Legislature

Trusting that the Senate will be the slaughter house in which unconstitutional and objectionable bills will find their doom, the lower house with wild abandon is passing everything in site which has the literary form of a bill.

"If the legislation being passed by the lower house has no obstruction on its way to the statute books," stated Senator Lucero, Democratic solon from Colfax County, "we would find our ship of state suddenly cast upon the rocks of financial destruction."

With better than 240 bills upon its official calendar, the House has thrown the legislative machinery in high gear and merrily they roll along heaping scads of work on the Senate, it is said, which the latter body will never reach ere the close of the session. It is predicted that the close of the session will find the Senate Committees deluged.

J. Floersheim and little son, Walter, went to Springer last week returning Monday and bringing Mrs. Floersheim back with them. They spent a pleasant week-end visit with their children there.

Frank Lujan, of Sabinoso, visited over Saturday and Sunday with his father, Cipriano Lujan and family, in Roy.

Bud Finch drove up from La Cinto Canyon Monday to meet Clarence Wright who came down from Dawson to see about the ranch.

60 cars of "Dogy" cattle from Old Mexico went through Roy on the train Monday. There were almost as many different railroads represented as there were cars the train.

Ida Lawrence, a sister of J. J. Taylor, arrived last week from Los Angeles, California and is making an extended visit here with the Taylor family.

Will Brashears has been seriously sick, along with all his family for the past week with Flu bordering on Pneumonia. He is able to be out again.

Ray, J. T. Howell came down from Mofax Tuesday to see about starting the Broom Factory in Roy. He has been sick with Flu and is not yet able to work. His son, Frank Howell returned from Coquille, Oregon, this week. He has had enough of the rainy season there and is glad to get back to the high mesa again.

Corporal Jesse Halterman wired his mother this week that he is safe back in the U. S. and expects to soon be home again.

Fred Brown has erected his water supply tank at his new residence and coupled the pump from his deep well to it. This about completes the appointments in a very modern town home which they are preparing to enjoy this summer.

Jas. W. Johnson, Jr. has accepted a position as head Gardiner at the New Mexico Reform School at Springer and he will go next week to assume the duties of the position. His wife, who has been a teacher in that institution for a long time, will accompany him and also will have a position. This looks like a good job for Jim and we know the School will never find a steadier or more reliable man so congratulations are due around.

Wilson Speaks

Reading the utterances of President Wilson, on his return from the greatest mission mortal man ever attempted, leaves one in a frame of mind to overlook the rapid mouthings of some republicans and democrats in the Senate, and restores our faith in the higher forms of humanity.

It is amusing to hear Reed, of Missouri, quote George Waseington to support his retrograde ideas. What Washington said, and what was true 133 years ago, under conditions then prevailing is hardly applicable to the present anymore than their modes of transportation and communication would be. Senators and all others who wish to live back in the time of Washington or Moses have our consent but they won't help get civilization ahead.

Wilson is criticised because he won't be guided by men who have no vision other than that of profits from war activities and persists in driving ahead to a better world. We remember when Taft was president, he tried to defer to the critics and mossbacks and the result was he, himself was discredited as having no personality.

Lincoln was assailed and criticised but he never wavered in what he knew was his duty, the same is true of every great advanced thinker since history records the doings of men, and it is right that it should be so, for the right always prevails eventually.

J. Frank Curns, of Wagon Mound, our Representative, has introduced a bill in the Legislature to appropriate $20,000.00 for making the road from Roy to Wagon Mound by way of the Red River bridge passable. Its a good move and it will take it all to make a good road of it and more to keep it good. We'll be nearer neighbors if he gets it.

Mrs. O. B. Dietterich came home last Friday from an extended visit with relatives at Kansas City and Wichita. She will visit her mother here and try to complete final proof of their homestead.

Barrett Beard started on Route A as substitute mail carrier Wednesday. If he can make it at all now he should be a dinger when the roads are passable.

Rev. O. W. Hearn is reported on the sick list this week. He has been fighting off the Flu all winter but finally had to make the small concession to it of remaining indoors for a few days.

We received a card this week announcing the death of Mrs. Rev. W. C. Heaton. Friends will be relieved to know that her sufferings are over. Rev. Heaton's mother has moved in with him at Buffalo, Okla. and he will be able to keep his children together. He sends greeting to all his Roy friends.

Mr. Alldredge is employed at the dispatcher's office of the Santa Fe, and popular with the young folks of the city. Miss Turner is less well known having spent only a little time here. The young couple is receiving congratulations and sincere good wishes from their many friends.

Fred Fluhman drove to town last week and was snow-bound for several days. Starting out in a car to drive home was too risky for him.

Washington's Birthday was celebrated at the Roy Public School last Friday evening with a very interesting program by all the grades. Many friends, parents and patrons of the school enjoyed the affair with the teachers and pupils.

The I. O. O. F. lodge came to with a start Wednesday evening. Two candidates were initiated in the usual classic form of other days and a feed of sandwiches and coffee followed. A large attendance and a good time encourages the workers to believe it will be repeated often in the future.

SOMEBODY'S BOY.

"He is only a sailor," I heard them say
As they passed him by on the street one day.
Little they knew that his heart was true,
As it beat beneath his suit of blue.
He's somebody's boy who has heard the call,
And is doing his best to serve us all.
He's not afraid of the wildest storm;
He's not ashamed of his uniform.
Don't scorn his clothes nor give him a look
That you might bestow on a slinking crook;
He's Uncle Sam's boy on land and sea,
And a braver lad you never did see.
So treat him with kindness and give him a smile;
'To speak of a sailor is always worth while.
Here's a line to all sailors where ever they may be,
At home, on the shore or away out at sea.
I will never forget you, I'll ever be true
To the lad who is serving the Red, White and Blue.

House Party

A party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Abernathy, in honor of their son, Sergeant Ellis Abernathy, who recently returned from two years service in the U. S. Coast Artillery, attracted a large crowd of young people last Friday evening in spite of the inclement weather, and entertained them in the usual pleasing manner well known to all who have ever been guests at the Abernathy home. Music and games formed the chief entertainment, several selections on the piano ukulele, and other instruments by 1st. Lieutenant C. Beemer, of the Roy Garage, were among the finest things offered. Near midnight refreshments were served, Sergeant Abernathy doing "K. P." and drafting Miss Etta Hornbaker as "Flunkey". The young people will remember this event at least until they have another opportunity to enjoy the hospitality of the Abernathy home.

Miss Etta Hornbaker is at the Floersheim Mercantile Co. learning the mysteries of the Dry-goods Department. She will succeed Miss Grace Worley, as sales lady when this popular young lady leaves next week for a vacation of a few weeks. Miss Worley is a general favorite with the ladies who patronize this store and taking her place with them will be a rather large order but Miss Hornbaker will come as near to it as anyone we know of. Miss Worley will visit her old home at Oklahoma City and friends elsewhere during her absence.

Glenn Anderson has resigned as clerk at the Fairview Pharmacy and will assist his father on the farm this spring. Mrs. Gertrude Hedgecock is the new clerk succeeding him. It is a position requiring long hours, much patience and a lot of work including care of the soda fountain, candy and general stock and we imagine Dr. Gibbs has chosen wisely in getting a lady clerk of mature years as well as pleasing address and well known energy for this responsible position.

Orphan's Home

The page devoted to the children's Home and Dr. Luken's great humanitarian enterprise in a recent special edition of the Albuquerque Evening Herald, has aroused many communities to appreciation of the one New Mexico Institution which is salvaging the children of New Mex. and getting them a chance the same as those across the seas, if we are to judge by the commendation of the local press of the state. This reminds us of the fact that this home was an object of public interest in Roy for a long time until it was libeled most grossly from an unexpected source. True, the libeler, retracted, but and injury he did has never been repaired, seemingly a consensus of opinion was to accept a naked charge which was retracted as a proof of guilt. Individuals have made good the financial injury to Dr. Lukens and his cause but we have reason to wonder if the institutions of Roy which once helped themselves by helping the Orphans fund have not lost something which only frank and honest admission of error and reparation will ever replace.

Clyde Crowe is learning the "Art Preservative" of setting type under the tutelage of Rual Wade, who advances from the position of "Devil" to Journeyman Printer, with Foreman and Editor in sight ahead.

Mrs. "Mickie" Floersheim and baby arrived from Denver Monday accompanied by her mother. Mickey handles that baby very awkwardly but he will soon improve with practice.

Governor Allen, of Kansas, has reached the point in his congressional investigation of war conditions in Europe and at Brest, where he is confronted by a flat contradiction by the highest authority in the world, and he says he can't understand it.

If he and a lot of other critics in and out of the Congress only knew it they are classed in the minds of the people who are this government along with the Bolsheviks of Russia with the stigma that they are purposely vile while the Russians may have reasons for their depravity.

LAND IN DEMAND

Opportunities of Western Canada
Becoming Known.

Fertile Soil on Which Can Be Produced Record Crops Offered to Settlers at Prices Attractive to Farm Seekers.

In the early months of 1919 there was a demand for farm lands in Western Canada, the greatest that has ever been in the history of the country. This despite the fact that farm lands have increased in price, as the value of the farm product has increased and the fertility and productive value of Western Canada farm lands have come more and more into evidence. Farming there is no longer an experiment. Good crops can be grown in all localities, some probably a little more favorable than others, but on the whole a good—more than good—general average. Land elsewhere on the continent is used for the developing of one hundred and twenty dollar steers, thirty-five dollar hogs, two dollar and twenty cent wheat and eighty-five cent oats, and its price is anywhere from one hundred and fifty to three hundred dollars an acre. Western Canada land sells at from twenty to forty dollars an acre, and the farmer cultivating it gets one hundred and twenty-five dollars for his steer, thirty-five dollars for his hog, two dollars and twenty cents for his wheat, and eighty-five cents for his oats. And he can grow corn, too, but Western Canada is saying no more about it than North Dakota did fifteen years ago, when it was an experiment there, and see what North Dakota is doing today. The prediction is that in less than a decade corn will be grown successfully in all parts of Western Canada. It is, therefore, easy to account for the increased demand for Western Canada lands. The war is ended, and the food that the American and Canadian farmer sent across to the soldier, holding up his strength and maintaining his vitality, won the war. No! It was just a factor in winning it, as was the soldier of Italy, of France, of Belgium, of Great Britain, of Canada and of the United States. An important factor, nevertheless. People generally have begun to realize what food means, means to everybody—and it is grown on the farm. So people today want farm lands, and they want those that are good. The great, wide, open stretches of wonderfully productive soil of Western Canada are the chief attraction of the land seekers of today, and it will be so tomorrow, and of all days, until these vacant inviting acres are brought into fruition by the hand of man and the multiplied effort of steam and gasoline power, to the influence and operation of which these lands present such a splendid opportunity.

The pulse of today's desire to secure farm lands may be seen to beat in the columns of the local newspaper, recording sales of many tracts of lands, ranging from 100 to 1,200 acres. A Regina (Sask.) paper says, "In farm lands there is no brisak a business being done that it might be considered a boom." Another paper reports the sale of a section of raw prairie seven miles east of Regina for $35 an acre, and 200 acres at $50 an acre. One real-estate firm handled in three weeks' time over 3,500 acres of farm lands, the turnover being upward of $100,000. An improved farm near Regina changed hands at $47 an acre. "For the first time in the history of the Moosejaw district farm land has been sold for $100 an acre, when J. S. Cameron of Victoria, B. C., sold half a section, known as the Left farm, to John Logan. The farm was bought a year ago for $85 an acre and is located three miles from the city. It is highly improved and has fine buildings."

An extract from a local paper says: "The movement of farm lands is opening up well this season and there is every indication that a large area of prairie property will be turned over during the months intervening before seedtime."

"The price received for farm lands in each instance is considered as good, particularly for unimproved raw prairie, and shows a considerable improvement on prices for similar properties sold during the years of the war."—Advertisement.

Two women of the parvenue class were discussing the future of their respective sons, when one of them said: "Do you know, I believe that a boy's development depends largely upon his environment?"

"I know it," replied the other, as she carelessly toyed with her jewel box. "There was my cousin William's boy—he never knew what it was to have a well-day till the doctor found out the trouble was with his environment and cut it out."—Harper's.

Paradoxical. "Is Jones of dry tendencies?" "Well, he's on the water wagon."—Baltimore American.

Local officials at Columbus have been notified by Senator Fall that the War Department has formally approved the proposal to make Columbus a permanent landing station for air planes. Bids have been asked of local contractors of Gallup within the past week by Louis Liberato for the construction of a modern office building and hotel on three lots which he recently purchased. The building is to be 75x110 feet, two stories, three business rooms, a 24-room hotel on the second floor and an auditorium for public meetings and dances.

Equal rights in all places of public association, resort or amusement would be guaranteed by a bill introduced in the Legislature by Speaker Sedillo, Representatives Padilla of Bernalillo, and Armijo of Dona Ana. The measure would forbid the owner of any public place to display any notice denying the privilege of his establishment to any person on account of race, color or creed. By the terms of the bill drug stores, barber shops, theaters, schools and academies, skating rinks and the like are included.

LYNCHING AND MURDER SEEM TO BE THE ORDER OF COMMUNISTS.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Paris, Feb. 24.—An attack was made on one of the newspaper offices in Budapest by Communists and unemployed with the result that many persons were killed, according to advices reaching here. It is officially stated thirty-one persons were killed, but one eye-witness declared he counted fifty to sixty dead in the streets. Fifteen Communists were taken to the hospitals in dying condition.

Copenhagen, Feb. 24.—A dispatch from Berlin says the first President of the Bavarian soviet republic is Herr Simon, chairman of the Workers' and Peasants' Council. The dispatch adds that many deputies, including Professor Quide of the University of Munich, have been arrested.

Munich, Feb. 23.—Ministerial Councilor Jahries has been killed and several officers of the war office gravely wounded in the rioting here. The radical elements have threatened with death entire classes of the population as a reprisal for the assassination of Kurt Eisner.

London.—The Communist leader, Bela Kim of Budapest, has been lynched, according to a dispatch from the Berlin correspondent of Reuter's Ltd., quoting a message from the Hungarian capital. The action is said to be the result of popular indignation at the attempts of the Communists to undermine order. The proletariat has organized a strike as a protest against the energetic measures taken to suppress the Communists, which include the arrest of forty-two radicals, according to Budapest advices received by way of Basle. The minister of war denounced the communists in an address delivered in Parliament square to many thousands of workmen, who adopted a resolution calling upon the government to use all their means at its disposal to end the Communist plots.

Paris.—Count Arco-Valley, the stay of Premier Eisner of Bavaria, was not acting independently, says a Zurich dispatch and it is becoming more and more evident that the Wittelsbach dynasty and its adherents are behind an organized movement to destroy the Bavarian republic.

Speeds Up Treaty Draft.

Paris.—Results of far-reaching character were obtained at the meeting of the council of the great powers when resolutions were adopted requiring such a speeding up of all work of the peace conference as to permit the formation of a preliminary peace treaty by the time President Wilson returns to Paris in the middle of March. To accomplish this all commissions dealing with the big questions of reparations, boundaries and economic and financial issues must report to the supreme council within the next two weeks. These reports, in turn, will form a basis for the drafting of the treaty.

Return to France March 5.

Boston, Mass.—President Wilson's ship arrived in Boston harbor early Sunday evening and anchored with all the presidential party remaining aboard. The President still plans to return to France on the George Washington, sailing from Hoboken about March 5, unless something unforeseen occurs. The condition of the French premier, M. Clemenceau, may prove to be a large factor. The possibility of a change in the French government should the premier not respond to treatment for his wound, and the further possibility of a delay in the peace conference, complicates the situation. Although the President held several conferences during the return voyage he did not give any expressions on the work or prospects of the peace conference further than to indicate he feels a certain justification of his position in insisting that the making of peace and the creation of a league of nations are inseparable propositions not to be dissociated.

Secret Agents Uncover Plot.

New York.—Acting on information that two Spanish anarchists had agreed to kill the President and would arrive in this city on the way from Philadelphia to Boston, Secret Service operatives raided two resorts of Spanish radicals and arrested fourteen men. Two of those arrested are suspected of being the pair who were pledged to attempt the life of the President. They were said to have arrived in this city from Philadelphia and to have planned to leave for Boston.

Dr. T. G. Farnsworth, 78 S. Kansas St., Buckhannon, W. Here is Dr. Farnsworth's experience as he tells it: "It was just a few years after my retiring from practicing medicine that I found I was afflicted with severe disorder of the kidneys and bladder. I grew steadily worse, and sometimes I was unable to get around at all. The kidney secretions were retarded and so painful in passing I would cry out in misery. I was in a frightful condition. After I had lost hope in other remedies, Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and I tried them. I soon noticed a change for the better. I used several boxes and they cured me completely. Never in my practice did I know a remedy that would accomplish what Doan's Kidney Pills did, and I give them my heartiest endorsement."

SUPERSTITION HARD TO DOWN

Quaint Belief in Reference to Wedding Customs That Prevail in This and Other Countries.

There are more superstitions in reference to the marriage ceremony than in reference to any other in common life. They refer to such matters as the clothes to be worn by the bride, to the year, month and day of the wedding. In Sweden it is believed that if a girl is fond of cats she will not be an old maid. We should expect the opposite.

One of our proverbs says that it is ill-luck for a bride to see her face in a glass by candle. Another that a wedding feast postponed bodes bad luck.

Bees must be told of a wedding and get some of the cake. The pins used in the dress of the bride at her wedding must be all thrown away; if retained by the bridesmaids they will not marry before Whitstide. A girl must beware of being three times a bridesmaid, for she never will be a bride.

It augurs ill for a wedding if a bride does not weep profusely. No witch can shed more than three tears, and those from her left eye only. A copious flood of tears gives assurance to the husband that the lady has not plighted her troth to Satan and is no witch.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Allies Propose to Maintain a Watch on the Rhine for a Long Time to Come.

MAKE HUNS REALIZE DEFEAT

New Armistice Terms Bring Forth Walls—Fight on the Projected League of Nations Opened in Congress Without Awaiting President Wilson's Promised Explanation.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Emile Cottin, the anarchist who tried to murder Premier Clemenceau in Paris, could not have done his cause a greater disservice. If he recovers from the wound in his shoulder, as seems probable at this writing, the "Tiger" will be stronger than ever in France and the people of his country will give support more united than ever to his plans and demands for the restoration and the safeguarding of France, even though he may be "preparing for another war" as the assassin asserts. Clemenceau, by his courage and robust patriotism, has won the esteem of all his fellow citizens except the rabid anarchists, who always have hated him. His influence in the deliberations of the peace delegates has been powerful and his statesmanship has been demonstrated at every turn.

In what appears to be a reactionary revolt against the extremists in Bavaria, Premier Kurt Eisner and several other members of the government were slain on Friday. The situation in Munich was obscure, and one explanation was that Eisner, who was assassinated by Lieut. Count Arco Valley, was killed because of his speech at Berne, in which he placed the blame for the war on the Kaiser and the Prussian military caste. He was a radical socialist and was in sympathy with the Spartacists.

It is becoming more evident daily that the entente allies have no intention of yielding too far to mudlin sentiment where Germany is concerned, and that the Huns are to be properly restrained, with just enough economic freedom to enable them to work hard and pay for the tremendous damage they have done the world. They may wall and squirm, but they will not be permitted to organize their forces for the armed resistance against the terms imposed on them by their conquerors. At least during the present generation the allies intend to keep a watch on the Rhine that, in the words of Winston Churchill, British war secretary, will "make it physically impossible for Germany to begin a war of revenge at any rate in our lifetime." The effectiveness of the league of nations, he said, depends upon the allies having a trustworthy military force in close proximity to Germany, and he explained that the British government therefore would retain about one-fourth of the men now in the service and also is already raising a volunteer army for garrisoning the empire. During 1919 the British army will number 900,000 men. Presumably the other allied nations will do their part in this respect. America's selective service act must be demobilized within four months after the formal proclamation of peace. The army bill as passed by the house last week, provides for the regular peace-time army of 175,000 to be obtained by voluntary enlistments. As the enlistment period is reduced to one year and the four-year period in the reserve is done away with, it is believed that whatever army is needed abroad can be recruited from the ranks of the soldiers now there.

Since this bill is regarded as totally inadequate by a great many senators it has small chance of becoming law, and it is believed an extra session of the new congress will be called to pass both army and navy appropriation bills, which, it is taken for granted, will permit America to do her part in guarding the peace of the world.

In the new armistice terms imposed on them the Huns are getting a slight foretaste of what they may expect when the military peace treaty is made. Not many radical changes were made, but these include the cessation of all hostilities against the Poles and the removal of German troops from the Posen and Thorn districts; also the Germans were peremptorily ordered to put in good condition all the artillery, airplanes, motortrucks and rolling stock which are to be turned over. Nothing was included about demobilization because it was ascertained that less than 200,000 Germans are now under arms. Erzberger signed the new terms under protest, and when he returned to Weimar he explained to the national assembly that he had no recourse. He was violently attacked by a delegate of the people's party but was sustained by the majority.

What seems to be worrying Erzberger most is the prospect that the peace treaty will give to France the Saar valley, where the best of the German coal deposits are located. The French claim this basin should be theirs in conjunction with the nearby Briey iron region, but Erzberger predicts that if it is given them Germany some day will recover it by force. In this, and in his repeated protest against the "harshness" of the treatment the Germans are receiving or are about to receive, Erzberger is speaking for a large part of the German nation, which seems incapable of realizing that it has been whipped and must pay.

The arrogance of the Huns has reached a high point in loud objections to the league of nations, in the German press. Some newspapers even urge that Germany should have nothing to do with the league, but others, while severely criticizing some of the proposed statutes, demand that Germany be permitted to join the league simultaneously with the other powers. It is taken for granted by the allied nations that Germany will be admitted to the league at some future date, but only after she has given sufficient guaranty of her sincerity. As Professor Larnaud, dean of the Paris law faculty, says: "Surely when Germany enters a league of nations she will agree to sign every undertaking we desire; but we know what undertakings mean to the Germans. Did they not sign a treaty guaranteeing the neutrality of Belgium?"

The constitution of the league of nations, as drafted, has been received with general approval in England and Italy, while in France the prevalent feeling is that it is a good beginning for a project by which there is hope of establishing world peace. In American opinion is widely divergent, and adverse criticism is based on the fear that the United States is about to surrender the Monroe doctrine. President Wilson, by wireless, asked that there be no discussion of the league, in congress or elsewhere, until he could explain it fully in the public speeches he was planning to make in various cities. Some of the more impatient in congress, however, declined to wait, and started the music last Wednesday. In the senate the league was attacked strongly by Poindexter, Borah, Reed, Vandaman, Lodge and others, and was defended by Shafroth and Hitchcock. In the house Fess of Ohio opened the fight on the league, declaring it "monstrous" and filled with vicious possibilities.

As can be seen, the league of nations is not a party question, but many astute leaders of the Republican party are urging that criticism of the plan be suppressed until the attitude of the country is ascertained from the reception given the president's explanations. Mr. Taft, who has not ceased to be one of that party's chiefs, denounces the opponents of the league for another reason—because he already ardently believes in the efficacy of the proposed society of nations. It is easy to predict that, after a deal of palaver, the senate will give its approval to the league plan, probably with formal reservations that will protect the Monroe Doctrine.

Of those peoples who still are fighting in Europe and Asia there is not much to write this week. The Poles are being hard pressed by the Ukrainians in the Lemberg region, and in East Prussia the German troops were said to be fighting them under the old imperial standard. The junkers, according to report, were striving to retain their old military jobs by organizing a strong movement against Poland.

General Denikin and his antisoviet army, it was announced, had reached the Caspian, having scattered a great body of anarchist troops and captured 31,000 prisoners and large quantities of material. In Esthonia, however, the soviet armies, which had resumed their activities with a general attack, were said to be making considerable progress, especially in the region of Pskov. This continuation of hostilities by the Lenin-Trotsky forces again makes doubtful the holding of the proposed conference at Prinees' island. Moreover, three of the Russian governments, those of Siberia, Archangel and southern Russia, have formally declined to take part in the conference, stating that there can be no conciliation between them and the bolsheviks.

Information from Petrograd shows that opposition to the rule of the Lenin anarchists is increasing among the more intelligent workers. Sixty thousand workmen in that city are on strike, demanding the end of civil war and the establishment of free trade. The United States and Great Britain have announced that their forces in northern Russia are to be withdrawn when weather conditions permit, and will be re-ordered to facilitate this movement. Meanwhile those who have been worried by alarmist stories of the distressing condition under which our boys there are existing may be relieved by the cablegram from Col. George F. Stewart, commanding the Americans. He says the reports are not warranted by the facts; that the health of the entire command is excellent, the sick and wounded are well cared for and the entire allied expedition is capable of taking care of itself against the whole bolshevik army.

The Spartacist anarchists of Germany were extremely busy throughout the week, organizing here and there and in Westphalia going so far as to start a bombardment of the town of Rotterdam. In the Ruhr industrial region along the Rhine the Spartacists occupied several towns and declared a general strike, fortifying the waterworks and powerhouses and preparing to resist the government troops. Muhlheim is the center of the movement and the anarchists have gathered there in large numbers.

Congressman-elect Victor L. Berger of Wisconsin and his fellow defendants, Engdahl, Germer, Tucker and Kruse, convicted of violating the espionage act and conspiring to obstruct the United States' war program, were sentenced by Judge Landis to twenty years' imprisonment each at Leavenworth. Appealing to the federal circuit court of appeals, they were released on bonds, but only after giving their solemn pledges that they would neither by word nor act do any of the things for which they were convicted pending final decision of their cases.

The senate judiciary committee took a step toward curbing the activities of the anarchists when it unanimously approved a bill to punish such activities and to prohibit the display of red flags or other emblems of violence.

There were interesting developments in the "scandal" and charges that inevitably follow a war. Governor Allen of Kansas, supporting a motion of Representative Campbell for an investigation of the story that the casualties of the Thirty-fifth Division were needlessly large, told the house committee on rules a shocking story of inefficiency and blunders and lack of artillery and equipment. Summing up in a sentence the record of the American army in France, he said everything fell down except the raw man material. The inquiry into these conditions will not be made by congress until the next session.

Following an investigation ordered by Secretary Daniels, seven naval officers and 40 yeomen were arrested in the Third naval district, which includes New York, on charges of grafting. It is asserted that a great many sons of wealthy families paid large sums for special favors, easy resignations and promotions.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed with Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Adv.

URIC ACID IN THE SYSTEM

BY LEE H. SMITH, M. D.

Uric acid is now generally recognized as the cause of more diseases than was heretofore believed. When the kidneys are out of order uric acid accumulates within the body in superabundance. The disordered kidneys do not filter the poisons out of the blood, as they ought to do, and so the poisons remain in the blood and float around until they find a place to lodge, in form of urate salts. The thing to remember is that you may have rheumatism in any part of the body—you may have pains anywhere—your back may ache and your head may be dizzy—but the trouble is not where the pain appears.

The trouble is in the kidneys, and what is the first thing to do? You must get that excess uric acid out of your system, which can be done by taking Anuric Tablets, the splendid remedy which Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has put on sale in the drug stores at a low price. Anuric Tablets (made double strength), when taken into the system as medicine, have the peculiar power of dissolving the uric acid deposited there. Drop a bit of sugar or salt into hot water, and it will disappear. In precisely the same way do these Anuric Tablets dissolve uric acid. Of course, after ridding the system of uric acid, it may return again unless you eat the right foods and live the right kind of life. But Dr. Pierce will advise you fully on proper food and correct living if you write and ask him. He makes no charge for such advice. Take Anuric Tablets to day, by all means, and get that uric acid out of your system. Don't, don't, don't put the matter off.

Speaking of house bill 3 to compel teaching of Spanish in the public schools of N. M. the Wagon Mound Sentinel says—

We believe this bill to be the most pernicious bill ever introduced in N. M. It is a blow at American citizenship and a menace to the commonwealth. It is insult to two prominent classes of residents of the State. The people of the State do not desire a closer relationship with Old Mexico as much as they do a greater civic harmony in the United States.

It's only logical supporters are one class, standing with one foot on either side of the Rio-Grande, one hand in Old Mexico mines, the other in its own pockets.

Every State in the Union has or is preparing to pass laws prohibiting the teaching of any language but English in the elementary grades, except N. M.

The demand (?) that the Spanish language be taught simultaneously with the English language in the public school is not the wish of the older or younger generation of this State. They want the children taught English in the school, to better equip them to prosper in America.

It is a pity that N. M. contains a few "windjammers" who insist upon keeping in the minds of the people of 47 States of this Union that N. M. is a part of Old Mexico.

The following extracts from an article by Lola Marie Harmon in the Wagon Mound Sentinel, are a sample of one of the most pointed as well as readable articles on the subject of Schools we have read lately—

Ignorant communities engage ignorant teachers, who allow the rising generation to grow up in ignorance to take their places as ignorant parents, to engage more ignorant teachers, and so on, ad nauseam.

Thus is perpetuated "the vicious circle of inbred ignorance". Nor does the fact that "school-keepers" of this class move about from district to district better matters materially.

The time has long passed when education was conceived to consist merely of reading, writing and arithmetic. Education is character-building in its scope, and as a stream can rise no higher than its source, so is the progress of a school limited by the measure of its teachers.

What can the boy and girl whose book knowledge has been gained in poor rural school, and whose world knowledge is limited by a politics ridden county, give to their pupils? What do they know? What self control have they? What ideas?

They can not teach habits of personal hygiene for they themselves have not been taught. They can not teach habits of study and intelligent expression, for they themselves are lacking.

What they can and do teach is idleness, slovenly habits, poor English, wrong conceptions, false values, local prejudices and low standards of education.

A real teacher can teach more in one language than an ignorant person can in two languages, both badly spoken.

NOTICE OF PENDENCY OF SUIT

In the District Court, Fourth Judicial District, State of New Mexico, County of Mora. Dawson Railway Company, Petitioner, vs. Joseph W. Carter, R. A. Brock, and Unknown Owners of the Property and Land involved in this Action and Described in the Petition, Defendants.

The above named petitioner hereby notifies the above named and designated defendants that it has filed a petition in the above entitled court and cause, for the condemnation for railroad purposes of the following described land and real estate lying and being in Mora County, New Mexico, to-wit:

A parcel of ground being a part of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section thirty, township twenty-three north, range twenty-five east, N. M. P. M., described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at the northwest corner of the southwest quarter of northwest quarter of said section thirty; thence east along the quarter quarter line 355 feet, more or less, to a point, the said point being the highwater line of the proposed addition to the Abbott Reservoir of the Dawson Railway Company; thence south 53 degrees 50 minutes east 35 feet, more or less to station 21 of the survey for said addition to the Abbott Reservoir; thence S 48 degrees 10 minutes W 300 feet to station 22; thence N 86 degrees 50 minutes W 160 feet, more or less, to the range line between Range 24 east and 25 east; thence north along said range line 215 feet, more or less, to the northwest corner of southwest quarter of said section thirty, the point of beginning, describing a tract of ground of the area of 1.46 acres, more or less.

And that said land is required for railroad purposes for an addition to what is known as the Abbott Reservoir, for development of water supply for railroad operations as more fully appears from the petition on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court, and by said petition the petitioner prays for the appointment of three disinterested freeholders as commissioners to assess the damages which the defendants may severally sustain in consequence of the establishment, erection and maintenance of the proposed reservoir over and upon said lands so to be used for public purposes in connection with and for the use of said railroad, and that said tract of land be condemned for railroad purposes aforesaid according to the practice of this Court.

And the petitioner will call up this petition for hearing in Chambers, before the Honorable Judge of said Court D. J. Leahy, at Las Vegas, New Mexico, on the 26th day of April, A. D. 1919, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard.

The Republican party, by becoming obstructionists, especially in the U. S. Senate, is not only endangering its own future, but the welfare of America. The Chicago Post, Progressive-Republican organ has this to say:

"In the obstructive class, unhappily, belong some of the most conspicuous men in the U. S. Senate. They have labored diligently to build barriers in the way of progress toward a better world order; they have displayed a tireless ingenuity in thinking out objections to plans for international organization. From men to whom the people have looked for leadership there has come no word of hopeful guidance—only a pessimistic croaking; a cynical skepticism."

"We insist the people are looking for leadership forward, not for encouragement to drift backward. The Republican party is offering no leadership, unless we except William Howard Taft, whose courageous devotion to a great principle and a great ideal endears him to the hearts of all true Americans."

FOR SALE—Overland 5 passenger touring car, model 79, very reasonable price. Inquire of Mr. Beck, manager of the Roy Garage or Frank L. Pratt.

Who is your Brother?
He who understands your silence.

He who will be a balance in the season of life.

He who considers your needs before your deservings.

He who to himself is true and therefore must be so to you.

He who, when he reaches the top of the ladder, does not forget you if you are at the bottom

He who cheerfully comes in when all the world has gone out.

He who guards your interest as his own, neither flatters nor deceives, gives praise to your good deeds, and equally condemns your bad acts.

We take it from the statements made by the Wagon Mound papers that the people there are not very well pleased with their schools.

It is a calamity when the schools of a town are not the pride of the people who patronize them.

Dreadful Cough Cured.

A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olsen, Marysville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy Jean caught a severe cold and coughed dreadfully for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it is just fine for children."

Getting Rid of Colds

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract a second cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger of this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed and stay in bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

Christmas Gifts.

The custom of giving Christmas gifts is not traceable to its beginnings. The Encyclopedia Britannica says that "In Britain the 25th of December was a festival long before the conversion to Christianity, for Bede (de temp. rat. ch. 13) relates that the ancient peoples of Angli began the year on the 25th of December." The custom also prevailed in the Germanic countries.

CAROLINE AND STEPHEN BREAK OFF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH THE CAPTAIN.

Synopsis.—Atwood Graves, New York lawyer, goes to South Densboro, Cape Cod, to see Captain Ellisha Warren. Caught in a terrific storm while on the way, he meets Cap'n Warren by accident and goes with the latter to his home. The lawyer informs Cap'n Warren that his brother, whom he had not seen for eighteen years, has died and named him as guardian of his two children, Caroline aged twenty, and Stephen, aged nineteen. The captain tells Graves he will go to New York and look over the situation before deciding whether he will accept the trust. The captain's arrival in New York causes consternation among his wards and their aristocratic friends. The captain makes friends with James Pearson, a reporter; then he consults with Sylvester, head of Graves' firm. The captain decided to accept his brother's trust. Sylvester is pleased, but Graves expresses disgust and dismay. Pearson calls and is surprised, for he had known the young Warrens and their father. Caroline asks the captain's aid for a servant whose father was hurt by an auto. The captain finds that Malcolm Dunn had caused the injury, and makes him help in paying the sufferer's expenses until his death. Pearson tells the captain of a difference he had with Rogers Warren because he refused to help the latter in a shady transaction. The captain plans a birthday celebration for Caroline, but the latter, who with Steve had been spending the day with Duans, fails to return for dinner.

CHAPTER X.—Continued.

At last the bell rang. Captain Ellisha sprang up, smiling, his impatience and worry forgotten, and, pushing the butler aside, hurried to open the door himself. He did so, and faced not his niece and nephew, but Pearson.

"Good evening, captain," hailed the young man cheerily. "Didn't expect me, did you? I dropped in for a moment to shake hands with you and to offer congratulations to Miss Warren." Then, noticing the expression on his friend's face, he added: "What's the matter? Anything wrong? Am I intruding?"

"No, no. Course not. You're as welcome as another egg in a poor man's henhouse. Come right in and take off your things. I'm glad to see you. Only—well, the fact is I thought 'twas Caroline comin' home. She and Steve was to be here over two hours ago, and I can't imagine what's keepin' 'em."

He insisted upon his visitor's remaining, although the latter, when he understood the situation, was reluctant to do so.

But a good many minutes passed, and still they did not come. Pearson, aware of his companion's growing anxiety, chatted of the novel, of the people at the boarding house, of anything and everything he could think of likely to divert attention from the one important topic. The answers he received were more and more brief and absent. At last, when Edwards again appeared, appealingly mute, at the entrance to the dining room Captain Ellisha, with a sigh which was almost a groan, surrendered.

"I guess," he said reluctantly—"I guess, Jim, there ain't any use waitin' any longer. Somethin's kept 'em, and they don't be here for dinner. You and I'll set down and eat—though I ain't got the appetite I caltated to have."

CHAPTER XI.

"Caroline, I Want You."

PEARSON had dined hours before, but he followed his friend, resolved to please the latter by going through the form of pretending to eat.

They sat down together. Captain Ellisha, with a rueful smile, pointed to the floral centerpiece.

"We won't touch the birthday cake, Jim," he added a little later. "She's got to cut that herself."

The soup was only lukewarm, but neither of them commented on the fact. The captain had scarcely tasted of his when he paused, his spoon in air.

"Hey!" he exclaimed. "Listen! What's that? By the everlastin', it is. Here they are at last!"

He sprang up with such enthusiasm that his chair tipped backward against the butler's devoted shins. Pearson, almost as much pleased, also rose.

Captain Ellisha held scant attention to the chair incident.

"What are you waitin' for?" he demanded, whirling on Edwards, who was righting the chair with one hand and rubbing his knee with the other. "Don't you hear 'em at the door? Let 'em in!"

He reached the library first, his friend following more leisurely. Caroline and Stephen had just entered.

"Well," he cried in his quarterdeck voice, his face beaming with relief and delight, "you are here, ain't you? I begun to think—Why, what's the matter?"

The question was addressed to Stephen, who stood nearest to him. The boy did not deign to reply. With a contemptuous grunt he turned scornfully away from his guardian.

"What is it, Caroline?" demanded Captain Ellisha. "Has anything happened?"

The girl looked coldly at him. A new brooch—Mrs. Corcoran Dunn's birthday gift—sparkled at her throat.

sider him an—an ingrate—and a scoundrel—and a miserable!"

"Steady!" Captain Ellisha's interruption was sharp this time. "Steady now! Leave out the pet names. What is it you've got to tell?"

"I—my sister and I have found out what a scoundrel he is, that's what! We have learned of the lies he wrote about father. We know that he was responsible for all that cowardly, lying stuff in the Planet—all that about the trolley combine. And we don't intend that he shall sneak into this house again. If he was the least part of a man he would never have come."

"Mr. Warren"—began Pearson, stepping forward. The captain interrupted. "Hold on, Jim!" he said. "Just a minute now. You've learned somethin', you say, Steve. The Duans told you, I s'pose."

"Never mind who told me!"

"I don't—much. But I guess we'd better have a clear understandin', all of us. Caroline, will you come in here, please?"

He stepped toward the door. Stephen sprang in front of him.

"My sister doesn't intend to cheapen herself by entering that man's presence," he declared hotly. "I'll deal with him myself."

"All right. But I guess she'd better be here just the same. Caroline, I want you."

"She shan't come."

"Yes; she shall, Caroline!"

The boy would have detained him, but he pushed him firmly aside and walked toward the door. Before he reached it, however, his niece appeared.

"Well," she said coldly, "what is it you want of me?"

"I want you to hear Mr. Pearson's side of this business—and mine before you do anything you'll be sorry for."

"I think I've heard quite enough of Mr. Pearson already. Nothing he can say or do will make me more sorry than I am or humiliate me more than the fact that I have treated him as a friend."

The icy contempt in her tone was cutting. Pearson's face was white, but he spoke clearly and with deliberation.

"Miss Warren," he said, "I must insist that you listen for another moment. I owe you an apology for—"

"Apology!" broke in Stephen, with a scornful laugh. "Apology! Well, by gad, just hear that, Caro!"

The girl's lip curled. "I do not wish to hear your apology," she said.

"But I wish you to hear it not for my attitude in the trolley matter nor for what I published in the Planet nor for my part in the disagreement with your father. I wrote the truth and nothing more. I considered it right then—I told your father so—and I have not changed my mind. I should act exactly the same under similar circumstances."

"You blackguard!" shouted Stephen. Pearson ignored him utterly.

"I do owe you an apology," he continued, "for coming here as I have done knowing that you were ignorant of the affair. I believe now that you are misinformed as to the facts, but that is immaterial. You should have been told of my trouble with Mr. Warren. I should have insisted upon it. That I did not do so is my fault, and I apologize for that only. Good evening."

He shook himself free from the captain's grasp, bowed to the trio and left the room. An instant later the outer door closed behind him.

Caroline turned to her brother.

"Come, Steve," she said again, and walked toward the room.

Her brother hesitated, glared at Pearson and then stalked haughtily after her.

Captain Ellisha's bewilderment was supreme. He stared open mouthed after his nephew and niece and then turned slowly to his friend.

"What on earth, Jim?" he stammered. "What's it mean?"

Pearson shrugged his shoulders. "I think I know what it means," he said. "I presume that Miss Warren and her brother have learned of my trouble with their father."

"Hey? No, you don't think that's it?"

"I think there's no doubt of it."

"But how?"

"I don't know how. What I do know is that I should not have come here. I felt it and, if you will remember, I said so. I was a fool. Good night, captain."

Hot and furiously angry at his own indecision which had placed him in this humiliating situation, he was striding toward the hall. Captain Ellisha seized his arm.

"Stay where you are, Jim!" he commanded. "If the trouble's what you think it is I'm more to blame than anybody else, and you shan't leave this house till I've done my best to square you."

"Thank you, but I don't wish to be 'squared.' I've done nothing to be ashamed of, and I have borne as many insults as I can stand. I'm going."

"No, you ain't. Not yet. I want you to stay."

At that moment Stephen's voice reached them from the adjoining room.

"I tell you I shall, Caro!" it proclaimed fiercely. "Do you suppose I'm going to permit that fellow to come here again—or to go until he is made to understand what we think of him and why? No, by gad! I'm the man of this family, and I'll tell him a few things."

Pearson's jaw set grimly.

"You may let go of my wrist, Captain Warren," he said. "I'll stay."

Possibly Stephen's intense desire to prove his manliness made him self-conscious. At any rate, he never appeared more ridiculously boyish than when, an instant later, he marched into the library and confronted his uncle and Pearson.

"I—I want to say"—he began majestically. "I want to say"—

He paused, choking, and brandished his fist.

"I want to say"—he began again.

"All right, Steve," interrupted the captain dryly, "then I'd say it if I was you. I guess it's time you did."

"I want to—tall that fellow there," with a vicious stab of his forefinger in the direction of Pearson, "that I con-

Dunn and Malcolm did tell us—many things. Thank God that we have friends to tell us the truth!"

"Amen!" quietly. "I'll say amen to that, Caroline, any time. Only I want you to be sure those you call friends are real ones and that the truths they tell ain't like a bait on a fishhook, put on for bait and just thick enough to cover the barb."

"Do you mean to insinuate"—screamed the irrepressible nephew, wild at being so completely ignored. His uncle again paid not the slightest attention.

"But that ain't neither here nor there now," he went on. "Caroline, Mr. Pearson just told you that his coming to this house without tellin' you fust of his quarrel with Bijé was his fault. That ain't so. The fault was mine altogether. He told me the whole story; told me that he hadn't called since it happened, on that very account. And I took the whole responsibility and asked him to come. I did! Do you know why?"

If he expected an answer none was given. Caroline's lids dropped disdainfully. "Steve," she said, "let's go."

"Stop! You'll stay here until I finish. I want to say that I didn't tell you about the trolley fuss because I wanted you to learn some things for yourself. I wanted you to know Mr. Pearson—to find out what sort of man he was afore you judged him. Then, when you had known him long enough to understand he wasn't a liar and a blackguard, and all that Steve has called him, I was goin' to tell you the whole truth, not a part of it. And, after that, I was goin' to let you decide for yourself what to do. I'm a lot older than you are. I'm mixed with all sorts of folks. I'm past the stage where I can be fooled—by false hair or soft soap. You can't pour sweet oil over a herring and make me believe it's a sardine. I know the Pearson stock. I've sailed over a heap of salt water with one of the family. And I've kept my eyes open since I've run across this particular member. And I know your father, too, Caroline Warren. And I say to you now that, knowin' Jim Pearson and Bijé Warren—yes, and knowin' the rights and wrongs of that trolley business quite as well as Malcolm Dunn or anybody else—I say to you that, although Bijé was my brother, I'll bet my life that Jim had all the right on his side. There! That's the truth, and no hook underneath it. And some day you'll realize it too."

Now he took a handkerchief from his pocket and wiped his forehead. When he again looked at his niece he found her staring intently at him, and her eyes blazed.

"Have you quite finished—now?" she demanded. "Steve, be quiet!"

"Why, yes; I guess so, pretty nigh. I s'pose there ain't much use to say more. If I was to tell you that I've tried to do for you and Steve in this—name as in everything else since I took this job—as if you were my own children you wouldn't believe it. If I was to tell you, Caroline, that I'd come to think an awful lot of you you wouldn't believe that either. I did hope that since our other misunderstandin' was cleared up and you found I wasn't what you thought I was you'd come to me and ask questions afore passin' judgment, but perhaps—"

And now she interrupted, bursting out at him in a blast of scorn which took his breath away.

"Oh, stop, stop!" she cried. "Don't say any more. You have insulted father's memory and defended the man who slandered him. Isn't that enough? Why must you go on to prove yourself a greater hypocrite? We learned, my brother and I, today more than the truth concerning your lied—yes, lied—and—"

"Steady, Caroline! Be careful. I wouldn't say what I might be sorry for later."

"Sorry, Captain Warren. You spoke of my misjudging you. I thought I had, and I was sorry. Today I learned that your attitude in that affair was a lie like the rest. You did not pay for Mr. Moriarty's accident. Mr. Dunn's money paid those bills. And you allowed the family—and me—to thank you for your generosity. Oh, I'm ashamed to be near you!"

"There, there! Caroline, bestill, I—I shall not be still. I have been still altogether too long. You are our guardian. We can't help that, I suppose. Father asked you to be that for some reason, but did he ask you to live here, where you are not wanted, to shame us before our friends, ladies and gentlemen so far above you in every way, and to try to poison our minds against them and smear at them when they are kind to us and even try to be kind to you? No, he did not. Oh, I'm sick of it all—your deceit and your hypocritical speeches and your pretended love for us! Love! Oh, if I could say something that would make you understand how thoroughly we despise you and how your presence, ever since you forced it upon Steve and me, has disgraced us! If I only could! I—I—"

She had been near to tears ever since Mrs. Corcoran Dunn, in the kindness of her heart, told her the "truth" that afternoon. But pride and indignation had prevented her giving way. Now, however, she broke down.

The captain leaves the Warrens' apartment, but refuses to give up the guardianship which has caused him so much trouble. Watch for the developments in the next installment.

SAVED APIA FROM GERMANS

Interesting Now to Recall Commander Leary's Defiance of Overbearing Teuton Captain.

Persons who have said the United States had no case against Germany prior to the sinking of the Lusitania and events dating from 1914 perhaps are unacquainted with the trouble over the Samoan islands which occurred in the eighties. Attempts by Prince Bismarck, then German chancellor, to dominate the islands, had been frustrated and a German consul had been withdrawn after he had caused a crisis by raising a German flag over Apia, one of the principal cities. Another consul, Herr Becker, acting on his government's instructions, again precipitated trouble by depositing the Samoan king and setting up a ruler favorable to German interests.

The climax came when the German corvette Adler prepared to shell Apia, the natives of which had become hostile to the Germans. Commander Richard Leary of the United States gunboat Adams had been in the vicinity of the islands expecting trouble. An account of what happened is a tribute to the courage of the American navy. It follows:

"At the appointed hour, the Adler steamed out with the German ensign flying at her peak. The Adams followed closely at her heels. Soon the Adler slowed down and swung into position, so as to bring her broadside guns to bear on the helpless village. The Adams dashed in between the Adler and the shore, where she, too, swung about, her guns at port and pointed directly at the Germans. Presently, Commander Leary in full uniform and accompanied by his staff, boarded the Adler. His colloquy with the German captain was short and sharp: 'If you fire,' he said, 'you must fire through the ship which I have the honor to command. I shall not be answerable for the consequences!' So saying, he took his leave.

"Captain Fritz could scarcely believe his ears. Such audacity had never yet confronted him. He knew that the first shot would be answered by an American broadside, and this would be the signal for a war between his country and the American republic. He faltered, and then, his heart swelling with humiliation, he steamed suddenly away."—Detroit News.

Carry Your Phone With You.

"By the time the peace treaty is signed we shall be talking across the Atlantic by wireless," says Godfrey Isaacs, managing director of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company. "One day in the not far distant future," he adds, "I think we shall walk about with wireless telephones attached to our bodies and we shall be able, standing, say in Piccadilly circus, to call up a friend who is flying somewhere. Or we may have an invitation by wireless telephony from a friend flying in France to join him at dinner in the evening. It will not be very long before one will be able to sit at one's desk in London and speak to New York practically instantaneously. In my view it will be as easy to speak to Sydney or Melbourne or to New Zealand."

Music as Health Aid.

Doctor Saleeby, the British eugenics advocate, suggests that the new ministry of health should have a special department to deal with recreation. The department should take London choirs and choral societies singing, in which all could engage. In his view this department would keep the young persons off the streets and out of the saloons.

A scheme for a confederation of London choirs and choral societies with the idea of directing the masses in the celebration of national rejoicings instead of the senseless macketing that was in evidence on armistice night is being considered by several musicians.

Welcome News.

Mayor Woodman was speaking about the results that have accrued from the merging of the two telephone systems. "It's a wonderful improvement," he remarked, "and I laugh when I think of the old days. It reminds me of the man who was called out of bed at three o'clock in the morning to answer a phone call."

"Hello, hello," he yelled, all wrought up.

"There is nobody on the line now," said central sweetly.

"Glad you woke me up and told me about it," retorted the man. "It's the first time I ever knew this line to be idle."—Los Angeles Times.

Egg Production.

The average production of eggs by hens of all kinds and ages in the United States is 85. Unselected White Leghorns, however, produce an average of 120 eggs for the first year, 120 for the second, 110 for the third, 85 for the fourth, and fall off about ten a year up to the eighth. These figures are from a bulletin of the Utah experiment station. If the first year production be low the second will be high and vice versa, the total production for three years being about the same.

Kipling's Fame.

The vogue of Kipling today is not what it once was. Fewer fellow-follower with those descendants of Bar-dolph, Nym and Pistol, the Soldiers Three. His rough-hewn verse was largely topical and ephemeral. His latter-day songs detracted from his fame. His stories have come and gone and await the judgment of time.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

When Freesone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never more, tender or irritated.

"What's the matter now?"

"Growing about the pleasant winter we are having."

"What does he see in this winter to find fault with?"

"Says he can't help worrying about what the price of ice is going to be next summer."

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

TO INVESTIGATE COURTS-MARTIAL

C. HARRIS & EVANS

William E. Borah, United States senator from Idaho, is a prominent figure just now in connection with a probable congressional investigation of the general subject of courts-martial in the United States army. Says Senator Borah:

"So many complaints have been laid before me that I have asked that the war department furnish the senate complete data on all court-martial cases. After this has been obtained, hearings may be necessary to bring out additional facts. It is my intention to ask President Wilson to issue a general amnesty to all prisoners convicted and sentenced to prison by courts-martial. This is that we may take the taste of the war out of our mouths. It is another step toward our old-time ideals of democracy and justice."

The question has also been brought to public attention by a speech in the senate by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, chairman of the committee on military affairs, and by an address by President George T. Page of the American Bar association.

It is charged that a startling inequality exists in the severity of sentences imposed on different men for the same offenses; that undue severity is exercised for minor infractions of military discipline; that courts-martial have been composed in some instances of men not qualified either by training or temperament to sit as judges.

A GERMAN WHO SPEAKS HIS MIND

Maximilian Harden, editor of Die Zukunft in Berlin, seems to be the only responsible man in Germany who dares speak his mind. He writes in an issue of his newspaper now at hand, among other things:

"And I must add the fact that one of them, the all highest, at once betook himself to a foreign land. Even the supreme war lord, before the conclusion of peace, chose the deserter's path. This fact must at last have opened the eyes of even those who still believed in that shimmering idol."

"Now all the secret plottings and writings must be brought to the light. . . . Hesitate no longer, ye who now rule, to publish the unambiguous proof in the archives, to unmask the liars!"

"Germans, you shall not, as yesterday you did for princes, excellencies, bank presidents, ministerial directors, today fawn upon the favor of workers and soldiers' councils. You shall be decent fellows, letting your action be determined by your honest convictions, and devil a care whether you please anyone or not."

TO SUPPLANT TURKISH MISRULE

President Harry Pratt Judson of the University of Chicago, back from a carefully planned trip through Persia and European Turkey, says that the establishment of a totally new civilization and a government structure for the near East to supplant Turkish rule should not be overlooked among the many problems to be considered by the proposed league of nations. He says: "There were a thousand pictures one could see of conditions in Turkey, or what, God willing, will never be Turkey again. We found all society broken down; all its foundations worn away; people wandered in the mountains, sleeping under wintry skies and dying by the thousand. This is the result of centuries of tyranny. We must reconstruct society from the foundations. The problem is not simply shifting a society or government where there is one already established; it is a case of establishing order where none exists. Turkish armies have become robbers and bandits. There is no peace, no safety, no assurance of life from day to day."

"All the old injustices must be wiped out for all time. We must establish justice and order, and then, of course, we must give them life. None of the conditions in the shaken parts of the world draws so upon our heartstrings as does the near East. In this work America must not be left out."

AN AMERICAN RED CROSS LEADER

No one is better qualified to speak of the American woman's service in the war and of the Red Cross as America's initial instrument in carrying the message of her sympathy and co-operation to the people of France than Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who has returned home on a furlough of two months after having been in the war zone for nearly four years.

She was in France at the time of Germany's invasion. It was she who was responsible for the founding of the American Ambulance hospital, at Neuilly, now United States Military Hospital No. 1. What she accomplished during those first three horrible years of the war is past telling. It is sufficient to know that Mrs. Vanderbilt's name has become, throughout France and Italy, the symbol of America's highest type of womanhood.

Mrs. Vanderbilt has run the gamut of women's war service, having known what it was, innumerable times, to be under fire, to sleep out of doors, to be cold and hungry.

"Every American woman over there who was there for service and not for a good time, did whatever came to her to do," she says. "We all did anything there was to do in the early days, not thinking about it as doing disagreeable work, but taking it as a high privilege to be a small factor in this great fight for right."

Her principal work the last year and a half has been as directress in charge of the American Red Cross canteen in France.

Grow Wheat in Western Canada

One Crop Often Pays for the Land

Western Canada offers the greatest advantages to home seekers. Large profits are assured. You can buy on easy payment terms.

Fertile Land at $15 to $30 per Acre—land similar to that which through many years has averaged from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Hundreds of cases are on record where in Western Canada a single crop has paid the cost of land and production. The Governments of the Dominion and Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta want the farmer to prosper, and extend every possible encouragement and help to Grain Growing and Stock Raising.

Though Western Canada offers land at such low figures, the high prices of grain, cattle, sheep and hogs will remain.

Loans for the purchase of stock may be had at low interest; there are good shipping facilities; best of markets; free schools; churches; splendid climate; low taxation (none on improvements).

SAFE, GENTLE REMEDY CLEANSES YOUR KIDNEYS

For centuries GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been a standard household remedy for kidney, liver, bladder and stomach trouble, and all diseases connected with the urinary organs. The kidneys and bladder are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers of your blood. If the poisons which enter your system through the blood and stomach are not entirely thrown out by the kidneys and bladder, you are doomed.

Weakness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, headache, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, difficulty when urinating, cloudy and bloody urine, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago, all warn you to look after your kidneys and bladder. All these indicate some weakness of the kidneys or other organs or that the enemy microbes which are always present in your system have attacked your weak spots. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are what you need.

They are not a "patent medicine," nor a "new discovery." For 200 years they have been a standard household remedy. They are the pure, original imported Haarlem Oil your great-grandmother used, and are perfectly harmless. The healing, soothing oil soaks into the cells and lining of the kidneys and through the bladder, driving out the poisonous germs. New life, fresh strength and health will come as you continue the treatment. When completely restored to your usual vigor, continue taking a capsule or two each day; they will keep you in condition and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not delay a minute. Delays are especially dangerous in kidney and bladder trouble. All druggists sell GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They will refund the money if not as represented. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They are prepared in correct quantity and convenient form, are easy to take and are positively guaranteed to give prompt relief. In three sizes, sealed packages. ## Acid-Stomach Ruins Health of Millions

Besides those painful attacks of indigestion; that awful bloated, lumpy feeling after eating and downright stomach misery that you who have experienced it know so well; besides disgusting belching, food-repeating, sour stomach and distressing heartburn—besides all this, ACID-STOMACH undermines the health and saps the strength of millions.

If you don't get rid of those stomach miseries there is no telling where your stomach troubles will end, for it is a well known scientific fact that many serious ailments have their start in an acid-stomach.

Start now—this very day—to get rid of your stomach miseries. Take EATONIC—the wonderful remedy that absorbs the excess acid from the stomach and brings INSTANT relief. You simply have no idea how much better, stronger and brighter you feel as once. It drives out all the gas and bloated, puts an immediate stop to belching and heartburn, ends stomach suffering and makes it cool, sweet, comfortable and strong. There can be no further excuse for you to allow acid-stomach to wreck your health—pile up misery upon misery until you get to the point where you feel down and out and that life has lost all its joys. Remember, just as acid-stomach ruins teeth, so acid-stomach ruins health.

Take EATONIC. It's good, just like a bit of candy and makes the stomach feel fine. You can then eat the things you like and, what is more, every mouthful you eat will count in creating power and energy. You'll feel so much better—have punch and pep—the power and will to do things and get results, and your stomach misery will be gone.

Take our advice. Get a big box of EATONIC from your druggist today. It costs so little. If it fails to remove your stomach distress, he will refund your money. That is guaranteed; you are to be satisfied or money refunded.

EL GAS FALLA CONTRA "EL ESCUADRON DEL SUICIDIO"

Passed by the Censor. Copyright 1918.

Los Tomacitos ingleses llaman a los artilleros "El Escuadron del Suicidio." Los Yankis así los llaman tambien pero al que se suicida es al Teuton que cae a cada certer disparo. Estos artilleros trabajan con mascarac con tra los gases y el primero de ellos como se vera, es el que alimenta la maquina, a razon de 500 balas por minuto. El Americano que compra un Bono de la Libertad, procura municion para esta maquina por dos minutos a esta rapidos de tiro, lo que es suficiente para desaparecer a un batallon de enemigos formado en avance.

La presente ilustracion relata por si sola, no solamente la cooperacion de los dos soldados que estan manejando la maquina sino tambien la cooperacion del Ciudadano Americano que desde su hogar esta enviando 500 balas por minuto sobre los Teutones. Artillero es uno de los puestos mas peligrosos del ejercito desde el momento en que un hombre detras de estas ametralladoras es suficiente para desbaratar a un regimiento y por lo tanto los Boches siempre dirigen sus tiros sobre los artilleros. El Americano que permanece aqui y que dedica mejor sus $50.00 en la compra de un bono de la Libertad que en un vestido nuevo, paga por esos dos minutos de fuego rapido que quiere tal vez decir el aniquilamiento de una avanzada de Alemanes; quiere decir el limpiar el campo de Boches para dar lugar a que los Americanos tomen sus posesiones y por lo mismo den un paso mas al frente con direccion a Berlin. Por ello es que el compañero o el hermano que presta su dinero en esta campaña hace un gran servicio al Pais. Un bono de $50.00 paga 25 cascos para igual numero de soldados y el bono de $500.00 cubre el precio de todos los cascos para una compañía. Un bono de $50 proporciona cuatro mascaracas para los soldados que seguramente salvaran a estos soldados de morir envenenados por los mortales gases que en compactas nubes lanza el enemigo. $200.00 invertidos en bonos, ponen un canon mas, sobre el camino para Alemania.

Suggestion for Mother's Letter.

Son of Mine:
They're sending you home to me at last. Through all these months of waiting and longing I've been wearing a star for you and holding my head high and thinking wonderful thoughts about you. I've watched you through ocean mists and dreamed anxious dreams. Yes, and cried a little, too, but not when people could see.
And now you're coming home. Oh, it seems too good to be true. I've just read your letters again. They say so much more than you ever thought when you were writing them. Just happenings—that's all most of the things you wrote about were to you. But to me they said you were facing the biggest thing in life, facing it bravely, as I should want my son to face it. You were offering your body and your soul for a thing bigger than you or me or America.

When I wrote to you I tried to write cheerful, encouraging letters, because I did not want you to go into battle feeling that I was holding you back from the big sacrifice. It's only now, when the fighting is over, that I can let down a little and be just your mother, just the woman who loves you better than anything else in the world and is so glad to know you're coming back to her that she doesn't care who sees her cry.

Perhaps for some of the boys who have stood with you so finely through these trials the fighting is not yet all over. The fighting I mean is that between a man and himself, and for many of them this will be the hardest battle of all. During the long days and evenings of waiting before they can start for home thoughts will creep into their minds which will be hard to resist. There will be times after all these months of action when the longing for change and for the companionship of women may lead them into associations which will spoil their homes coming and cause them shame and humiliation, and even perhaps make them unfit to receive the love that awaits them here.

You, dearest boy, are just as human as your comrades, and feelings like these may come to you too. I don't ask you to crush them. They are natural, and they only prove that war law failed to dry up the well spring of your emotions. I ask you only to recognize them when they come and to control them with the fine strength you have gained while fighting for the ideals and principles of America. Just remember that many joyous years of life are ahead of you and that the risk of spoiling them and the love that will fill them is too tremendous to run for a short hour of seeming pleasure.

Many of the boys who will come home with you have no mothers to write to them. Some of them may think that no one cares what they do. But somebody does care. America cares. And the girls they will marry some day care. And, oh, the difference it will make in their lives if they will just remember that there is always somebody, always!

Help them to remember. Help them to come home clean and fine. Don't let them spoil everything now. They have been so splendid. If you think this letter will help them give it to them. If they have no mothers let me be their mother until they have come back and taken the high places that await them here. Tell them to write to me. How I should treasure their letters!

And, of course, you will write to me. Just say that you understand—that you know why I have written this letter. Then I can wait months—yes, even years—knowing that you will come home to me as fine and clean as you were when I sent you away to camp so long ago. —MOTHER.

New Copper District in Canada.

A great new copper district in Arctic Canada is a possibility pointed out to the Royal Society of Arts, London, by W. Frecheville. The locality is east of Great Bear lake, along the Coppermine river, which runs north from about 65 degrees latitude to Coronation gulf, and the area may extend as far east as Bathurst inlet, and even to Victoria island farther north. The first specimens of native copper were obtained from the Eskimos, who were using the metal in their primitive industries. Explorers have since reported finds of copper, and evidences of large deposits.
