A trumpet fanfare began the ceremonies.

An Alumni Art Exhibit was a highlight of the day's activities.

Otterbein College's new Battelle Fine Arts Center was dedicated April 7, 1979.

An awards presentation for distinguished Otterbein alumni in the fine arts area and tours of the Battelle Fine Arts Center highlighted the afternoon's ceremonies.

An exhibit of art done by Otterbein alumni was also on display.

The Battelle Fine Arts Center is the new home of the music and art departments and the dance area at Otterbein. The Battelle building was previously the Alumni Gymnasium and was renovated by monies raised in the Decision For The Arts campaign, a fund-raising drive designed primarily for the upgrading of the fine arts program.

Three categories of awards were presented during the awards program by Nancy Myers Norris '61. Educators in the Arts awards were given to Lloyd C. Savage '48, a retired music supervisor, Jack B. Wright '65, theatre professor at the University of Kansas, and Lillian Kornblum, a retired visual arts professor at Otterbein.

Performing Arts awards were presented to singer Janis-Rozena Peri '64, in music, actor Dennis Romer '71, in theatre and artist Evelyn Svec Ward '43, in visual arts. An Educator and Performing Arts award was given to Judith Edworthy Wray '50, an arts administrator in Colorado.

Comprehensive Fee Increase Announced

To help offset continually rising costs the Otterbein College Board of Trustees approved a $378 comprehensive fee increase. This will bring the amount paid for tuition, room and board to $5,496 for the 1979-80 academic year. The comprehensive fee increase amounts to 7.4% over 1978-79.

The tuition portion of the comprehensive fee will be $3,954, an increase of $258 or 7% over the 1978-79 figure. Base price for rooms will rise $42 to a figure of $678. That represents an increase of 6.6%. Board costs will increase $78 to $864, an increase of 9.9%.

While fees have continued to increase, there is more federal, state and local money available for student financial aid than at any time in the recent past, according to Otterbein President Thomas J. Kerr, IV.

In addition, $400,000 of funds directed toward student scholarships has been made available to Otterbein students in the past two years in the form of gifts from Battelle Memorial Institute and the Rike Family Foundation.

The increases in fees at Otterbein for 1979-80 are similar to the average increase at other independent colleges and universities in Ohio. Otterbein's $258 increase in tuition is identical to the average, while the combined room and board hike of $120 is only slightly above the statewide average.

In addition to the comprehensive fee increase, fees per unit of credit in summer school have increased $15 to a figure of $285. The cost for an overload (more than 10½ units per academic year) has also risen $15 to $285.

Adult Degree Program units will increase from $240 to $255 per unit in 1979-80.

Commencement Speaker Announced

Dr. John Ellis, former Columbus superintendent of schools and the present U.S. Deputy Commissioner of Education, will be Otterbein College's 1979 spring commencement speaker at graduation ceremonies June 10.

Dr. Ellis will also accept an honorary Doctor of Pedagogy degree during the ceremonies. Two other honorary degrees are scheduled to be awarded. Mr. John Fisher, president of Nationwide Insurance and an Otterbein trustee, will be given a Doctor of Laws degree. Miss Janet L. Roberts '46, will be awarded a Doctor of Humanities degree.

Baccalaureate services will begin at 9 a.m. and will be followed by a Bavarian brunch from 10 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. Commencement exercises are scheduled to start at 11:30 a.m.

College Seeks New Alumni Director

Otterbein College is seeking a Director of Alumni Relations to plan, organize and direct the alumni office. The candidate must be able to plan alumni events, assist with alumni publications and plan and implement alumni fund raising under the supervision of the Director of Development.

Chet Turner '43, Director of Alumni and Church Relations since 1966, will assume the position of Director of Church Relations as of July 1.

Salary for the position of Director of Alumni Relations is negotiable, dependent upon experience. Send full resume no later than May 25 to Franklin D. Fite, Vice President for Development and Public Relations, Otterbein College, Westerville, Ohio 43081.

Myers to Serve as V. P. Assistant

Otterbein's new assistant to the vice president of development is Philip F. Myers, the retired director of development for Ohio Dominican College. His duties include the research of files, the contact of prospective contributors and the preparation of proposals to corporations and foundations.

Wittenberg University, Western College for Women in Oxford, Ohio, Milton College in Milton, Wisconsin and Ohio Dominican College have benefited from Myers' fund raising abilities. He has also been the campaign director for the professional New York fund raising firm, Tamblin and Brown Inc.

Mr. Myers completed his undergraduate work in American History and economics at Brown University. He later received his master's degree in education from Springfield College.

He also serves as a consultant to other organizations in addition to his work at Otterbein.

Roosevelt is Senior Fellow

James Roosevelt, former U.S. Congressman and the eldest son of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, lectured on "Our National Priorities: What We Can Practically Hope to do About Them" in a public lecture at Otterbein's Cowan Hall on April 9, 1979. Mr. Roosevelt's lecture was part of Otterbein's Senior Fellow Program for the spring term.

A graduate of Harvard University,

Roosevelt served six terms as a U.S. Congressman from the 26th district in California. He was also a U.S. Representative to the United Nations Economic and Social Council, 1965-67.

Mr. Roosevelt is currently president of James Roosevelt and Company, business and financial consultants based in Newport Beach, California. He is also president of the Eleanor Roosevelt Cancer Foundation and serves on various boards and advisory committees, including trustee of the National Foundation, March of Dimes.

As an Otterbein Senior Fellow, Mr. Roosevelt spoke to Otterbein students, faculty and staff in a series of class lectures, luncheons and dinners.

The Otterbein Senior Fellow Program utilizes successful professional people as a liaison between the college classroom and the world of practical affairs students will encounter after graduation. The Otterbein Senior Fellow Program is currently in its fifth year.

Children's Theatre Director Named "Woman of the Year"

Petie Dodrill, costumer and director of the Otterbein Children's Theatre, was honored April 8, 1979 as "Woman of the Year" by the Westerville Otterbein Women's Club.

A graduate of Penn State University with a M.A. in theatre, Mrs. Dodrill maintains a busy schedule. Not only does she teach drama to students at Gahanna-Lincoln High School, but she recently completed her 64th Otterbein College Theatre production ("The Merchant of Venice") as costumer.

Her involvement with the Otterbein Children's Theatre began in 1967 when she directed "Hansel and Gretel." She has also directed six children's shows for the Otterbein Summer Theatre program.

Mrs. Dodrill's selection by the Westerville Otterbein Women's Club as "Woman of the Year" represents a continuing tradition of recognizing the personal and professional achievements of women with ties to Otterbein.

"Paperback Writer"

by Don E. Hines

Director of Public Relations

To know that 100 novels have been written by the combined forces of Rebecca Danton, Louisa Bronte, Janette Radcliffe and Janet Louise Roberts is rather impressive.

To learn that those "combined forces" all belong to one author, Janet Louise Roberts '46, makes the feat amazing!

With the publication of THE VALLETTE HERITAGE this spring, Miss Roberts marks the appearance of her hundredth novel in print. And those 100 books, all published in paperback, amount to what she estimates to be nearly 10 million total copies printed.

Books such as FIRE OPALS by Rebecca Danton, THE VALLETTE HERITAGE by Louisa Bronte, STORMY SURRENDER by Janette Radcliffe and ISLAND OF DESIRE by Janet Louise Roberts are all works you might find in your local library or in the racks at your local book sellers.

These works, and the 96 other titles she has penned, fit largely into categories of gothics, regencies and three generation historical sagas.

But how did this Otterbein graduate and daughter of an E.U.B. minister and seminary president come to be one of America's most prolific and most successful writers of romantic novels?

"Writing has always been my first love," Janet Roberts replies.

She entered Otterbein College in the autumn of 1942 with intentions of becoming a chemist.

"I found the science courses to be quite good," she explains, "but I absolutely loved every literature and composition course I took. I soon realized that I belonged in the English Department, so I became an English major."

Even before becoming an Otterbein student, she was a writer, but Otterbein provided the opportunity to develop writing skills. Work in the college courses came very easy for her, affording a good deal of "extra time" which she naturally used for writing.

While much of the writing was for her own practice, not all of it fit that category. She took every opportunity to write for student publications on campus. She was a regular contributor to QUIZ & QUILL and president of the organization her senior year, a staff member of the TAN & CARDINAL during all four of her student years, and a SIBYL staff member during her junior and senior years. In fact, during her senior year, Janet and her cousin, Sylvia Phillips Vance '47, currently an assistant professor of French at Otterbein, were co-editors of the 1946 edition of the SIBYL.

Even with the extensive writing experiences she had as a student, Janet says it was the sound advice of an English professor, C. O. Altman '05, that prepared her best for what was ahead in her pursuit of a writing career.

"He always encouraged me, saying I could be a writer if I wanted," she remembers. "But he also warned repeatedly that it would be a long, hard struggle. He warned it would be many years before I could hope to become accomplished and do as well as I might want."

Those were lessons Janet Roberts has taken to heart and elaborates when talking with young, aspiring writers today.

"Throw away the first million words you write! They're only practice!" she says.

This rigorous philosophy led her to destroy the first six novels she penned. And of the more than twenty early short stories she wrote, she saved only six. In fact, it was 1953, seven years after graduating from Otterbein, before she was paid for any of her writing.

Upon graduating from Otterbein Janet Roberts took clerical positions. She describes it as "looking for a position that would allow me to continue writing." By 1965 she had decided to return to school, and in 1966 she received a master's degree in library science from Columbia University.

She became a reference librarian at the Dayton and Montgomery County Public Library in June 1966, a position she explains helped her a great deal in doing the historical research for her novels. She left the library September 1, 1978, to write full-time.

Today she is not anxious to talk about many of her earlier novels, works she says she "would just as soon forget." When asked if she considers herself reaching her prime as a writer, she immediately answers, "No!"

The twinkle in her eye when talking about her Otterbein experience leads one quickly to conclude that the College was a major factor in her development as a writer. She says firmly and convincingly that Otterbein College with its liberal arts tradition was "absolutely the correct place" for her education to become a writer.

She remembers being given the opportunity and strong encouragement to explore everything academically, to take all the sciences and humanities she could, and to take third-year philosophy, even though she had not taken courses the first two years!

After only a short talk with Janet, it is readily apparent she is a most eloquent spokesman for the Otterbein philosophy of a liberal arts education in the Christian tradition. And that may be explained, in part, by the long connection of her family with the College.

Both of Janet's parents, Dr. Walter N. Roberts and Marjorie Miller Roberts, were graduates of Otterbein's Class of 1921. Dr. Roberts served from 1938-65 as President of United Theological Seminary (originally Bonebrake Seminary) in Dayton. But Janet Roberts is actually the fourth generation of her family associated with Otterbein! Her grandfather, Lucius O. Miller, was an 1879 Otterbein graduate and her great-grandfather, John Haywood, was a mathematics professor at Otterbein from 1851 to 1893 and recipient of an honorary degree from the College in 1892.

Two other members of Janet's immediate family also followed in the Otterbein tradition, her sister Edna Mae Roberts Rudy '49 and her brother Charles W. Roberts '49.

To understand how Janet Roberts works quickly dispels any notion that a successful novelist turns out 100 books by "churning out" quickly conceived plot after quickly conceived plot.

Her system is to work on as many as six to twelve books at one time, but in significantly different stages. She is never writing more than one at a time, but she is researching and outlining many.

The genesis of a story idea might come during one of her many travels. If not, a vast amount of the research into such elements as setting, people, cultural habits, environmental characteristics, clothing and even food will take place during the travels.

"I don't really take vacations," Janet explains. "I travel to get ideas and to research my stories."

These travels, and the resultant settings of many of her books, have included such places as England, France, Italy, Spain, Greece, Turkey, Hawaii, Mexico, Scotland and Japan.

The meticulous nature of her historical research matches the "on location" geographic and social research, and a quick scanning of her personal library demonstrates the extent to which she goes. The books range from period cookbooks and treatises on costumes and clothing to the early history of the development of the automobile. (Her readers can expect a future novel to be set in or around the early automobile industry.)

The background reading and research often takes one-and-a-half to two years. By the end of that time she will have prepared, or be in process of preparing, a complete outline of the novel and a complete dossier on every major character in the work.

As for the characters, don't look for copies of Janet Roberts' friends and acquaintances in her novels. While certain character traits she has observed, especially among children and babies, may become part of one of her character's traits, she purposely stays clear of patterning her characters after persons she knows. (One exception she has made to copying a character was when she used her sister's dachshund puppy as a "character" in two of the novels!)

The pen names of the Dayton authoress were originally used to save her father from any embarrassment which might result from the daughter of the president of a seminary writing "romantic novels." She says she worried in those earlier years about the difficulties he might have from the "more conservative elements of the Church."

Many of the earlier pen names she doesn't reveal since she wants to avoid discussing some of her earliest works. But the current three pen names are all creations of her New York agent.

Janet Roberts' success as a novelist can be traced to several roots — frequent trips to the library with her mother while a young girl, the ability to take advantage of writing opportunities when they arose, the broad background offered in her liberal arts education. But a major factor which Janet believes responsible for the success of her books is the compassion shown by and toward her characters.

"I write sympathetic love stories with sympathetic characters," she says.

She believes too many young writers today make the mistake of trying to get their readers to identify with dislikeable characters. She explains that a heroine can't be nasty and still have the readers feel sympathy toward her. She thinks people want to feel basically good about main characters, and those good feelings are what she tries to arouse.

Her agent, Jay Garon, says a major factor in her commercial success is her ability to adapt to any genre successfully. Her stories have been mostly historical romances up to now, but he sees an ability for her to shift if trends move in another direction. She is now ready with her first romantic novel set in contemporary times, GOLDEN LOTUS. Mr. Garon believes the coming trend may be toward contemporary romantic novels set in exotic locations, so she is ready with this entry set in Japan.

"I'm not sure how well I like the contemporary style," Janet says. "I'm very partial to historical backgrounds."

Whatever the future trends are, Janet Louise Roberts would seem to be secure as a literary force in the field of romantic novels. When her entry ISLAND OF DESIRE broke into the top ten on the Mass Market of Best Sellers in November 1977 and then topped the one million copy mark during 1978, most observers believed works by the Rebecca Danton-Louisa Bronte-Janette Radcliffe-Janet Louise Roberts "combined force" would be seen on best-seller lists frequently in the future. After all, 100 published novels are not the output of a "flash-in-the-pan" writer.

On June 10, Otterbein College will honor Janet Louise Roberts by awarding her an honorary Doctor of Humanities degree during Commencement exercises.

"I write sympathetic love stories with sympathetic characters."

From Broadway to L.A. — Otterbein Theatre Alumni Are on the Move

by Bill Fairchild '79

How long has it been since you have had an Otterbein theatre alumnus in your living room? If you turn on your television, chances are you will be visited very soon. Many theatre graduates are scattered between the bright lights of Broadway and the sunny skies of Los Angeles working in professional theatre.

Marcus Smythe '72 is employed in New York City in the daytime serial "The Guiding Light." Marcus is also seen in television commercials for SPORTS ILLUSTRATED magazine, Datsun and Clear Skin medication. Marcus has co-starred in "Rosetti and Ryan" and "Operation Petticoat" and appeared as a guest star on "Eight is Enough."

Judy Garratt '68 has relocated in Los Angeles and is a producer for the Mime Artist Guild and is performing mime in L.A. nightclubs. She is current co-chairperson for National Mime Week and is teaching mime at Estelle Harmen's Acting Workshop.

Dennis Romer '71 is working in New York City on the daytime serial "As the World Turns" as Dr. Doug Campbell. He has done several national commercials and toured in "Shenendoah" with John Riatt and Howard Keel.

"WKRP in Cincinnati" station manager Authur Carlson is none other than Gordon Jump '52. Gordon was also seen last season as Police Chief Tinker on the hit television series "Soap."

Richard Miller '75 is new on the New York City scene. He is currently performing as Sebastian in "Twelfth Night" with the New York City Drama Ensemble.

Dave Graf '72 is also in N.Y.C. and has appeared on "The Edge of Night" as Albert and served as music coordinator for that show and "Search for Tomorrow." Dave has also been active in numerous Off-Off Broadway productions such as "Rain" and "Fit for Consumption."

Cindy Snodgrass '77, winner of the Cleveland Critics Circle Award for Best Actress of 1978, is currently working with the Center Repertory Theatre of Cleveland.

Jenny Herron '77 has appeared on "The Guiding Light" and in numerous regional theatre productions and Pam Erb '73 can be seen in television commercials. Dee Miller '75 is working in Providence, Rhode Island in an "All Tap Revue" and will be opening her own dance studio soon. Jerry Confer '75 and Maribeth Watkins Confer '75 are with "The Everyman Players," a classical touring company. Jerry is serving as Assistant to the Producer and Company Manager. Maribeth is an Assistant to the Producer in public relations. Jerry and Maribeth are also members of the acting company.

Jim Million '70 and Cathy Cray Clark '74 are working with the "Reaching Out Through the Arts" program in Columbus, Ohio. Their psycho-social drama received a National Commendation Award in 1978 for outstanding educational efforts in the area of mental health.

Graduates in theatre management are also doing well. Timothy Chandler '72 is an assistant to Joseph Papp of the New York Shakespeare Festival in New York City. Jack Wright '65 is Artistic Director of Theatre at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas. Pamela Hill '74 is the Director of Public Relations for Players Theatre of Columbus, Ohio and H. Thomas Downard '78 is Assistant Managing Director at Trotwood Circle Theatre, Trotwood, Ohio.

Alumni in technical areas include D. Martyn Bookwalter '75, who is faculty designer teaching undergraduate and graduate courses at Boston University; Keith Malick '73, who is the Technical Director for the Performing Arts Center at Grand Valley State College; Ruth Ruggles Malick '75, who is costumer at Grand Valley State and David Robinson '78, who is costume designer in residence at the American Repertory Theatre in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Some alumni currently studying theatre in graduate school include Randy Adams '76, University of Kansas; John Woodland '76, University of Michigan and Kathy Kiser '78, University of Wisconsin-Madison. Leslie Young '77 is seeking a degree in speech from Bowling Green University and Micheal McCleese '76 is working toward a degree in arts administration, also at Bowling Green.

Many theatre alumni are using their theatre experience in other fields. Bob Fortner '70 is an assistant professor of radio, T.V. and film at Northwestern University. Glen Plum '70 is serving a pastorate in DeWitt, Arkansas. In his spare time he does several different types of chancel drama programs, including a "Sermon on the Mount." Sue Hall Balduf '76 is currently working on a novel in Mansfield, Ohio. Debbie Herr Clegg '73 is a teacher and theatre advisor for Westland (Ohio) High School and Julie Sickles Pearson '75 is teaching at the Fort Hayes Career Center in Columbus. Linda Karl Barr '70 is working under the name of "Chandler" and is performing magic, trapeze and working dog acts in the Carson and Barnes Circus.

This is just a small cross section of the many theatre alumni. Dr. Charles Dodrill, Director of Otterbein Theatre, believes that the successes of the theatre alumni directly affect today's student. He says, "It makes students more aware of opportunities gained through hard work and helps them set goals for the future."

England, Scotland Tour Planned for Alumni

This summer Otterbein alumni and their families can enjoy the mountainous Highlands and heather-strewn Lowlands of Robbie Burns' Scotland, the exquisite English Lake District of Wordsworth and the rolling Cotswolds of Shakespeare and Churchill. All of this in a relaxing country atmosphere on a tour presented by the Otterbein College Alumni Association. Alumni Director Chet Turner and his wife Margaret will host this motorcoach tour through the cities and countryside of the British Isles August 13-28.

Two tour options are available. The first is a fully escorted motorcoach tour visiting the English cities of Keswick, Chester, Lincoln and York and the Scottish cities of Sterling, Aberdeen and Edinburgh. The cost, $1,099, provides hotel accommodations, private motorcoach transportation throughout the itinerary and breakfast daily.

The second option, available for $899, includes the use of a rental car with unlimited mileage for two weeks and accommodations with breakfast daily in Ivergowrie for the first week. During the second week, the traveler enjoying this flexible option may plan what to visit and where to stay.

The Walls Are Still the Same

By Bill Stewart
Sports Information Director

"A review of Otterbein's recent past in an athletic way is not conducive to boasting . . . material has been sadly lacking; adequate facilities have not been available; one coach for all sports has not proved satisfactory . . .

"All talk now centers around the new gymnasium. More and better material, greater facilities for every sport, a new institutional enthusiasm, and a larger staff — these are now no longer an ephemeral vision, but a radiant prospect."

Coach Alfred Sears, 1929 Sibyl, p. 93

"After a number of years of intense desire and fond hoping, the new gymnasium is about to become a reality."

Prof. R. F. Martin, 1929 Sibyl, p. 92

"Al Van Wie, basketball coach at Wooster, called it a snakepit," recalls Otterbein basketball coach Dick Reynolds.

"It was a tough place for anybody to come into and play a good game," Reynolds adds. "It was only meant to seat 1,100 to 1,200 people but you'd get 1,500 packed in there hollering for Otterbein and it would be worth 10-12 points to us."

Fifty years ago this fall, Otterbein opened the doors on its brand new Alumni Gymnasium, a magnificent edifice during its prime and a visiting coach's nightmare in its waning years.

But during its 46 year, 822 game basketball history, old Alumni Gym wasn't always the best of friends to the home team. During the span, Cardinal teams managed only a 418-404 record for a 50.9 winning percentage.

In fact it wasn't until the third home game of the opening season in Alumni Gym that Otterbein chalked up a win. February 7, 1930, Ralph Gibson tossed in 16 points as the Cardinals dumped Ohio Northern 27-23.

And only one Ohio Conference Championship came to Otterbein during that era. But it was a dandy. The 1932-33 Cardinals breezed through a 12 game schedule undefeated, including three impressive season opening wins over "Bigboys" Toledo, 41-35, Bowling Green 47-31, and Dayton, 34-26.

And the OAC opponents fell harder; Capital twice, 52-34 and 56-19, Hiram, 69-34, and Muskingum, 56-19.

Statistically, that team averaged 48.6 points per game and outscored their opponents by almost 20 . . . and that was back in the center jump era!!!

From that championship year until the mid '60s, things were up and down, mostly down, except for some good years in the mid '30s and early '40s.

But with the arrival of Little All America star Don Carlos in the fall of 1963, things started looking up.

"They'd be lined up back to Towers Hall waiting to get in," recalls Otterbein Men's Athletic Director Bud Yoest.

"The doors would open and the fraternities would congregate upstairs behind the basket with all kinds of noisemakers. And people would be standing two or three deep on the floor underneath the basket."

"I guess that could be a little distracting to the visitors," Yoest adds with a smile.

However, the opponents of 1963 through 1967 would probably tell you that it was two-time Little All America, four time OAC scoring champ Carlos that was the most distracting thing in Alumni Gym. During Carlos' reign, Otterbein chalked up 16-5, 16-9, 20-5 and 19-6 seasons . . . 71 wins in 96 games for just a hair shy of 80 percent.

And once the tap was opened, the wins kept coming. The last twelve years showed an overall 183-92 record for the teams that called Alumni Gym home.

But with age, "The Home of the Cardinals," as everything else, gave way to the new. In this case a beautiful new home for both men's and women's physical education and athletic programs and intramurals, the Rike Center.

And after total renovation, Alumni Gym is now the new Battelle Fine Arts Center. The basketball floor is now a new dance floor and the bleachers are now auditorium seats.

But no matter what the name, the walls are still the same, and there will be many more winners that pass through the doors.
