chair with your
dear self at the other end - How much of this subject - said
Mr. James really believe
- but such a state
is not nearly reached in this 1912 - fortunately for railroads & other means of communication.

Mr. as a family &
Florence in particular,

My dearest Auntie :-

How
is the indisposition
you so casually
mentioned in your
last letter to me?

I suppose if I were able I could understand how to make a perfect thought -

an distressed that Mother Phutney has to move. The owner wants the house to live in. Mother seems well & quite bright - has had a wonderfully well winter.

Dreman is happy & growing fat in his new position in an upholstery house - where he has light & air & outside business, which means expense.
He has had to lose three dollars a week, with no chance of a raise for a year - but - he took hoping in the old place was killing his body & distressing his mind as he had ^{no} better future to anticipate. Doreally occasionally - he is a dear fellow,

broad minded &
keen & efficient - on the human subjects -
while he is an orthodox Evolutionary man,
he leans to Socialism,
in its best sense, & is a thinker as well
as practical worker.
I shall miss Emily.

Emily has been
so rich with pipe
which sheathed a Mastoid eruption which was most alarming at one time - but it is happily past with no
surgeon.
Emily Loomis
future husband
runs on from Rochester when she goes in. May - but happy for her sake.

My fall work was the best. I have ever had - nothing of importance coming now and I am thankful for the rest - allis I must scratch for future work.

Jack is well & more lovable. Could you let me have a ^{post} card a little often?
- please do.

Lovingly

May - Jacques
