ANNUAL REPORTS

PRESIDENT AND TREASURER

1921 - 1924

PRESS OF OEO. H. ELLIS CO. (INC.) BOSTON

PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL REPORT

I have the honor to present a formal report for the three years from July 1, 1921, to June 30, 1924; for which oral reports only have annually been made. The supplementary reports of the other administrative officers are included for these same three years.

During this period various changes have occurred in the Board of Trustees. In November, 1922, Mrs. Farlow presented her resignation. She had been a member of the Board for thirty-four years, and during a large part of that time she was a member of the Executive Committee. The Board spread upon its records the following minute in appreciation of her service to the College:—

The Trustees of Wellesley College, in accepting the resignation of Mrs. Lillian Horsford Farlow, desire to record their high appreciation of her service of thirty-four years as a loyal trustee of the College, carrying forward those noble traditions which were the heritage from her honored father, Professor Eben Norton Horsford, friend of the College and of its founders, whose wise and generous gifts have permanently enriched its life.

Mrs. Farlow's unfailing interest, her counsel in the deliberations of the Executive Committee and of other important committees, her ready response in times of emergency, her faithfulness and friendliness through the years, sum up a notable contribution to the welfare of the College which will be held in grateful remembrance.

Her membership in the Board of Trustees outranks in length that of all of her colleagues who are now in active service, and its close is recorded in great reluctance and with sincere regret.

In May, 1923, Mr. William H. Lincoln and Mr. William Blodget presented their resignations. Mr. Lincoln had been a member of the Board for twenty-six years and served on many important committees. In 1914 he was made vice-president, an office which he held at the time of his resignation. It is a pleasure to record here Mr. Lincoln's devotion to the interests of the College. He was always ready to give time and counsel to its affairs. It was with regret that the Trustees accepted his resignation made necessary by advancing years.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Mr. Blodget was elected to the Board in 1908. During his term of office he served on the Building and Finance Committees. He was chairman of the Finance Committee at the time of his resignation. The Trustees were reluctant to accede to his desire to be relieved and would have urged him to withdraw his resignation had they not realized that his health demanded his release. He always gave sympathetic and efficient consideration to college problems. He died at his home in Brookline on June 23, 1923.

True to her belief that the trustee term of service should be comparatively short, Miss Sarah Lawrence resigned from the Board in November, 1923, after a term of seven years. She had rendered valuable service to the Board in unusual ways, and the College felt deeply the loss involved in her resignation, and welcomes the thought that as the wife of Bishop Slattery she will still have a vital connection with the Board and the College.

The six-year term of Miss Charlotte H. Conant as alumna trustee expired in June, 1924, when she was succeeded by Mrs. Alma Seipp Hay of the class of 1899. Miss Conant had served during the greater part of her term on the Committee on Grounds where her nearness to Wellesley gave the College fuller benefit of her essential value as a member of the Board. Her experience will always be at the service of the College, although she will not longer have an official connection with the Board of Trustees.

In view of these losses it is a pleasure to report several additions to the Board. Miss Grace G. Crocker of the class of 1904, on nomination of the Alumnae Association, succeeded Miss Candace Stimson in 1922, when on the expiration of her term as alumna trustee, Miss Stimson was elected by the Board trustee without limit of term. Miss Crocker later accepted the responsibility of Executive Chairman of the

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Semi-Centennial Fund Campaign Committee. If and when the College succeeds in its attempt to complete this fund of nine millions, it will be largely due to Miss Crocker's devotion and intelligent consideration of the problems involved.

The Rt. Rev. Charles Lewis Slattery, Bishop Coadjutor of Massachusetts, accepted membership on the Board in January, 1923, and at the same meeting William Morton Wheeler, Professor of Economic Entomology and Dean of Bussey Institute of Harvard University, was elected to the Board. In May, 1923, the Board was further strengthened by the election of Mr. Robert G. Dodge and Mr. Hugh W. Ogden, both lawyers of established reputation in Boston. As indicated above, Mrs. Alma Seipp Hay of Chicago, a member of the class of 1899, was elected in June, 1924, on the nomination of the Alumnae Association. It seemed desirable to the Alumnae to widen the geographical distribution of the alumnae trustees, and Mrs. Hay is admirably qualified to represent the section from which she comes.

During the three years covered by this report the official staff of the College has met with heavy losses by death.

Miss Caroline B. Thompson (Ph.D. University of Pennsylvania), Professor of Zoology, died on December 5, 1921, at a hospital in Boston. Miss Thompson was appointed instructor in 1901, Associate Professor in 1909, and Professor in 1917. She was an investigator and teacher of unusual brilliancy, and her loss to the department and the College is deeply felt. In May, 1924, after a long and distressing illness, Miss Adelaide I. Locke (B.A. Mt. Holyoke, S.T.B. Hartford Theological Seminary), Associate Professor of Biblical History, died at her home in Wellesley. Miss Locke was appointed instructor in Biblical History in 1896 and Associate Professor in 1900. On August 24, 1923, Mabel Annie Stone, Assistant Professor of Botany, died at her home in Waltham. She had been on leave of absence since June, 1921, because of illness. Miss Stone received the B.A. degree from Wellesley in 1907; the M.A. in 1912. She was appointed instructor in 1912, and Assistant Professor in 1917. The service rendered by these three women is so unusual and varied that it cannot be better expressed than by extracts from the resolutions adopted by their colleagues of the Academic Council of the Faculty:

In the death of our colleague, Caroline Burling Thompson, we the members of the Academic Council desire to record our sense of loss. During her twenty years connection with the College she endeared herself to a wide circle of friends by her warm personal devotion, by the breadth of her intellectual interests, and by her love of beauty both in nature and in art.

Her students found in her an inspiring teacher, a wise and sympathetic counselor, and a generous guide to those who sought to enter the higher fields of scientific attainment.

Hers was the temper of a scholar whom nothing daunted. In the midst of her generous response to college, family, and community activities she pursued with single-minded tenacity researches in her chosen field, in which she won distinction and gained wide recognition from scientists in this country and abroad.

The College has been the richer for her presence, for her loyalty to its highest interests and ideals, and for her productive scholarship.

To the members of her family and to her friends, we the members of the Academic Council extend our heart-felt sympathy.

The death of Adelaide I. Locke, Associate Professor of Biblical History, removes from our midst one who has gone in and out among us for almost thirty years. We desire not only to express our own grief, our own sense of loss and our heartfelt sympathy with the bereaved mother and sisters, but also to put on record our appreciation of her worth to the College she served so long.

Her charge of large classes in a required course brought under her influence many students upon whom her demands were exacting but just. To all she gave high standards of scholarship and to the best the stimulus to vital and independent thinking. The theme of her teaching was the interpretation of religion and to that interpretation she brought a philosophic mind, wide reading and a deep personal experience. Her breadth of outlook gave her understanding of faiths other than her own—of widely different Christian communions such as the Eastern Church which she had known in her childhood, of the Hebrew faith with which she had a deep sympathy, and of alien and primitive religions.

The same power of understanding others made her loyal in friendship; the same depth of convictions made her, on occasion, speak to us with the voice of a prophet.

Our prevailing impression of her character is one of strength and reserve. It was a strength deeply rooted in her ancestry, fortified by self-discipline and prayer, tested by disappointment and pain, proved equal to the strain of daily living and heavy burden-bearing, and capable of rising in the crises of suffering or apparent defeat to heroism.

We, the friends and colleagues of Mabel Annie Stone, wish to express our sincere appreciation of what she was and is. Always frail in body but rich in courage, in high purpose, and in the sweetness of her nature she exerted consistently and always an influence unique in its uplifting and ennobling power.

Her skill in imparting instruction, her deep interest in her chosen field of study, her devotion to her work as teacher, the high ideals which she held of the profession which she honored, her affectionate loyalty to her departmental colleagues, and her equally unfailing loyalty to the College as a whole are known to us all.

In all her contacts one felt a singular degree of selflessness, and in her deliberations a marked ability to judge situations and people dispassionately and without prejudice. She had the rare gift of catching and harmonizing the viewpoint of youth and of mature years. She was never remote but always simple, direct, frank, sincere. She had a delicate sense of humor, an exquisite joy in the beautiful. She was a good comrade, an inspiring friend.

Hers was no class or group appeal, but her students and many others out of the most varied backgrounds and with variable, often antagonistic outlooks on life, alike sought her counsel and sympathy. And never did one find her too busy or too weary to listen and to give. How many and how far-reaching were the ministrations of her years of service she little dreamed and we shall never fully know. To her unselfish devotion to and love for humanity she literally gave her life.

To her family and to all who miss her bodily presence we would express our profound sense of gratitude for the rich gift of her life, the fragrance of which must abide forever.

No further words are necessary to indicate the value and the unique variety of the contribution made by these women to the College honored by their service, and the loss sustained by their death.

Still another colleague has been taken from us during this period. Miss Bertha L. Caswell, Purchasing Agent, died on June 16, 1923, after a long illness. Miss Caswell came to Wellesley as a special student in 1890-91; from 1891-97 she served in administrative offices, including secretary's office, post office and bookstore, with increasing responsibilities; from 1897–1911 she was assistant cashier and purchasing agent, and from 1911 to her death, purchasing agent. Fighting bravely against great pain and weakness, she carried on in her own efficient way the work of her office until a few months before her death. Every office with which she was connected during her long term of service, profited greatly from her genius for organization. The President of the College is glad to bear testimony to the fact that the College can never expect to secure an officer more whole-heartedly devoted to its interests.

In June, 1923, Miss Malvina Bennett, Professor of Reading and Speaking, retired under the provisions of the Carnegie Foundation. Miss Bennett had served the College for twenty-seven years, building up during that time a strong department, and contributing as well to the beauty, dignity, and intellectual quality of many of the student dramatic performances.

At the close of two years' leave of absence Miss Marguerite Müller, Professor of German Language and Literature, retired in June, 1923, under the provisions of the Carnegie Foundation for physical disability after an active service, before her illness, of thirty-one years. She was a colleague and co-worker of Professor Carla Wenckebach in building up the department of German, before 1914 one of the strongest departments of the College, and, it may be said with modesty, one of the best in the country. The department has suffered as all German departments did during the world war, but now is again regaining prestige under the direction of Professor Natalie Wipplinger, recently promoted to a full professorship.

In June, 1924, Miss Mary S. Case, Professor of Philosophy, retired, under the provisions of the Carnegie Foundation, after a service of forty years. Always working under physical handicap, but always vigorous in approach, Miss Case developed great enthusiasm for her subject within the small group of excellent students who came under her influence, an influence which is destined to remain with them throughout their lives. All three of these professors were made Professors Emeriti by vote of the Trustees.

It may be of interest to record here the fact that the retirement of these three professors brings the number of Wellesley officers enjoying the benefits of the Carnegie Foundation up to nine.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

During the three years covered by this report the Trustees have approved various important changes in the organization of the College; among them the reorganization of the Board itself. New standing committees were authorized in 1924 as follows:

I. A Committee on Educational Policy, of which the President shall be chairman, to consider all questions pertaining to

1. Requirements for admission.
2. Requirements for degrees, including approval of new courses.
3. Establishment of new departments.
4. Promotions and appointments of faculty above the grade of instructor.
5. Adoption of a salary scale for the teaching staff.

II. A permanent Joint Committee of Conference to be composed of the President of the College and representatives of the Trustees, Faculty, and Alumnae to consider and report upon any matters affecting the general welfare of the College with power to call in conference, if desirable, representatives of students.

III. A Committee on Gifts. It shall be the duty of this Committee to prepare a list of suitable gifts of varying value which would be given on application to prospective donors, alumnae classes, etc. It shall be the duty of this Committee to make a plan for a permanent record of gifts, including the consideration of the placing of tablets to donors.

IV. A Committee on Nominations. It shall be the duty of this Committee to prepare a list of suitable candidates for membership on the Board.

In 1923 the Trustees gave to the Academic Council the privilege of nominating a member of the Board of Trustees, thus creating another opportunity for co-operation between the governing and the teaching group of the College. There is at present before the Board a proposition to put all members of the Board on a term tenure, and ultimately to reduce somewhat the membership which according to the present Statutes may be as large as twenty-seven. In 1923 the Committee on Promotions of the Academic Council drew up a policy in regard to promotions within the Faculty which after discussion was approved by the Academic Council, and recommended to the Trustees for adoption. This policy was approved by the Trustees in March, 1923, and is now in operation. A statement of it will be found in the appendix.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

At the request of the President the Trustees have repeatedly discussed the advisability of strengthening the business organization of the College. As the College has grown, various additions have been made to the staff but there has been no thorough-going consideration of the problem. The need has been felt not only by the President and the Treasurer but also by other business offices, including the Superintendent of the College Plant, Mr. Henry H. Austin. In January, 1923, Mr. Austin presented his resignation to take effect in July, 1923. Mr. Austin gave the College thirteen years of faithful service, and met with courtesy at all times the demands upon himself and his staff. He was hampered by a decentralized organization and welcomed the thought that his successor would have the opportunity to work with a more effective management of the business side of the College. The Trustees accepted Mr. Austin's resignation with the suggestion that it not take effect until July 1, 1924, and that he take leave of absence for the year 1923-24. In filling this vacancy, the Trustees determined to use the opportunity for reorganization.

Mr. Wendell H. Kayser, B.S., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was appointed Business Manager from April 1, 1923. He thus had an opportunity to become familiar with the college problems while Mr. Austin was still in office. The terms of his appointment make him responsible to the President for the business side of the College in the same fashion that the Dean of the College is charged with the supervision of the academic work and the Dean of Residence is responsible for the housing and social life of the students. While a year is too short a time to effect all the changes necessary, already the good results of the centralization are apparent.

The founder of the College early recognized that some provision was necessary to meet the demand from schools for information in regard to graduates desiring to teach. Accordingly, he established the Teachers' Registry. Originally no separate organization was provided; inquiries from schools as to the qualifications of graduates were answered in the President's Office either by the President herself or by her secretary. As the work increased, some special provision became necessary, and in 1890 the Teachers' Registry was placed specifically under the direction of Miss Mary Caswell, the Secretary to the President. As vocations other than teaching became open to women, the title was changed to Appointment Bureau, and as such it continued under the charge of Miss Caswell until September, 1921. During the later years a Committee on vocational guidance was organized. This Committee cooperated with Miss Caswell in bringing before students opportunities for service in fields other than teaching. Miss Caswell's long service in the College, dating from 1881 (save for a short interval, 1887-89) makes her familiar with many generations of alumnæ. Her interest in their success and her desire to see them move on to larger fields of usefulness has been a vital factor in enlarging the work of the Bureau. It was with regret that the President accepted in 1921 Miss Caswell's request to be relieved. Miss Alice I. Perry Wood, Associate Professor of English Literature, was appointed Director. The Committee on Vocational Guidance was merged in the Bureau, and the name was changed to the Bureau of Occupations. Miss Wood had been chairman of the Committee on Vocational Courses and thus had become familiar with some of the problems involved in this phase of the work. Annually during these three years the Bureau has organized a Vocational Conference. During the conference various occupations have been presented, often by alumnæ who have made their mark in the fields under discussion. While these conferences are designed primarily for seniors, all members of the College are welcome.

The Bureau of Occupations, through the generous co-operation of the Vocational Adviser, Miss Florence Jackson, has organized personal interviews with all members of the freshman class. The psychological department has conducted intelligence tests during the opening week of the college year. Again in the senior year the Director of the Bureau of Occupations undertakes to have interviews with every member of the senior class, whether or not she proposes to become a wage earner after graduation. Aptitude tests have been given as far as such tests were available and time and service permitted. It becomes increasingly evident that if the College is to do the best possible for its students, a personnel bureau or the equivalent must be organized which will co-ordinate these activities with those of the Dean and the teaching staff and the Resident Physician. At the same time extra assistance should be given to the College Physician, that time may be found to secure closer co-operation with the department of Hygiene and Physical Education in the preservation of health conditions. At present Dr. Raymond's time is more than occupied in caring for the cases of illness, minor as well as serious. The appointment of an assistant physician not later than 1925-26 is imperative.

It will be recalled that a Joint Committee of Trustees and Faculty was appointed in 1917 to study among other matters the curriculum, including the requirements for admission and for the Bachelor's Degree. The work of this Committee resulted in bringing to a focus in the Academic Council a growing conviction that some changes in the curriculum should be adopted. During 1921-24 the meetings of the Academic Council were largely occupied by the discussion of the curriculum and of admission requirements. The discussion centered about three principles: 1. Distribution, 2. Concentration, 3. Honors. As heretofore, investigations into the electives of the past two or three classes increased the respect of the Council for the provisions of the curriculum. A prescribed one-hour course in Reading and Speaking was added, making the hours required for the Bachelor's Degree sixty. The other changes in Distribution and Concentration were slight. The most interesting change is the provision for Honors in Subjects. In common with the faculty of other colleges, the Academic Council had come to feel that the old curriculum did not furnish sufficient stimulus to the able student, and therefore, the plan for Honors in Subjects was adopted. In the appendix will be found a complete statement of the new curriculum which became effective for the class of 1926. The first honors in subjects were given in June, 1923. It is believed that these changes preserve the good features of the old curriculum, while providing a stimulus and opportunity for the student of unusual capacity to make a genuine beginning in independent work.

The new admission requirements as voted by the Academic Council and approved by the Trustees in January, 1924, give greater freedom to the secondary school, and in general provide greater elasticity in meeting the fifteen units prescribed for admission. In the appendix will be found a full statement of the new admission requirements effective in September, 1925.

In March, 1923, the Trustees approved the increase in the charge for tuition in practical music to $75 for one lesson a week and $150 for two lessons a week during the college year. At the same time the Trustees approved the policy of giving up laboratory fees in special departments and charging annually a ten dollar department fee at the time of tuition payment from all students.

In the year 1915-16 the President suggested to the Heads of Departments a somewhat more formal and at the same time more democratic department organization, with the election of a chairman instead of the permanent appointment of the Head of the Department. This suggestion of the President led to various discussions and conferences which finally culminated in the appointment of a committee by the Academic Council to bring in a report upon the department organization. This report was fully discussed, amended and finally adopted during the year 1922-23, and in October, 1923, it was approved by the Trustees with the provision that those Heads of Departments under appointment in 1915-16 be retained as chairmen unless they voluntarily resigned this office. This provision was added by the Trustees, since it seemed unsuitable to change the status of those Heads of Departments that had been appointed before there was any question in regard to the election of a chairman. The plan of Department Organization will be found in the Appendix.

The Academic Council has attempted to organize its work so that fewer meetings will be necessary, and that time will be available for the discussion of larger questions of educational policy. Some progress has been made, but much remains to be done.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

In 1922 the student body became dissatisfied with that provision in the College Government Association Constitution which combined the judicial with the executive functions in the Senate. As a result of the recommendation of a joint committee of faculty and students appointed for the purpose, a separate body was created called the Judiciary, composed of faculty and students in which is vested all the judicial functions of the Association. This Judiciary, whose chairman is elected by the whole student body, deals with all serious offences and constitutes a court of appeal from the decisions of the various House Councils who act in the case of minor offences. The fear that this new body would constitute an added burden upon the President and Vice-President of the College Government Association, who are ex officio members of both the Senate and the Judiciary, seems not to be justified by experience. The separation of the two functions has resulted in more efficient and more rapid dispatch of business.

A full list of the new appointments during these three years will be found in the appendix to this report. A few professorial appointments may be mentioned here. Henry R. Mussey, B.A. Beloit College, Ph.D. Columbia, was appointed Professor of Economics in February, 1922, on the A. Barton Hepburn Foundation. Phillips Bradley, B.A. Harvard, was appointed Instructor in History in February, 1922, and Assistant Professor in June, 1922, in charge of the courses in Government which are given under the auspices of the department of History. Thomas Hayes Procter, B.A. and M.A. University of Manchester, England, Ph.D. Harvard, was appointed Associate Professor of Philosophy in 1924. In continuance of the policy of former years, Marguerite Mespoulet, Agrégée de l'Université, was appointed Visiting Professor of French for the first semester of 1923-24, and Henriette Andrieu, Agrégée de l'Université, for the entire year 1923-24. Both these brilliant women were appointed Associate Professors of French Language and Literature beginning with the year 1924-25. In 1924 Miss Frances M. Perry, Professor of English in the University of Arizona, and formerly a member of the Wellesley Faculty, was appointed Visiting Professor of Rhetoric and Composition for 1924-25, and Miss Margaret Lynn, Professor of English in the University of Kansas, was appointed Visiting Professor of English Literature for the year 1924-25. Similarly, Dr. Philip H. Mitchell, Associate Professor of Physiology at Brown University, was made Visiting Associate Professor of Physiology for 1924-25, and Dr. William H. Geer, Director of Physical Education at Harvard, was appointed Lecturer in Hygiene and Physical Education. These appointments indicate the generous cooperation which exists among educational institutions.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

In recounting the activities of this period, mention should be made of the publication of the General Catalogue issued in 1922, containing the list, and as far as they were known, the addresses of all Wellesley women, upwards of 12,000. Following the policy of the issue of 1912, only those students were included in the list who had spent at least one semester in Wellesley, the only exception to this ruling being that all the names were included which were contained in the first volume of the catalogue, the Wellesley Record of 1891. It is no small task to issue such a volume, and the thanks of all the Wellesley world should be extended to Miss Laura M. Dwight who added the supervision of this publication to her duties as Executive Secretary of the Alumnae Association.

The improvement of the college grounds has gone on systematically under the direction of the Committee on Grounds. All walks and roads are now approved by this Committee under advice of our landscape architect, Mr. Arthur A. Shurtleff. Returning alumnae and other friends of the College have commented on the general improvement of the college grounds during the last years. The ice storm of November, 1921, worked sad havoc on the campus, but restoration work was immediately begun on those trees pronounced by experts as worth preserving and has gone on steadily. Much remains to be done. It is the policy of the Committee to make some permanent improvement each year, and the Committee appreciates the gifts which have been received from alumnae for new planting.

The Committee on Building has been exceedingly busy during the three years covered by this report. It will be recalled that the first part of the Semi-Centennial Fund (the campaign for which was successfully completed in June, 1921) included $100,000 for faculty housing. Payments on the pledges to this fund were sufficiently large to justify the Trustees in authorizing the preparation of plans. Accordingly Miss Eliza J. Newkirk, lecturer in the History of Architecture, a practising architect; was commissioned to draw plans for a clubhouse and for an apartment house. Several conferences between a faculty committee and a committee of Trustees were held before the plans were approved. As a result Hallowell House, an apartment house of twelve suites, was constructed and fully occupied by October 1, 1922. Horton House, the Clubhouse, was not ready until January, 1923. These houses bear the names of two members of the first faculty of the College, Mary E. Horton, Professor of Greek, 1875-87, and Susan Maria Hallowell, Professor of Botany, 1875-1902. They are built on the land near the East Lodge bequeathed to the College by Miss Horton. This property is sufficiently extensive to furnish sites for other faculty houses, and was by vote of the Trustees set aside for this purpose. Horton House represents the investment of the $100,000, allocated to the Faculty Housing in the Semi-Centennial Fund. Hallowell House represents an investment of substantially $67,000. Both houses have given great satisfaction to the occupants, and are destined to prove a valuable asset to the college community. The financial aspect of this venture is not so bright, but each year has shown improvement, and it is hoped that ultimately these houses will prove a financial as well as a social asset.

In the summer of 1923 an addition was made to The Homestead increasing the capacity by twenty-five, and The Barn, no longer needed as an auditorium by the construction of Alumnæ Hall, was renovated and transformed into a lodging house for some thirty-five students. Twelve rooms for students were constructed out of the storerooms on the fifth floor of Tower Court. The small dwelling house near Tower Court and Clafin, heretofore used by the Superintendent, was with few changes made available for nine students, who with their chaperon take their meals at Clafin Hall. Further details of these arrangements by which the campus accommodation for students was increased by eighty-one will be found in the accompanying report of the Dean of Residence.

The Trustees will recall that no satisfactory solution had been found for an ice house which would be ample, attractive, and inexpensive. The need for such an ice house has now passed with the installation of a refrigerating plant in the Power House in the summer of 1923. Equipment for replacing coal by oil in the Power House was also installed in 1923.

The greenhouse which was originally constructed for the personal use of the founders was maintained by the College for the Botany department after Mrs. Durant's death in 1917. By 1922 it had become beyond repair. When the plans for the Botany-Zoology Building on the site near the Observatory were sufficiently determined to fix the location of the new greenhouse, the trustees decided to build this part of the new structure. The contract was awarded and construction begun in the summer of 1922. Inevitable delays prevented the full use of the houses during 1922-23. The plant houses and the temporary head house have been in constant use during the past year and are well worth a visit from members of the Board. Meantime the plans for the entire Botany-Zoology Building are going forward with the hope that when completed and the cost of construction determined, a donor may be found for a part of the building if not for the whole. The need of better housing for our departments of Science and for Botany in particular has been so often detailed that it seems unnecessary to repeat it, but its need is increasingly insistent.

The largest construction completed during this period is the Student-Alumnæ Building, now named Alumnæ Hall. The firm selected by the Alumnæ Committee and approved by the Trustees was Messrs. Cram & Ferguson. The plans were studied long and carefully by architects and by the Alumnæ Committee as the beauty and comfort of the building now show. The cornerstone was laid at Commencement 1922. The severe winter of 1922-23 delayed construction so that the building was not opened until December 5, 1923. There were brief exercises in the afternoon when Mrs. Florence Besse Brewster, chairman of the Alumnae Building Committee, gave a history of the work of the Committee, and turned over the keys to the President of the Alumnae Association, Mrs. Louise Pope Johnson, who in turn presented the building with the keys to the President of the College as the gift of the Alumnae. After a brief address of acceptance by the President, Mr. Ralph Adams Cram gave an address interpreting the thought of the architects as shown in the design of the building. The date of December 5th was "Wellesley Night," and in addition to the audience of visiting alumnae and the college community in Alumnae Hall, there were many other gatherings all over the country. In the evening the auditorium was dedicated by a concert from the full Boston Symphony Orchestra. This occasion will be long remembered for the happy choice of the music and the perfection of its execution. It seemed hardly possible that dreams had come true, and that at last Wellesley had a comfortable and beautiful auditorium generous in its accommodations. In addition to the auditorium with its fully equipped stage and ample dressing rooms, there is on the lower level a stately recreation hall and ball room with caterer's kitchen and serving room together with coat rooms and rooms for smaller social groups. Alumnae Hall is a splendid gift testifying to the loyalty of Wellesley women.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

When the site of Alumnae Hall was determined, it was understood that the laundry would be moved, and that the small structures, carpenter shop, paint shop, etc., lying between the site and the lake would be ultimately removed. The burning of the carpenter shop in the early morning of November 25, 1923, caused the immediate consideration of a plan to bring together in one service building all the various employees, carpenters, painters, steamfitters, plumbers, etc. Accordingly drawings were immediately begun for a service building near the power house. This building is now nearing completion, and will be ready for use by October. This will make it possible to establish a service yard within a walled area surrounding the power house. The establishment of this service center will not only contribute to the efficiency of the employees but also leaves free for development the space between Alumnae Hall and the Lake.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Since much is said in these days about college buildings being unused during the summer, it should be remembered that the Conference for Church Work of the Episcopal Church has been at Wellesley every summer beginning in 1919. A summer conference on Physical Education was held in 1922. Beginning in the summer of 1922 the Page Kindergarten has been used as practice and demonstration school for summer courses in the theory and practice of the Kindergarten given in Wellesley, though officially a part of the summer session of Boston University. The College has also welcomed as its guests the Mathematical Association of America in September, 1921, just before the opening of college, the Classical Association of New England, March 31-April 1, 1922, the Eastern Society of College Directors of Physical Education for Women, April 9-11, 1923.

A full list of lectures, concerts and religious services will be found in the appendix. Special mention should be made of the dedication on October 25, 1921, of the six tablets temporarily placed in Founders Hall to the memory of the "Founders of Perpetual Funds for the Maintenance of the Scholastic Life." The tablets commemorate the gifts of Eben Norton Horsford, founder of the library fund and the Sabbatical grants; of the Alumnae and Friends of the College who established the Alice Freeman Palmer Endowment of the Presidency; of Clara Bertram Kimball, who endowed the Kimball Professorship of Art; of John Davison Rockefeller, the donor of many gifts; of Helen Miller Gould, founder of the Helen Day Gould Professorship of Biblical History; of Horatio Hollis Hunnewell, founder of the Hunnewell Professorship of Botany. The tablets are the gift of Ex-President Hazard and mark the beginning of a policy of the Trustees thus to acknowledge gifts for endowments. There were brief tributes from Miss Hazard to Mr. Rockefeller and to Mr. Hunnewell, from Professor Palmer to Mrs. Kimball and to Miss Gould (now Mrs. Shepard), and from the President of the College to Professor Horsford and to Mrs. Palmer. The College is grateful to Miss Hazard who gave this opportunity for renewing our memory of those who have contributed so much to the upbuilding of the College.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The College acknowledges with gratitude the gift of $1,000 annually from an unnamed donor, thus creating a graduate fellowship for the study of orthopedics. This fellowship was first made available in the year 1922-23, and was awarded to Marion Johnson, B.S., University of Wisconsin. This grant made possible the completion of a thesis entitled "A Study of the Relation of certain Skeletal Dimensions to Body Weight in 1,030 Women of College Age." The holders of this and other fellowships will be found in the appendix.

Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw is again among our donors, not only with her annual gift of $800 for the courses in Government, but also with a gift of $5,000 for the endowment of the Hunnewell Arboretum, and in addition during the period under review $2,000 toward the initial expenditure of starting this Arboretum. Conspicuous among the gifts of this period is the bequest of $500,000 from Francis Appleton Foster of Weston, Mass., a bequest for general endowment. The bequest is noteworthy not only because of its generous size, but also because it was entirely unexpected. No one connected with Wellesley knew that Mr. Foster was interested in the College. Mention should be made of $75,000 for the Semi-Contennial Fund from a member of the class of 1887, at the time of their thirty-fifth reunion in 1922; from a member of the class of 1899, $20,000 at their twentieth reunion in 1924 toward a Carla Wenckebach Professorship of German. At their thirty-fifth reunion the class of 1888 presented a bas-relief of Lyman Abbott, their honorary member, at an informal gathering in the library on commencement day 1923. The gift is a replica of the relief by Victor Brenner, especially esteemed by Dr. Abbott's family. The College recalls Dr. Abbott's last visit to Wellesley in November, 1921, when he spoke with all the vitality of youth, and is grateful to the class of 1888 for this permanent memorial to one whose connection as lecturer, preacher, and friend dates almost from the beginning of the College.

In June, 1922, Mr. and Mrs. Davenport presented to the College $1,000 to establish the Davenport Prize in Reading and Speaking. The income of this fund is to be given each year to a senior who attains excellence in reading and speaking. The prize was awarded for the first time in 1924. The recipient was Miss Doris Elizabeth Dalton of the class of 1924. Young students often fail to realize how much of the personality is revealed by the voice, and what an asset in one's equipment is a pleasing speaking voice.

For many years it has been the custom of Professor Palmer to bring a gift to the College on the anniversary of Mrs. Palmer's birth, February 21. It has almost invariably been some precious volume for the Treasure Room of the Library. On February 21, 1924, it was not one volume but hundreds that he brought, constituting his incomparable collection of English poets. On March 19, the anniversary of his own birth, the College publicly accepted this priceless gift and those who were gathered in the library heard from Professor Palmer's own lips how the collection had been made. He told us that the library had been begun by Mrs. Palmer and himself. After her death he continued to add to the collection, using for the purpose the royalties on his life of Mrs. Palmer; thus, as he said, it was her gift as well as his. Professor Palmer has now published a catalogue which includes not only the books of his own gift but also other rare books of the library received from the founder and other donors. The college library, always a source of pride to all Wellesley women, gains new wealth and new distinction by this incomparable gift.

In connection with this gift to the library, it should be mentioned that with the co-operation of Professor Palmer, the College presented to the Hall of Fame a bust of Mrs. Palmer which was unveiled with due ceremony on May 13, 1924.

During the year 1923-24 much thought has been given to the approaching semi-centennial in 1925. A committee of Trustees and faculty has been organized to make plans for the celebration. It was decided that a series of publications by Wellesley women should be issued. The first of these volumes is about to be published as this report closes. It is the work of Laura A. Hibbard, Wellesley, 1905, Associate Professor of English Literature, and is entitled "Mediæval Romance in England." Two other volumes are in press, "Philosophical Writings of Henry More," by Flora I. MacKinnon, Wellesley, 1907, Instructor in Philosophy 1918-1923, and "Italian Landscape in Eighteenth Century England: A Study Chiefly of the Influence of Claude Lorrain and Salvator Rosa on English Taste, 1700-1800," by Elizabeth W. Manwaring, Wellesley, 1902, Associate Professor of Rhetoric and Composition. It is expected that four books of this Semi-Centennial Series will be published by June, 1925. The fourth of these will be a volume of verse published and financed by the Alumnae Association, but forming one of the Semi-Centennial Series. Later volumes it is hoped will be in the fields of classics and science.

In November, 1923, the College received from the Juilliard Musical Foundation $1,000 for scholarship awards to those juniors and seniors "who have exceptional musical ability and who are in need of financial assistance." On the recommendation of the Department of Music the Academic Council awarded $125 each to five seniors and three juniors whose names will be found in the appendix as the Juilliard Musical Foundation Scholars.

Among the gifts at commencement 1924 should be mentioned that of $1,000 from Mr. Otis H. Fisk of Cincinnati to establish a prize for public speaking, including debating; the prize is to be known as the Isabelle Eastman Fisk Prize in honor of the donor's daughter, Isabelle Eastman Fisk, an honor graduate of the class of 1923; from the Mary Hemenway Alumnae Association was received $6,000 for the Amy Morris Homans Scholarship. The crowning event of the day was the splendid gift of $500,000 from Col. Edward H. R. Green of New York and Texas and his sister, Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks of New York, for the new administration building to be named Hetty H. R. Green Hall in honor of the donors' mother. It seems very fitting that this building should bear the name of a woman who held a unique place in the business world of her day because of her remarkable executive and administrative ability as well as business integrity. It is impossible to overestimate the courage and stimulus which this great gift furnishes to all workers for the Semi-Centennial Fund.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

For lack of space the detailed list of gifts is not given in the Appendix. The gifts to the library are noted in the reports of the librarian. A full account of the Semi-Centennial Fund will be issued later, probably in the report of the year 1924-25.

In 1922 Miss Grace G. Crocker generously accepted the post of chairman of the Executive Committee of the Semi-Centennial Campaign Committee, charged with the task of raising the balance of the Semi-Centennial Fund. The Trustees decided that there should be no intensive campaign such as was carried through in 1921, but that instead the work should go on quietly and steadily. The generous gift of Colonel Green and Mrs. Wilks just mentioned is one of the fruits of this quiet campaign. Every effort is being made to complete the nine million fund by June, 1925. It cannot be done, however, unless we have the loyal co-operation of all friends of the College, undergraduates, alumnæ, faculty, trustees. This co-operation is sought not only from those who can give money but also from those who can do their part toward making the College worthy of the confidence which stimulates the generosity of public-spirited men and women. To solicit funds, even for a worthy cause, is not an easy task; when success crowns the effort there remains the responsibility of using wisely the funds contributed.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

To the President of Wellesley College:—

I have the honor to submit the following report for the year closing July 1, 1922. During the academic year 1921-22, 240 courses were actually given by the various departments, aggregating 521½ hours per week, not including hours duplicated because of additional sections of the same course. These 240 courses include only one course given by the department of Hygiene, namely the lecture course prescribed for freshmen. The distribution of these courses in the various departments will be given in the appendix. The following table shows the relative amount of instruction given by the various departments in the past four years. The unit of instruction used is the instruction of one student, one hour a week for one academic year.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

In June, 1922, 388 students received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. One other was voted the degree in November, 1921. This makes the total number of Bachelors' Degrees conferred by the College 7,644. The academic requirement for this degree is the satisfactory completion of fifty-nine hours of class work. For the completion of her work toward this degree every student must show that she has carried successfully nine hours in each of two departments, or twelve hours in one department and six in another.

The following table shows the number of students in the class of 1922 who in fulfillment of the above requirement completed nine or more hours in the various departments.

Every student entering Wellesley must present fifteen points for admission. Of these points eleven are prescribed as follows:—

- Three points in English
- Four points in Latin
- Three points in Mathematics
- One point in History

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Of the remaining four points, three must be offered in some foreign language other than Latin, and the fourth point in either Biology, Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Physical Geography, Zoology, Harmony, History, or Solid Geometry with Trigonometry; or two points in each of two languages, French, German, Spanish, Greek, Italian; or two points in one language with two separate points in Biology, Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Physical Geography, Zoology, Harmony, History, or Solid Geometry with Trigonometry. Four points may also be offered in French or German. If a second point in History is offered for an elective subject one point should be Ancient History. The 402 new freshmen admitted fulfilled the requirement as follows:—

Four points in French . . . . .	8
Three points in French . . . . .	297

Two special foreign students were allowed to offer four points of Chinese in place of the Latin requirement.

One hundred students who were admitted without conditions offered credentials which aggregated more than the fifteen points prescribed for admission. The largest number of points accepted for any candidate was 20. Two other students, who were conditioned in work absolutely prescribed for admission, offered one extra point each. Of the 402 new students in this year's freshman class, 382 were admitted without conditions,

Although we have watched fluctuations in elections too long to feel any assurance of a permanent change, we do note with satisfaction the increase in the number of freshmen electing Greek and Latin, as well as the increasing number entering on the comprehensive examinations.

The special problem in all colleges at present seems to be the stimulus to the able student to continue to maintain a high grade of scholarship and to withstand the distractions away from the scholarly life. This year, after long deliberations, the Academic Council voted a plan for Honors in Subjects. This opportunity is open to juniors and seniors, though in time we may expect the more serious sophomores to make application too, and calls for the choice of a Field of Distinction comprising at least twenty-one year-hours in the chosen subject, that is in the major department and allied courses. Independent investigation in the special field of not more than three year-hours may be arranged under direction, and the entire work covered for honors will be tested by a comprehensive examination at the close of the senior year. Twelve students enrolled for Honors in May, 1922, and we shall watch with interest their success, of which I shall hope to make report later.

To the President of Wellesley College:—

I have the honor to submit the following report for the year closing July 1, 1923. During the academic year 1922-23, 239 courses were actually given by the various departments, aggregating  $514\frac{1}{2}$  hours per week, not including hours duplicated because of additional sections of the same course. These 239 courses include only one course given by the department of Hygiene, namely the lecture course prescribed for freshmen. The distribution of these courses in the various departments will be given in the appendix. The following table shows the relative amount of instruction given by the various departments in the past five years. The unit of instruction used is the instruction of one student, one hour a week for one academic year.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

In June, 1923, 278 students received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Two others were voted the degree in November, 1922. This makes the total number of Bachelors' Degrees conferred by the College 7,924. The academic requirement for this degree is the satisfactory completion of fifty-nine hours of class work. For the completion of her work toward this degree every student must show that she has carried successfully nine hours in each of two departments, or twelve hours in one department and six in another.

The following table shows the number of students in the class of 1923 who in fulfillment of the above requirement completed nine or more hours in the various departments.

English Literature . . . . .	123*	Botany . . . . .	16
History . . . . .	58	Philosophy . . . . .	15

Art . . . . .	26	Geology . . . . .	2
Music . . . . .	19	Astronomy . . . . .	1
Chemistry . . . . .	17

Of these 278 graduates, 17 won the rank of Durant Honor Scholars, and 41 the rank of Wellesley College Scholars.

The first candidates for Honors in Special Subjects completed their work in June, 1923, and received special mention on the Commencement program. For reasons of health and for outside duties several abandoned their plan, but the members of the Faculty concerned and the students themselves who carried through their plan were convinced of the value of the greater concentration secured by closer correlation of courses and of individual direction, in some cases counting for an equivalent of class work.

Two members of 1923 were graduated with honors in Mathematics and Physics.

One in Mediæval Art, including History and Literature.

*English Language must be counted to make up the nine hours in four instances under English Literature.

REPORT OF THE DEAN

Two members of 1924 began their work for honors in Music and in History and Economics and will continue their work in 1923-24, and ten members of 1924 and one of 1925 registered for Honors in their May elections for 1923-24.

Though one does not generalize on so little data, the impression of the Faculty is one of satisfaction in this experiment to promote a keener interest in scholarship, and confidence that it will meet the needs of a few especially serious students—perhaps an increasing number in the hoped-for renaissance of learning.

The total number of students registered November, 1922, was 1,533, classified as follows:—

Resident candidates for the M.A. degree . . . . .	29
Resident candidates for the Certificate in Hygiene . . . . .	19
Candidates for the B.A. degree . . . . .	1,477

Freshmen . . . . .	434

Non-candidates for degrees . . . . .	8

Compared with the registration of November, 1921, the figures show a net loss of fifteen.

The freshman class, which numbers 434, includes 7 students who were in college last year and who are still ranked as freshmen, three former students returning after an absence, and 424 new students. These 424 new students were admitted as follows:—

- Three units in English
- Four units in Latin
- Three units in Mathematics
- One unit in History

Of the remaining four units, three must be offered in some foreign language other than Latin, and the fourth unit in either

Four units may also be offered in French or German. If a second unit in History is offered for an elective subject one unit should be Ancient History. One hundred and thirty-five students who were admitted without conditions offered credentials which aggregated more than the fifteen units prescribed for admission. Two foreign students offered four units of Japanese in place of the Latin requirement. The largest number of units accepted for any candidate was 19. Of the two other students who were conditioned in work absolutely prescribed for admission, one offered one extra unit and the other four extra units. Of the 424 new students in this year's freshman class, 407 were admitted without conditions, or 96 per cent, and of the 17 admitted with conditions, all were conditioned in one subject only and none in more than one unit.

The increase in sciences is to a certain extent due to the vote of the Council in 1922-23 that members of the class of 1926 must present for graduation two full sciences taken in college unless they present for admission one year of satisfactory biological science and one year of satisfactory physical science, when they will be required to take but one in college and may choose either a biological or a physical science. This fact will also perhaps account for the loss in the elections in History.

There seem to be no other variations in the freshmen elections that are particularly noteworthy.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

To the President of Wellesley College:—

I have the honor to submit the following report for the year closing July 1, 1924. During the academic year 1923-24, 241 courses were actually given by the various departments, aggregating 520½ hours per week, not including hours duplicated because of additional sections of the same course. These 241 courses include only one course given by the department of Hygiene, namely the lecture course prescribed for freshmen. The distribution of these courses in the various departments will be given in the appendix. The following table shows the relative amount of instruction given by the various departments in the past five years. The unit of instruction used is the instruction of one student, one hour a week for one academic year.

The departments of Biblical History, Mathematics, English Composition, Philosophy, and Reading and Speaking owe their places in the first ranks in part to the fact that they are prescribed subjects.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

In June, 1924, 359 students received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. This makes the total number of Bachelors' Degrees conferred by the College 8,283. The academic requirement for this degree is the satisfactory completion of fifty-nine hours of class work. For the completion of her work toward this degree every student must show that she has carried successfully nine hours in each of two departments, or twelve hours in one department and six in another.

The following table shows the number of students in the class of 1924 who in fulfillment of the above requirement completed nine or more hours in the various departments.

English Literature . . . . .	156	Art . . . . .	22
History . . . . .	75	Music . . . . .	20

Chemistry . . . . .	23	Italian . . . . .	2

Of these 359 graduates, 34 won the rank of Durant Honor Scholars, and 55 the rank of Wellesley College Scholars. With this goodly proportion—nearly a quarter of the class—carrying their four years' course with a rank decidedly above the average, it is noteworthy that a comparatively small number have qualified for Honors in Subjects. This new opportunity was reported last year in its first trial with three students completing the work and finding the special direction under certain members of the Faculty stimulating and inspiring.

In May, 1923, sixteen students applied. On their previous records and on the reports of their instructors six were advised to withdraw their applications. Four gave up the plan for reasons of health or change of plan. Seven seniors, including the member of 1925 who had begun in her junior year, carried through their work with satisfaction and a sense of added power from the opportunity thus given. It is, however, apparent that the prevailing opinion of even the best students is that the senior year is for distribution rather than concentration.

The total number of students registered November, 1923, was 1,629, classified as follows:—

Resident candidates for the M.A. degree . . . . .	40
Resident candidates for the Certificate in Hygiene . . . . .	35
Candidates for the B.A. degree. . . . .	1,544

Freshmen . . . . .	412

Compared with the registration of November, 1922, the figures show a net gain of ninety-six.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The freshman class, which numbers 412, includes 8 students who were in college last year and who are still ranked as freshmen, 1 former student returning after an absence, and 403 new students. These 403 new students were admitted as follows:—

Every student entering Wellesley must present fifteen units for admission. Of these units eleven are prescribed as follows:—

- Three units in English
- Four units in Latin
- Three units in Mathematics
- One unit in History

REPORT OF THE DEAN

Of the remaining four units, three must be offered in some foreign language other than Latin, and the fourth unit in either Biology, Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Physical Geography, Zoology, Harmony, History, or Solid Geometry with Trigonometry; or two units in each of two languages, French, German, Spanish, Greek, Italian; or two units in one language with two separate units in Biology, Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Physical Geography, Zoology, Harmony, History, or Solid Geometry with Trigonometry. Four units may also be offered in French or German. If a second unit in History is offered for an elective subject one unit should be Ancient History. The 403 new freshmen admitted fulfilled the requirement as follows:—

Four units in Chinese . . . . .	1
Four units in French . . . . .	24
Four units in German . . . . .	1

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Ninety-two students who were admitted without conditions offered credentials which aggregated more than the fifteen units prescribed for admission. One foreign student offered four units of Chinese in place of the Latin requirement. The largest number of units accepted for any candidate was 20. Of the 403 new students in this year's freshman class, 395 were admitted without conditions, or 98 per cent, and of the 8 admitted with conditions, all were conditioned in one subject only and none in more than one unit.

The following table shows the subjects elected by freshmen in the last four years:—

Of this class of 1927, 10 were dropped during the year on account of poor scholarship and 17 others for various reasons did not register to return, so that 27 failed to improve the opportunities offered them. This is certainly a small proportion of a class numbering 403 in September, and though the class will doubtless have further losses in the next three years, they would seem to show the earnestness of purpose which we expect from our students.

REPORT ON GRADUATE INSTRUCTION

Nineteen of the graduate students had taken the baccalaureate degree at Wellesley College. Mount Holyoke College and Radcliffe College were represented by two students each; and the following institutions by one student each; Connecticut College, Milwaukee-Downer College, Northwestern University, Ohio State University, Ohio Wesleyan University, Smith College, University of Chicago, University of Michigan, University of Wisconsin, Wells College; and one student was admitted on certificates of work done in several French institutions.

The holder of the Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship for the year 1921-22 was Viola Blackburn, B.A. Wellesley College, 1918; Graduate Student, Wellesley College, 1918-19; Graduate Student, University of Chicago, 1919-22. Miss Blackburn's general subject is English Literature. She has spent part of the year in London, examining fourteenth, fifteenth, and sixteenth century commentaries on Aristotle, under the direction of the University of Chicago. Her special problem is: "The Interpretation of the Nicomachean Ethics of Aristotle from the thirteenth to the seventeenth centuries, particularly in reference to Spenser's 'twelve virtues.'"

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

I have the honor to present the following report of the administration of the library for the two years ending June 30, 1923.

During this time, we have added to the library 6,462 books; 5,193 by purchase, 1,269 by gift, the total number of bound volumes now accessioned being 100,718. This number does not include the Plympton Collection of 950 volumes, the volumes in the Brooks Room nor certain other small collections.

The library wishes to express appreciation for the many gifts that have been received from other institutions and from friends. Only a few can be mentioned here, but among them are the volumes from the library of Professor Caroline B. Thompson and other books presented by the Misses Thompson; also volumes from the estate of Miss Lucy A. Plympton, and an edition de luxe of Duruy's History of Rome from Mrs. F. A. Hibbard and Miss Laura Hibbard. More than seventy-five volumes from her own library have been given us by Miss Alice M. Barbour, class of 1893, and Mrs. Roswell Johnson (May Simonds, class of 1897) sent us twenty-five volumes from the library of her sister. Both these gifts, consisting largely of works of history and literature, added many duplicates in fields where they are much needed. Two alumnæ travelling in Italy who requested that their names should not be mentioned sent us fifteen volumes of sixteenth century editions of Classic and Italian authors. Mr. Robert Gould Shaw presented us with fourteen volumes of clippings on the Woman Question covering a very long period and forming very valuable source material. The valuable collection of geological reports presented to the department of Geology by the Prudential Insurance Company of America through Dr. F. L. Hoffman is stored for the present in the basement stack room where it is easily accessible. It includes practically all the geological surveys carried on during recent years

by the several states and many foreign countries, together with geographical surveys and geographical data of considerable value. It aims at economic geology rather than theoretical geology, but includes many technical discussions and investigations. The volumes duplicate in some instances material already in the library, but form a most valuable collection of material. Mrs. Frank G. Allen gave a handsome book published in Shanghai, containing photogravures of scenes in Peking with text, and bound in China silk. Miss Caroline Hazard has added to the Dante Collection a copy of the Facsimile of the Codice Landiano of the Divine Comedy, issued in a limited edition to mark the sixth centenary of the death of the poet. We have also received Le Opere di Dante from Mr. Luigi Carnovale. Mr. Sidney V. Lowell has presented to the library a rare little book by John Eliot and Thomas Mayhew entitled Tears of Repentance or A further narrative of the progress of the Gospel among the Indians in New England, printed in London in 1653. Mr. Charles E. Goodspeed has added several volumes to the Ruskin Collection, given by him in 1920. Besides presenting us with several volumes for the general library, Professor Palmer has added to the growing collection of rare editions of English and American poets in the Treasure Room the first edition of Blair's Grave, illustrated by William Blake, and twenty-one volumes of Whittier, all first editions and containing presentation inscriptions and letters to Mrs. Palmer. He has also made two interesting additions to the Browning Collection; Psyche Apocalypté, a Lyrical Drama projected by Elizabeth Barrett Browning and R. H. Horne, reprinted for private circulation from the St. James Magazine for February, 1876, and having the autograph of R. H. Horne on the cover; and the Warden's Tale and Other Poems by Mrs. Bloomfield Moore, the private copy of the author with her own manuscript notes. A manuscript poem inscribed to Robert Browning is inserted and there are many notes concerning the poet and his friendship with the writer. Another and very important addition to the Browning Collection is a copy of the very rare first edition of Pauline, a thin quarto volume which completes our collection of first editions of the poet. Mr. Galen L. Stone shared with Professor Palmer in this gift to the library. The Life of Alice Freeman Palmer translated into Japanese, with a letter from the translator to Professor Palmer is another interesting gift. We already possess the original manuscript of the Life and the two large volumes in which it is printed in raised type for the blind. At the first reunion of the class of 1921 in June, 1922, two members of the class, Anna Hooker Morse, and her father, Mr. Lewis Kennedy Morse, honorary member, presented to the library a unique manuscript, written by Charlotte Brontë when a girl of fourteen. It is a tiny volume measuring only one and a half by two and three quarters inches, and consists of sixteen pages with six thousand words of microscopic printing. It is entitled Albion & Marina; a Tale by Lord Wellesley, and signed C. B. with the statement that it took four hours to print it. A gift which finds a fitting place in the Treasure Room beside the Ruskin Collection is the collection of books illustrated by Kate Greenaway, presented by Miss Susan Minns. It includes a complete set of the Kate Greenaway Almanacs, 1883-97, with their different issues, and first editions of many other books illustrated by her. The Ruskin Collection includes Dame Wiggins of Lee, illustrated by her, and with an introduction by Ruskin, and also the original issues of Fors Clavigera in which Ruskin used some of Miss Greenaway's sketches which he much admired.

We have to record our gratitude to our Representative in Congress, the Hon. Robert Luce, who has been untiring in his efforts to supply us with needed government publications, and to acknowledge our debt to various departments of the Federal Government and of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as well as to the State Librarian who at our request furnished us with a complete set of Vital Records of Massachusetts towns to 1850, consisting of one hundred and eighty-one volumes.

The autograph collection has received a highly valued addition in a letter written and signed by Edith Cavell. This was given to the library by Miss Florence A. Risley, 1905, to whom it was presented by Dr. Capart, the original recipient. We have also received from Mrs. Monroe Weil (Margery Harris, 1918) an autograph letter from Wordsworth. A letter from

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

Francesca Alexander to be placed in her book, The Story of Ida, in the Ruskin Collection, was sent us by Mr. Goodspeed.

Miss Bethann B. Faris, class of 1924, presented the library with two interesting Babylonian tablets of the third century B.C. A gift of one hundred dollars from Miss Elizabeth Vinton, class of 1922, for the purchase of books at the discretion of the Librarian, was received after Commencement in June, 1923, and highly appreciated. It is only one of many indications of the place the library holds in the affection of the alumnae for the college.

The important purchases during these years have included a set of the Observatory, 13 vols.; the Chemical News, 58 vols.; the Publication of the Palestine Pilgrims' Text Society, 13 vols.; the Index Kewensis, 3 vols.; the Harvard Law Review, 35 vols.; the United States Supreme Court Reports, 219 vols.; several volumes of Bronn's Klassen und Ordnungen des Tierreichs to fill in the large gap in our set made by the fire; the Franklin Adams photographic chart of the sky, issued by the Royal Astronomical Society; Rieszler, Weissgrundige Attische Lekythen, 2 vols.; Goldschmidt, Die Elfenbeinskulpturen, 2 vols.; Blake's Illustrations to Gray's poems. Probably the most interesting single purchase was the book of Amos, three leaves from the Gutenberg Bible, the earliest known example of printing by means of movable type; next to this the Divina Commedia illustrata nei luoghi e nelle persone, edited by Corrado Ricci, and published by Hoepli in commemoration of the sixth centenary of the death of Dante. For the Brooks Room the most important purchases have been sets of Thackeray, Eliot, Scott, and the Vailima edition of Stevenson now being published.

We have expended for books during the two years $12,290.57, $4,216.62 for periodical subscriptions, and $2,954.46 for binding and repairs, a total of $19,461.65. This sum is derived from the income of funds and gifts as follows: Horsford fund, $15,361.78; Abbott fund, $128.92; Kirk fund, $748.76; Morse fund, $134.23; Sanborn fund, $519.81; Shafer fund, $382.40; Sweet fund, $637.70; Wenckebach fund, $2.88; Jewett fund, $5.40; Hintermeister fund, $2.00; from gifts, $308.32; from fines, $1,229.45.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The circulation of books has shown a marked increase during the two years covered by this report as the following table indicates:—

Total number of books circulated . . . . .	1921-22	38,452
Total number of books circulated . . . . .	1922-23	39,947
Charged to students (including reserved books) . . . . .	1921-22	33,099
Charged to students (including reserved books) . . . . .	1922-23	34,196
Charged to members of the faculty . . . . .	1921-22	5,353
Charged to members of the faculty . . . . .	1922-23	5,666
Reserved books circulated . . . . .	1921-22	13,967
Reserved books circulated . . . . .	1922-23	13,163

The Associate Librarian in charge of the circulation and other members of the staff have long felt that with the rapid growth of the library and increase in circulation the method of charging books was cumbrous and time-consuming and far too liable to error, requiring as it does the copying of the book number for every book charged. The system of book cards and pockets now in almost universal use is much more satisfactory, as the card is made and revised when the book is catalogued and then placed in the pocket on the book cover. It can be dated by the desk attendant and signed by the borrower when the book is taken out of the library, thus saving time for everybody concerned. In the fall of 1921, we began to put pockets and cards in the new books and during the year when the desk attendants have had time they have pasted in the pockets and made cards for books already in the library. During the Christmas vacation of 1921-22, by the help of student assistants, considerable progress was made in this work, and by degrees the books most often circulated will be provided with cards. These have already proved a great help, even with the limited number now in use.

The cataloguing of current accessions reaches a total of 7,688 volumes, including 5,450 books, representing 3,664 titles, 1,166 periodicals, and 1,072 continuations. The recataloguing carried on intensively during the summer months and along with the regular work when possible during the year has resulted in the recataloguing of a total of 17,635 volumes representing 7,751 titles, besides the making of many analytical entries and the copying of many series cards of which no exact record has been kept. In addition the Ruskin Collection of volumes has been carefully catalogued and the cards filed for reference.

While the additional stack cases put into the rooms at the South end of the building are adequate for the present, it is increasingly evident that when the contemplated Science Buildings are erected ample room must be provided for Department Libraries as the Science Room cannot possibly meet the demand for providing space for readers and for housing all the books belonging to the study of Botany, Physics, Zoology, and Geology indefinitely. Already the library is required, and quite rightly, to care for volumes of periodicals and books for which the departments of Chemistry and Botany have no room in their laboratories, and doubtless this will eventually be the case with other departments which have libraries in their own buildings, as in the Art Building and in Billings Hall where the space originally allotted for this purpose cannot easily be extended. It is a question whether it is not better to have all department libraries, with the exception of very small working collections, under one roof, but unless the department libraries already in existence are given up and plans made eventually to extend the present building to double its present size this policy, desirable as it seems from the standpoint of library administration, cannot be carried out.

The Brooks Room has grown steadily in popularity with the students and many expressions of appreciation have been received from them. There are already over a thousand books on the shelves and others are constantly being added. The attractiveness of the room has been enhanced by several gifts received during the two years. The Misses Dwight have added a much needed and beautiful rug to the furnishings; the Misses Eustis, cousins of Miss Brooks, have given a handsome bronze vase suitably inscribed; and a lady spending some time in the village in the fall of 1921 was so pleased with the beauty and restfulness of the room that she spent many hours there, and asked the privilege of giving twenty-five dollars to be used toward its furnishing, and a beautiful plant which has continued in bloom during the winter and spring. A pair of bronze book ends was purchased with part of the sum thus received. Professor Palmer has also been much interested in the purpose of the room and has had the happy thought of securing autograph copies of poems by present and former members of the Wellesley faculty, including Mrs. Palmer, Miss Hazard, Miss Bates, Miss Jewett, and Miss Sherwood. These he has presented to the library appropriately framed for placing in the room, where they suggest Wellesley's just pride in her own contribution to literature. Other autographs of distinguished men and women of letters have been transferred to this room from the collection already in the library.

At the request of individual instructors, books have been displayed in the Treasure Room for various classes at different times. The students of mediæval art met to listen to a lecture on manuscripts illustrated by examples of which the Plimpton Collection furnished some of the oldest and most interesting. Classes in mathematics came to see the rare and curious early mathematical books; and the Shakespeare folios, the Ruskin, Browning, and Tennyson Collections furnished material of much interest to several classes in English Literature. In April, 1922, the Treasure Room was open in the afternoon for several days in succession, and many students took advantage of the opportunity to see the books and manuscripts in that room. Small classes in Italian have been held as usual in the Plimpton Room and exhibitions from the valuable material in that room are kept in the cases outside. The year 1922, being the sixth hundredth anniversary of the death of Dante, the curator of the Plimpton Collection, Professor Margaret Jackson, had on exhibition many early editions of his works and other books of interest in connection with the life of the poet. The gift of Miss Hazard of the Facsimile of the Codice Landiano, mentioned elsewhere in this report, is a notable addition to the Dante Collection. During the winter months of 1922-23, the Treasure Room was open once a month on Sunday afternoons, and much interest was shown by students who came in considerable numbers.

During the time covered by this report, many pleasant expressions of appreciation of the service the library is trying to perform have been made to members of the staff which the Librarian wishes gratefully to acknowledge here, as well as her own indebtedness for the help given so readily by other departments of the college administration and by the Library Committee.

Respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

I have the honor to present the following report of the administration of the Library for the year ending June 30, 1924.

During the year we have added to the Library 3,364 volumes, 2,494 by purchase, 870 by gift, the total number of bound volumes now accessioned being 104,082. This number does not include the Plimpton Collection of 950 volumes, the Brooks Room collection of 1,100 volumes, nor the two large collections in the Treasure Room, the Ruskin Collection and the recently acquired Poetry Collection.

The year has been rich in gifts, the most notable being the gift by Professor Palmer of his remarkable collection of first and rare editions of English and American poets. Many volumes of this collection had already been placed in the Treasure Room by Professor Palmer in former years. It had been his custom on the anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Palmer to bring to the library one or more of his treasures. This year had seen the completion of the catalogue of the collection, a bibliographical undertaking which had occupied him for some years; and on Mrs. Palmer's birthday this year, February 21, 1924, we received the gift of the whole collection remaining in his possession, making in all some 2,000 volumes. Professor Palmer himself superintended the placing of the volumes on the shelves, a task of some weeks. On March 19, when the formal presentation was made, a small company of trustees, members of the faculty and graduate students of the English Department gathered informally in the Treasure Room and the donor spoke briefly of the collection and of his hopes and plans for its use at Wellesley.

Several rare books have been added to the Ruskin Collection by Mr. Goodspeed, and another interesting addition to the books in the Treasure Room is the first edition of Dickens' Battle of Life given by Professor Margaret H. Jackson.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

Many gifts have been made to the General Library by members of the faculty, students, alumnæ and other friends of the college as well as by institutions and offices of the state and federal governments. The Commonwealth offered us a set of Vital Records of the towns of the state which we were glad to accept; Harvard University gave us the Report of the Excavations at Samaria; fifty recent novels were received from the Circulating Library of the faculty of Wellesley College; Professor A. V. V. Brown and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Gilman Brown, presented us with about twenty-five volumes; Mrs. Elizabeth Seelman Kingsley '98 sent us more than one hundred volumes; Miss Candace Stimson '92 gave some fifty volumes, and thirty-one volumes were received from the library of Miss Mabel A. Stone '07. Mr. R. G. Shaw presented us with eighty volumes, including a set of the Almanach de Gotha, 1841-1906. A member of the class of 1919 who wishes to remain anonymous has made it possible for us to purchase Evans' American Bibliography and to subscribe to its continuation and to that of Sabin's Dictionary of Books relating to America, of which we have the volumes already published.

Notable purchases during the year included a number of rare books of special historical interest to the Department of Astronomy; also Porter, Romanesque sculpture, 10 vols.; Leidinger, Codex Aureus, v. 5-10; Wilpert, Mosaiken, 4 vols.; British Novelists, 50 vols.; Ehrenberg, Infusionthierchen, 2 vols.; this last to replace volumes lost in the fire of 1914. Annual subscriptions to all the publications of the League of Nations and to the publications of the Harvard Economic Research Association have also been placed during the year.

We have expended for books $6,703.94; $2,271.54 for periodical subscriptions, and $1,333.67 for binding and repairs, a total of $10,309.15. This sum is derived from the income of funds, gifts, etc., as follows: Horsford Fund, $8,274.10; Abbott Fund, $36.42; Kirk Fund, $274.89; Morse Fund, $23.05; Sanborn Fund, $259.79; Shafer Fund, $113.26; Sweet Fund, $126.62; Wenckebach Fund, $393; Special appropriation for the purchase of books in Economics, $132.62; Department Fees, $106.55; Gifts, $846.73.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The circulation of books during the year is shown by the following table:

Total number of books circulated . . . . .	39,061
Reserved books circulated . . . . .	10,870
Charged to students (including reserved books) . . . . .	33,422
Charged to members of the faculty . . . . .	5,592
Charged to alumnae and others . . . . .	37

The cataloguing of current accessions reaches a total of 4,358 volumes, including 2,706 books, representing 2,164 titles, 569 periodicals and 523 continuations. Owing to much illness on the staff during the winter, the recataloguing was not carried forward as rapidly as we desired, but a total of 2,883 volumes, representing 1,505 titles was catalogued. When one realizes that the recataloguing is done from the books and is not merely a matter of copying old cards the progress we have made toward the completion of this task is seen to be considerable. The increasingly large collection of books in the Brooks Room has also been catalogued during the year, as the shelf list no longer sufficed for reference.

The Poetry Collection and the Ruskin Collection now fill such a large part of the Treasure Room that it will be necessary soon to have cases in the hall to accommodate some of the books of the general collection now in that room, and also to hold some of the older and more valuable books of the original library of Mr. Durant which are now on the regular shelves though restricted from circulation.

It will soon be very desirable to install cases on the fifth floor of the stack, as the shelves on the fourth level are very overcrowded and relief by moving books to the room below could be only temporary. Fortunately the floor is already laid on the upper level so that the installation will not be unduly expensive.

Additional storage already provided in the basement will soon make it possible to release one of the rooms there which could be fitted for a newspaper room, thus making the newspapers more accessible than in their present location.

In closing, the Librarian wishes to express her appreciation of the co-operation of the Library Committee and her gratitude to the Associate Librarians who so efficiently directed the administration of the Library during her absence on Sabbatical leave for the year covered by this report. It is a pleasure to recall that the generous donor who first made possible the Sabbatical grants, Professor Horsford, was also the special benefactor of the Library.

Respectfully submitted,

ETHEL DANE ROBERTS,

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF RESIDENCE

---

To the President of Wellesley College:—

I have the honor of presenting the following report for the three years from July 1, 1921, to June 30, 1924.

Though the three years under consideration have had nothing extraordinary in their history, from the point of view of the office of the Dean of Residence, there have been many interesting changes and developments.

For the year 1920-21, Wellesley housed its students in twenty-seven dormitories, thirteen upon the campus and fourteen in the village. During the summer of 1921, Miss Newkirk added to her list of valuable services to the College by remodelling Little House, thus greatly increasing its convenience and attractiveness and adding seven places to its capacity. The two houses, Washington and Little, became by this change a group of which the College may justly be proud.

In anticipation of this change at Little House, it seemed safe to relinquish Joslin House in June, 1921, and the number of campus and village houses became again equal for the year 1921-22 and so remained for the succeeding year, 1922-23, thirteen each.

The leases of The Elms and Harris House expired at the end of the year 1922-23 and it seemed highly desirable, because of the greatly increased rent asked, as well as for other reasons, to discontinue their use. But the reckoning of probabilities in numbers showed that the College of the year 1923-24 was likely to be the largest since the year 1917-18. With the accommodations then existing this would mean many sophomores again in the village, a step backward the Administration was most loath to take. Much discussion of ways and means resulted in a scheme for increasing the campus accommodations by eighty-one places, as follows:

Mrs. Pearmain of the Board of Trustees, always most ingenious in her study of building resources, had earlier seen the possibility of finishing off student rooms in the east and west attics of Tower Court. Messrs. Coolidge and Carlson were asked to make a study of the question and at the opening of College in September, 1923, twelve additional rooms were ready for students.

The resignation in 1923 of Mr. Austin, Superintendent of the College Plant, left the superintendent's house untenanted. It was found that with practically no alterations nine students could be accommodated here. The house was made tributary to Clafin and named Clafin Annex to indicate this connection. Miss Dorothy Dennis, who was set free from her duties in the village by the giving up of Harris House, accepted the post of chaperon and became Mrs. Chadderdon's assistant in the administration of the house. This has proved a most comfortable home for a small group of sophomores.

The President again called into consultation Miss Newkirk, who produced after careful study most attractive plans for the enlargement of Homestead so that it should accommodate thirty-four students instead of nine, and who presented also the proposition of remodelling the Barn into a house for thirty-five. It took a certain amount of vision to believe this possible, but the step was taken with happy results, and by dint of mighty effort on the part of all concerned these two houses also were ready for the opening of College.

Homestead under Miss Newkirk's skilful hands kept its old individuality while its new wing had three floors of convenient, modern rooms whose windows framed the charming views of that end of the campus.

The Barn came as a surprise to the undergraduate body. It was thought best for various reasons to make no mention of the plan for its reconstruction before the close of College and the interest and amazement of the students upon their return in the fall was quite delightful. In place of the old playhouse which had been allowed to lapse into unusual shabbiness because of the approaching completion of the Student Alumnae Building, they entered a quaint and attractive dormitory, whose corridors, wider than common because of the position of the old Barn posts, gave a certain air of hospitable welcome. From these corridors on two floors opened comfortable, attractive rooms, chiefly single. The bathroom equipment of the house was ample. The yard too had been transformed into an enclosed lawn on which by some wizard's trick, Mr. Woods had managed to get a thin coat of greenness during the last few days before the students came back.

These houses have now been tested by a year's occupancy and are considered valuable additions to the equipment of the College, though the Barn is of course recognized as a merely temporary building. In September, 1923, the college houses were listed, campus 15; village 11.

It should be stated with all due appreciation that the use of the Barn and Homestead would never have been possible without the co-operation of Mrs. Irish at Stone Hall. These two houses have nearly doubled the demand upon her house,—have necessitated the equipment of additional dining rooms, the rearranging of her kitchen and the reorganization of her staff. The problems involved have been many and perplexing.

The next lease to expire was that of Lovewell in June, 1924. Its location was the best of all our rented houses, but it was ill-adapted in many ways to college use. Miss Stallknecht had achieved a most homelike atmosphere in the old place, but its difficulties of administration were many. If the College was not to renew its lease, its owner, Mr. Lovewell, was anxious to gain possession of the property at the earliest possible date, in order that extensive changes could be completed during the summer. The proposal of the Business Manager that we vacate February 1 was somewhat staggering, but the students were transferred a month later to other college houses, and by March 1 Lovewell was a thing of the past so far as Wellesley College was concerned. A few months later it was subdivided and became three separate dwellings. It seemed the passing of an old-time friend, so many connected with the College in one way or another had found lodging under its roof continuously since the days of 1875.

The most distinguished additions of this period to the list of College houses are the two fine buildings on the Horton estate opposite the East Lodge, named Horton and Hallowell in affectionate remembrance of the two professors whose home was there for many years.

The difficulty of finding suitable housing for those members of the Wellesley faculty who did not wish or were not able to live in college dormitories was recognized as a problem of vital importance. A faculty house had been long desired and various plans had been discussed for several years. Such a house was placed among the imperative needs to be met by the first portion of the Semi-Centennial Fund and when the houses were actually begun in 1922 it was felt that dreams were coming true.

The two houses were the work of Miss Eliza Newkirk. They were promised for September 1, but the summer was a trying season for building because of labor conditions and September found both buildings full of workmen, and Horton in particular far from completion. The delay was most trying to college folk who needed their books and workrooms, but all things come to an end, even the excuses of contractors. The rooms and apartments were finished one by one and the workmen pushed out. The beginning of the winter term, January, 1923, found all the faculty tenants in possession at last.

Hallowell House, with its three floors, contains twelve apartments, six of two rooms and bath, six of four rooms and bath. The eight apartments of the first two floors are designed for housekeeping with kitchenettes. The rooms are spacious, convenient, and attractive.

Horton House, in single rooms and suites, gives attractive quarters to twenty-one members of the faculty, while its dining room for fifty, its lounge and attractive reception room, form a center not only for the residents of these two houses, but also for the entire body of the Wellesley faculty. Horton House Club is already a factor in the college community and its friends see indefinite possibilities for the increase of its usefulness. As often happens, the possession of these two houses creates a desire for another, and plans are already discussed for the erection of a third building upon the Horton lot.

An important change of this period was the transfer of the co-operative house from Fiske to Freeman.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

It had long been recognized that the great drawback in the use of Fiske as the co-operative house was its separation from other college houses and its distance from the center of the campus. Self-help students should more than others be in the midst of college life rather than isolated. At Fiske the very students who counted minutes most carefully were obliged by the location of the house to spend more time than others in going to and from their various appointments. The ideal situation for them at the present time was plainly the Hill.

It seemed the overturning of long-standing traditions to move the co-operative center from the house where it had been established in 1897 through the generosity of Mrs. Joseph Fiske and the devotion of Professor Whiting and her sister. After much consideration and discussion it was decided to make the experiment of changing to Freeman where the headship was left vacant by the decision of Mrs. Clifton to follow Miss Harris and Miss Lyman to the Village. So Miss Foster and her "foster children" moved as a body across the meadow and the change has justified itself in every particular. The house accommodates eleven more than did the smaller one, no slight advantage in the eyes of Miss Paige and Miss Caswell, and it is eminently suitable that the co-operative household should find a home in the house where Miss Dennison maintained the standards of the old domestic work in the first decades of Freeman's history.

When Freeman gives place eventually to the science building of our dreams, we have visions of a new house, equipped especially for co-operative housekeeping, situated at the most advantageous point upon the campus, which shall again bear the name of Fiske and inherit all that the first Fiske meant to the College for the twenty-four years of its co-operative life.

The experiment of co-operative work at Norumbega proved only partially satisfactory and was discontinued with the change from Fiske to Freeman.

There have been several changes in the staff of Heads of Houses. At the end of the year 1921-22 Miss Snow and Mrs. Daniel resigned their positions as Heads of Washington House and Cazenove Hall to carry out their long-time scheme of opening a model tea-room in the village, a scheme for which their long acquaintance with college students gave them special equipment. Miss Lyman accepted the headship of Cazenove and Miss Snyder succeeded Miss Snow as Head of Washington House of the Village.

Mrs. Wheeler asked for leave of absence for the year 1922-23 in order that she might spend a year in California and Mrs. Wardwell consented to take her place at Eliot during her absence.

Mrs. Mary Cross Ewing of the class of 1898 succeeded Mrs. Wardwell at Norumbega in September, 1922, and has ably and sympathetically carried on the traditions of this house of honored history.

In September, 1921, Mrs. Meaker left Webb for Beebe and has repeated there her success in other houses.

Mrs. Lucy Dow Cushing resigned her position at Wilder in June, 1921, and the College called to succeed her another alumna, Mrs. Mary Gilman Ahlers, '88, who is ably administering her house.

Miss Effie J. Buell asked to be relieved from her duties at Pomeroy for the year 1923-24 and Mrs. Wardwell allowed herself to be again transferred from village to campus and made the year a most comfortable one for her large family.

Mrs. Stella Balderston, mother of two Wellesley daughters, succeeded Mrs. Meaker at Webb, and has given additional proof to the belief that no one better understands undergraduate needs than the mother of college daughters. Mrs. Balderston later followed Miss Foster at Fiske and accomplished there most happy results for her sophomore family.

Mrs. Hassett undertook the management of the Barn during its first year of domesticity and has achieved happy results.

Mrs. Clifton, who succeeded Miss Snyder at Noanett in September, 1922, has added her bit to the common testimony that nothing is more interesting than working with freshmen and her freshmen appreciate her care.

The College counts itself fortunate in adding to its staff Mrs. Lucy P. Bell as Head of Webb House (September, 1922), who comes to Wellesley from Virginia, and Miss Carolyn

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Loomis who brings to Clinton (September, 1923) the results of valuable experience in other institutions.

Miss Louise Roe came to Wellesley from Northfield and the University of Michigan to organize Horton House, and accomplished its opening in the face of numberless difficulties. She resigned at the end of its first year, in January, 1924, and Mrs. Clarke of Leighton took up the work. To both Miss Roe and Mrs. Clarke the College owes a debt of gratitude for their interest in the new undertaking and their unfailing patience in meeting the new problems connected with the first months of its history.

Since the transfer of Mrs. Clarke from Leighton to Horton corresponded nearly with the giving up of Lovewell, Miss Stallknecht stepped into the vacancy thus created.

Miss Lyman has continued to represent the Heads of Houses in the Senate, and Mrs. Wardwell was elected a member of the Judiciary upon the formation of that body.

I could not close this report without expressing my deep gratitude to the Heads of Houses for their generous and unfailing support. The importance and responsibility of the work is recognized by all members of this department. If the problems are persistent and varied, so too is the desire to find that solution which shall best meet the needs of the College and advance her highest interests.

Respectfully submitted,

EDITH S. TUFTS,
Dean of Residence.

POLICY IN REGARD TO PROMOTIONS AND APPOINTMENTS OF THE FACULTY

(Framed by the Committee on Promotions of the Academic Council, and approved by the Trustees.)

1. Promotion from one rank to the next higher is not automatic.
2. Qualifications for promotion include enrichment of equipment, teaching power and personality. As evidence of enriched equipment might be offered publications, research, advanced degrees, or other recognition of scholarship.
3. The position of associate professor is recognized as one of great dignity and further promotion should depend in general upon some unusual claim stronger than that upon which promotion from other ranks is based. It is recognized that departmental exigency might justify the promotion of a particular associate professor when financial considerations would not allow the promotion of all associate professors of equal qualifications where no departmental need exists. But such discrimination should be exercised only when absolutely necessary.
4. Whenever possible, the Committee on Promotions of the Academic Council should be consulted in regard to new appointments to any professorial rank, and in any event, the case of every new assistant, associate and full professor, shall be reviewed by this Committee at the close of the first term before reappointment is made.
5. In general it shall be the policy to review the status of all instructors at the end of five years' service, and if they are not qualified for promotion, their service should terminate. If such an instructor is qualified for promotion but the treasury does not permit the increased expenditure in the department concerned, the instructor should be informed that promotion cannot be expected.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE DEGREE

The old curriculum prescribed 59 hours for a degree.

The new curriculum prescribes 60 hours for a degree.

I. DISTRIBUTION:

The prescribed work under the old curriculum is as follows:

Biblical History . . . . .	4½ hours
English Composition . . . . .	3 “
Mathematics . . . . .	3 “
Philosophy . . . . .	3 “
Hygiene and Physical Education . . . . .	2 “
Language . . . . .	3 “
Science . . . . .	3 to 6 hours
	21½ to 24½ hours
Biblical History . . . . .	4½ hours
A Foreign language (unless satisfactory evidence of knowledge of 3d language presented for admission) . . . . .	3 “
A Biological Science (unless 2 yrs. of satisfactory biological science or sciences presented for admission) . . . . .	3 “
A Physical Science (unless 2 yrs. of satisfactory physical science or sciences presented for admission) . . . . .	3 “

English Composition . . . . .	3 “
Philosophy and Psychology . . . . .	3 “
Hygiene and Physical Education . . . . .	2 “
Reading and Speaking (new) . . . . .	1 “
	25½ hours

General principle voted: The remission of college requirements is permitted only when the preparatory work in these subjects in the secondary school is satisfactory.

II. CONCENTRATION:

Under the old curriculum the regulation for majors (or concentration) required a total of 18 hours divided between two departments, either 12 hours in one department, plus 6 hours in another department, or 9 hours in each department.

Amended to include a third arrangement, namely, of these 18 hours, 12 must be in one department, the remaining 6 hours must be in allied courses (not departments).

III. HONORS IN SUBJECTS:

1. A candidate for honors in subjects must conform to all the regulations outlined above in regard to required work, and to distribution.

¶If one year physical and one year biological science is presented for admission, the student is required to take but one science in college and given her choice.

APPENDIX TO THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

2. She is required to take a minimum of 21 hours in her major subject (i.e., in her major department and the allied courses combined—the Field of Distinction).

3. Admission to Honors in Subjects shall be confined to candidates whose scholarship, maturity, and previous range of acquirement justify exceptional concentration.

(The maximum number of hours is controlled by the previously mentioned regulations to ensure distribution.)

4. Her work will be tested as follows:

- A. (1) In general, the regular tests of the courses in the Field of Distinction taken, including the examinations in these courses through the Junior year.
- (2) In the senior year the June course examination may be omitted at the option of the instructor, and the instructor be authorized to give a grade in the second semester.
- (3) In the senior year the informal tests of the course shall be given at the option of the instructor.
- B. A comprehensive examination must be taken in the student's Field of Distinction at the close of the senior year.

5. The Academic Council shall create a Standing Committee on Honors in Subjects constituted similarly to the Committees on Instruction and Graduate Instruction whose duties shall be as follows:

- (a) To accept students applying for honors in subjects.
- (b) To review and approve the proposed program of each candidate for Honors in Subjects.
- (c) To arrange for the comprehensive examination at the end of the course.
- (d) To arrange, with the approval of the departments concerned, for not more than three hours of independent work in the Field of Distinction.

6. All applications from candidates for Honors in Subjects must be accompanied by recommendations from the departments concerned.

NEW PLAN OF ADMISSION SUBJECTS

In the interest of giving to the secondary schools greater freedom in planning courses of study, Wellesley College announces a change in entrance requirements. The rapid development of the Junior High School movement has been one of the considerations of the college in the adoption of a more flexible scheme of admission. The new requirements do not alter the methods of admission or affect the standards which have been in effect since 1919, but allow greater elasticity in the choice of subjects. The following plan will go into effect for candidates entering Wellesley College in 1925 and later years.

For admission to Wellesley College a candidate must present fifteen units of secondary school studies chosen according to the following plan:

Group I.—Prescribed without choice, 9 units:

English . . . . .	3
Mathematics . . . . .	3
Algebra . . . . .	2
Plane Geometry . . . . .	1
Latin . . . . .	3

Group II.—Restricted electives, 3 units:

History . . . . .	1
Two units chosen from Foreign language . . . . .	2
or
Science . . . . .	2
or
Science I and a second unit of History 1 . . . . .	2

Group III.—Free electives, 3 units

It is to be noted that the important changes which the new requirement allows are as follows:

1. Reduction of the prescribed units in Latin from 4 to 3.
2. Greater scope for the selection of units from the group of restricted electives.
3. Provision for a free margin of three units.

Candidates entering by the Comprehensive Plan (New Plan) who wish to offer subjects for admission in which examinations are not given by the College Entrance Examination Board are advised to submit the plan for their free electives to the Board of Admission before the beginning of the last year of their preparation for college. Subjects for the four comprehensive examinations must be chosen from the list of examinations offered by the College Entrance Examination Board. Admission credit is not granted for one unit of a foreign language.

APPENDIX TO THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Attention is called to the fact that the choice of subjects in the free elective group is unlimited only for candidates who enter by the comprehensive plan in which four examinations are considered in connection with the school record. Candidates for admission by examination in all subjects must choose the free electives from subjects in which entrance examinations are regularly offered. These subjects include the following:

Foreign Language:

French . . . . .	2-4 units
German . . . . .	2-4 units
Greek . . . . .	2-3 units
Italian . . . . .	2-4 units
Latin . . . . .	a 4th unit
Spanish . . . . .	2-4 units

Mathematics:

Solid Geometry . . . . .	$\frac{1}{2}$ unit
Trigonometry . . . . .	$\frac{1}{2}$ unit
Advanced Algebra . . . . .	$\frac{1}{2}$ unit

History:

American . . . . .	1 unit
Ancient . . . . .	1 unit
English . . . . .	1 unit
Mediæval and Modern . . . . .	1 unit
Modern European . . . . .	1 unit

Science:

Biology . . . . .	1 unit
Botany . . . . .	1 unit
Chemistry . . . . .	1 unit
Physical Geography . . . . .	1 unit
Physics . . . . .	1 unit
Zoology . . . . .	1 unit

Biblical History and Literature . . . . . 1 unit

Civil Government . . . . . 1 unit

Drawing:

Freehand . . . . .	1 unit
Mechanical . . . . .	1 unit

Harmony . . . . . 1 unit

PLAN OF DEPARTMENT ORGANIZATION

(Adopted by the Academic Council in 1922-23, and approved by the Trustees, October, 1923, with the provision that those Heads of Departments under appointment in 1915-16 be retained as chairmen unless they voluntarily resign this office.)

I. THE DEPARTMENT COMMITTEE:

1. In each department a department committee shall be organized comprising all members of Council rank, carrying the major portion of their work in that department, and, by vote of the Council members and with the approval of the President, instructors not of Council rank.

The qualifying clause "carrying the major portion of their work in that department" shall not apply to departments composed wholly of members whose major work is in other departments.

2. The policy and aim of the department in all important matters, except those mentioned in II, shall be determined by a majority vote of this department committee. Questions settled by this committee should be

- (A) Academic questions,—as,
  - (a) The determination of requirements either for entrance or graduation (so far as these are left to the departments to determine).
  - (b) Decisions with regard to work for the master's degree.
  - (c) The proposal of new courses with determination of their prerequisites.
  - (d) The determination of the general relation of all courses in the department to one another.
  - (e) The assignment of courses to instructors.
- (B) Administrative questions,—as,
  - (a) The use of department appropriations and gifts.
  - (b) The use of library funds.
  - (c) The selection of department lecturers.

It should be left to each department committee to determine the number and character of its meetings, its rules of procedure, its appointment of minor officers, and its distribution of routine duties.

3. In meetings where these and like questions are discussed all members of the teaching staff of the department shall in general be present and take part in the discussions in order that policies may be fully understood and that opportunity may be given for questions, suggestions, and protests from the non-voting members of the department.

II. PROMOTIONS, APPOINTMENTS AND DISMISSALS:

1. In the case of certain most important questions voting power in the committee shall be restricted to full professors and those associate professors who have served at least three years on the Council. Questions settled by this smaller body should be:

- (a) Nominations of new assistants, instructors, assistant professors, and associate professors.
- (b) Recommendations for promotion of any in the department to higher rank, up to and including that of associate professor.
- (c) Recommendations for reappointment and for dismissal.

APPENDIX TO THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

2. A majority vote of this smaller body shall be required for any of these recommendations to the President and Trustees.

3. Nomination to a full professorship shall come only from those in a department who hold already the rank of full professor.

III. THE POSITION OF CHAIRMAN:

In a department organized as described and entrusted with such responsibilities, the duties of the chief, by whatever title called, would be primarily those of a chairman, viz., to preside and guide discussion and to execute the will of the majority.

It is recognized, however, that there are certain other duties for which heads of departments have hitherto felt responsible and which would naturally fall into the hands of one person, most appropriately the chairman. These duties are:

- (a) Representation of the department on public occasions and before the Trustees, the President, and the students.
- (b) The guidance and criticism of young and inexperienced instructors.
- (c) Decisions in cases of emergency, e.g., in the summer when the department is scattered.

In view of the character of some of these functions it is believed that it would be wise to have the office still one of dignity and relative permanency, and by vote of the Council it was decided that

The chairman be elected by the large department committee from the small committee (i.e. the committee mentioned in II, 1) for a term of three years and that the chairman be re-eligible with the understanding that failure to re-elect will not be considered to be a breach of custom.

IV. APPEALS:

Appeal from decisions of the department committees may be made to the President of the College by any member of the department. Such appeal shall be stated in writing by the appellant. The decision in question shall also be stated in writing by the department committee. Both the appellant and the chairman of the department shall be given opportunity for explanation and defense of their respective points of view. The President after consideration of the whole question, shall return it to the department committee for reconsideration and final decision.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF WELLESLEY COLLEGE:—

I submit herewith a report of the finances of Wellesley College for the two-year period ending June 30, 1923.

RESOURCES AND LIABILITIES

The Balance Sheet given in Exhibit A shows that the College possesses total resources of $11,856,401.81 which is $1,089,800.39 in excess of last year. Of the above total $6,373,759.09 represents invested trust funds, while the remainder $5,482,642.72 represents current assets and plant.

The current liabilities amount to $76,844.51 and the deferred income to $132,393.35. The deferred income is stated as a liability because it will have to be made good to future years out of the current cash resources of the College.

The trust funds and their corresponding investments have increased by $681,756.56 and now stand at $6,373,759.09.

Plant—$5,373,745.18:

This item is made up as follows:

Land . . . . .	$444,030.35
Buildings and Fixed Equipment . . . . .	3,930,074.00
Movable Equipment . . . . .	999,640.83
	$5,373,745.18

Further details of the various properties making this total owned by the College are given in Schedule 2.

The following statement shows the changes during the year:

Value at June 30, 1922 . . . . .	$4,955,095.93
Additions during the year 1922-1923 as per Schedule 1 . . . . .	526,291.25
	$5,481,387.18
Deduct:
Depreciation for the year . . . . .	$53,466.40
Entrance Gates . . . . .	18,057.43
Buildings—General . . . . .	34,401.79
Proposed Ice House . . . . .	1,716.38
	107,642.00
Value at June 30, 1923 . . . . .	$5,373,745.18

The depreciation is calculated at the rate of 1½ per cent on the book value of the buildings. No replacement fund is carried by the College but the buildings are well maintained out of income.

Investment of Trust Funds—$6,373,759.09:

These investments comprise the following:

Securities (Schedule 5) . . . . .	$5,617,811.14
Investment in College Dormitories . . . . .	336,296.19
Cash in Bank . . . . .	419,651.76
	$6,373,759.09

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Investment in Dormitories—$336,296.19:

This investment is gradually being repaid from current income into the endowment funds. When this is accomplished the endowment funds will be invested entirely in income-producing securities.

The following statement shows the changes in this account:

Amount of the endowment invested in College Dormitories at June 30, 1922 . . . . .	$349,171.62
Deduct:
Repaid during 1922-1923 out of the current income of the College . . . . .	12,875.43
Amount invested June 30, 1923 . . . . .	$336,296.19

In addition to the above item of $12,875.43 the College has repaid this year the sum of $2,500 for part of the cost of the Little Dormitory. This makes a total charge against income for the year of $15,375.43 as shown in the Income and Expenditure Account, Exhibit B.

The dormitories represented in the above total are as follows:

	Amount Invested
Pomeroy . . . . .	$16,931.88
Cazenove . . . . .	80,000.00
Beebe . . . . .	98,585.44
Shafer . . . . .	100,000.00
Washington . . . . .	17,099.04
Little . . . . .	23,679.83
Total Investment . . . . .	$336,296.19

Interest at 5 per cent on this amount is paid by the dormitories into the endowment income of the College. The above amount represents only the endowment money invested therein. The total value of the six houses is $696,059.71.

It should be noted that in addition to the above total the College has also invested $17,101.80 of its endowment fund in the purchase of one hundred shares of the common stock of the Waban Real Estate Trust. By this purchase the College obtains control of Noanett, Ridgeway, and Crofton, which are rented by the College from the Trust.

General Capital Fund—$5,273,404.86:

This represents the capital of the College invested in its plant and current assets at Wellesley.

Accumulated Current Deficit—$22,705.78:

This is arrived at as follows:

Current Deficit at June 30, 1922 . . . . .	$37,956.91
Less: Excess of Income over Expenditure for the year as per Exhibit B . . . . .	15,251.13

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE

The accounts for the past year show a surplus of income over expenditure amounting to $15,251.13.

Current Income—$788,766.53:

The account stated in Exhibit B shows the principal sources of income, with the corresponding figures for the preceding year, and shows a small increase of $5,458.59.

Endowment Income—$206,260.41:

The following statement shows the gross endowment income received and how it has been disposed of:

Endowment Income 1922-1923:

Unexpended Income brought forward from last year . . . . .	$21,054.30
Interest and Dividends Received . . . . .	340,094.39
Total Endowment Income Available . . . . .	$361,148.69

Disposed of as follows:

Annuities paid . . . . .	$6,450.00
Income added to Principal . . . . .	4,115.94
Income carried to Reserve Account . . . . .	47,395.88
Income carried to the General Account of the College as shown in Exhibit B . . . . .	206,260.41
Income paid to the Treasurer of the Newman Fund . . . . .	50.00
Income carried to Semi-Centennial Fund . . . . .	35,760.16
	$300,032.39
Unexpended Income carried forward to next year as shown on Schedule 4 . . . . .	61,116.30
	$361,148.69

The item of $61,116.30 unexpended income compares with a corresponding item last year of $21,054.30. The increase in this item is caused by interest on the Semi-Centennial Fund, $39,359.52 which has not yet been transferred to the principal of that fund.

Current Expenditures—$773,515.40:

The expenditures are given under their respective groups in Exhibit B and show an increase over the preceding year of $38,888.86. This is to be attributed principally to the larger amount expended out of income on additions to plant.

Dormitories and Hospital—$104,846.87:

The dormitories have paid to the College the sum of $72,591.93 being 4½ per cent on the capital invested therein. After paying this interest there remains a net operating surplus of $48,699.55. Deducting from this the cost of operating the hospital, there remains a net surplus of $29,817.70 which is brought into the

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

College income for the year as shown in Exhibit B. The net expense of the hospital is $18,881.85 which is $2,179.88 less than the preceding year.

The following statement shows the cost of operating the dormitories:

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

TO THE TRUSTEES OF WELLESLEY COLLEGE:

I submit herewith a report of the finances of Wellesley College for the year ending June 30, 1924.

RESOURCES AND LIABILITIES

The balance sheet, Exhibit A, shows the financial condition of the College in three groupings, Current, Plant, and Trust Funds.

Current—$298,382.61:

In the current group two items of especial interest are surplus and advances for construction. The deficit, accumulated during the years of the war, at last gives place to a surplus of $18,938.99, determined as follows:

Balance of Accumulated Deficit at June 30, 1923 . . . . .		$22,705.78
Income for current purposes (Exhibit B) . . . . .	$900,364.47
Operating Expenses (Exhibit B) . . . . .	745,721.95
Income in excess of operating expenses . . . . .		$154,642.52
Deduct
Amount repaid to Trust Funds to reduce investment in dormitories . . . . .	$50,375.43
Expenditures for plant and equipment . . . . .	62,622.32	112,997.75
Surplus for the year . . . . .		41,644.77
Net Surplus June 30, 1924 . . . . .		$18,938.99

Temporary advances from current cash for construction of new buildings totals $194,539.72 apportioned as follows:

Alumnæ Hall Equipment . . . . .		3,164.01
Greenhouse and Outdoor Laboratory . . . . .		2,888.79
Botany and Zoology Building . . . . .		392.41
		$194,539.72

The Semi-Centennial Fund will ultimately reimburse current cash for these advances.

Plant—$6,059,957.29:

This item is made up as follows:

Land . . . . .		$444,129.05
Buildings and Fixed Equipment . . . . .		4,587,876.14
Movable Equipment . . . . .		1,027,952.10
		$6,059,957.29

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Schedule 2 shows the book values of the various properties owned by the College. Schedule 1 shows the detailed additions to plant account during the year.

In previous reports the valuation of certain dormitories, representing investment of both current and trust funds, has not shown in any one place; that is, the amount represented by the investment of current cash has shown under plant, while that represented by the investment of trust funds has shown under such investments. This year, in order to state clearly the total value of every building in one place, the figures for plant include the amount of trust funds invested in dormitories.

The changes in the plant account during the year are summarized as follows:

Value at June 30, 1923:
Land . . . . .		$444,030.35
Buildings and Fixed Equipment . . . . .		3,930,074.00
Movable Equipment . . . . .		999,640.83
		$5,373,745.18
Add endowment funds invested in dormitories but not included under plant June 30, 1923 . . . . .		336,296.19
		$5,710,041.37
New Expenditures during year:
Land . . . . .	$98.70
Buildings and Fixed Equipment . . . . .	384,675.27
Movable Equipment . . . . .	29,108.97
		413,882.94
		$6,123,924.31
Deduct:
Carpenter Shop, Lumber Shed, and Paint Shop burned . . . . .	$1,200.00
Depreciation for year . . . . .	62,767.02
		63,967.02
Value at June 30, 1924 . . . . .		$6,059,957.29

Depreciation has again been calculated on a basis of 1½ per cent per annum on the book value of the buildings and fixed equipment. With the exception of Horton-Hallowell, no funds have been set aside to provide for the accumulated depreciation to date.

Trust Funds—$6,898,381.11:

The trust funds are shown in detail in Schedule 4. During the year there has been a net increase in these funds of $524,622.02 as shown below:

Trust Funds at June 30, 1923 . . . . .		$6,373,759.09

Trust Funds at June 30, 1924 . . . . .		$6,898,381.11
--	--	----------------

The Surplus Reserve Fund shows an increase this year of $161,965.33. This fund, the principal of which now stands at $228,604.07, as stated in Schedule 4, has been created out of income together with profits realized on securities.

Investment of Trust Funds—$6,898,381.11:

In addition to the minor items shown on the Balance Sheet (Exhibit A) the securities are fully described in Schedule 5 which lists also both book and market values on June 30, 1924.

The investment in dormitories has been reduced this year by $47,875.43 repaid from current income. In addition, the College has repaid to trust funds $2,500 for part of the cost of Little House. The charge, therefore, against income, as shown in Exhibit B, is $50,375.43. The remaining investment in dormitories is distributed as follows:

Beebe . . . . .	$98,585.44
Cazenove . . . . .	80,000.00
Little . . . . .	9,835.32
Shafer . . . . .	100,000.00
	$288,420.76
	$288,420.76

On this investment the dormitories pay to endowment income interest at five per cent.

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE

The accounts as stated in Exhibit B show an increase in expenditure of $85,204.30 and an increase in income of $111,597.94. These increases are analyzed as follows:

	1924	Increase Decrease over last year
Income:
Students' Tuition and Laboratory Fees . . .	$486,849.26	$39,650.82
Other Operating Income . . . . .	186,929.23	53,811.86
Gifts for current purposes . . . . .	2,273.43	83.12
Income of endowment funds . . . . .	224,312.55	18,052.14
Total Income . . . . .	$900,364.47	$111,597.94
Operating Expenses:
Academic . . . . .	$453,459.91	$40,849.21
Maintenance . . . . .	183,280.89	11,404.35
Administration . . . . .	83,391.92	3,579.19
Semi-Centennial Campaign . . . . .	18,420.35	2,822.65
Faculty Houses (net) . . . . .	7,168.88	7,168.88
Total Operating Expenses . . . . .	$745,721.95	$60,178.98
	$154,642.52	$51,418.96
Special Appropriations from Current Income:
To replace endowment funds temporarily invested in dormitories . . . . .	$50,375.43	$35,000.00
For new expenditures for plant and equipment . . . . .	62,622.32	9,974.68
	$112,997.75	$25,025.32
Surplus for the year . . . . .	$41,644.77	$26,393.64

It is evident that the operating expenses of the College have been kept well within the income available for current purposes. In addition, it has been possible to appropriate $62,622.32 for new expenditures on plant and equipment and to repay to endowment funds $50,375.43 of the endowment invested in dormitories in prior years.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Tuition and Other Fees—$485,849.26:

The increase of $39,650.82 in income from tuition and other fees is due to the larger number of students enrolled and to the departmental fee of $10 required for the first time this year from all undergraduates.

Dormitories and Hospital—$68,353.06:

The increase in other operating income is principally due to increased profit on dormitories because of larger enrollment and smaller expenses. The main factor in reducing expenses was the inventory of foodstuffs taken at the end of the year and deducted from the cost of provisions. Although this item was probably not all applicable to this year, yet since there had been no such inventory before, it was not possible to apportion the reduction between current and prior years.

The following statement shows the income and operating costs of dormitories and hospital:

	1922-1923	1923-1924	Increase Decrease

The income appropriated each year for the purposes designated by the various funds is based on 4½ per cent of the amount of the respective funds. The income actually received from endowment investments in excess of these amounts is credited to the Surplus Reserve Fund.

The following statement shows the receipts and appropriations of endowment income:
