

ROBERT D. ANDREWS
I. HOWLAND JONES
MAURICE B. BISCOE
JOHN T. WHITMORE

ANDREWS, JONES, BISCOE & WHITMORE
ARCHITECTS
50 CONGRESS STREET
BOSTON

August 19 1925

Not for publication.

Mr. Hugh Fullerton,
Editorial Office,
Liberty Weekly,
247 Park Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

In reply to yours of August 10 as to whom I consider the most interesting woman in the United States, I feel a certain embarrassment in replying since the question is a somewhat personal one.

I suggest the name of Mrs. Nancy Webster, Washington, D. C. Her past involves administrative experience applied to sociological conditions in New York, political experience in connection with the League of Women Voters and, as I understand, my nominee is now studying law to fit herself for a wider field of service.

She is decidedly the most interesting woman concerned in public affairs that I know.

Very truly yours,

Robert D. Andrews.

RDA/S

ANDREWS JONES BISCOE & WHITMORE
ARCHITECTS
50 CONGRESS STREET
BOSTON
August 18 1933

ROBERT R. ANDREWS
HOWLAND JONES
MAURICE B. BISCOE
JOHN T. WHITMORE

Not for publication

Mr. Hugh Triffin,
Editorial Office,
Liberty Weekly,
247 Park Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

In reply to yours of August 10 as to whom I consider the most interesting woman in the United States, I feel a certain embarrassment in replying since the question is a somewhat personal one.

I suggest the name of Mrs. Nancy Webster, Washington, D. C. Her past involves administrative experience applied to sociological conditions in New York, political experience in connection with the League of Women Voters and a determination my nominee is now studying law to fit herself for a wider field of service.

She is decidedly the most interesting woman concerned in public affairs that I know.

Very truly yours,

Robert D. Anderson

RDW:s