VOLUME 7.

ROSWELL, NEW MEXICO, SATURDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 9, 1909

NUMBER 188.

DETROIT WON 2ND

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—Not a seat was vacant and an immense crowd spread over the edges of the outfield when Pittsburg and Detroit began the second game of the world's series today.

Detroit warmed up well and showed no signs of a recurrence of the blow-up such as occurred in the fifth inning yesterday.

Wild Bill Donovan was slated to deliver the benediction for Detroit, with Summers Wilcox in reserve.

Clarke selected Camnitz, the veteran, to twirl for the Pirates, with Maddox and Willis ready to relieve.

The line-up will be: Detroit, D. Jones, ss., Cobb, r. f., Crawford, c. f., Delehanty, 2nd, Moriarty, 3rd, T. Jones, 1st, Schmidt, c., Donovan, p.

Pittsburg—Bryne, 3rd, Leach, c. f., Clarke, l. f., Wagner, ss., Miller, 2nd, Abstein, 1st, Wilson, r. f., Gibson, c., Camnitz, p.

Empires, Evans and Klein.

First Inning.—D. Jones beat out an infield hit, was sacrificed to second by Bush, but was out at third when Cobb failed to hit on hit and run signal. No runs.

Bryne walked, Leach doubled, scoring Bryne. Clarke sacrificed Leach to third. Miller drove a home run after Wagner struck out but was only allowed two bases on the ground rules. Leach scoring. Two runs.

Second Inning.—After Crawford and Delehanty were out, Moriarty singled to left. Jones singled to right, sending Moriarty to third. Schmidt doubled to center, scoring Moriarty and Jones. Two runs.

Pittsburg failed to score after Gibson walked and stole second.

Third Inning.—D. Jones reaches 1st on Abstein's error. Bush singles, Cobb walks, thus filling the bases with no one out. Crawford flied to Clarke in short left, Jones not attempting to score. Delehanty singled, scoring Jones and Bush. Willis relieves Camnitz. Cobb stole home on the first ball. Willis pitched. Delehanty was forced at third. Schmidt flied out. Three runs.

Pittsburg failed to score.

Fourth Inning.—Detroit out in order.

Pittsburg fails to score.

Fifth Inning.—Abstein makes a great catch of Cobb's grounder. Crawford doubles. Delehanty walks. Moriarty flies out. T. Jones walks and Schmidt singles, scoring Crawford and Delehanty. Jones out at third. Two runs.

Pittsburg fails to score.

Sixth Inning.—Detroit no runs.

Wagner reaches first on error and second on an out but is caught stealing third but Moriarty's great one-handed catch. No runs.

Seventh Inning.—Cobb gets first hit of the series and tries to take third on an infield out but is caught by a double play. No runs.

This double play is duplicated when Wilson tried to go to third on an infield out. No runs.

Eighth Inning.—Both sides out in order.

Ninth Inning.—Detroit out in order.

Wagner beat out a bunt, stole second and went to on third on an out, but died there.

Final score: Detroit, 7 9 3. Donovan and Schmidt. Pittsburg, 2 4 1. Camnitz, Willis and Gibson.

NEW YORK IS WEARY

New York, Oct. 9.—Old Father Knickerbocker, battered and worn, awoke from his sleep in the grimy, gray morn, and painfully crawled from his little bed and tenderly felt of his bandaged head and pressed his forehead, aching and dank, and eagerly from the pitcher drank and kicked the cat and swore at his wife, then sallied forth to the soil and strife, and hanging on to an "L" train strap, with his face like a threatening weather map, called Fulton and Hudson base-corn knives, said he was glad they were in their graves and wished he could have seen them die; and the baleful gleam in his one good eye took in the frippery, torn and faded, that lined the streets where hosts had paraded, and where were the vast and clearing herds were now but rows of empty boards; and he wiped his sweaty, suffering brow and swore a swear and vowed a vow, and the whole town echoed his sad refrain, "Never again. Oh, never again."

The Hudson-Fulton celebration is over please God, so far as Manhattan is implicated in the crime. Let the Trojans have our wooden horses, which turned out to be a white elephant, and welcome Manhattan is very, very tired, and faint would rest.

Native New Yorkers, with an experience confined to the territory between Brooklyn and Hoboken, found naive and child-like pleasure in the magnificent spectacles afforded by the celebration commission. They cheered ecstatically at the sight of the marching citizens of Tammany Hall and the Button-Hole Workers' Union, clad in all the glory of rented frock coats and ancient silk hats.

The howled themselves hoarse as the tawdry floats came into view, and re-lapsed into fearsome awe as real Indians tramped stolidly past. The speculators reaped a financial harvest from the sale of grand stand seats, and the police had a pleasant time, thank you, in thumping, pushing and otherwise maltreating inoffensive spectators who did not have five or ten dollars to pay for a seat. The crowds retailed by mobbing distinguished visitors and tearing off their clothes for souvenirs according to the pleasant custom obtained among New Yorkers when out for a holiday in innocent fun.

The naval parades afforded other gorgeous spectacles. Nothing more imposing could be imagined when the magnificent pageant of motor boats, ferry boats, Coney Island steamers and excursion craft which sailed majestically up the Hudson and turned around and sailed right back again. It is true that the same craft could be seen any day of the week, but that is another story. The celebration was valuable in affording an opportunity for the owners of the vessels to charge five or six dollars for a ride worth twenty-five cents.

All in all, it must be admitted that the celebration was a direct frost of the most frigid variety. Those who have witnessed a Mardi Gras festival in New Orleans, a floral parade in California, a Veiled Prophet pageant in St. Louis or a fête in any European city cannot avoid making comparisons which are odious to New Yorkers. The metropolis is totally lacking in the spirit to carry out successfully a great celebration project.

The celebration will formally "pet-out" tonight with illuminations and bonfires along the Hudson between New York and Troy.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, M. D. will have his fame as a physician recounted at a centenary celebration arranged for today by the New York Academy of Medicine. It is pointed out that people do not remember as clearly as they should the eminence of the "Autocrat" as a medicine man, and this centenary session has for its purpose the re-remembering of this neglect.

Dr. Holmes was for thirty-five years professor of anatomy in the Harvard Medical School, and his achievements while holding this post will be recited by Dr. M. H. Richardson of Harvard. The distinguished essayist was also in active practice for a number of years, and completed his medical education abroad.

W. R. Hearst, Candidate for Mayor of New York City.

HEARST A CANDIDATE

New York, Oct. 9.—The announcement of William R. Hearst that he will be a candidate for mayor of New York on the Civic Alliance ticket and has stipulated that the remainder of the candidates on the ticket be the same as the selected by the Republican-Fusion ticket, is regarded as a severe blow to the Tammany Tiger.

The combination of comptroller and borough president between the Hearst and Republicans will give these candidates an excellent chance and as they, with the president of the board of aldermen, constitute the board of estimates which controls the finances of the city, the mayor is practically helpless if they are opposed to him.

The Hearst candidacy is believed to increase the personal chances of Gaynor, the Tammany candidate for mayor, and to decrease those of Bangard, the Republican candidate.

SCORELESS TIE IN THE FIRST FOOTBALL GAME

The first regularly matched football game of the season was played in Roswell yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, when the High school met the Metropolitan Athletic Club at the Central school grounds. Two twenty minute halves were played without a score, which shows that the teams were evenly matched and fought a hard battle. The M. A. C.'s are Roswell boys, practically all of them school boys in the lower grades than the High school. Quite a large crowd witnessed the exhibition.

A. M. Sadler came down from Amarillo last night for a short business visit.

Will Improve Section at Dexter.

By Spink, of Jacksonville, Ill., is spending a few days here looking after interests and making arrangement to improve his section of land west of Dexter. He will put down wells and put in crops and orchard. With him is W. K. Mertz, cashier of the Chandlerville, Ill., State Bank who is looking over the country and is financially interested in the deal. Mr. Mertz is much pleased with the Pecos Valley and its conditions and prospects. Mr. Spink is district manager for the Columbian National Life Insurance Co., at Jacksonville. He has visited Roswell many times, having come here and invested seven years ago. They will leave tomorrow morning for their homes and complete arrangements by mail for the singing of the wells.

HUGH LEWIS FUNERAL AT GONZALES THURSDAY.

John C. Peck today received a telegram from his brother, Ben N. Peck, of Gonzales, Texas, stating that Mrs. Hugh Lewis, jr., and the children arrived safely at Gonzales with the body of the late Hugh Lewis, jr., and that the funeral was held in that city on Thursday, Oct. 7. John C. Peck accompanied Mrs. Lewis and the children to Amarillo, where he met Clarence Ellery, of this city, who looked after the needs of the party until they reached Fort Worth, where relatives joined them and accompanied them to Gonzales.

Party at the Elk Club.

The Elks and their lady friends gave an informal dance at the Elk Club last night, the affair being attended by about twenty couple of the young people. There were several visitors present, the out-of-town guests making a good per cent of the total attendance. Good piano music was furnished and the floor was in splendid condition, its only fault, if such can be a fault, being that it was too slick. The dancing was continued until late. Punch and assorted cakes were served throughout the evening.

Hardwick Buys Hondo Co. Lot.

Under Sheriff's sale yesterday E. E. Hardwick bought lot 8, block 20, Roswell, of the Hondo Stone Company, being a lot at the corner of North Virginia avenue and Sixth street, and adjoins the railroad right of way. The lot was appraised at $2,500 and brought $2,125.

TAFT IS IN CALIFORNIA

Glacier Point, Calif., Oct. 9.—President Taft spent the night here in a rough board room, overlooking the valley. After his arrival he was just in time to see a magnificent sunset. A tremendous bonfire was lighted last night in his honor.

This morning he descended the trail to the bottom of the valley and took luncheon at the Sentinel Hotel, and will arrive at the railroad at El Portal tonight.

HAGERMAN MEMORIAL AT THREE TOMORROW.

Much interest is being shown in the J. J. Hagerman memorial service that is to be held by the citizens of the Pecos Valley here tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock at the Armory. Not only are the leaders of enterprise and public affairs interested in the service but also the personal friends and acquaintances. The interest extends from Roswell all over the valley. C. H. McLanathan writes from Carlsbad that 300 people will come here on the excursion train from that town alone, and there will probably be almost that many people from the towns between Roswell and Carlsbad.

Following is the program of the exercises:

Hon. G. A. Richardson, presiding. Opening Hymn—"Abide With Me," (W. H. Monk).

Invocation—Rev. C. C. Hill.

Song—"Farewell" (Schubert), Mr. Walter Taylor.

Address—Col. L. H. Elliott, of Dexter.

Santa Fe county is boasting of having $35,000 on hand in its treasury, but we hear nothing about that $1,000,000 of defaulted bonds.

No doubt the Republican party has done wonderful things in paying off the territorial debt, but to the average observer, the debt seems to be a many headed affair, for a new spring up just as soon as the old one is disposed of, and the debt, despite the large sums paid, continues to grow. And incidentally the tax rate with it.

The Albuquerque Journal has flopped once more, and like all the flops made by the Journal, has probably been well rewarded for it. For some time the Journal has carried a page advertisement boasting itself, and conveying the information that the Journal is "a paper without a collar." Since the recent flop the Journal will no doubt cut this line out of its advertisement.

WHAT MARVEL NEXT?

The New York World calls attention to the fact that while the twentieth century is still in its infancy, not yet in its teens, it has to its credit such feats as the discovery of the North Pole, the conquest of the air, and so on, and wants to know "What Marvel Next?" We cannot undertake to answer the question, but it is certain that there will be a "next" and many more of them.

The fellow who supposes that all of the really big things in this old world have been discovered—or that there is nothing else worth while—is foolish, to put it mildly. The truth is that we have hardly begun upon the really big things. We have only been tripping around the edges, and cutting here and there a trail through the least dense part of the jungle. The whole forest lies before us unexplored. Why we still have to burn sending of freight trains across the continent without steam or electricity; perhaps it will be the propagation of plants containing the exact elements we desire and nothing else; it may be the discovery of the "secret" of life. There may, during the century, arise a man who will tell us how to avoid disease, and thus to prolong life a hundred years or more. Some one may teach us, by himself learning, to transmit his thoughts to his friends around on the other part of the earth without the aid of any other instrument than his brain. Or, greatest of all, may we not hope to see worked out during this good century the cure for poverty, or witness the abolition of human selfishness.—Oklahoma City Times.

THE SEA ELEPHANT.

His Fearful Jaws the Chief Danger in an Attack.

The chief danger attending the killing of the sea elephant is in approaching too near his terrible jaws, which are capable of biting in two an iron rod the thickness of one's finger. The hunter, however, must get pretty close, as the thick hide and blubber have rendered the animal practically impervious to attack, the only vulnerable point being a spot about the size of a walnut above each eye. Careless hunters have at times got within reach of the brute's teeth and have escaped only by dexterously wriggling from their clothes. I had occasion once to shed my coat with great agility, one of the smaller beasts having caught me by the sleeve, says Captain B. D. Cleveland in the American Magazine.

One afternoon's kill had been about forty animals, some of which had given me and my four hunters considerable trouble. This was mainly due to the treacherous footing and the heavy nature of the work, not only in killing, but in stripping the ponderous brutes. We were anxious to make the afternoon's kill an even fifty, and night was fast coming on.

In cutting out two particularly hard fighters, a male and female, I had overlooked a young bull partly hidden behind an ice hummock. We had stripped both animals and, walking over to the hummock where our guns were stacked, I was leaning to pick mine up when, with a bellow of rage, the young bull reared and whipped his tail-like flippers at me. Luckily the guns were stacked so as to form a temporary barrier, but unluckily one thick paw was impaled on a bayonet. Rearing in fresh rage, the animal lunged at me with incredible speed, snapping the gun between his javelin teeth as though it were a straw. I leaped backward, but slipped.

Instantly he clutched at my body, but missed in the semidarkness, lunged and clutched again, catching my right arm in his powerful paw. His awkwardness enabled me to regain my feet, but, with a ripping tug, the animal fastened on to the sleeve of my heavy skin jacket, out of which I slipped just as one of my men drove a harpoon into him just above the eye.

EUGENIE'S WEDDING DAY.

The Gift of Violets From the Market Women of Paris.

Even on her wedding day the Empress Eugenie received a sign of ill omen. The market women of Paris presented her with a mountain of violets on the day of her marriage to Louis Napoleon.

And those market women—they hollered over! They yelled and pushed and crowded into the palace gardens. They screamed and screamed for the empress until at last a window opened, and Eugenie stepped out on the balcony, and, ever eager to please, she held in her hands a great mass of the violets the market women had sent her.

Then suddenly one old fish wife shrieked out at those of the committee: "Pigs! Idiots! It is the flower of sorrow you have sent to her." While quick another raved out: "It is the color of mourning that you send the bride of the emperor! Violets—purple violets to a bride! Pigs! Idiots! Devils! It is an omen—a sign of evil!"

And then the light began! Oh, mon Dieu! They are terrible! They tear one another like wild beasts! The gendarmes try hard to make order, when a voice up above us says out clear and gentle, "Oh, soldiers, don't hurt them!" And the idea that any soldier on earth could hurt a dame des Halles was so funny that everybody stopped fighting to laugh. And they laugh and laugh and wipe off the blood and slap the gendarmes and say, "Don't hurt us, messieurs—don't!" And they dance and shout, and the beautiful empress stands now by the emperor and bows and throws violets to the crowd, and all below cry, "Vive l'Impératrice!" And she smiles and smiles and so retreats. But that old witch was right! Yes, madame, though the violet was the flower of the Bonaparte, it is the flower of sorrow, not fit to send a bride! It was an omen and given at the Tuilleries it pointed to Chislehurst.—Clara Morris' In Woman's Home Companion.

Ups and Downs.

"Ups and downs," said an etymologist, "is a phrase of curious aptness." "Take ups. Aviators tell us, balloonists tell us, alpinists tell us, that the higher one ascends, the more exhilarating grows the air, so that it is quite common, at a height of a mile or so, for men to sing and shout in pure hilarity and joy. So much for ups.

"Take downs. Submarine boatmen and divers and miners tell us that the deeper one descends below the earth's surface, the sadder one becomes. Those depths resound with oaths, groans, sobs. So much for downs.

"Ups and downs—an apt phrase, truly."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Crime and Penalty.

Aunt Jane—I think the young man who tried to steal a kiss should be punished. Dorothy—So do I, aunty, dear. Aunt Jane—I am glad to hear you say that, child. Dorothy—Yes; he—he should be punished severely for only trying.—Rochester Democrat.

Pandemonium.

"Nature knew what she was doing when she deprived fishes of a voice." "How do you make that out?" "What if a fish had to cackle over every egg it laid?"—Cleveland Leader.

Money may not be able to buy happiness, but it can buy off a great deal of unhappiness.—Lyndon.

MAIDS OF HONOR.

Their Position in the Royal Household of England.

Maids of honor are chosen by the queen herself from among the daughters of peers, who if not themselves connected with the royal household are personal friends of her majesty. A letter is always sent to the parents of the young lady requesting that as a personal favor to the queen she may be permitted to attend at court. As the position is undeniably and the salary is £300 a year, the request is invariably accepted, and then the newly chosen maid receives from the lord chamberlain the command for her first "wait."

The first thing brought to the maid of honor is her badge, which is a miniature picture of the queen set in brilliants and suspended to a ribbon. Just before the dinner hour the maid of honor in waiting has to stand in the corridor outside the queen's private apartments. She carries a bouquet, which on entering the dining room she lays at the right hand of the queen's plate.

The maid of honor sits at dinner next to the gentleman on the queen's right. This rule is relaxed when royal guests are present. After dinner, unless otherwise commanded, the maid of honor retires to her own room, whence, however, she is frequently fetched to read, sing, play the piano or take a hand at cards.—Cassel's Saturday Journal.

CROWS ON GOLF LINKS.

One Fastidious Bird That Would Steal Only New Balls.

The crow seems to be attracted to golf balls in a way wholly peculiar from the rest of the bird species. In parks, where the rook and the crow abound, one can notice them sitting in the trees or hopping about the putting greens in the distance watching the roll of the ball with a direct or sidelong glance expressive of the keenest interest and curiosity, which is soon translated into a desire to carry it off to the roost in the neighboring wood.

The Kew gardens adjoin the mid-Surrey course, and in the royal preserve there used to be a fairly large colony of crows nesting among the trees. Of this colony there was one particular crow that found his greatest amusement in mingling among the golfers and in disconcerting their play by indulging in repeated predatory campaigns against their golf balls.

His policy was to hover in attendance on those players who used new white balls only. Those on which the paint had been chipped or which had been used in play for several rounds by an economical player were always rejected by this particular bird as being beneath his fastidious attention.—London Field.

The Normal Attitude Toward Death.

The normal attitude of men toward death seems to be one of inattention or evasion. They do not trouble about it; they do not want to trouble about it, and they resent its being called to their notice. On this point the late Frederick Myers used to tell a story which I have always thought very illuminating. In conversation after dinner he was pressing on his host the unwelcome question what he thought would happen after death. After many evasions and much recalcitrancy the reluctant admission was extorted, "Of course, if you press me I believe that we shall all enter into eternal bliss, but I wish you wouldn't talk about such disagreeable subjects." This I believe is typical of the normal mood of most men. They don't want to be worried, and though probably, if the question were pressed, they would object to the idea of extinction, they can hardly be said to desire immortality. Even at the point of death, it would seem, this attitude is often maintained.—G. Lowes Dickinson in Atlantic.

Old Thoughts on April.

Old Nicolas Breton, in those delightful "fantasies" (1626) of his, grew more lyrical over April than over any other month. One reads such a passage as this with delight: "The Larke and the Lambe look up at the Sun, and the labourer is abroad by the dawning of the day; Sheeps eyes in Lambs head tell kind hearts strange tales, while faith and truth make the true Lovers knot; the aged hairens find a fresh life, and the youthful cheeks are as red as a cherry. It were a world to set down the worth of this month; but in summe, I thus conclude, I hold it the Heavens blessing, and the Earths comfort."—London Chronicle.

To Live Long.

Virchow, the German scientist, said the way to live long is to "be born with a good constitution, take care of it when you are young, always have something to do and be resigned if you find you cannot accomplish all you wish." It is easier to live long with a poor constitution than to violate the other conditions and reach old age.

A Bad Spell.

"Poor Jacy! He never could spell, and it ruined him." "How?" "He wrote a verse to an heiress he was in love with, and he wrote 'bonny' for 'bonny'."—New York Journal.

His Funny Look.

"Say, Daisy, did yer see when I took hold of yer hand the funny look yer ma gave me?" "Go on, Tim, ma didn't give it to yer; you've always had it."—Life.

Let no man think he is loved by any man when he loves no man.—Epictetus.

something to get warm, or sit in the shade to remain cool. We have to harness steam or electricity to draw our burdens, unless they be as light as the ticking of a telegraph instrument, and even then we have to give them a start with some sort of artificial force before the waves of either bear them to some distant shores.

We still have to raise vegetation and feed it to animals, in order to make flesh, don't we? We have to spoil a lot of ground that would make beautiful landscapes, in order to raise food, when we have the very elements contained in the food floating about us on every hand and have found no way to gather them except through the plants. Why, we do not know our alphabet in science.

And while it is true that probably a couple of our people have reached the North Pole, and that in a crade way some of our citizens are able to navigate the air, the truth is that very little has been done in either direction, great as has been the start. A couple of days at the North Pole, or a couple of hours in the air, is as nothing compared with what will have to be done by somebody.

We do not know what marvel is next, however. Perhaps it will be the leges and universities. This will be the first deputation of students sent to America as a result of the realization of the Boxer indemnity.

When the American government announced its intention of remitting to China the unexpended balance of the indemnity, the Chinese Government sent Tang Shao Yi to Washington to convey the appreciation of his government and to say that the money would be devoted to educating Chinese students in America.

 Lecture—The Bottle and Our Neighbors' Lips.
SUNDAY NIGHT, Oct. 10. Mrs. Lowber's Reading. Lecture—The Gambling Mania of Modern Society.

At the close of the lecture on Marriage Dr. Lowber will explain Adaptation in Marriage. Each lecture will be introduced by a prelude on some popular topic.
 Mrs. Lowber gives readings connected with these lectures. Dr. Lowber has lectured in many of the leading cities in America and half of the states of the Union, and his lectures have always been commended by the press. He has been a College President and University Chancellor, and was a special University Lecturer for twenty-one years. He is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, of the Educational Institute of Scotland, of the Royal Geographical and Royal Astronomical Societies of London. He is also a member of the Royal Societies Club of London. Dr. and Mrs. Lowber have traveled extensively in Europe, which greatly helps them in their work. Dr. Lowber has been made a Councillor and a Lecturer of both the American Civic Association and the American Institute of Civics.
 All Masons should hear Dr. Lowber's lecture on "Free Masonry and Religion." His prelude will be on "The Golden Links of Odd Fellowship."
 Dr. Lowber is an Ex-Prelate of the Knights Templars, a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason and a noble of the Mystic Shrine. He is also a Past Chief Patriarch of the Odd Fellows.
 Dr. Lowber is a graduate of Butler and Kentucky Universities, he is a Doctor of Philosophy of Syracuse University, the largest Methodist University in the world and he is a Doctor of Science of Wooster University, one of the leading Presbyterian Universities of America. He was also a special student for three years in one of the largest Baptist Universities in the world.
 "It is said that Dr. J. W. Lowber, of Austin, Texas, has more literary and scientific honors than any other preacher in the world."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.
 "Dr. J. W. Lowber is one of the finest educated preachers in the world."—Austin Statesman.
 Senator John H. Reagan thus spoke of Dr. Lowber: "I go to hear him for two reasons: first I can hear him; second, I hear something when I go."
 Dr. Lowber has visited the homes of all the great reformers about whom he speaks.
 These lectures are strictly non-partisan. More than seventeen thousand persons have taken Dr. Lowber's Social Reform pledge, and agreed to live higher social and spiritual lives.

Last night, Dr. Lowber's lecture on the "Home and Civilization" has been postponed until Monday night. Dr. Lowber will lecture Sunday night at the Christian church. Mrs. Lowber will give readings on both Sunday night and Monday night. These lectures are free and the house should be packed both Sunday night and Monday night.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The results secured during the first month of this school year have been at least 33 1-3 per cent better than have ever been secured in these city schools during the past year. The failures were 50 per cent less than ever before. This indicates that there is a steady improvement in all the grades and schools in the matter of thoroughness on the part of both the teachers and pupils. With a few more years of this kind of work, failures in our schools will be almost a thing of the past.

With thoroughness, a splendid corps of teachers, a superintendent and board of education, that have the bravery and moral courage to do their duty, these conditions mean much to a school system.

There were over 300 more pupils in the schools this past month than for the same month of last year, an increase of 23 1-3 per cent in the attendance. The daily attendance was much better than it has been. Pupils cannot accomplish much unless they are in school every day. To miss a lesson means to weaken a pupil so much in his school work. There was also quite an improvement in the matter of tardiness. In fact, there has been a wonderful improvement along the tardiness line. The teachers have worked very hard the past two years to eradicate this baneful habit.

With our magnificent corps of teachers the results secured in the schools are going to be much better than ever before in the history of these schools. But we are going to expect the moral encouragement and loyalty of every true citizen of Roswell.

Your schools have brought perhaps 100 families to your city this year, and as long as we can keep them on the present plane and gradually improve them, people are going to continue to move here to live.

The following rooms had no tardies this past month: Miss Tooby, Miss McNally, Miss Johnson and Mr. Pope. Dr. J. W. Lowber of Austin, Tex., as one of the leading educators, scholars and writers of the United States, delivered a very interesting lecture on "Education and Civilization" to the High School pupils last Thursday morning.

Principal M. S. Wiggins, of the North Hill school is using two drums for making the music for the pupils to march in to and out of the building. The marching and order of the children have been greatly improved. The teachers of the various schools are saving the best of their daily work for an exhibition to be placed in the Central School Building during the meeting of the Territorial Teachers' Association the last of December. This will be a great advertisement for the Roswell schools and for Roswell.

There are a few children attending school so irregularly, that the Superintendent fears that he will have to call in the officers of the law to enforce the provisions of the Compulsory Educational Law, which is very strict.

Mr. J. J. Jaffa, vice-president of the Board of Education visited the Central School this week and called a fire alarm for the children to show what they could do.

The following is the monthly report of Superintendent Brasher to the Board of Education:

Gentlemen:—According to the usual custom, I herewith hand you my monthly report for the first month of this school year. I am delighted with the first month's work. The work and the results secured by both teachers and pupils are at least 33 1-3 per cent better than that secured during the first month of last school year. The teachers have entered into their work with great earnestness and enthusiasm. The pupils entered into their work on the first day of school as if their work had not been broken into by a vacation. They are manifesting a very splendid attitude, spirit and interest in their studies. Some thing is very seriously wrong with a school system in which these conditions do not prevail. The failures at the end of this month have been 50 per cent less than they have been at the end of the first month of any school year since I have been at the head of your schools, which is an indication that both the teachers and pupils have been doing good, solid and thorough work during the whole of last year. This has been accomplished in spite of the fact that every room in the schools is overcrowded. This has been made possible because of the superiority of our teachers in scholarship, personality and methods. With just an ordinary corps of teachers, this splendid showing would have been impossible. There were enrolled in all the schools about 1190, a gain of about 200 pupils over the first month of last year. The number of days belonging was 22,464, an increase of over 5,000 days over that of last year. The number of days attended was 21,989, an increase of 5,000 over that of the first month of last year. The per cent of days attended per pupil was 97, a gain of 3 per cent over that of last year. The average number of days attended per pupil was 19 days, a gain of one day over the first month of last year and a saving of $154.

The average daily attendance was 1145 pupils, the same month last year it was 838 pupils, which indicates that there were over 300 more pupils in the schools this month than there were in the school the same month last year. This indicates that there was over 36 per cent increase in the attendance in the schools over that of the same month of last year. There were 75 cases of tardies in the schools this past month, the same month last year there were 106 cases of tardies, a reduction of 31, a splendid showing. There were cases of truancy and one case of suspension. There were only 57 visitors out to the various schools. There should have been 400 or 500. Patrons can not at all times know the real conditions of the public schools unless they visit them.

Respt. submitted,
M. H. BRASHER,
Supt. of the Roswell City Schools.

T. P. Jackson is Dead.

T. P. Jackson, aged 36 years, died last night at ten o'clock at his home at 303 North Kentucky avenue. He came here from Arkansas last Spring, bringing his wife and child, seeking cure of tuberculosis. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock from the Dilley funeral parlors, Rev. P. T. Ramsey, pastor of the Southern Methodist church, will be in charge of the service. Interment will be made at South Side cemetery.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM OVER LIGHT BATTERY.

The citizens of Roswell are taking great interest in the light battery that is being given this city. In fact the matter has reached a point bordering on enthusiasm. Capt. M. S. Murray has already telegraphed Adjutant General R. A. Ford that he will meet the requirement of sixty horses and 133 men. The equipment will be here in about six weeks or two months. Captain Murray has secured seventy-two horses, when only sixty are necessary, and over a hundred men to give him the riders. In fact they will join the battery. And the class of men who have agreed to take places in the company will be a surprise to some when the list is published, for many of the foremost citizens of the community will be in the saddles and on the cannon and wagons of battery.

Following are the donors of the first sixty horses that were promised: M. W. Hodges, of LFD 12; City Livery, 6; Ed Mundy 6; L. P. Rucker 2; Joyce-Pruthi 6; Jaffa, Prager & Co., 6; Palace Livery 6; Capt. Charles de Bromond, 6; J. C. Hamilton, 6; Roswell Wool & Hide Co. 4; C. J. Franks, 6.

The equipment will be entirely new, direct from the government's arsenal. Four rapid fire Nordensfeldt cannon, with four caissons, a forage wagon and a battery wagon proper for general supplies will make up the principal equipment. To each cannon caisson, forage and battery wagon will be hitched six horses, light leaders, middle weight horses next and heavier wheelers. The three horses on the left of the three teams will be ridden and the three horses on the right will be managed by the riders. All the horses will be saddled, the riders' saddles having the stirrups crossed, but carrying saddles for cases of emergency. The only small arms will be a revolver for each member of the company. Uniforms for the men, harness for the horses and equipment for the cannons, caissons, forage and cook outfit will complete the battery. It is an outfit costing the government over $100, when the cost of the buildings is included; for the government always houses its batteries properly.

The drills will not only include the practice of handling the guns and caissons, firing and maneuvering, but will also include pistol practice by all members of the company. For this the government will supply ammunition for both cannon and revolvers. Everyone rides in a battery, either on the horses pulling the cannons, on the cannons and wagons or on horses. The officers ride free horses and are expected to supply their own mounts. It is required that this company have fifty horses weighing not less than 1,100 and 12 horses weighing not less than 950 pounds.

Following is the composition of a battery of field artillery: One captain, two first lieutenants, two second lieutenants, one first sergeant, one stable sergeant, six sergeants, twelve corporals, three cooks, one chief mechanic, four mechanics, two musicians, 102 privates, total enlisted, (minimum) 133.

SUCCESSFUL BALLOON TRIALS AT ST. LOUIS CENTENNIAL.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 9.—Thousands of spectators thronged to the amphitheatre in Forest Hill Park this morning to watch the aeroplane flights, but Curtiss, stealing a march on his competitors, made two trial flights at daybreak when not a dozen were present. Dirigible balloons went up several times in preparation for the formal tests tomorrow. An industrial parade will be the feature of the day's celebration, illustrated by floats showing the progress of manufactures and commerce during the hundred years since the incorporation of St. Louis.

ARTILLERYMEN.

They Were Once Regarded as Mechanics, Not Soldiers.

Until the time of Charles XII. of Sweden the artillery was not considered a part of the army. The men serving in it were not soldiers, but regarded as mechanics. The officers had no army rank. Charles XII. gave artillery officers a rank and regularly organized the artillery into companies. The battle of Pavia demonstrated the superiority of the gun in the hands of the Spanish infantry. The musket carried a two ounce ball and sometimes brought down at one fire two or three mailed knights. The French sent a flag of truce to remonstrate against the use of such barbarous weapons.

Alexander had four kinds of cavalry—the cataphract, or heavy armed horse; the light cavalry, carrying spears and very light armor; the acrobatae, or mounted archers, used for outposts, patrols and reconnoitering duty, and the dimachos, or troops expected to act either as cavalry or infantry. Alexander the Great reorganized his father's army. The file or lochos of sixteen men was the unit; two files made a diloch; two diloches made a tetrach; two tetrachies a tetrach; two of these a syntagma; sixteen of these a phalanx; four of these a tetra-phalangarch, otherwise known as a large phalanx.

The Greeks attacked in a phalanx, the spears interlocked and shields overlapping. After the first onset the spears were dropped, and the day was decided with the sword. The cavalry attacked the enemy in the rear if possible and in case of victory undertook the pursuit.—Pearson's Weekly.

SOFT SHELLED CRABS.

The Way They Get Rid of Their Hard Outer Coats.

Many persons believe that the hard shelled crab and the soft shelled crab are two different species. This is not so. The shellfish thus distinguished are merely two conditions of the same species.

Once a year the crab sheds its hard outer coat, much as does a snake, in order to give itself room for greater growth. When it gets ready to make the transformation it slides in close to shore, where the water at low tide will just cover it, and where it is comparatively safe from its maritime enemies. Then when it is half buried in the sand, its shell splits open behind, and it softly crawls out. The new coat, as soft as skin, is already well started. But until it shall have become fairly hard the crab stays almost motionless in the shoals. While it is in this condition its pinchers are useless, and it falls an easy prey to the most insignificant enemy which happens upon it.

There is no particular time of year chosen by the crab for the metamorphosis. All through the twelve months fisher lads and barefoot fishermen wading for their baskets along the shore at low tide gather the helpless crabs, which fetch a high price in the markets. In their soft state they are worth from four to five times their price when in their natural hard condition.—Chicago News.

The "King of Rome."

What became of Napoleon's son is a question often asked, as little mention is made in history of the young prince, the desire of his father's life, who was born March 20, 1811, amid great rejoicing in Paris and hailed as the "king of Rome." In January, 1814, Napoleon embraced his wife and child for the last time, and this really ended the reign of the little king "who never saw his kingdom." He was reared in the Austrian court under the name of the Duke of Reichstadt and grew to be a handsome young fellow and quite a brilliant scholar. He had one short year of military life and then contracted pulmonary disease, from which he died in his twenty-second year. He is buried in the Carthusian monastery of Vienna, which is the Austrian Westminster abbey.

Crowded New York.

New York always was crowded. In 1837 it had about thirty first class hotels. Most of them were below City Hall park. The capacity of these houses was about 6,000. The average number of visitors to the city at that time was estimated to be 20,000. It is stated by an early historian that it was not an unusual sight to see strangers in the city wandering from house to house, carrying their baggage with them, seeking lodging for the night. At that time there were only three hotels conducted on the European plan. Lodging at the latter was from $2.50 to $3.50 a week.—New York Press.

Only an Amateur Now.

"No, sir," said the man who had been asked for alms; "I can give you nothing. You are a professional beggar, aren't you?" "I used to think so," replied the beggar, "as he sadly pulled two cents and a collar button from his pocket, 'but I have come to the conclusion that I am only an amateur.'"

ARCHITECTURE OF OUR OWN.

Baron von Bodenhausen Says Sky-scrapers Are Developing It Rapidly.

"In ten more years America will have developed an architecture of its own," prophesies Baron von Bodenhausen, one of the directors of the Krupp steel works at Essen, Germany, after several days spent in inspecting New York's skyscrapers.

"It is nine years since I was in this country before, and the change of sky line impresses me forcibly. When I was here before the Park Row building was the tallest structure in the city. It struck me then, as it does now, as an exceedingly ugly building, quite impossible—a square mass topped by two towers that apparently have no earthly excuse for being there. I always want to knock them off, so." And the baron gave a quick, disgusted gesture.

"Now I return after nine years to see the Metropolitan Life building. How different it is, how comparatively complete—the one tall, majestic tower directly in the center, front of the building. The minute you look at the structure as a whole you realize that the body of the building is necessary to the tower, just as the tower is necessary to the body of the building. They are part of each other, dependent upon each other. The first skyscrapers were wild jumbles of brick and stone without apparent reason.

"To be sure, America still leans to ward too much petty detail in its architecture—too much carving and that sort of thing. However, that does not interfere with the general outlines. They are improving marvelously, and it is safe to say that in ten more years America will be in a position to boast of an architecture of her own."

Popular Parisian Fad.

The freak photograph is the popular fad in Paris at present. Several photographers are making it a specialty and turn out the humorous, grotesque and gawdawny in large quantities. One of these received in New York recently shows a young woman fashionably attired carrying in her hand a hat of the peach basket shape containing her head. Another represents a man contemplating his own smiling face. He holds the head as Hamlet was supposed to have held the skull of Yorick. Still another shows a young man in a soft fin, smoking a cigarette and supposed to be listening to the funeral oration which is being delivered by himself.

Knife Blade Building.

Facing the new Williamsburg bridge plaza, in New York, will be built an office and store structure only six feet eleven inches wide. The depth will be a hundred feet. It will be built on the southwest corner of Delancey and Clinton streets. It will be two stories high. The cost is placed at $10,000. The narrow strip of land was left by the cutting away of the blocks taken to make the plaza.

Oregon Tea.

A citizen of Hubbard, Ore., Peter Loer, has demonstrated the fact that the finest quality of Japan tea can be successfully grown in Hubbard and in all parts of Oregon. He has a large patch of land planted to tea, which is growing nicely and is very thrifty. He raised a small quantity of tea last year, which he readily disposed of to Portland merchants at $4 a pound. The merchants offer to pay that price for good tea raised in Oregon.

NEW YORK IS WEARY

The impending conquest of the air. He can already see several dark clouds, shaped like airships, hovering on his horizon, and they code trouble for him. He has taken time by the forelock and is already making plans for heading off the aerial snugglers who are likely to invade the country in the near future. If his suggestions are carried out, watchmen will be posted constantly in the tower of the Metropolitan Building and on top of the Singer Building to keep an eye out for aeroplanes and other craft, note their direction and probable landing place and notify the collector. Deputy collectors and inspectors will then set out on the track of the invaders and have to submit to an investigation of their effects. It is hinted that if the air travellers should refuse all invitations to come down and be searched, guns would be used to persuade them.

Abstinents Honor Founder.
Boston, Oct. 9.—Father Mathew Day, in memory of Father Theobald Mathew, who accomplished much for temperance among the Catholic of Europe, America and throughout the world, will be observed in Boston to-morrow. The occasion will bring together the "old guard" of the temperance cause, those who took the pledge as mere children from Father Mathew. Of many thousands of Bostonians who were his converts, only fifteen are alive. All of these have strictly kept their pledges, although made sixty years ago. Steps will be taken to arouse interest in next year's national convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America, which will be held in Boston.

Hark Reader, of St. Louis, arrived last night to accept a position as clerk at the Gilkeson.

Don't get it into your head that your business will boom without advertising because you will find this to be a great mistake, and perhaps it will be too late to remedy the mistake when you find it. Advertising is the right kind in the right medium is the best paying proposition for the amount of money invested of any kind of a proposition. It almost beats picking dollars up out of the streets, and this is just about what advertising of the right kind in the Daily Record will do for you. If you have not tried it do it now.
