétiques et commerciales, de ses différents directeurs. Elle traite aussi des critères de sélection des sculptures, analyse quelques œuvres et raconte l'histoire des œuvres. Robert Fraser, dans son bref historique de Garden Hill, distingue l'histoire de la communauté et celle de son peuple.

Pipes That Won't Smoke; Coal That Won't Burn-Haida Sculpture in Argillite; Carol Sheehan; Glenbow Museum, Calgary, Alta.: 1981. 214 pp., 232 illus., 13 col., 23 x 30 cm.

An indepth examination of the artistic tradition of Haida carving in argillite stone, an art form which began 180 years ago to produce objects for sale to the white man. Sheehan discusses previous studies of Haida argillite sculpture and describes the cultural and social heritage of the Haida and the details of their acculturation. She writes about the four phases of argillite sculpture and the meaning of the imagery carved into the stone, the earliest and preferred form for which was that of a pipe. Profusely illustrated and extensively researched.

PITSEOLAK, PETER, Peter Pitseolak (1902-1973), Chroniqueur Inuit de Seekooseelak/Inuit Historian of Seekooseelak; David Bellman, Dorothy Eber; Musée McCord/McCord Museum, Montréal, Qc.: 1980. 112 illus., 9 col., 24.5 x 24.5 cm, français & English.

Peter Pitseolak

Prévoyant la disparition prochaine de la culture inuite traditionnelle, Pitseolak a consacré sa vie à constituer un témoignage des coutumes ancestrales de son peuple et des bouleversements qu'il traverse. Eber examine la vie et l'œuvre de cet homme remarquable à travers son journal, ses photographies, œuvres sur papier et enregistrements, source unique et inestimable d'informations sur l'iconologie des Inuit. Bellman offre une analyse en profondeur des dessins et aquarelles de Pitseolak. Les textes de Pitseolak accompagnant ses œuvres sur papier sont inclus dans le catalogue.

Anticipating the immanent disappearance of the traditional Inuit hunting culture, Pitseolak devoted his life to documenting the old ways and the changes occurring to his people. Eber discusses this remarkable man's life and work evident in his photographs, works on paper, diaries and tape recordings which comprise an invaluable and unique source of information for research on Inuit iconology. Bellman provides an indepth analysis of Pitseolak's drawings and watercolours. Pitseolak's texts accompanying his works on paper and photographs are included.

Quillwork of the Plains/Le "travail aux piquants" des indiens des plaines; Julia M. Bebbington; Glenbow Museum, Calgary, Alb.: 1982. 70 pp., 91 illus., 8 col., 21.5 x 25.5 cm, English & français.

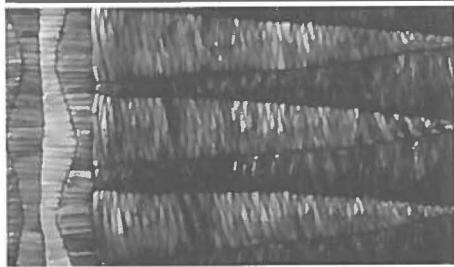

An extensive look at the now virtually non-existent form of decoration used for centuries by the Plains Indians of North America. The author describes the quill-work procedure from beginning to end, including a detailed outline with diagrams of the four techniques used to attach the quills. The diverse religious and social significances and the styles and designs which vary from tribe to tribe are also discussed. The art of dye stuffs, the notes and bibliographic references and the descriptive catalogue entries complete this document.

Une étude approfondie de cette forme décorative utilisée pendant des siècles par les indiens des plaines de l'Amérique du Nord et maintenant presque disparue. L'auteur décrit le procédé du piqué et inclut un schéma détaillé et illustré des quatre techniques utilisées pour attacher les piquants. Les multiples significations religieuse et sociale ainsi que la variété des styles et des dessins selon chaque tribu sont également exposées. Un tableau des différentes teintures, les notes et références bibliographiques complètent ce catalogue.

THE SURVEY OF INUIT ART SETTLEMENT SERIES

This series of catalogues accompanies a group of exhibitions from The Winnipeg Art Gallery focusing on the art and artists of an Inuit community in the Canadian Arctic. Each catalogue includes a map, extensive bibliography and a number of articles by various historians, curators and Inuit.

The catalogues are numbered according to their position in the series; catalogues 2 and 3 are currently out of print but are scheduled for reprinting.

Cette série de catalogues accompagne un groupe d'expositions organisées par le Musée des beaux-arts de Winnipeg au sujet de l'art et des artistes de la communauté inuite de l'Arctique canadien. Chaque catalogue inclut une carte, une bibliographie ainsi qu'un bon nombre d'articles écrits par des historiens, des conservateurs et de inuits.

Les catalogues sont numérotés selon leur ordre dans la suite d'expositions; les catalogues 2 et 3 sont épuisés, mais seront ré-édités bientôt.

1 Port Harrison/Inoucdjouac: Jean Blodgett, James Houston, Paulosie Kasadluak, Marybelle Myers; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1977. 80 pp., 122 illus., 1 col., 14 x 21.5 cm, English & Inuktitut.

Houston and Myers outline the history of the white settlement of Port Harrison and its impact on the nearby Inuit who later moved into the settlement. Myers also notes the changes to traditional Inuit life brought about by the production of carvings for the market. Kasadluak writes about the Inuit's experience of mining and carving the stone and Jean Blodgett discusses the work in the exhibition from the point of view of the subject matter and formal characteristics which distinguish the artistic production of this Arctic Quebec settlement. $7.00

4 Cape Dorset: Jean Blodgett, Dorothy Eber, Alma Houston, James Houston, Kananginak Pootoogook, Terence P. Ryan; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1980. 113 pp., 91 illus., 1 col., 14 x 21.5 cm, English & Inuktitut. James and Álma Houston describe their 1951 trip across Baffin Island providing insights into the life of the Eskimo and their reactions to Houston's attempts to buy and export carvings to the South. Also included is a history of the area by Dorothy Eber based on recollections by the Inuit; "A Story about Carvers and Hunters" by Pootoogook, leader of the Cape Dorset Eskimos; and a description by T.P. Ryan of the West Baffin Island cooperative and its influence on the artistic production. Jean Blodgett in her essay notes the preponderance of strange imaginary creatures, sea animals and birds and differentiates these works from those of other settlements. $7.00

5 Rankin Inlet/Kangirlliniq: Bernadette Driscoll, Nancy E. Newman, Dr. Robert G. Williamson, Stanley Zazelenchuk; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1981. 97 pp., 68 illus., 1 col., 14 x 21.5 cm.

Dr. Williamson outlines the brief history of the settlement and discusses the role and influence the ceramic workshop and the nickel mine had on the art and the community. Stanley Zazelenchuk describes the four years he spent at Rankin Inlet and in particular his relationships with two artists, Tiktaq and Kavik. The dominant preoccupations with the human form and condition is discussed by Bernadette Driscoll, the curator. Finally, Nancy E. Newman focuses on the clay pieces which often display an explicit experimental quality. $7.00

6 Belcher Islands/Sanikiluaq: Bernadette Driscoll, Ed Horn, Dr. Spencer G. Sealy, Patricia Sieber; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1981. 103 pp., 83 illus., 1 col., 14 x 21.5 cm.

Patricia Sieber and Ed Horn relate their memories of their years spent on the Belcher Islands and contacts they made with various sculptors. Spencer Sealy, an ornithologist discusses the bird sculptures, which dominate in the exhibition, from a scientific point of view. He writes that the works reflect the keen observation of nature and precise knowledge of bird behaviour. Driscoll focuses on the works in the exhibition and briefly outlines the history of the white man's presence in the Belcher's. $7.00

7 Eskimo Point/Arviat; Eric Anoee, Bernadette Driscoll, George Swinton; The Winnipeg Art Gallery, Winnipeg, Man.: 1982. 132 illus., 1 col., 14 x 21.5 cm, English & Inuktitut.

Eric Anoee briefly describes the tradition of carvings from soapstone, bone and antlers which initially were purely utilitarian objects but later became the major source of income for the community. In his essay "Memories of Eskimo Point" Swinton remembers his frequent visits to the Point from 1967 to 1979. He recalls the rapid and continuous change of the community due to the white man's mining and administration practices. Driscoll takes a look at The Winnipeg Art Gallery's Eskimo Point sculpture collection in light of the historical and environmental circumstances and specifically the factors which influence artistic creation and production of carvings in the area. Excerpts from a series of interviews conducted by Driscoll give direct insight into the concerns of each artist included in this catalogue. $7.00

OKanada

OKanada; Canada Council and the Akademie der Künste/Conseil des arts du Canada et l'Academie der Künste; Berlin, West Germany/R.F.A. 1982. 477 pp., 785 illus., 6 col., 22 x 22 cm, German/allemand.

Ce projet de montrer l'art et la culture canadienne à l'étranger fut à la fois des plus ambitieux et des plus discutés; l'exposition OKanada a été organisée par l'Akademie der Künste à Berlin, le Conseil des Arts et les Affaires extérieures. Les textes qui portent sur la peinture canadienne jusqu'aux années cinquante sont de Jacques Brault, George Woodcock, Dennis Reid, Laurier Lacroix, John O'Brian, Robert Stacey, Russell Keziere, Christopher Varley, Sandra Paikowsky, Fernande Saint-Martin et David Burnett; l'architecture depuis 1950: George Baird, Harold Kalman et George Kapelos; art contemporain: Pierre Théberge, Max Dean, Jörn Merkert, Bruce Ferguson, Renée Baert, Andrée Duchaine, Clive Robertson, Peggy Gale et Jean Tourangeau; film, musique, danse, théâtre, littérature et géographie: Bruce Elder, Pierre Véronneau, Peter Harcourt, Piers Handling, Louise Beaudet, Elaine Keillor, Maryvonne Kendergi, Max Wyman, Michael Vais, Robert Enright, Laurent Mailhot, W.H. New et John Warkentin. Le catalogue est en allemand, mais les textes originaux seront bientôt publiés par le Conseil des Arts. Le prix du catalogue comprend la manutention et l'expédition ainsi que les textes originaux dès qu'ils seront publiés.

This catalogue documents OKanada, one of the most ambitious yet controversial shows of Canadian art and culture abroad, and organized by the Akademie der Künste in Berlin, the Canada Council and External Affairs. The texts on historical painting are by Jacques Brault, George Woodcock, Dennis Reid, Laurier Lacroix, John O'Brian, Robert Stacey, Russell Keziere, Christopher Varley, Sandra Paikowsky, Fernande Saint-Martin and David Burnett; on architecture since 1950: George Baird, Harold Kalman and George Kapelos; on contemporary art: Pierre Théberge, Max Dean, Jörn Merkert, Bruce Ferguson, Renée Baert, Andrée Duchaine, Clive Robertson, Peggy Gale and Jean Tourangeau; on film, music, dance, theatre, literature and geography: Bruce Elder, Pierre Véronneau, Peter Harcourt, Piers Handling, Louise Beaudet, Elaine Keillor, Maryvonne Kendergi, Max Wyman, Michael Vais, Robert Enright, Laurent Mailhot, W.H. New and John Warkentin. The catalogue is in German but texts in their original language will soon be published by the Canada Council. The price includes shipping and handling for the main catalogue and the original texts upon publication. $8.00
