'2 Cops Made Me Buy Whiskey,' Boy Says

Beaten Lad Takes Case To The FBI

"The police here in Memphis are always harping about juvenile delinquency, yet they beat my boy to make him break the law," Mrs. Helen Stewart, of 1451 S. McLean st., complained last week.

Mrs. Stewart said that she had planned to voice her disapproval about the police beating her son to make him buy whiskey when the case was heard in City Court last week, but neither she nor her son Joseph, 17, had a chance to speak up fully on the case.

A formal complaint about the matter was filed last week with the local FBI office by the youth, who complained that the policemen forced him to assist in a raid.

The officers who participated in the raid were identified as Officers V. G. McCraw, J. A. Carpenter, T. H. Smith and W. R. Brinn.

The teenager said that the policeman who beat him while the other officer pinned his arms behind him was called "Smitty."

A former pupil at the Wisconsin St. Elementary school, the youth said that he was at the corner of Hamilton st. and Park ave. last week when Squad Car No. 16 pulled up, and officers asked him for identifications which he was unable to produce to their satisfaction.

He said in his statement that they argued with him as to whether or not he was a student at the Melrose High school, and that when they found out that he lived at 491 S. McLean st., one said, "Isn't that where they sell that corn whiskey?"

Booker Washington High Gets Bomb Scare On Tuesday

Booker T. Washington High School of Memphis received a bomb scare on Tuesday when a crank called the school and notified the staff that a bomb was in the school.

It was, according to police officials, the first such alarm phoned to a Negro school in this area.

The call came during a heavy downpour of rain, and one observer said that students, thinking it no more than an ordinary fire drill, were reluctant to leave the building.

Prof. Blair T. Hunt, the principal, sent them to the gymnasium.

The football squad aided in the search, but no explosives were found in the school.

White Hoods Attack Masonic Warden, 31

JAW BROKEN BY THUGS—In John Gaston hospital last week with his jaw broken in two places was Franklin Arnold, of 735 Volentine ave., who was surrounded and beaten by six young white hoodlums who escaped in a Ford sedan without turning on their lights. Mr. Arnold said that police who answered the call seemed indifferent to the crime, and that one of the officers ignored him and started poking around in his kitchen with a flashlight.

Jaw Broken In 2 Places By 6 Youths

Police Called, They Show Indifference

By M. L. REID

Franklin Arnold, 31, of 735 Volentine ave., was looking forward to receiving a certificate for completing a Baptist educational course, "Ways of Teaching," in a ceremony held at the Golden Leaf Baptist church on Sunday, Nov. 8.

But he had to receive his diploma in absentia, and as he explained last week, he was very fortunate that it was not awarded to him posthumously.

At the time of the awards ceremony, Mr. Arnold was in a bed in John Gaston hospital, with his jaw broken in two places, the victim of six young white thugs who leaped out of a black 1956 Ford sedan as he was nearing his home on the previous night, and beat him almost unconscious, before they ran back to the car which drove away with its lights off.

UNPROVOKED ATTACK

Speaking from his bed in the hospital last week, Mr. Arnold said that the attack on him was entirely unprovoked.

"I was going to get the certificate at the church on Sunday, so I went to the barber shop to get my hair trimmed. It was almost See JAW, Page 2

Call For Anti-Negro Laws At Hearing Here

By Staff Writer

"They have taken the Fourteenth Amendment for their text, so let us take the Twelfth Amendment for ours."

Appearing last Friday at the Shelby County legislative hearings to proclaim salvation for the South in the Twelfth Amendment was Marvin Brooks Norfleet, a Memphis attorney, who recently helped Gov. Orval Faubus in what he said "is emerging as a victory."

Anticipating what he said would be obnoxious platforms designed by both political parties in 1960 to "get the nigger vote," Atty. Norfleet introduced what he called the Tennessee Southern Manifesto.

WHAT HE WANTS

In short, what Atty. Norfleet wants the legislators to do is to withhold electoral votes from both parties until one has agreed to "repeal" the U. S. Supreme court's May 17, 1954, decision declaring segregation in public schools to be unconstitutional.

If the South refuses to cast its electoral votes for a candidate, the unhappy counselor said, the election of a president would fall upon the House of Representatives in Washington, D. C., and the Southerners could make the same demands there, with the threat to leave the country without a leader, "unless they compromise."

QUITE SURE ARK. WOULD
"I can guarantee that Arkansas will adopt the measure," he said, "but I don't claim that the same thing can be done in Tennessee."

"But gentlemen, our backs are to the wall, and it is time for Tennessee to stand up and be counted with other states which were once a part of the Confederacy. Arkansas is fighting our fight," he said.

A former member of the House of Representatives and the Senate in Arkansas, Mr. Norfleet said that he did not want anyone to go out and say that he was against Negroes.

Some Highlights Of Defender's 7 Years

(First In Series)

The Tri-State Defender rounded out seven years of conscientious service to Memphis and the Tri-State area this month, and is now entering into its eighth year as a major influence in the lives of citizens in the community.

The voice of the Tri-State Defender has been used as a medium of education along many lines. It has given support to the afflicted and the homeless, pointed up the avenues to health and better living, and applauded the accomplishments of both individuals and organizations.

In its first edition the paper supported the late Dr. J. E. Walker, who at the time was seeking a seat on the Board of Education of Memphis. He was unsuccessful in his bid for office, but since that time a large number of voters in this area have looked to the Tri-State Defender for guidance at election time.

FIRST HOME SHOW
Approximately 25,000 persons were present for the Tri-State Defender's first Home Service and Farm Exposition held during a three-day period at what was then the Hippodrome, but is now Club Ebony. The show was the first of what became an annual event for the newspaper for several years.

Memphis ranked first in the nation that year for slum clearance and the Tri-State Defender led out by telling veterans how to get loans to purchase, construct or improve a home; how to buy a farm, farm land, livestock, machinery and other supplies and equipment; and what steps to take in going into business or to expand a legitimate business venture.

As might be expected in the wake of so much building and slum clearance, the first person to be awarded the Tri-State Defender's Achievement Awards were two of the city's outstanding leaders in the field of housing — William F. Nabors, senior manager of Negro public housing in Memphis and the manager of the LeMoyné Gardens project; and Al Thompson, a former Memphian, who was race relations officer with the Federal Housing Administration.

In its first anniversary edition, the newspaper reported the Republican victory of the Eisenhower-Nixon team. At Thanksgiving it helped a mother and her three small children have a happy holiday. And in 1952 the Walker Homes were growing up on the horizon of the city.

In April, 1953, the Tri-State Defender was cited by the Department of Education for the Baptist Sunday School board for "unusual coverage of religious See 7 YEARS, Page 2

Dr. Jackson Says Race Relations Now Improving

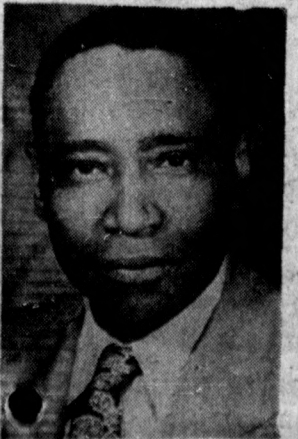

"The defeat of Rep. Brooks Hays in the recent general election shows that whites are being made to pay a price in the South for supporting freedom and the Federal Constitution," Dr. J. H. Jackson explained during an interview while stopping briefly in Memphis.

Lt. Lee Takes Nat. D. To 'Woodshed' Over Election

Lt. George W. Lee, veteran businessman and political leader here, takes Nat. D. Williams, teacher, columnist and radio disc jockey, to the "woodshed" this week for his column published in the Nov. 15 edition of the Tri-State Defender.

Mr. Williams' column entitled "Somebody Goofed" is carried under the heading of "Dark Shadows." In analyzing the "poor showing" of Negroes in voting during the recent election Mr. Williams implied that Negro candidates did not measure up to requirements, and that they campaigned on "vote for me because I am a Negro." He stated that not enough money is being spent by the candidates on their supporters; "that even a guy running for dog catcher should have a few extra biscuits in his pockets."

Criticizing Negro leadership, Mr. Williams said: "Looks like it's high time for the Negro 'leaders' of Memphis get together and take an inventory look among themselves . . . and see, who, if any, has anything of real qualities needed to produce political leadership in this town."

Following is Lt. Lee's full statement in reply to Mr. Williams: "Mr. Nat. D. Williams undertook to probe into the voting attitude of the Negro citizen in last week's election and his findings were contrary to my 40 years of experience with the Memphis political life. He implied that something might have been wrong with the personalities of the candidates which failed to arouse the interest of the voter.

"The candidates, in my judgment, represented a fine cross-section of Memphis life:

"Madame B. F. McCleave, an internationally known contralto, a member of a Greek letter sorority, was certainly most representative of the intellectual type; young Sam Qualls, jr., active in Junior Chamber of Commerce, Christmas Charity drive, was indeed symbolic of the young people of our community; W. R. Bradford, president of one of the large labor groups was most representative of the working class; and Dr. R. Q. Venson, active and energetic civic worker was indeed a fit representative of the professional or middle class.

SUGGESTS WHERE TO LOOK
"Mr. Williams, you must look beyond the candidates, if you would like to find the reason. In order to do this, it may be necessary to analyze the composition of the 50,000 registered Negroes which is not a cohesive group, dedicated to Negro progress; but, rather an incongruous mass, who moves and speaks when the string is pulled from many sources.

"Some of them are influenced by Labor and follow the Labor direction in voting to advance class rather than race. Some of them are influenced by white employers and they vote like the white folks tell them to vote. Some of them represent the captive vote, who paralyzed by fear, move only when the officials of government crack the whip. And finally, there is the independent element, who want to use their vote to advance the fortunes of their race. Thus, when Labor is unconcerned and the white employers are unconcerned, it has its inevitable effect on those 50,000 registered Negroes.

"So under the circumstances, I am unable to draw your conclusion that the vote polled for the Negro candidates was discouraging. On the other hand, I think it represented a large percentage of the free Negro vote. It was a larger per cent than that cast by the white voters, and I doubt whether you would call the white leadership a failure, because only a small number of whites turned out in the November election.

PSYCHOLOGICAL FACTORS
"If you search further for the cause, I think you would have to deal with the psychological factors, rather than the pulling power of the leadership, which I admit, plays some part; but I am afraid you overstress it. The motivating influences of a political campaign that stir the voters to action are issues to excite, and money to attract. We had neither. Yet I think a good job was done.

"The Commercial Appeal started out developing issues, based on single shot voting and tightening the voting laws; but all at once they put the hush-hush on these issues and became as quiet as a mouse. My faith mothers the belief, that after running a few of the articles somebody wised them up to the strategy of keeping quiet or they would wake up the Negroes who would single-shot a whole Negro ticket into the legislature. But if things were kept kind of quiet and no drums were beaten, this would be the opposite against all-out action on the part of the Negro.

BURIED THE CHALLENGE
"Some of us were able to understand this hush-hush technique and we tried to drag the issue out into the open. One of our candidates challenged the Citizens for Progress people to speak up and tell the people where they stood

Tenn. Town Gets First Woman Traffic Officer

Jackson, Tenn., received its first Negro traffic woman recently, when Mrs. Helen Martin Porter, an outstanding civic worker in the city, was sworn in during a ceremony at the Jackson Police Department.

The city has had white women serving as traffic directors for some years, and Negro citizens were pleased at the appointment of Mrs. Porter to the post directing traffic going to the South Jackson Elementary school located just off Highway 45 South.

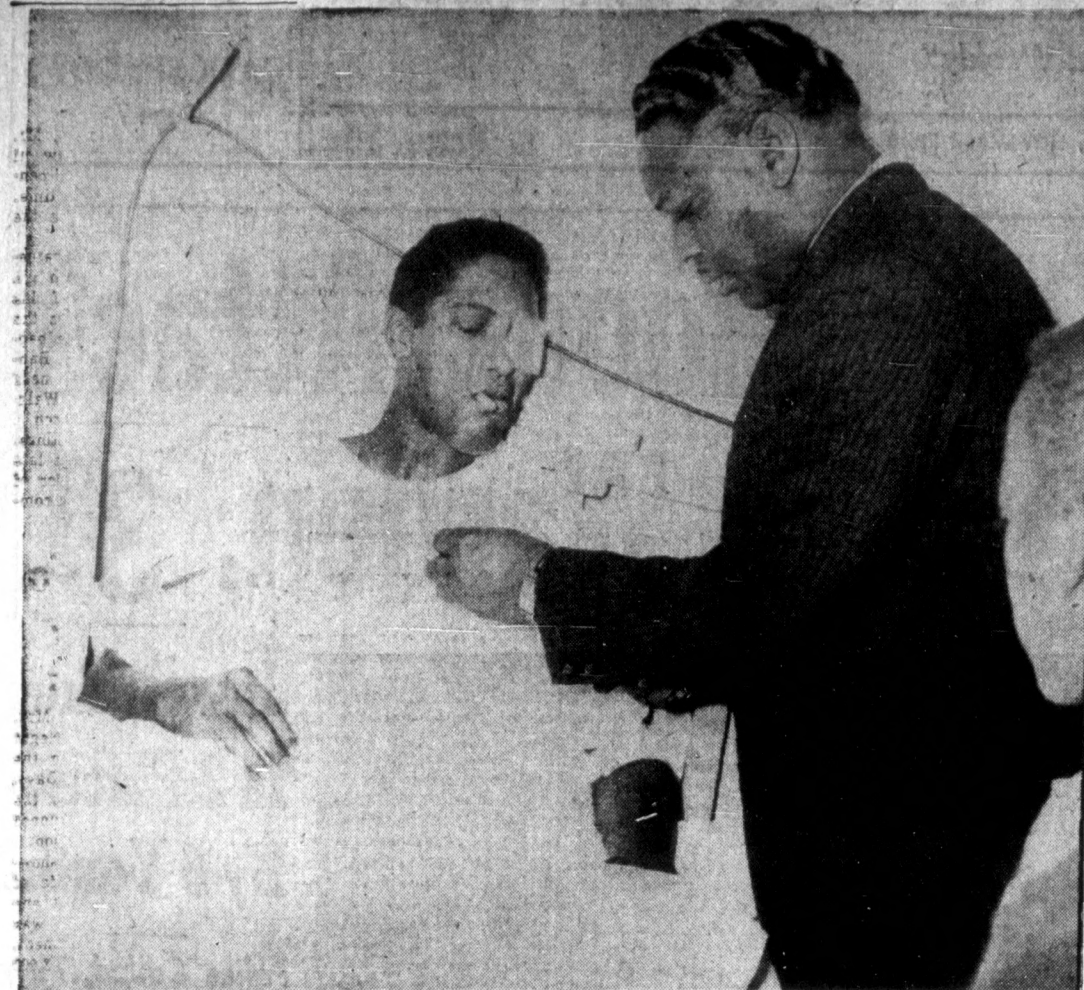

Very active in community affairs, Mrs. Porter is a graduate of Merry High school, and is leader of the Brownie Troop No. 43. The mother of one daughter, Dorie, Mrs. Porter is secretary of the PTA of the South Jackson school.

Twisted Steel Tells Of Singer Cooke's Close Call

day following accident in which his chauffeur, Arthur Cunningham, of Detroit was killed. Seen with him is his personal manager, S. R. Crain, of Chicago, who had gone ahead to Greenville, Miss., in another car. Cooke suffered a cut left eye and injuries to his left arm. Also injured in the twisted wreckage seen at right were his guitarist, Cliff White, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Louis Rawls, a member of the Pilgrim Travelers quartet. The late model Cadillac convertible plowed into the rear of a trailer truck which pulled out on the highway in front of the group, according to

Cooke. He was released from the E. H. Crump Memorial hospital here last Monday, and left to fill an engagement in on the issues. He gave his challenge to the daily press and mailed them to the candidates, but the daily press buried the challenge quietly in the morgue and the Citizens for Progress wouldn't say a mumbled word. So, the issues couldn't get off the ground, and thus became static and lifeless so that no election atmosphere could be generated to sweep large masses to the polls. "We had about $2,000 to run the campaign, to pay for poll workers, literature, and instruction ballots. Experts figured long ago, that it required about one dollar to get out a vote. I am sure the cost has gone up since then. So you see, you would have to stretch the dollar mighty far to expect $2,000 to deliver more than 14,000 votes.

WHISPERING CAMPAIGN

"There were other factors that you failed to take under consideration such as the whispering campaign, which admonished the old people that they would lose their pension if they voted for the Negro candidates. "Did you look into the situation involving the thousands of cotton pickers, where it is rumored that they were offered an extra dollar per hundred to pick cotton on election day. "Instead of making the leadership a whipping boy, why not try and determine seriously what part of this 56,000 registered Negro represent a captive vote and a free vote? so that a successful campaign might be waged to increase the free vote.

SAYS NAT D. ERRED

"You stated that only about 20,000 Negroes have ever voted for a Negro candidate. Rev. S. A. Owens received 27,000 votes when he ran for the Constitutional Convention. Atty. S. A. Wilburn, who ran on the Democratic ticket in the primary received 25,000 votes. Dr. B. F. McCleave, Mr. Weathers and Mr. Spencer, who ran in 1956 on the Republican ticket for the Legislature received some 39,000 votes. Did you go to the records to find out what per cent of these were white? "So, you have joined the crowd

Father Bertand Awards Medals To Council

At the November Student Council meeting of Father Bertrand High school held recently, Father Capistran Haas, OFM, school supervisor and faculty advisor to the council presented to the members the official national student council gold medals. of "Down With Negro Leadership", of those who are careless and indifferent to the few struggling, dedicated men, who are willing to make almost any sacrifice to advance the cause of the people. Negroes like Nat Turner and Denmark Vessey, who took up arms in the Negroes' behalf, now sleep in unmarked graves; and those today who are forced to assume the role of leadership must wage a battle with the whites who insist on holding up as most representative of them their worst, rather than their best. They must battle with the majority of the Negroes themselves who crucify their leaders upon a cross of indifference. They must battle against despair; life's deadliest enemy. To be a leader is to be lonely; to be magnificent is to have men hate you. "In the first World's War, the Germans developed a policy of concentrating the fire on the leader, to kill him first. The allies resorted to the protective measures of dressing the officers like soldiers, in order to keep the Germans from winning the war. A good way to lose the fight for first class citizenship is to kill off the leaders. (NEXT WEEK: Mr. Williams' reply to Lt. Lee.)

Singer Leaves Hospital For Florida Engagement

MEMPHIS — Singer Sam Cooke left Memphis Monday to fulfill an engagement in Miami, Fla., and his guitar player, Cliff White left here for Los Angeles to recuperate from injuries received a week ago last Monday when the car in which they were riding ran into the rear of a trailer truck in Marion, Ark. Ford, who blocked her driveway and prevented her from entering her home for several minutes. The man escaped before the teacher could obtain his license number, and drove off when she began screaming and blowing the horn of her car. Mrs. Graham said that she yelled out of her window and told the man to go away, and that he answered her unintelligibly. The teacher said that she was on her way home from church after having attended choir practice, and that when the car began following her she slowed down 10 miles an hour to give him a chance to pass her, and when he did not she drove at a high speed to try and get away from him. He drove at an equally high speed along side of her. She said that her husband told her later that he heard the horn blowing, but that the wind and the rain made it sound like she was a block away.

that he did not know, and that the officers made him get into the car and drove him to a field near Person ave. and Rozelle st., off Airways, where one pinned his arms behind him while the other beat him in an effort to make him disclose information about the place in the neighborhood where whiskey was sold. "I told them that I had heard some of the boys in the neighborhood talking about the corn whiskey and they had showed me the house," he claimed in the sworn statement. Forced To Buy Whiskey The youth said that the policemen gave him a dollar and told him to go to the house and buy the whiskey, and that after he obtained it they made him lie down on the floor of another squad car while they searched the house and arrested three women. He said that he identified one of the women in court on Wednesday, as Evelyn Savage, and told the judge, Beverly Boushe, that she was the one who sold him the liquor, and that the other women were released, while the woman who was involved in selling him the whiskey was fined $50 and bound over to the state. "I did not get a chance to tell the judge that the police beat me," he concluded in his sworn statement. Mrs. Stewart said that her son was classified as a retarded student at the Wisconsin St. school, and that he was advised to take up a trade. She said that he was issued a certificate which exempted him from attending school any more. Never In Trouble "My boy is a good boy," Mrs. Stewart, a divorcee, said. "He doesn't drink nor smoke, and has never been in any difficulty with the police. midnight before I was waited on," he said. "Just as I was nearing home the car pulled up along side of me, but I paid little attention to it, because I thought it was some of the neighbors coming home, but all of a sudden I found myself surrounded by these white boys. WOLF PACK SCENE "One of them said, 'I was robbed last night,' and another said, 'You're bad, aren't you?' and then one hit me on the side of the head with something that he had in his hand. "As I was going down, one of them kicked me under the chin, and I was so woozy by then I don't know whether any of the others hit me or not." Mr. Arnold said that he tried to get the license number of the vehicle, but that the thugs backed down to Turley st. without putting on the lights, and then drove south toward Chelsea ave. After stumbling into the house, Mr. Arnold said that he called the police, and that when they came a half hour later he started telling them about the attack, and one of the men ignored him and walked into his kitchen and started rambling about with a flashlight. He said that he asked the officer to come out of his kitchen. The victim said that he told the police that he was in great pain, but they took his name, address and telephone number and left, and that he had heard nothing from them since. "I don't know whether they caught the boys or not, but it seems that they could have told me something about it later on," Mr. Arnold said.

SLOW ACTION AT HOSPITAL

The attack on him occurred about 11:55 p. m., he said, and a neighbor, Mrs. Claudie Mae Brown, and his wife got him to the hospital around 12:45 a. m., Sunday morning. "They worked very slowly," he said, "and by the time I had X-rays taken and got to bed it was 4:00 a. m. "They gave me nothing to alleviate the suffering, although my jaw was broken on the left side where I was hit, and in front where I was kicked. It was not until 10:00 a. m., that I was given anything, and that was when my doctor came by," Mr. Franklin said.

A MASON

An active member and junior warden of the Board Ave. Masonic Lodge No. 375, and a member and secretary of the Knights of Pythias BB Lodge No. 118, Mr. Arnold is a member of the Mt. Pleasant Baptist church, where he serves as church clerk and a member of the male chorus. He and his wife, Mrs. Rubye Lee Arnold, are the parents of one son, Percell, 8, a student at Manassas school.

very good work record at his store.

"Joseph is a good boy. You don't have any trouble with him," Mr. Catone said. "He's a teenager, and if he had done something wrong they should have carried him to Juvenile Court. I think that it is a bad thing when the police beat on children." Joseph is a member of the Union Valley Baptist church, and is a member of the Young People's choir. At one time he belonged to Boy Scout Troop No. 120.

news and personalities in the field of religion in the Tri-State area. Approximately 30,000 persons attended the Home Service and Farm Exposition sponsored for the second year in the spring of 1953; and of major importance in the church world in the early part of May was the completion and dedication of St. John Baptist church on Vance ave., at a cost of $200,000. The beautiful house of worship was built by Edgar H. Davis and Sons, prominent local Negro contractors. In August, 1953, the Tri-State Defender paid tribute to the 30 soldiers from Memphis and Shelby county who paid the supreme sacrifice in the Korean War, and among them was Pfc. Edward O. Cleaborn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett O. Cleaborn, of 1739 Farrington st., who won the Distinguished Service Cross. Praised in the same edition were seven GIs from the area who were listed officially as missing in action. Among the other outstanding events of the year, noteworthy was the stand taken by Memphis Negro ministers who refused to participate in a city-wide revival on a segregated basis during the Christmas season. Democratic tribute was paid to fallen heroes of the Korean battle fields in 1953 by an oversubscribed audience at the Overton Park shell, and steps were made toward integration in Arkansas as the Medical Society of Pulaski county lowered its barriers to admit Negro members, and Miss Dorothy Martin, white, entered the previously all-Negro Philander Smith college in Little Rock.

HISTORY-MAKING EVENT

In Tennessee's Atomic Bomb City, Oak Ridge, the Atomic Energy Commission was asked to end bias in its public school system, and in Mississippi legislators voted to make schools for whites equal in the face of a pending U. S. Supreme Court decision. A history-making event with the newspaper itself was its membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulation. It was the first newspaper in Tennessee and the third newspaper in the South to join the organization.

TOP OFFICIAL DIES

One of the saddening reports which the paper carried in early 1954 was the death of Charles Browning, 38, advertising director of the Defender publication who died in Little Rock from injuries received when he ran into the spinning propeller of a special plane he had chartered to carry him from Hot Springs to Little Rock to make connections to Chicago. Mr. Browning helped to found the Tri-State Defender. Delivering his eulogy at the Olivet Baptist church in Chicago was Dr. James H. Jackson, the pastor, and president of the National Baptist Convention, U. S. A. Inc. Mr. Browning's funeral was attended by more than 1,500 persons.

Ike Gets Ready For Ga. Holiday

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The White House said yesterday that President Eisenhower will leave at 3 p. m. EST Thursday for his golfing holiday in Augusta, Ga. Rearrangement of the President's schedule to permit his departure will prevent him from holding a news conference this week. Eisenhower is flying to Augusta aboard the Columbine III and will remain in Georgia through the Thanksgiving week end. The White House said the take-off time might vary slightly, depending on when Mrs. Eisenhower finishes her luncheon hostess duties for the women delegates to the United Nations. He told the committee that he would not admit Negroes until "the Supreme Court tells us how to carry out its decision, and the Tennessee Board of Education tells me to admit Negroes." OWEN COLLEGE OPENS In September, the Baptists opened up a junior college, the second institution of higher learning for Negro youth in Memphis, and named it in honor of Rev. S. A. Owen, pastor of Metropolitan Baptist church, and president of the Tennessee Baptist Convention U. S. A., Inc. Here from Washington, D. C., as the featured speaker during opening ceremonies was the celebrated president of Howard university, Dr. Mordecai Johnson. The biggest news event in October was the death of Edward Hall Crump, who for 50 years ### had been a dominant political power in Memphis. Known to many as "Boss" Crump, he was immortalized by the late W. C. Handy who wrote a blues tune which was used as a campaign song by the politician.

The Tri-State Defender gave full coverage to each of these events. The final in this series of articles will be published next week.

Drafts Plan For Complete Rights

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said Thursday the administration was considering sweeping new civil rights legislation to crack down on "cowardly" dynamiters of churches and schools and possibly peddlers of hate literature.

He told a news conference the proposals now being drafted would run "the whole gamut" of civil rights, including integration and problems arising from southern resistance to admittance of Negroes to all-white schools.

Rogers said no final decision on the precise nature of the legislative proposals had been reached. But he said the final draft would be ready when the heavily Democratic Congress convened Jan. 7. A department spokesman said later some proposals might be dropped.

Rogers acknowledged that legislation was not the sole answer to the problem of peaceful racial integration. But he said the Justice Department was "trying to figure out ways that people will have more respect for the law."

ORDERED PROBE
Rogers also disclosed that he had ordered a Federal Grand Jury investigation to determine whether the arrest of three Negro ministers in Birmingham, Ala., last month on vagrancy charges violated their civil rights.

He said he acted after Eugene Connor, Birmingham Commissioner of Public Safety, refused to discuss the case with the FBI. The FBI has virtually completed its own inquiry.

Rogers emphasized that the administration's civil rights legislation would NOT transgress on the authority of state or local officials to deal with the recent bombings of schools, churches and synagogues in both northern and southern communities.

Several Republican and northern Democratic Congressmen have called for new civil rights legislation. But powerful southerners are geared to resist in what could turn out to be a new civil war in the Democratic party.

NO DETAILS
Rogers gave no details of the legislation now under consideration.

But he said the Government had not been idle in the church and school bombing cases. He noted that the FBI had been helping local officials in their investigations.

He said the FBI had held 11 conferences with local police officials in the connection with the bombings, and would hold 167 more conferences within the next month.

Rogers said Justice Department officials also have held a number of conferences with top postal officials on "hate" literature — pamphlets attacking Jews, Negroes, Catholics and other groups. Rogers said they were distributed by "ill" persons.

The Attorney General said it was a difficult field in which to draft laws because postal authorities were barred from opening sealed mail. But he said, "if we do succeed in coming up with a proposal, we are going to ask the most severe penalty."

Rogers conceded that any Federal statute which would try to lay down a plan for school desegregation would run into trouble.

For this reason, the department appeared to be aiming more at building up respect for court orders on integration.

Rogers said he thought race relations actually had improved recently, particularly in Virginia. He said more people now seemed to realize that schools would be closed unless there was compliance with the Supreme Court's integration order.

Rogers declined to say whether the administration again would seek the controversial "Part Three" that was dropped by Congress from the 1957 civil rights law. It would have given the Government power to seek injunctions in civil rights cases.

However, Rogers said the Justice Department's hands were tied by the lack of injunction powers.

VETERANS DAY PROGRAM

—Guest speaker for the Veterans Day program held here last week was Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, fourth from left, who delivered an impressive address to about 1,000 people. The program

Baptist church, where the program was held; Congressman Powell, Rev. W. L. Varnado, and Rev. Van J. Malone, in the uniform of a chaplain, U. S. Army, who is a lieutenant colonel in the reserves.

Georgians Feud Over Schools

ATLANTA — A proposal by Mayor William B. Hartsfield that Atlanta be allowed to make the decision as to whether it should integrate or close its schools has provoked a small feud between the mayor and Gov. Marvin Griffin.

Gov. Griffin, who has little more than a month more in office, said that Georgians are more determined than ever on the segregation issue, and that "the mayor of Atlanta cannot throw in the towel for me or any other Georgian."

Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver, the governor-elect, said that he has some proposals on the issue which he will present to the 1959 legislature.

Fine Show Slated For Blues Bowl

A good chance for you to help the Elks' Christmas Fund for the poor and see a good football game also, presents itself with a purchase of a ticket to the 20th Annual Blues Bowl game coming up Dec. 2.

The game will be played in Memphis stadium with part of the proceeds going to the Handy Memorial and a portion to the Elks' Christmas Fund, said Maurice Hulbert, game co-chairman for the Beale St. Elks' sponsors.

The tickets for the game and the half-time pageant, which will be dedicated to the late W. C. Handy, will be sold by Negro school children, Hulbert said. The kids selling the most tickets will be named "Spirit of Handy" and junior "Spirit of Handy."

Last year's game raised more than $5,000.

Universal Post In Nashville For J. Bowden

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — J. Willard Bowden, a former Memphian, was given a farewell reception here last week on the eve of his departure for Nashville, Tenn., where he will be the district manager for the Universal Life Insurance company.

For the past two years Mr. Bowden has served as district manager for the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance company in the St. Louis area, and was co-founder and vice president of the local chapter of the Frontiers of America, Inc., which gave the reception in his honor.

A long-time professional in the field of insurance, he has held key assignments with North Carolina Mutual, Supreme Liberty and Universal. In 1957 he organized the Mount City Life Insurance Council which sponsored several well coordinated and successful promotional and sales projects throughout the area.

Mr. Bowden is the husband of

Denies Negroes Tried To Vote

BROWNSVILLE — No Negroes have attempted to vote recently in Haywood County, Tenn., according to an election official, L. S. Smith.

His announcement came as a result of a report from the Justice Department that it had received a report that Negroes were being denied the privilege of registering.

Congressman Adam Clayton Powell-ETAOIN SHRDL ETAOIN ell, in Memphis last week to speak to a Veterans Day crowd, said that he had received a report that Negroes had not been allowed to vote in either Fayette or Haywood counties, and he promised to file a complaint with Atty. Gen. William Rogers as soon as he returned to Washington, D. C.

Her recording career began in 1955 when, with the help of pianist George Steiner and Willie Bryant, she secured a contract with Capitol Records. She had two hits with her first record, "What D'You Know About Love," and "You Are My Heart's Delight." The same year she received the "Down Beat" award for "the most promising Newcomer of the Year."

Memphis Depot Floats The Work Of Artists

The Memphis General Depot consistently enters outstanding floats when the time for a parade rolls around, and this is not purely by chance. It has two talented civilian employees ready to give an artistic touch to any project the depot might wish to participate in.

The employees who have come up with most of the ideas used at the Army depot on Airways are Jefferson H. Thomas, sr., of 1319 Barber, and Herbert Lee Lester, of 3358 Rochester rd., who have regular jobs at the site, but are ready to work on any special project which may come up.

No assignment is either too large or too small to attract their artistic genius, from the drawing of posters to the designing and construction of 20-foot floats, or whether it be the decorating of the officers' club for a Halloween dance or giving a Christmas air to the enormous front lawn during the Yuletide season.

WIN PRIZES
The pair's accomplishments are quite impressive. Their entry in the Outdoor Christmas Lighting Contest won the prize offered for the Industrial division in 1956, and last year the depot placed second; One of their floats was selected as the best in the Horror Parade held at the close of Traffic Safety Week in March; and they have received numerous letters of commendation from Depot Commanders and other top military and civilian personnel at the installation.

Mr. Taylor is a graduate of Manassas High school, and he studied display arts and crafts during three years at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

His first job in that line was as an advertising aide on window displays throughout Memphis, and then spent five years as a truck driver for Kroger. He was promoted store manager, and held that position for 11 years.

DESIGNED KITCHENS
He resigned from that job, and after working for one year as an agent for Universal Life Insurance company, he joined the work force at the Memphis General Depot as a laborer, and was promoted to junior foreman only 30 days after starting.

In 1946 he resigned to become a designer of steel kitchens, and three years later returned to the Memphis General Depot as a packer in engineer storage. He was promoted to carpenter, car blocker and this year was assigned to recondition general office furniture.

The father of three children, Mr. Taylor is the chairman of the officers' board of the Church of the Living God, and this year redecorated the entire interior of the church, which included sanding floors and repainting woodwork.

BUILT A BOAT
His hobbies are fishing, carpentry, woodworking and decorating. He makes all types of novelties, and a few years ago he built a 14-foot mahogany boat for a friend.

Mr. Lester is an eight-year employee of the depot, and is a veteran of the U. S. Navy. A graduate of Booker T. Washington class of 1940, where he was among the top 10 per cent, he enlisted in the service shortly afterward, and served aboard the destroyer, The U. S. S. Bagley, and earned 11 battle stars.

As a veteran he went to Detroit, Mich., and studied commercial art at the Detroit Civic center right after the war, and then studied photography at the Hooks Brothers studio for 18 months. He worked in the display department of a downtown department store for three years, and then came to the Memphis General Depot in 1950.

A SCOUTMASTER
The Lesters are the parents of two children, Herbert, jr., age 10, and a nine-year-old daughter, Pat. Both of them are students at the Ford Road school, and are studying the piano, though Pat has shown some talent in water colors.

Active in religious circles, Mr. Lester has been a member of the Board of Deacons and superintendent of the Sunday school of the Walker Memorial Christian church for the past four years. He has participated in the civic projects, and is assistant scoutmaster for Troop 139. One of his dreams, he says, is to start an academy of arts for Negroes in Memphis.

Mrs. White To Seek Equality In All Schools

HOUSTON, Texas — Mrs. Charlie E. White, the first Negro to hold a public office in the city since Reconstruction Days, was certified last Friday by the Houston School board as a winner in the previous week's election.

A canvass by the board showed that Mrs. White, the wife of an optometrist, showed that she received 36,348 votes, and was ahead of her nearest opponent, Dr. John Glen by nearly 8,000 votes.

After a visit to Houston schools, both Negro and white, Mrs. White said that she found them "very separate, but not quite equal."

gregated, but it is expected that during her term in office integration will begin.

A cross was burned on her lawn after her victory in the election, but police were unable to find the culprits.

Family Size Increases
WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The baby boom of the 1940's has swollen the size of the average American family. The Census Bureau reported Monday that from 1948 to 1958, the number of families with two or more children under 18 living at home rose from 11,200,000 to 16,400,000.

Big Star Specials

Thanksgiving is less than a week away, and before you have a chance to finish talking about the turkey it will be time to start trekking downtown to get those toys, unless you have heard the latest news!

The latest news is that you can do all of your shopping, for toys and food, at your neighborhood Big Star store.

Some parents wait until the last minute to do their shopping, and when the glorious day finally arrives they are too exhausted to celebrate properly.

This year you can avoid the shopping blues which are generally caused by losing so much time trying to find a place to park, or by having to ride back home on the bus with packages in your hand, while having others pushed in your face. You can also get around the misery of tired damp feet.

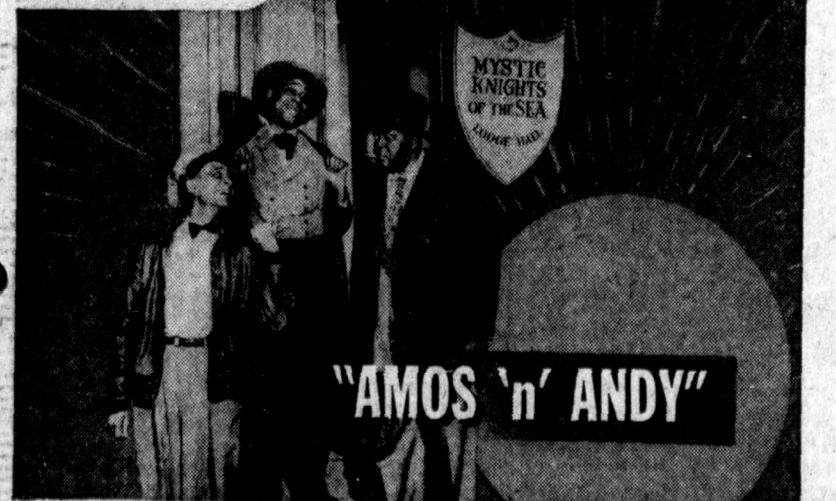

Big Star has a large supply of toys on hand, and you can get your Christmas gifts for the children when you go shopping for food.

Church Notes by HATTIE HOUSE

ST. AUGUSTINE CATHOLIC

A significant era in the history of the Sisters of Charity of the Blessed Virgin Mary from Dubuque, Iowa is being observed this month in Catholic churches. From the founding of the Community of B.V.M. Nuns in November 1833 to 1933, the church in America has been enriched with thousands of women dedicated to learn to love God through the teaching of little ones in the kindergarten, grade schools, high schools and colleges. Through this association, it is the aim of the Sisters of Charity that their noble example and knowledge will induce the children to love God too. A jubilee is marking 125 years of this teaching.

Since its beginning, the Community has undergone many setbacks but was finally successful in establishing the present motherhouse in Dubuque, Iowa. From this Motherhouse, many schools were taken over by the Sisters of Charity. In 1937 four sisters came to Memphis at the request of Bishop W. L. Adrian, D.D. to open St. Augustine School. They began with a school of 78 pupils. A built it to a grade school of 392 children and thence to the present beautiful Father Bertrand High School with an enrollment of 199. Twelve nuns are now serving on the faculty.

Four young ladies, Sister M. Cherubina, B. V. M. of the 1948 class, Sister M. Charlotte, O.S.P. of the 1944 class, Sister Marcia, O.S.P. of the 1948 class and Sister M. Garnier, O.S.P. of the 1950 class, have chosen the dedicated teacher life through the example and influence of these sisters.

A week of jubilee celebration was conducted from Nov. 9-15 with an open house in the convent for all the parishioners and the friends of the sisters. On Tuesday, a pageant of the spirit of the B.V.M. Sisters, "From Sea to Shining Sea" was presented by the seniors. "Highlights of the B. V. M. History" was presented to the student body by Sr. M. James, B. V. M., principal of Father Bertrand High School on Thursday. Friday, a high mass of Thanksgiving was offered by Father Capistran J. Haas, O.F.M., in the gym of the new school.

On the feast of Christ the King, October 26, 22 third graders of St. Augustine Grade school received their first Holy Communion from the hands of Father Capistran J. Haas, O.F.M., the pastor of St. Augustine church. The third graders who received communion are Michael Allen, Francine Anderson, Dedrick Brittenum, Jean Bell, Franklin Ball, Lirlah Bradfield, Gerald Burts, Joan Crawford, Muriel Horne, Gilda Gilmore, Charles Normant, Michael Snell, William Smith, Ronald Miller, Allen Parker, Thomas Wray, Peggy Yancey and Leslie Horton.

TRINITY CME

A Million Dollar Wedding was held at the Trinity CME church Sunday. It was an effort to increase the funds of the church. Mrs. Ester Chambers was the chairman.

CENTRAL BAPTIST

Sunday, Nov. 30, the congregation of Central Baptist church will celebrate 20 years of service rendered by the pastor and wife of the fine sanctuary, Rev. and Mrs. Roy D. Morrison.

Indeed, this day of great importance for the membership. The sentiment of the members are as follows: "For 20 years, Rev. and Mrs. Morrison have stood as a Rock of Gibraltar for righteousness against evil."

The congregation plans to present Rev. and Mrs. Morrison with a gift.

ST. STEPHEN BAPTIST

A Thanksgiving program will culminate Sunday's services at the St. Stephen Baptist church. It begins at 8 p.m. Miss Margaret Thornton is the sponsor.

Other services will be regular with these members taking an active part: B. T. Lewis, Mrs. Ivory Vessel, Mrs. Bernice F. Leatherwood, Mrs. Ruby McCall, Mrs. Lottie Wilson and Rev. Joseph F. Wilson.

At 3 p.m., the church will visit with St. John Baptist church in celebration of the Church's Anniversary. Rev. O. C. Crivens, pastor of St. Stephen Baptist church, will deliver the message.

The No. 2 choir presented a concert last Sunday at 8 p.m. The program of classics and spirituals won favorable comments from the audience. George Bowen is president of the choir. Mrs. Lottie Wilson is pianist and Webster Williamson is the director. The concert benefitted the building fund.

Sunday School class No. 16 met recently at the residence of Mrs. Berdie Posey of 260 Oklahoma street. The lesson was enlightening.

The guests were Mrs. Ada Montgomerie and C. F. Alexander. Members present were Mrs. Effie P. Young, Mrs. Aline Brown, Mrs. Rosa Bufford, Mrs. Charlotte Davis, Mrs. D. Robinson, Mrs. Alberta Nichols, Mrs. Mattie Bradley, Mrs. Ida M. Willlette and Lula Alexander.

Reveal Story Of Florida Sheriff

NEW YORK — The truth about Sheriff Willis McCall, known throughout the South as an outspoken racist with a fierce determination to keep integrationists out of Florida, is revealed in the new issue of Coronet magazine. McCall is the shocking public statements of a man who is considered the most powerful figure in Florida's Lake County area. He is the man who has been accused of fostering much of Central Florida's anti-Negro sentiments. Willis McCall is emphatically against the Supreme Court's recent decision on integration. He insists, in Coronet magazine, "that it just won't work."

ROBERT WILSON, American tenor, is in a happy mood as he prepares to board an Air France Super Starliner at Orly Airport, Paris. WILSON is currently on recital tour of European cities.

Why desegregation will never work. Because it will lower the white children's standard to mix with an immoral, diseased race. Their brains just can't compare with a white man's. McCall is the shocking public statements of a man who is considered the most powerful figure in Florida's Lake County area. He is the man who has been accused of fostering much of Central Florida's anti-Negro sentiments. Willis McCall is emphatically against the Supreme Court's recent decision on integration. He insists, in Coronet magazine, "that it just won't work."

Yet even among whites who share his anti-Negro views Sheriff McCall is regarded with deep misgivings. Coronet points out many of the racial incidents that have occurred during the Sheriff's tenure. He is not, however, without opposition in his area. Now in his fourth term, it is revealed that he won the last nomination by a scant 55 per cent of the votes cast.

Sheriff McCall's foremost outspoken critic is Mabel Norris Reese, former editor of the Mount Dora Topic, a weekly Lake County newspaper. This opposition, Coronet says, has resulted in a long campaign of terror against Mrs. Reese. The "Topic" offices have been smeared by paint, once with crosses and KKK and again with a sign labeling it "Official Communist Office."

Yet Sheriff McCall contends he is not a "race hater." He insists that the NAACP is, in fact, forcing him to take drastic actions. The December Coronet profile on "The Law of Lake County" is a profile of a man who rules his bailiwick with an iron hand — about a man who is an outspoken racial segregationist.

Blames Police Stern Star For Traffic Violation

12 Leaders of Catholics Hit Segregation

WASHINGTON—Enforced racial segregation cannot be "reconciled with the Christian view of our fellow man" 12 Catholic Bishops of the United States declared here last week.

In a special statement released during their annual meeting, the prelates cited "two fundamental reasons" why compulsory segregation is wrong: "1. Legal segregation, or any form of compulsory segregation, in itself and by its nature imposes a stigma of inferiority upon the segregated people. . . .

"2. It is a matter of historical fact that segregation in our country has led to oppressive conditions and the denial of basic human rights for the Negro."

The bishops noted that in a 1943 statement they had discussed "the problems faced by Negroes in obtaining the rights that are theirs as Americans." Since then, the bishops said, "considerable progress was made in achieving these goals" of racial justice.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS The bishops acknowledged that "there are many facets to the problems raised by the quest for racial justice. There are issues of law, of history, of economics, and of sociology. There are questions of procedure and technique. There are conflicts in culture. . . . Their importance we do not deny. . . . They declared that "the heart of the race question is moral and religious. It concerns the rights of man and our attitude toward our fellow man."

The churchmen urged that "concrete plans" to eradicate racial injustice "be based on prudence." "Prudence may be called a virtue that inclines us to view problems in their proper perspective. It aids us to use the proper means to secure our aim."

SIGNED BY TWELVE

Almost all of the 220 U. S. Catholic Bishops attended the annual meeting at the Catholic University of America here on Wednesday and Thursday. The statement was signed by the twelve episcopal members of the Administrative Board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and approved by the meeting of bishops. The NCWC is the bishops coordinating agency.

"We may well deplore a gradualism that is merely a cloak for inaction," the prelates stated. "But we equally deplore rash impetuosity that would sacrifice the achievements of decades in ill-timed and ill-considered ventures. In concrete matters we distinguish between prudence and inaction by asking the question: Are we sincerely and earnestly acting to solve these problems?"

Jackson

Memphis last week.

Dr. Jackson, the president of National Baptist Convention USA, Inc., was en route to Helena, Ark., to make an address before the Arkansas Convention.

Leaving Memphis with him were Rev. E. Johnson, a representative of the Educational Board of the National Baptist Convention; Rev. J. L. Burkley, pastor of the St. Paul Baptist church, Lexington, Tenn.; Rev. C. M. Lee, a member of the board and pastor of the Pilgrim Rest Baptist church, Kennedy st., and Rev. A. E. Campbell, president of the Tennessee Regular Baptist Convention, and pastor of the Columbus Baptist church.

ETIHER FAUBUS OR U.S.

Asked his opinion on the impasse in Little Rock between Gov. Orval Faubus and the Federal government, Dr. Jackson said, "Things have gone too far for a compromise to be reached. Either Faubus or democracy must be defeated."

He said that the only thing which prevents Gov. Faubus from rebelling against the Government now is his lack of strength. Asked if he thought that race relations in the country were improving, Dr. Jackson said that he would give the same answer to that question that he gave in New Orleans a few days ago: "Yes race relations are improving, because today it is based upon the law of the land, and not on the goodness of a few white persons."

Law

I had a nigger mammy when I was a child, but it has been only 400 years since they were in Africa dancing to music of tom-toms. It has taken us a thousand years to get where we are," he orated.

He said that it was the desire of the Negro to sit in classrooms "with your daughter and mine" that has resulted in the abolishment of high schools for Negroes in Little Rock.

DISTORTED VIEW

"There is money for private schools for white children in Little Rock," he said, "but I am sorry to say that no provisions have been made for the Nigra children. They weren't satisfied with the schools that the white people had been paying for them, and now they don't have anything."

The segregationist said that he was in the office of Gov. Faubus a few weeks ago when he received a long distance call from a "white woman in Boston."

JUST ONE VIEWPOINT

"The governor beckoned for each one of us to pick up an extension phone and we listened in on the conversation. "She congratulated Gov. Faubus for closing the schools, and then said that she had two daughters, one 17 and the other 19, and that her youngest daughter had married a nigger and had given birth to two children by him before he deserted her. "One of the children is half white, she said, and the other was black as the ace of spades, and now both of them were living with her," the attorney claimed.

There were only 25 whites and five Negroes present when Atty. Norfleet made his address, and no one was visibly moved by his speech.

"Don't be against any race," he cautioned the legislators. "Be against bad leadership."

JOE RUDISELL SPEAKS

Also appearing before the body to recommend anti-Negro legislation was 83 year-old Joe Rudisell, white-thatched retired businessman, who requested a re-enactment of the poll tax law, the abolishment of permanent registration, and means to abolish single shot voting.

WORTHY TAX PROPOSAL

Atty. George C. LaManna asked the legislators to support a bill which would raise exemption on personal taxes on property from $1,000 to $5,000. Lewis Tolliver asked the group to support a measure which would abolish capital punishment in the state.

Also appearing were two judges, an insurance executive, a sewing machine manufacturer, a minister urging immunity for clergymen in their dealings with parishioners; and a representative from the mental health group.

Shelby County legislators on hand for the hearings were State Senators Larry Hughes, Tom Mitchell and William S. Cobb; and Representatives Alan Hanover, Joe Matthews, Herbert Moriarty, Jr., Joe Pipkin, and Gerald Murley.

THE Pulpit SPEAKS REV. C. THOMAS PAIGE

"Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while in the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh when thou shalt say 'I have no pleasure in them; while the sun or the light, or the moon, or the stars, be not darkened, nor the clouds return after the rain.'"

A few days ago I saw an old lady — thwarted by life's most cherished dreams, leave a room with her face soiled with moisture from tears. Now at a time when she normally would have been shedding tears of joy because of the realization of her very threshold of despair — broken-hearted because now she is on the verge of a dismal future.

This brings me once again to one of my pet questions — when is a man old? I am sure that experience has taught most of us age is not something that can be measured alone in terms of years. There are other factors and important factors that determine exactly how old a person might be. Deep down within me I am forced to believe that age is a man, Archbishop of New York; James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles; Francis P. Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore; Karl J. Alter, Archbishop of Cincinnati; Joseph E. Ritter, Archbishop of St. Louis; William O. Brady, Archbishop of St. Paul; Albert G. Meyer, Archbishop of Chicago; Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington; Leo Binz, Archbishop of Dubuque; Emmet M. Walsh, Bishop of Youngstown; Joseph M. Gilmore, Bishop of Helena, and Albert R. Zuroweste, Bishop of Belleville.

How tragic it is that many people lull themselves to complacency rocking in an old chair singing, "I have heard of a land on a far away strand . . . 'tis the land where we never grow old." The only people who refuse to grow old are those people who remember in the days of youth that life is a matter of enriching the life of someone else. As soon as we come to grips with this one thing ourselves we can stay young through the constant aid we render to others. If in our youth days we come to grips with this things that are vital to life we will always remain young. I know that there are countless numbers of us who are always hulling ourselves into a false belief that "IT CAN'T HAPPEN TO ME" but I have news for all people believing so. There are certain imperatives in our lives, all of our lives, that must be recognized as such. We must remember now that as sure as we live certain things are going to happen. When the poet said remember now he tells us in no uncertain terms that the foundation that we build today will enable us to live long useful lives here on this earth.

The standards of life that are vital, the rules of the game, the demands of human activities all change so fast that much sooner than we think we are old — left out of the picture because we no longer in a position to make a contribution to our day and time. When one realizes that such is the case we are equally reminded that we are old. Getting old is something that is inevitable in terms of years but it does not have to happen in terms of activity.

To a large degree our age may be determined in terms of our activity but if in the early years of our days we stay mindful of the days that are to come and make preparation for the same in all probability we will not grow old. In the truest interpretation of the word our youth is the challenging portion of our lives and if through wise choice and devotion preparation we spend our youth wisely our older days will take care of themselves. To do this and do it adequately we must REMEMBER NOW!

JANA C. PORTER

Yes Madam, There will be much hospitality shown this weekend, many will enjoy the pleasures of the tables of their friends. A brunch here, a dinner there and don't forget the annual formal. After the feast are over there is the problem of revising the Thanksgiving turkey. If your family is finicky about leftovers, scrape the meat from the bones and lie them to rest in that deep freeze you are so thankful for. Break the bones apart, add left over broth and giblets then proceed to make a delicious soup from this stock.

On a much later date, serve turkey a La King, Turkey Pan Pie or Turkey Hash with Jack Sprat Baking powder Biscuits—good. Old Jack Sprat enriched wheat flour is the best. TURKEY HASH Chop the scrappy pieces of turkey medium fine. Combine with an equal amount of chopped cold potatoes. It stands to reason you will use more potatoes if you have less turkey. Mix and season with salt and pepper. Brown mixture well in a skillet with butter; or margarine like any hash. Add about 1/4 cup cream to 1 quart hash —reseason to taste adding a dash of worcestershire sauce—cook until cream is absorbed. Serve topped with poached eggs. So good served with Jack Sprat baking powder biscuits. JACK'S SPRAT BAKING POWDER BISCUITS Mix 2 cups of Jack Sprat enriched wheat flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon of salt and sift twice, work in 2 tablespoons shortening. # Vows South Will Never Surrender

NEWTON, Mass. (UPI)—Virginia newspaper editor James Jackson Kilpatrick said Sunday the South will never surrender in its battle against desegregation. The editor of the Richmond News-Leader said the South will fight "state by state, county by county, school by school, room by room." He debated school integration with chief counsel Thurgood Marshall of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. About 1,000 persons attending the debate applauded Marshall, but gave Kilpatrick a cool reception. "Any man who will deprive his own child of an education is getting mighty low," Marshall said in reference to integration-caused school closings in Virginia and Arkansas. "You cannot have 48

Map Fight To Kill Filibuster

WASHINGTON — (UPI)—Leaders of a bipartisan drive to curb Senate talkathons are priming for a prompt follow-up fight to pass a new civil rights legislation if they win their anti-filibuster battle. A number of civil rights bills are being prepared for introduction when Congress convenes Jan. 7. But their fate in the Senate will depend to a great extent on the outcome of efforts to make it more difficult to talk measures to death. There are strong prospects the present Senate "gag" rule will be tightened as a result of a showdown set for the opening days of the new Congress. The actual terms of this change may provide the key to whether the campaign for new civil rights legislation will succeed or whether southern Senators will be able to talk such proposals to death. BEST CHANCE Civil rights legislation considered to have the best chance for Senate consideration would include: —A measure aimed at putting the federal government's power behind local authorities confronted with bombings and dynamitings which reflect racial or religious hatred. —A bill to allow the U.S. attorney general to bring suits and seek injunctions when he felt civil rights were being denied to any citizen. This would be a throwback to "Title III" of the 1957 civil rights law. —Impetus for an anti-bombing law has come from incidents like the bombing of the school at Osage, W. Va., where white and Negro children have been integrated without difficulty for five years. New York's Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits and Sen. Elect Kenneth B. Keating have just completed a survey trip to the south to collect material for an anti-bombing bill.

MEMPHIS DEPOT ARTISTS — The men responsible for the Memphis General Depot's float in the Veterans Day parade last week were Jefferson H. Taylor, sr., left, of 1319 Barbour st.; and Herbert Lee Lester, of 3356 Rochester rd., who have consistently turned out prize-winning creations for the depot over the years. The float depicts the "Spirit of 1776," and was in sharp contrast to the soldiers who rode on it last week in the Army's latest attire — greens, blues, and combat dress.

Faubus Tells Of Integration Plea

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (UPI)—Gov. Orval Faubus said people have asked him to open an integrated school on one of the four high schools he closed to prevent integration but he said he would not consider it "because the people of Little Rock voted for segregation." Faubus closed the city's four public high schools to keep them from being integrated. A reporter asked Faubus if he had been approached and asked to open one of the high schools to both white and Negroes. "I have been made that proposal," said Faubus, "but the people voted they want segregation." He would not say who asked him to open one of the schools. "I have assumed without verification — that it (the suggestion to open a school) met with the approval of the NAACP," the Governor said. "If the NAACP accepts, then the Justice department would accept." "It is the federal aim or perhaps I should say it's the national administration's intention to integrate regardless of what the cost or price may be," he said. "And I don't see any particular reason I should help them solve their problems." Faubus closed the schools under one of the several anti-integration laws the Arkansas legislature passed just before the schools were to have opened. On Sept. 27, Little Rock voters favored by a 3-to-1 margin segregation.

LeMoyné Cagers Swamp Air Base In Scrimmage

Season's tickets for Le Moyné college's 12 home basketball games went on sale this week. They are selling for seven dollars. Purchase of a season's ticket will represent a saving of three dollars and twenty cents ($3.20.) Adult tickets at the gate will go for 85 cents and off-campus students will be charged 50 cents. The Le Moyné Yellowjackets gave spectators a taste of what they will see in regular games this season when they trounced the 2584th Air Base team 78 - 58 in a scrimmage last week in the Air Base gym. The LeMOYNE Yellowjackets open against Lane college in Jackson, Tenn., on the night of Dec. 1. The home opener will be played in the LeMoyné gym against Tougaloo college of Jackson, Miss., Dec. 3. Two other home games will be played before the Christmas holidays. Jackson college of Jackson, Miss., will be here Dec. 13, and Rust college of Holly Springs, Miss., will show its wares on the Memphis floor Dec. 15. LeMoyné is scheduled to meet Fisk, Knoxville, Alabama A&M and Rust on foreign soil before the beginning of the Christmas holidays. LeMoyné's energetic athletic director and basketball coach, Jerry C. Johnson, said his starting five will be selected from six men — Augustus Johnson, Melvin Bailey and Charles Gregory, forwards; Chester Collins, center; and Marvin Doggett and James Cleaves, guards. This team lacks height as there are only three players in the six-foot bracket. Collins is tallest at 6-3. Coach Johnson feels he has other dependables in Curtis Mitchell, Sam Parks, Robert Currie, Walter Harris, Cleophus Hudson, Willie Hereton, Edward Thornton and Ruben Doggett. Rounding out the squad of 18 are Erman Porter, Ollie Neal and Crawford Owens.

Shuns Private Jim-Crow Schools

LITTLE ROCK — Gov. Orval Faubus' role "in clarifying the issue of segregation" and the NAACP's rejection of private segregated schools have been set forth by Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP. The NAACP leader outlined the ways in which the Arkansas governor had helped clarify the issue and explained why the NAACP cannot support proposals to open private schools for the Negro children now excluded from public schools. He addressed an enthusiastic audience of 1800 at a meeting of the Arkansas State Conference of NAACP branches here on Nov. 2. Mrs. L. C. Bates, leader of the school integration struggle here, was re-elected president of the state conference. PRIVATE SCHOOLS "It is hard to watch some of the white students getting some little education while your own high school students are shut out of school by your governor," Wilkins said. "Some have wondered whether colored citizens should not set up a school of their own. This we cannot do. We cannot ourselves finance Jim-Crow schools for our children. We cannot choose deliberately to set up the kind of system which has been ruled illegal and unconstitutional. "The segregationists have set up their temporary school to defy the law. If we join them and set up our schools, we will be defying the law, also. Besides, we would be doing just what they want us to do. "In addition, we would be selling out the youngsters who endured persecution at Central High last year. We would be betraying Negro children throughout the nation who hope to go forward to full opportunity, not backward to segregation and second-class citizenship." FAUBUS ROLE OUTLINED Gov. Faubus, the NAACP leader pointed out, "disposed effectively of the interposition proposal. He used the ultimate in state interposition — troops — and did not succeed. "Second, he aroused and educated to our point of view millions of people here in America and abroad who had little or no feeling on the issue. "Third, he challenged and brought out the courage and heroism of the nine children who went to Central High and through them he fired the enthusiasm of countless white and colored people who gave it to them. "Other contributions of the governor to clarification of the issue, the NAACP executive secretary asserted, include laws he forced through the State legislature which brought forth "the inclusive ruling of the U. S. Supreme Court on Sept. 29, thus blocking others from even temporary success should they try to use similar tactics" and the private school proposal which has been banned by a temporary court injunction. In closing the schools in Little Rock and Virginia, the segregationists have exacted too high a price, Wilkins declared. "It is too high for the white students, some few of whom are receiving makeshift schooling and others none at all. It is too high for the Negro students who are being denied both their constitutional rights and an education. "And it is too high for our country which desperately needs more and better education for all its youth."

Catholic Bishops Condemn Racists

WASHINGTON — (UPI)—The Catholic Bishops of the United States urged "sober-minded Americans of all religious faiths" to "seize the mantle of leadership from the agitator and racist . . . before it is too late." But they couched the appeal with a warning that concrete steps toward the Christian goal of a completely desegregated society should be approached with "prudence" as well as "persevering courage." The Bishops deplored the "bitterness and hatred" stirred up by the school integration dispute. However, they acknowledged there are "many facets to the problems raised by the quest for racial justice." "There are issues of law, of history, of economics, and of sociology, they said. "There are questions of procedure and technique. There are conflicts in culture . . . their importance we do not deny." The Bishops outlined their views in a 1,500-word statement released by the annual meeting of the U.S. Catholic Hierarchy. Most of the nation's 220 Catholic Bishops and Archbishops attended the meeting. The churchmen said enforced racial segregation in education, housing, employment or any other area of life "cannot be reconciled" with the basic Christian teaching that all men are "brothers in Christ."

Cuts Back On Cotton; Pushes Sweet Potatoes

CUBA, Ala. — Jordan Wallace, Cuba, Ala., didn't wait for the Soil Bank to encourage him to cut back on cotton which has been in surplus, says Joseph Bradford, assistant editor of the Alabama Extension Service with offices at Tuskegee. Wallace has been easing up on cotton and pushing hard on sweet potato production since 1951 when he discovered that he could net more from three or four acres of sweet potatoes than he could from 10 to 12 acres of cotton. By 1956, his cotton allotment was down to six acres so he put that in the Soil Bank and concentrated entirely on sweet potatoes. Production has been running well over 100 bushels per acre. And by getting to the market in early July, Wallace has been receiving around $3 per bushel. He trucks his sweet potatoes to markets in Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Meridian, Miss. Those not sold by fall, when many farmers are placing them in storage until spring. Bradford points out that Wallace keeps up with the latest practices.

50 Cities Mark Fair Play Day

NEW YORK — More than 50 cities across the nation will conduct special events in connection with the National Urban League's third annual Equal Opportunity Day, to be observed Wednesday, Nov. 19. That day has been selected for this special observance because it is the anniversary of President Lincoln's famous Gettysburg Address, delivered on Nov. 19, 1863; and because the President, in his First Message to the Congress, expressed the hope and concern that all citizens be afforded "an unfettered start and fair chance in the race of life." Governors of 24 states and mayors of 52 cities have already proclaimed this day, and plan special ceremonies in recognition of EOD. Frederick W. Richmond, industrialist and financier, who is national chairman of Equal Opportunity Day, said: "The purpose of EOD is to show the world the positive American efforts toward solving our race relations problems. It presents a chance to effectively focus American public opinion on this question. I consider equal opportunity to be one of the most important goals in American life today." David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, and Benjamin F. Fairless, former board chairman of U. S. Steel, will be honored at an EOD kickoff dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, tonight, on the eve of the observance. States that have proclaimed the day include: Arizona, California, Colorado, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, Oregon, Puerto Rico, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Weighs Protest On Catholic Rites In School

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — (UPI)—A circuit judge will rule next week whether to permit Roman Catholic religious services to be held in a public school while a church is being built. Judge Bayard B. Shields refused a request by four Protestant churches to stop the Catholic services. The Protestants argued it was a violation of the state constitution for the local government to aid the church. But Shields, in refusing a temporary injunction, said "this is a matter which requires more study by the attorneys as well as the court." He said he would rule on the matter after a hearing on the case. Filing a petition for injunction were the Southwide estates Baptist

Baptists Seek To Move Hays

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (UPI)—The 1,500 member Baptist Laymen of Alabama Inc., has requested Rep. Brooks Hays (D.-Ark.) to resign as president of the southern Baptist Convention. By taking the stand "after several days deliberation," the Alabama group joined a similar laymen's organization in neighboring Mississippi which requested Hays to resign earlier this week. The Mississippi State Baptist Convention failed to act on the request. And the Georgia and Florida Baptist Conventions adopted resolutions supporting Hays.

OBSERVE FOUNDERS DAY

67th Event At A & T College Hears Of New Challenges

GREENSBORO, N. C. — The challenges A&T College, and similar institutions in this country, have faced and will have to measure up to in the future were described recently.

The event was the annual Founders Day Observance commemorating the 67th anniversary of the college and the speaker was Dr. J. F. Drake, Normal, Ala., president of the Alabama A&M college.

A life size bust of the late Dr. Ferdinand D. Bluford, former president of the college who died in 1955, was unveiled as a main feature of the observance.

As the covering was removed from the sculpture by Felicia Black, Greensboro senior in Biology, "Miss A&T," for the current year, an unveiling Litany service was conducted by Rev. Cleo M. McCoy, director of religious activities at the college.

The work, executed by Isaac Hathaway, a noted sculptor from Montgomery, Ala., who was present for the ceremonies, was made possible by contributions from students, faculty and staff members. It will be later transferred to its permanent location in the main foyer of the Bluford Library, named to honor the late president.

DR. DRAKE

Speaking from the subject, "The Challenge of Our Heritage," Dr. Drake, a long time friend of Dr. Bluford, paid high tribute to the late A&T president.

"The life and works of those whom he (Bluford) and his own leadership at the A&T College," he said, "represent a significant part of the heritage of this college, of its alumni and students and of the entire field of higher education."

He said modern education is challenged today by our philosophies of it from the past. "This challenge," he declared comes that we through education must continue to seek the answer as what is the highest good."

He continued, "we are challenged by the ideal and idea of universal education and which is further high-lighted by the heavy increase in college enrollments, an increasing competition with industry and other fields to maintain high quality facilities and adequate facilities and an increasing demand to maintain a superior quality of education and provide opportunities to more and more students."

He said that colleges like A&T are also challenged today by the new concept in higher education as exemplified by the land-grant college tradition which seeks to train through research and demonstration.

Alaska Can Have Last Word On Congress Lineup

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The American people conceivably but not likely might have to wait three weeks after the voting Nov. 4 to learn which party will control the next Congress.

In cases of an extremely close election, the new state of Alaska could determine the outcome in its first election Nov. 23.

"The final current challenge to educated leadership," he concluded, "is to rediscover the spiritual basis which makes it possible for the individual to meet and conquer the other challenges of life."

He said that throughout America there is renewed interest and concern in the spiritual and moral values of education. The speaker stated that scientists have joined their voices in calling for some system of moral control of the deathly weapons they have created.

OTHER GUESTS

Other persons appearing on the program included: Rev. John C. Mott, rector of the Holy Trinity Episcopal church, invocation; Ellsworth T. Smith, Jr., Greensboro senior, representing the student body; Mrs. Carrye V. Kelley, associate professor of English, representing the faculty and staff; F. Marcellus Staley, Orangeburg, S. C., dean of the School of Agriculture at South Carolina State College, representing former faculty and staff; Howard C. Barnhill, Charlotte health educator and president of the A&T College National Alumni Association, representing the alumni; Rabbi Fred L. Rybins, Temple Emanuel, Greensboro, dedicatory prayer and Rev. J. C. Teltton, retired minister, benediction.

The College Choir, under Howard T. Pearsall, chairman of the Department of Music and the Symphony Band, under the baton of Walter F. Carlson, Jr., presented the musical numbers.

The program was preceded by a military review of the Joint Corps of the Air Force and Army ROTC units held on the front campus lawn.

Bishops Call For Racial Justice

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — America's Roman Catholic bishops have called on Christians of all faiths to move prudently toward complete racial integration.

The bishops said "responsible and sober-minded Americans of all religious faiths, in all areas of our land" should "act quietly, courageously and prayerfully before it is too late."

QUEST FOR JUSTICE

They deplored the "bitterness and hatred" created by the school integration dispute. But they acknowledged there are "many facts to the problems raised by the quest for racial justice."

"There are issues of law, of history, of economics, and of sociology," they said. "There are questions of procedure and techniques. There are conflicts in culture... Their importance we do not deny."

The bishops issued their dramatic call in a 1,500-word statement released late last week by the annual meeting of the U.S. Catholic hierarchy.

Civil Rights, Aim Of Woman Solon

MRS. FLOY CLEMENTS

SPRINGFIELD — (UPI) — The first Negro woman ever elected to the Illinois Legislature is a Democrat who says her chief interests during the General Assembly starting in January will be civil rights and the shortage of school classrooms.

Mrs. Floy Clements, who was elected from Chicago's 22nd District, was interviewed here at a lunch for new members of the House of Representatives.

Besides the election of Mrs. Clements, Illinois also scored another first in the Nov. 4 election when Harewood, Chicago Democrat, became the first Negro ever elected to the University of Illinois board of trustees.

ONE SENATOR

Mrs. Clements will join a male Negro delegation in the General Assembly that includes one senator and eight representatives.

She said she started working in Democratic campaigns "for Al Smith in 1928 when you found hard-ly any Negroes voting the Democratic ticket."

CIVIL RIGHTS

She said she would be concerned during the legislative session with advancing civil rights for members of her race, particular efforts for a state law on Fair Employment Practices, commonly called FEPC.

Mr. Powell proved himself a hood status. He didn't make a rabble-rous- ing speech to his Memphis audi- ence. That is, he didn't do a lot of "big gate talk." "Big gate talk" is that brand of loud, ram- bunctious, fist-shaking, f o t- stomping, white-folk-hating tirade in which so many Negro speakers are tempted to indulge when they are sure there's nobody in their audience but Negroes and tolerant whites. Congressman Powell didn't come to Memphis and try to stir his listeners into a frenzy with hate-talk, and then trot happily back to the airport.

Instead, he presented his audi- ence with an interpretation of what's happening, of what is meant, of what can be done, and what should be done in the area of the Negro's struggle for hu- man dignity and the rights of man. He wasn't mad about any- thing. He didn't seem bitter. In- cidentally, men grow bitter only in the face of defeat. Mr. Powell was just emerging from an un- equal, intelligent stable, a n d w precedent political triumph in useful leader. Selah!

LANGSTON HUGHES

Week By Week

Simple's Certain Time of Day

"Have you seen that time of day when everything is sort of hung up like?" asked Simple with a kindly eye. "Maybe I am just glad to get home to Harlem after being downtown with white folks all day. But no, that is not true," asked, paying for my beer. "You know, after the sun has gone down, but night has not yet come, that in-between-t i m e — dusk-dark, I guess you'd call it. In the house it don't make no difference, but out in the street it looks like houses, people, ev- erything, is nearer together — and farther apart, too — all at the same time. Early blue eve- ning and nothing looks like it ever did before." "Your imagination, I guess." "I guess so," said Simple. "And it is not that way every evening. Just some evenings, seems like the air gets sparkles in it. Seems like some kind of magic done come about, and Harlem is pretty, real pretty. "The people, seems like they are people that you heard about in a story or something a long time ago. Even the old wine-o's faces don't look like old wine-o's faces, and strumpets don't look like old strumpets, and broken down apartment houses don't look like what they is. I don't even feel like what I am — still and yet I know I am me. Can you explain such?" "No," I said, "unless it's the time when the sun is tak- ing light away and the night is giving everything a glow. Or, may- be, because you have just got off see nothing. In the dark nobody is nothing, so before the dark comes, everybody seems like more than they is. And they ar more than they were and ar gonna be when the night comes. Do you get me?" "No," I said, "I can't say I follow you." "Then stay behind," said Sim- ple, "because I know if I be all by myself when dusk-dark time comes, I be's everybody around me and every house and build- ing. Seems like I be's the earth and sky, too. If I be walking with Joyce, seems like my wife is me and I am she, and both are more one together than we are when we get home and start talking about I did not take the garbage down before I went to work and why don't I have more of an interest in the house? Then I know night has come. But in the dusk-dark of evening nothing seems to be that ever was before, and nothing is coming again that was like what came the last time, and every- thing is wonderful, and you know you are the most YOU that you have ever seen. Do you get me?" "I never was much of a mys- tice, Jess," I said. "What it sounds like to me is that some- times you are out of this world." "But I still got my feet on the ground," declared Simple. "I do not fly and I'm not high." "Still what you are selling, I can't buy," I said. "Then buy me a beer," sug- gested Simple.

Dope And Data

By LOUIS MARTIN

The political explosion about which we wrote the week before election took place on schedule as expected. Congressman William L. Dawson has come up with the most pointed explanation of the Republican rout. Said he: "The people are up in arms over Republican policies. The rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer. Prices are up and unemployment is up for the first time in our history." There seems to be calculated attempt on the part of most of the newspapers to ignore the "re- cession issue" as a cause for the voters stampede toward the Democrats. The effort to "play down" the high prices, the mil- lions of unemployed and half-em- ployed, and the frightening eco- nomic pinch simply won't work. The heavy industrial areas where the recession hurt most, are the areas which produced the largest Democratic pluralities. I am firmly convinced that the majority of the voters re- gardless of race are "bread and butter" voters. The Democrats, on the whole, understand this and the Republicans, by and large, do not. It is significant that the most important Republican victory last week was the election of multi- millionaire Nelson Rockefeller as New Dealer. In speaking of Mr. Rockefeller, Governor Harriman of New York stated: "If he goes forward with the New Deal pro- gram and philosophy which he possibly help it. The most prac- tical thing they can do about the economic mess is to vote for public officials who are pledged pursuit of happiness."

Our Opinions Can Expect More Liberal Congress

The overwhelming victory scored by the Democrats in the recent election placed the party in a position where it can still control both houses of Congress without the presence of Senators and representatives from the "hard core" South or the South period. We reprint here an editorial from the TUPELO (Miss.) Journal which gives a creditable analysis of the situation. One vital fact stands out, though it is not the premise of the editorial's argument: We can expect a more liberal Congress as a result of the Democrat victory.

this time for our leaders to imply that the South could name the next President if the election were thrown into the House of Representatives through failure of either major candidate to win a majority.

With Democrats piling up their biggest victory margins since the 1930's in the North and East, there is definite danger of a speeded up spending spree with its accompanying threat of even more serious inflation.

This means that congressmen of the South, who are more conservative than the national average, are needed worse than ever in their positions of authority on the various House and Senate committees.

For them to throw away this authority within the Democratic Party — or even to take a 50 - 50 chance of losing it — would, therefore, represent something closely akin to treason to our region.

Mississippi people like to hear our congressmen tell how powerful they are and how they and half a dozen other members from neighboring states can run Congress when the chips are down.

But the facts of political life indicate that such talk is good only for getting votes — not for getting done the things that might be of benefit for the South.

Our region does, however hold unique power in shaping national policy through the system of party seniority which has placed most of the important committees of Congress under southern chairman.

And it is more important than ever that we retain this power and use it to maximum effectiveness in the years ahead in order to keep the tremendous Democratic vote in northern and eastern states from running completely roughshod over Dixie thinking on the more important issues facing the country.

Most of our congressmen, when not talking publicly to lure votes, admit that much of the work in Congress is done through negotiation and "swap out" as members give support to some project in which they are not particularly interested in order to win votes for an issue which they consider of vital importance.

And as long as southerners hold the whip hand over the committees of Congress, they have tremendous bargaining power among other members.

But if Dixie members throw away their seniority in the Democratic Party by withdrawing from its fold, they automatically will lose their position as heads of key committees and sub-com- mittees.

And the South will then be made even more of a whipping boy for irrespon- sible and punitive Republicans from northern states.

Two or three days before the election Representative Jamie Whitten, usually one of Mississippi's more thoughtful congressmen, made a speech in which he recommended that the South serve notice upon national Democratic leaders that a third party is under considera- tion.

"It is high time for the South to let both Democrats and Republicans know that southern congressmen can deter- mine which party controls Congress," he stated.

"As few as 25 House members and three or four senators from the South by standing together could determine the control of Congress," the Mississippi representative added in support of his argument. And he was so convinced of this fact that he said southerners would not even have to worry about loss of their committee chairmanships if they organized a third party.

That statement by Congressman Whitten may, or may not, have been correct a couple of days ago. We will never know. But certainly it isn't correct any longer.

For Tuesday's election gave the Democratic Party such an overwhelming majority that no longer can a handful of congressmen from the really "solid" states of the old Solid South influence decisions in either house of Congress.

And that means that our political leaders must immediately begin rethinking third party possibilities if they are to remain effective in representing the South in Congress.

Democrats picked up so many seats Tuesday that they would still control the Senate even if every Senator from Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Arkan- sas, Virginia and South Carolina de- serted the party.

And in the House, Democrats record- ed such heavy gains that every rep- resentative from these same deep South states — plus those from Ten- nessee or Louisiana — could pull out of the party without destroying the Dem- ocratic majority.

At this point, therefore, it appears completely unrealistic for southern congressmen to imply that they can gain control of Congress next year by threat- ening to form a third party.

And it appears equally unrealistic at

SO WHAT?

"I SURE WISH I HAD HIS 'DOE!'"

The People Speak

Dear Sirs:

I am a 15-year-old Negro girl and the president of a newly or- ganized club composed of youths. The "YFE," Youth For Equal- ity club.

We are a group of ambitious youth who would like to see and anything we can to help our race equalize with other races. Our motto is "Together We Stand, Divided We Fall." We feel that we (the Negroes) have suf- fered long enough.

The fight for equality is not only Rev. Martin Luther King's in Alabama, or Mrs. Daisy Bates in Little Rock, or Mr. O. Z. Evers' in Memphis but is ev- ery civil minded Negro's. The reason I said civil minded is be- cause we feel that there are a few Negroes left who think like Mrs. Izola Curry and we also have people who don't care a b o u t civil rights. They are usually the people who are Uncle Tom minded, scared and some- times paid to decrease the pro- gress of his people. These are the Uncle Toms who belong locked their cabins and shipped down to Hell.

Tell me, if we don't stand

For the civil minded Negro is opportunity to make America the Negro who is willing to go all the way for what is his. For our rights, who will?

As soon as the Negroes will stand up for their rights and be counted 100 per cent, then we'll accomplish our goal. As soon as the Negroes learn that we are (in) the present, not the past and think toward his freedom for the future, then we can look for our place in society.

Our forefathers were Uncle Toms, our great grandfathers were Uncle Tommy. We are now supposed to be Mr. and Mrs. Tom of the present, intelligent and educated.

We have passed from the stage of a child to an adult, although we are still being referred to as "boy" and "girl" and yet we accept it. How old do we have to get before we are a man and woman? We cannot call ourself as Americans truly, because we do not have the democracy that came after open and vellel war constitutionally ours, and yet, fare by invading armies, under name else. We have fought, work- ed and contributed to America to make it great and we are be- lieving denied a better educational

With the perseverance of great people as Mr. King, Mrs. Bates and Mr. Evers and you (the people) fighting for your rights, (someday) you may enjoy what your forefathers and yourself worked for. (Then) you can lift your head in Pride and say "I am an American."

A wakeup, Gloria J. Gigger

Twenty-Five Years After

Dear Editor: Twenty-five years have joined eternity since Franklin D. Roose- velt established for the American people the heretofore ignored fact, that there was and is a physical, political and ideological entity comprising one-sixth of this world, known to others as the Soviet Union.

The recognition with the estab- lishment of diplomatic relations the country and later provide a powerful ally to save America from fascism. To remember and recall, on this and every succeeding anni- versary, these events with due re- spect to the people and their actions in these events, for good try to any great extent, into a multitude of nationalities made to hate, and war on each other un- der the pretense of "self-deter- mination," but in reality for the benefit of international imperialists and monopoly capitalism.

It is highly wholesome for the living on this, the 25th anniversary, to recall and gratefully acknowledge the vision as well as all of these American people who prepared the ground and for 16 preceding years tirelessly labored to make it possible.

This officially put an end to open warfare on the Soviet Union and enabled America to start on the way out of the big depression which, under the helm of the "great engineer", was ravaging the country and later provide a powerful ally to save America from fascism.

However, our major problem is that we are Negroes; once this is discovered there are no longer any vacancies for us. This is the situation in the great city of Chicago. We hope the city Council will pass an ordinance requiring owners to select their tenants on the basis of their reference, not their color. James and Esther Barber

Lena Horne Hit 'Jamaica' Still Broadway Socker

NEW YORK — One doesn't have to ask how is the Lena Horne star "Jamaica" doing these days as has been true all through its operating on Broadway. Simply drop around the Imperial theatre where show is operating nightly at with added afternoon matinees and you'll have living answers. Answers that appear in form of lines waiting for last minute cancellations of tickets and those who are on hand to pick up in advance by a friend. It all adds up to a successful engagement for the show that stars Lena Horne with Ricardo Montalban appearing opposite her. Most evenings tickets are available, that is if you call for them either early in the morning or just

"Anna Lucasta" has been completed with Sammy Davis, Jr., Eartha Kitt, Fredrick O'Neal, Rex Ingram and several others featured. The pic opens in Chicago on world premiere kick next Thursday. "Lucasta" as an all-Sepia starrer. Nearing completion is "Porgy 'N Bess" the Samuel Goldwyn starrer with Sammy Davis, Dorothy Dandridge, Sidney Poitier, Diahann Carroll and many others featured. This is also an all-Negro cast vehicle.

However there are others with equal kick that is made up of interracial cast. One is Paramount's "The Five Pennies" with Danny Kaye and Louis Armstrong co-starring with Barbara Bel Geddes. Picture is based on life story of Red Nichols with Kaye in the lead role. Another pic on the interracial kick and about ready to be released is "Night Of The Quarter Moon." This one stars Julie London, Ray Anthony, Billy Daniels, Louis Armstrong and others. Nat King Cole sings the title song in the picture soon to be released.

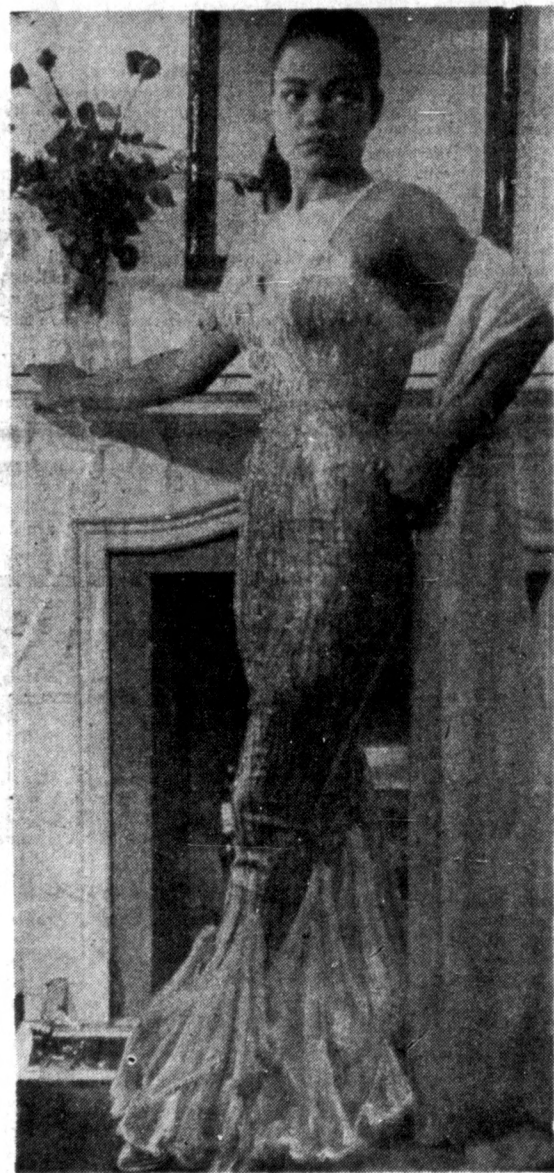

Over at United-International studios officials are putting finishing touches on another interracial, "Imitation Of Life." This one stars Lana Turner and Juanita Moore among others. Story is a bit different from an earlier "Imitation" made a decade ago that starred Claudette Colbert, Freddie Washington, Louise Beavers, Ned Sparks and Warren Williams.

More interesting yet is the soon to be made film, "Odds Against Tomorrow" starring Harry Belafonte who will also produce the film. The cast will be interracial.

Another sock interracial film being made is "The Wonderful Country" starring Julie London, Robert Mitchum and (believe it or not) the one and only Satchel Paige of baseball fame. Old Satch is quite excited about this one and well he should be. The baseball great has quite an interesting role in the flicker.

Ivory Joe Hunter Off

LOS ANGELES — Ivory Joe Hunter, the band leader who has given the music world as many tunes as any other composer, has enjoyed a most successful stay on the Coast. Ivory Joe brought his band here after starring stints in Texas and Oklahoma where he packed most of the major halls. He had previously been in New York recording several new tunes, many of which he introduced to audiences here at spots including the 54 Ballroom. Ivory Joe, who hit the big time in compositions with his best seller "I Almost Lost My Mind" several seasons ago has come on with several other hits that rated hit parade considerations. The band is scheduled for several more engagements on West Coast after which it pulls out on one-nighter jaunt.

EARTHA KITT is shown in the flame colored sheath gown she wore when appearing with Pat Boone at Command Performance for Queen Elizabeth in London last Monday. The dress designed by Miss Kitt is made of silk chiffon, hand painted embroidery with bugle beads.

That Kitt Gal! Chicagoans Call Her The Mostest

Eartha Kitt came to Chicago, captured the scene and locals are still agog over seeing and talking with one of the most prolific figures in entertainment circles. Here for publicity campaign on her picture "Anna Lucasta" in which she occupies title role La Kitt literally took over the city. Everywhere she visited claims for her were the same "Terrific." One of her major stops was at the Lake Meadows Shopping Center where she autographed picture for admiring fans. She also visited Oriental theatre where the picture opens next Wednesday morning in what is called "World Premiere." Later she visited other places and topped off her stay by attending a cocktail party in Chez Paree that was hosted by Sammy Davis, Jr., who co-stars with her in "Lucasta". The affair was staged to officially present Miss Kitt to local radio, television and the press. Miss Kitt is not only alluring. She's dynamic-in-every-sense - of the word. Her manners of speech and sexy-walk-are-among-the-attributes the little girl boasts. She is natural however and openly untouched by it all. Examples include fact that she was as relaxed and conversational when in the presence of Chicago's Mayor Daley as when conversing with the ordinary citizens at the spotlighting around her in Lake Meadows. In both spots she was simply Eartha Kitt the girl who left St. Louis, Mo., and has since conquered most of the entertainment world. — "TAKE A GIANT STEP" with Fred O'Neal and others of the off-Broadway cast featured is due to hit the shooting lot soon. — "JEFFERY HOLDER" will join popular wife in a Broadway show to open soon. —

Hollywood Has Memories Of Pix 'B Of Nation', 'G With W'; Balks

HOLLYWOOD — Civil War's Centennial celebrations set for 1961 will be spotlighted plenty through medium of television but it looks as though filmland will look out the window during the period.

Currently there are no known plans for spotlighting memory of the period at any studio. In some quarter it is the opinion of experts that Hollywood remembers the reaction to "Gone With The Wind" and "Birth Of A Nation" and wants no part of anything that might bring about a repeat. Even though both films turned out to be good box office the attacks that they were forced to brave might be too much to cope with in these days of "power from the other side of the tracks" due to increased voting strength both north and south of Mason and Dixon line.

Under present conditions the problems of such spotlighting on nation's screens would be too numerous. To make the films sell in Dixie the same type of Negro characters introduced in "Gone With The Wind" and "Birth Of A Nation" would have to be presented. To satisfy the minority groups the same changes in the film that show in "St Louis Blues" and "Anna Lucasta" would be necessary. Thus it would be impossible to satisfy both and keep the civil war theme.

An even more difficult situation would arise during casting period. It is most unlikely that any of the current group enlightened and younger thinking Sepias would agree to play such roles as those performed by the older set that appeared in "Gone With The Wind," "Birth Of A Nation" and "Hearts In Dixie," to name a few.

In television where channels can be switched in favor of a more suited program (authority: Harry Belafonte, Steve Allen and NBC-TV) it is a bit different. Perhaps that is why the thought of civil war centennial presents no early problems. Then too, television has discovered that so long as the south "wins all arguments and scenes" the program is welcomed. Such TV tapes as "The Gray Ghost" and other films selected from files of Hollywood is ample proof of this charge.

In the end there may be a few pictures made with "centennial" themes but by small or independent studios. However such films rarely hit the major theatres so perhaps there will be a market.

so they say

By AL MONROE

"DEAR AL," says a letter just opened, "may I first ask that you not use my name in quoting what I am about to say." ANYWAY AL I have read your columns for years even including when you were writing sports, and even though I did not always agree with what you wrote I nevertheless liked the way you started your case or that of your readers, as you always said. — WELL AL, OF LATE I have become to respect you even more than in the past and likewise to agree with some of the things you said that didn't strike me as justifiable criticism at the time you wrote it.

AL I HAVE APPEARED on television programs as guest star several times, as you know of course, each time striving to do my best under handicaps that were placed in front of me by the program directors. — I HAVE FOUND IN many instances, just as you pointed out, and I criticize you for doing, the program directors appear determined to stymie your performance by giving you numbers that do not fit your style and go with your voice.

— WHEN YOU COMPLAIN or offer suggestions they frown on every effort and even start whispering about that you are hard to handle and will not go along. — AL, IT IS ACTUALLY tougher than you have said in your column from time to time. — THEY TELL YOU HOW TO dress, always suggesting something that you do not look even fair in and even insist that you do not show an indication to accept applause from the studio audience for fear some viewers will object to your reception. — AL OF THE THREE appearances I have made on television not once have I been permitted to sing a tune that had previously proved its popularity on records and with the nation's disc jockeys. — NO AL, BELIEVE IT or not my and your troubles are not with Dixie alone. — MADISON AVENUE is as much of a problem as any Dixie crew including those who blacked out the Harry Belafonte show. Thanks, Al for not using my name, as I know you won't do.

SAMMY DAVIS, Jr., and theatre management where "Anna Lucasta" is opening (Oriental theatre) Nov. 26 tossed a whale of a party in "Key Room" of Chez Paree for Eartha Kitt Sunday past. MISS KIT, had stopped off in Chicago to publicize picture's world premiere. — CURRENT ENGAGEMENT OF Sarah Vaughan at loop's Blue Note is socksational with La Vaughan dishing out some of the tunes she sang at World's Fair in Brussels. — FIRST SEPIA STARS to hit Miami the coming season will be Four Step Br-thers who will be filling a commitment held over from last winter. — HEAR TELL highest paid performers on lot at "Porgy 'N Bess" filming were Sammy Davis, Jr., and Dorothy Dandridge with Pearl Bailey running a very, very close third. — SAMMY DAVIS, Jr., must be a whale of a guy. No? Then why hasn't he raised hell Columbia about a close friend allegedly "giving out information," true or false, about him to confidential magazine?

Belafonte Puts Cash Where Mouth Is; Old Legend Wins

By DELORES CALVIN

NEW YORK — If we put our money where our mouth is, — That's an old saying that you've heard over and over with variations but never has it been so true as in show business. Top name stars have moaned so often about not being treated right in the theatre and in the movies and that they could be big box office. But they never put money or gather money together to prove what they can do. They have to wait for others to put the money up. Harry Belafonte is a guy after our own hearts. He's putting up the money and he's producing what he thinks will sell, and not what another Hollywood producer thinks. Even if what he produces should fail — and somehow we think Harry has the midas touch so that it just won't — even if it does, he will have set an example in showing what has possibilities as box office. There's been many a story on Broadway, many a story on the screen that haven't required too much money, $20,000 it took to produce the sensationally successfully "Two-On-A-Seesaw" with a cast of two on Broadway. Some "sleepers" have almost been singly financed in the movies and have been highly successful, too. But as Negroes, would rather talk about how others ought to spend theirs and star us than how we ought to get our own together and star ourselves and see if it will make money. Belafonte's show is called "Odds Against Tomorrow." He has in mind veteran actor Lyod Nolan to take the role of a crooked fight manager, who forces a Negro and a white boy to stage a robbery. A third star, Harry wants, is the new box office attraction, Tony Franciosa and you know he might just get this popular star on his terms, because there are a few in Hollywood — as in other places in business — who will go along with you if you have the guts to start out on your own.

Flowers Lend Much To The Holiday Spirit

What's the most important part of the Thanksgiving table — turkey . . . stuffing . . . cranberry sauce? Or would you say pumpkin pie or mince pie? No matter what your choice, we'd bet our drumstick that mother or grandmother and the others who've spent the morning in traditional family reunion, would pick the lovely flowers gracing the table. If the flowers were wired from an absent loved one, it's an even surer bet.

Although the Pilgrims were probably too busy trying to grow food to concentrate very much on flowers, old sketches and prints do have posies in evidence at the first Thanksgiving Day in 1621.

It was that year that the basic pattern of Thanksgiving and sharing was set for the New World, even if accidental in some ways. Almost everyone knows that the Indians celebrated with the colonists, but how many realize that they could be called the "Wanpanoags who came to dinner."

The chief, Massasoit, had been invited to the Pilgrims' feast, but the colony of about 50 was unprepared for the 90 braves who came with him — and stayed this was the white man's version of their tribal harvest festival — the Green Corn Dance.

The hosts courageously saw through, setting out a supply of food though it meant the winter's stores. And while the women cooked for the three day feast, the men matched skills with the Indians. These days were a departure from the normally austere existence of the colonists, but served them well in future dealings with the natives.

Times changed and Thanksgiving customs continued — in a more refined manner. But today didn't become a real national holiday until Lincoln's proclamation in 1863 establishing the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day. This was the first presidential proclamation to honor the Constitution, designating November 26, 1789 "as a day of general thanksgiving for the establishment of a form of government that would make for safety and happiness."

Thanksgiving, with its festive food, its flowers and its family fun, remains as a day to express gratitude for the bounty and beauty of the land and to share the things with family and friends. Three days! The Indians though

Teenagers Are More Mature Now

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK — So you think a teen-ager does nothing but play rock-and-roll, tie up the phone and borrow the car? Then you're strictly from Squaresville.

"That stereotyped picture is 'fuzzy, out of focus, and out of date,'" says Mrs. Enid A. Haupt, editor and publisher of Seventeen magazine.

"Today's teen-aged girl is a mature young person—a full five years older in attitude than teens of the previous generation."

"For the first time in history, the teen girl is as informed as her elders in many fields," said Mrs. Haupt, who believes adults need to take a second, penetrating look at the nation's adolescents.

"I've learned they also are very busy-minded their younger sisters and brothers, helping mother run the home.

"The girls cook an average of eight family meals a week, earn more than two billion dollars a year in part-time jobs and baby sitting.

They stockpile their hope chests and they improve their looks with 250 million dollars worth of grooming products a year.

They spend 25 per cent of their family's food budget, and buy clothes to the tune of two and a half billion dollars a year.

Mrs. Haupt is the mother of a daughter and one of seven sisters a background she considers helpful in her work.

Mrs. Haupt does not believe in "talking down" to teen-agers.

She added that dating may be more sophisticated today, but the kids are canner about dating practices than adults realize.

"Contrary to public opinion, most teen-agers do not go steady. They don't want to put all their eggs in one basket. They go ALMOST steady. They call it "going steady," she said.

NEW YORK — When a woman heads a department store, she's entitled to feel successful.

But Dorothy Shaver doesn't. "Don't say 'successful.' Someone might question if I AM a success," said Miss Shaver, who became president of Lord and Taylor 1 year ago — the first woman to hold such a position.

A tall, angular woman with dark, magnetic hair, lively eyes, and a genuine personality, Miss Shaver loves people and puts modesty first in her life.

In her job, two things help her most: "A real interest in people — not just because I have to be interested as head of a company — and enthusiasm for ideas."

Senator Buys Door For Wife, Builds For It

PRINCETON, N. J. — Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R) N. J., bought a front door to please his wife — and then built a house to go with it.

The 78-year-old Senator, who is retiring voluntarily from Congress at the end of the year, has scored many legislative triumphs in his career. But none gave him and Mrs. Smith more personal delight than the coup by which he acquired the door to their home.

In telling the story to a member of the National Association of Home Builders, the Senator said that for the first 20 years and more of their married life, "We banged around from one hired house to another but we always figured we would have a home of our own one day."

Mrs. Smith planned and re-planned the home she wanted. The one detail that never changed was the front door. She knew exactly what she wanted — a colonial door with long narrow windows at either side and slats shaped like an open fan at the top.

When Smith was administrator and a lecturer at Princeton university in 1926, they bought the site for their home near the campus.

"We used to drive to Canada every summer on a fishing trip," the Senator said.

"That year when we got to Maine and, as we were driving through Bangor, I saw a house down the street with the kind of door my wife wanted. I stopped the car, pointed the door out to her and said I was going to get it for her."

"I went to the house, rang the bell and when a man answered I said, 'Don't think I'm crazy but I would like to buy your front door.'"

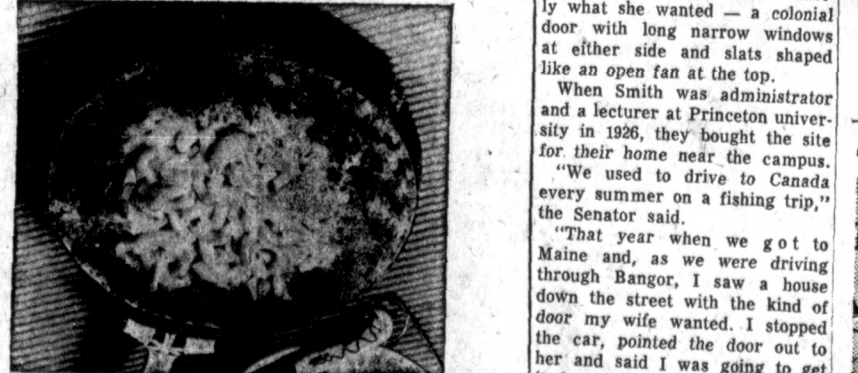

"He replied, 'Don't think I'm crazy but I don't want to sell it.'"

The Bangor man explained that the door had been in his family for more than 150 years. Although disappointed, Smith gave the man his name and the address he could be reached in Canada. "In case you change your mind,"

Says May Help Rights Fight

NEW YORK — The results of the elections, viewed as a whole, are encouraging to advocates of civil rights and "may enhance the possibility of securing an effective anti-filibuster rule in the Senate at the opening of the 86th Congress," Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, said here in a post-election statement.

The NAACP leader also indicated that "the chances of rejecting proposals to curb the Supreme Court may have been improved" as a result of the election inasmuch as some of the strongest advocates of such legislation will not be returning to Congress.

The text of Wilkins' statement follows: The NAACP is heartened by the election results which it views, on the whole, as a triumph for liberalism and an affirmation of civil rights.

There is regret for the loss of Gov. Averell Harriman who has been in the forefront of the fight for civil rights in the councils of the national Democratic party.

But the election of Nelson Rockefeller places in Albany a man who, in his own right as well as by family tradition, is committed to efforts to improve race relations and to the support of civil rights. Senator-elect Kenneth B. Keating of New York is the author of the Civil Rights Act of 1957 and has consistently played a leading part in the fight for such legislation in the House of Representatives even though there was only a handful of Negro voters among his constituents in his congressional district.

Similarly, the election to the Senate of former Rep. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania adds another strong civil rights voice in the Senate.

Senators-elect Harrison Williams of New Jersey; Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota; Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, and Jennings Randolph of West Virginia established reputations as liberals when they were in the House of Representatives.

A number of new faces with advanced commitment to civil rights will appear in both Houses of Congress.

The election may enhance the possibility of securing an effective anti-filibuster rule in the Senate at the opening of the 86th Congress.

Likewise, the chances of rejecting proposals to curb the Supreme Court may have been much improved.

aquilegia (columbine) last summer, you may see some baby plants sprouting now, for they do seed themselves. Let these babies alone unless you have a cold frame in which to transplant them).

They are tender, and cannot stand transplanting into the open. If you do nothing now you will be surprised to find many of them accommodating themselves to the weather and returning to life next spring.

Cut off tops of other perennials, if you haven't already done so, especially peonies. Burn them, for they carry disease over the winter. You see fall work is primarily cleaning up work; this not only makes the whole place look better during the winter, but destroys many insect eggs and disease germs.

Destroy all your spent annuals, zinnia, salvia, marigolds, petunias etc. They have already thrown their seeds, some of which may germinate next spring. The dead plants are ugly all winter. Besides, spring is a rush season at best, and especially so here in the Chicago area, where our lake holds winter cold a long time. So anything in the way of clean-up that we do now is a big help next spring, when everything for next year's garden needs to be done at once.

That's it. I must go water my evergreens now.

Parents Grade Schools 'A' For Education Week

Schools in Memphis and Shelby county, as well as those throughout other parts of the nation, welcomed parents and visitors through their doors last week as American Education Week was observed from Nov. 9 through 15.

Melrose, Douglass, Porter, Ford Road, La Rose, Porter and other schools presented sterling performances showing the time and work employed by the teachers and students to make the week a memorable one.

Working under the education theme, "Report Card, U. S. A.," as did all the schools, Douglass presented a skit entitled, "A Look into Our Classrooms," on Monday, Nov. 10, beginning at 12:15 in the school auditorium. The program featured sketches from the various departments, and reflected the planning and practice necessary for the skillful performances.

Several exhibits, showing the students' achievements, were placed throughout the building. The art department displayed drawings and paintings; the home economics section featured tasty foods; and the history department had a map display. Also impressive were the skits in Spanish and English. Prof. J. D. Springer is principal.

THANKSGIVING THEME

At the Ford Elementary school the Thanksgiving motif was employed. Following this line of presentation all the classrooms were decorated with scenes in keeping with Thanksgiving season. Pictures of the Pilgrims, turkeys, and other holiday mementoes were in evidence in all rooms.

On Wednesday night, Nov. 12, the parents were invited to a special celebration. In all of the halls there were pianos behind played by teachers to greet the "old folks" with lulling music to give them the proper holiday spirit.

At 7:30 p. m., the third grade section, led by Mrs. Annie B. Nave, gathered out in the hallway near the office of Principal Isaac Goodrich, and gave the parents a treat of hymn singing for the devotional period. Signs of delight appeared on the faces of the parents as they listened to the harmony produced by the young children. Providing the musical accompaniment at the piano was Mrs. Jean Haywood, a third grade teacher.

Mrs. Nave pointed out to the visitors, who packed the school, how these devotional services served to help teach the children how to read and understand.

Student guides were present in the various classrooms to explain the displays. Such a guide was 10-year-old Patricia Ann Odell, who directed the parents through her fifth grade art class, explaining each picture without the least hesitation.

USES CITIZENSHIP THEME
Grades one through eight at Prof. J. L. Brinkley's LaRose school put into effect the principles of the three "R's."

A project, centered around the theme of "Citizenship," was presented in the cafeteria. This program was designed to develop, in the student, a wholesome outlook toward his environment and the universe.

Other exhibits were displayed in every room. The many parents, who attended the school during the program were interested in knowing just how their children were being taught day by day.

Principal Brinkley discussed the importance of the report card and pointed out the need for the parent to know just how his or her child is developing and how the parent could aid that development. Also explained to the parents were the methods by which their children are taught, according to the City Board of Education.

OPEN HOUSE AT MELROSE
Melrose High school got American Education Week off to an impressive start with an open house on Sunday, Nov. 9, from 4-6 p. m. At 4 p. m., nearly a thousand parents and students packed the gym for a program that featured music, drills, exercises and remarks to the visitors from F. M. Campbell, principal.

After the program, refreshments were served and the guests were taken on a guided tour of the beautifully decorated rooms.

On Wednesday, Nov. 12, the Sci-Che-Bi-Phy Science club took charge of programming with a skit entitled "What We Don't Know About Our School." This program was designed to make the parents, teachers and students aware of their responsibilities to each other, and many parents were present.

TOP STUDENTS
The club is composed of ninth and tenth grade students with an A or B average in science courses. Mrs. Ruthie C. Campbell is the club advisor.

Taking part on the program also was the Melrose Glee club, directed by Miss Viola Flowers, with Mrs. Laura Etta Jones accompanying. Irish James and Miss Marilyn Isabel were featured soloists.

The Porter Elementary and Junior High schools held their Open House program in the gymnasium on Wednesday night before an overflow audience of parents, students, and well-wishers.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Mrs. Lawrence Coe, of the Board of Education, Memphis City Schools, who spoke on the subject, "The Curriculum," and advised parents to request that certain subjects be added to those offered at certain high schools.

THE PROGRAM
Music for the program was provided by the high school band under the direction of Prof. W. Martin. Also appearing on the program were Rev. H. C. Nabrit, pastor of First Baptist church, Lauderdale, who read scripture and gave the prayer; Mrs. B. A. E. Callaway, who explained the purpose of American Education Week; along with the members of the Junior High Glee club.

Douglass Line Paves Way For Upset Win

Douglass High of Memphis gained sweet revenge last Thursday night, in Melrose stadium, when they turned back the powerful Lincoln Tigers of Forrest City, Ark., 27-13.

The thrilling contest, highlighting the 11th Annual Nursery Bowl Classic was played before a partisan crowd of about 1500 cheering, stomping football fans. Douglass was the underdog, having suffered an early season defeat at the hands of the Tigers, 20-7.

The direction of battle was set immediately after Douglass kicked off to Lincoln, to open the game, and then swooped down the field to up-end the Lincoln receiver before he could take a dozen steps. One fan remarked at the jarring gang tackle, "these Douglass fellows came to play to-night."

And play they did! The hard charging Douglass line, led by the Ballard brothers, slowed down the churning drives of the feared Lincoln backfield to a mere walk.

A FUMBLE
Until midway the first quarter the teams played even with the lines showing the way. Then Douglass fumbled on their own 20 to give the Tigers a scoring break. Two plays later Lincoln's Fullback-Captain Jones skirted end for 14 yards and the first score. The PAT was missed.

Douglass lost little time in over-coming the six point deficit when shortly after the start of the second quarter they moved the ball, after a Lincoln punt, 31 yards with Fullback Tom Brownlee dashing the final five yards for the tying TD. Halfback Long bolter over tackle for the PAT to put Douglass ahead, 7-6.

Lincoln came roaring back to take the lead on a tremendous Britnum to end here down to the Douglass 35. Halfback Twillie carried to the 10. Watson bulled to the four and two plays later Watson went in for the TD. Twillie ran the PAT and Lincoln led once again, 13-7, as the exciting first half neared an end.

RUNNING DEVLIS
With backs Douglass and Brownlee running like scared jackrabbits, the Red Devils were in the march again midway the third quarter. Starting on the 50 yard stripe, Douglass picked up five, then two, to the 43 yard line. Brownlee went to the 36, Douglass to the 32. Brownlee to the 30, Douglass to the 21, Douglass to the 10, Long to the nine, and then to completely baffled the Tiger defense which was set for another running play. Quarterback Parrish hit Douglass in the end zone for the catch-up tally. The missed PAT left the score deadlocked at 13-13.

From this point each line stopped the other team cold until the fourth quarter when Douglass recovered a fumble on the Lincoln four yard line. A penalty pushed the Red Devils back to the 20 but Brownlee gained back almost all the lost yardage on a 12 yard spurt to the Lincoln eight. Then went all the way for the tie-breaker. The PAT was good, Parrish flipping to end Mannings, and Douglass was ahead to stay, 20-13.

With 53 seconds left in the game Brownlee scooted over for the final Douglass TD of the game from 26 yards out, after a sustained drive of 59 yards.

HALF-TIME ACTIVITY
The sparkling football game was complemented by the very fine half-time show which featured the Teen Town Singers, led by A. C. Williams; an appearance from Stepin Fetchit; the drawing for the new automobile; and the crowning of the Nursery Bowl Queen. The Douglass band gave a performance of well-executed march formations.

Mrs. Lucille Littlejohn, of 1793 Barksdale st., was the winner of the new automobile.

Miss Willa Monroe, well-known local radio personality, crowned Miss Catherine Thomas, of 2230 Derby pl., as "Queen of the

HUMBOLDT, TENNESSEE

The City Federation of Clubs met in the Lucy Lee Beauty school. Much business was transacted pertaining to the coming state meeting, next June. Final reports on the Fashion Review were made. Plans are being made for a Miss and Mrs. popularity contest to culminate sometime in February. Names of contestants will be announced at a later date.

Mrs. Lurcia Cunningham presided; Miss Enid Sims is the secretary.

The various clubs of the Federation are sponsoring projects to aid in the great expense that will be on the shoulders of the Federation. It is the hope of the general chairman, that the city of Humboldt will cooperate with these efforts. It will be much easier if all would share a little, rather than put much on a few. Please attend the planned programs of these Federated clubs. We can't go along, so let's get together and put over this mammoth program. Maybe you'll see where you could do the job better than the ones assigned to the task of leadership, but since it is all outlined, get behind whoever is leading and we will all get the credit.

The annual banquet of the auxiliary of the American Legion was a grand affair, with only a few there to enjoy the fellowship and partake of the luscious menu prepared by the ladies, Mrs. Louise Cooper, the newly elected chairman of the group, furnished music and Mrs. Elizabeth Ballard served as toastmistress. The cafeteria of Stigall High was all ablaze with nicely arranged tables decorated with flags and Christmas holly. With the years in between, the scars of the previous wars, are still evident and the memory of those who gave the supreme gift, has lingered through these years. The effort is in their memory and to keep up the happy spirit of those who were fortunate enough to come back safe and sound. Our boys played their part in those conflicts, and those who did not go, or even those who have come to age since, should be happy of the opportunity to share in those memories. The evidence of unconcern was shown in the many absent places, where invitations had been given and the invited failed to respond. Together we stand, divided we fall.

The Book Lovers club met in the home of Mrs. D. M. McKinney with Mrs. Drucilla Tuggle as hostess.

Mr. Tom Nolan suffered a light heart attack in Services at the Fairview Sunday afternoon, but is reported as doing fine now. Others sick are Messrs. Roy Carnes, Claydon Clark, Will Mullins, Messdames, Katherine Greene and Bessie O'Daniel. The Shuttins are Mrs. Lue Featherston and Mrs. Missie Parnee, who suffered a broken arm a few days ago.

Mrs. Bobbie Harris sponsored a Home Dinner a few days ago, with this we leave you. ADIOS AMIGOS!

Dyer, Rutherford, Trenton

The appearance of Owen college choir at Holly Grove Baptist church on Sunday before last was another one of those events that only the perfect adjective can describe. I can not supply the perfect adjective, but I can say, with all sincerity, it was wonderful!

The group, directed by Mrs. Dorothy Graham, and attired in the most attractive green and white robes, entered the sanctuary at 3 p. m. and opened the program with "Rejoice Ye Pure in Heart," followed by several selections that kept the audience above the common plane for the entire hour.

I am void again of words to paint in your minds the picture left with us from the smile of Mrs. Graham. It was a smile that is seldom seen. A smile that one could feel "way down deep within." A smile that spoke a certain language to Owen choir as they joyfully lifted their voices in harmonious anthems of praises.

Miss Lue Ella Morgan, a recent graduate from our high school, and now a student at Owen, sang with the group.

Rev. L. Nelson was program coordinator.

Speaking of churches, Fairview Baptist church had their guest speaker on Sunday last, the Rev. J. Westmorland, pastor of the First Baptist church, white.

The Rev. D. E. Bridgeman and Mrs. Edmonia Skinner were dinner guests of Mrs. Georgia Harris and son, Richard. The Dyer CME church is announcing a Harvest Tea to be given at the school on Thanksgiving Day from 4-6 p. m. a spaghetti dinner to be given Saturday, Nov. 22, and a Junior Fashion Revue on Dec. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Burns, Mesdames Virginia O'Daniel and Mattie Ellington attended the second Annual Fall Fashion and Hair Style Show given by the Tennessee Beauticians Progressive Association, Memphis, of which Mrs. Burns is a member, on Tuesday night of this week.

The Just-Us Club gave away a basket of groceries at the American Legion Dance Nov. 11. Visitors in the area include Messrs. Elias Bobbit and Champ Ward of Indianapolis and Rev. J. C. Ramsey of Toledo, Ohio, and son Robert Ramsey, of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. James Ramsey who is a Shelby County teacher and Mr. Joe Stockard, brother of Mrs. Marie Wade, from Jackson, Mich.

Others participating in the drive Misses Wilma Booker, Betty Sue Bailey and Georgia Bailey. Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Rogers were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Alexander. The passing of Mrs. Candis Ervin after a lengthy illness was sad to those persons who knew and loved her. Those persons from out-of-town that attended the funeral, on Sunday last were her children, Mr. and Mr. Charles Ervin, John Ervin and Miss Geneva Ervin all of Chicago, Son, Joe Ervin, of Indianapolis. Other relatives that attended include Mr. Charlie L. Wells of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Williams of St. Louis and Mr. Mrs. Charlie Jenkins and Mrs. Fiary Jenkins of Rutherford.

Man Lives Double Life For 30 Years

CHICAGO — For 30 years in St. Louis, Fred Demery, alias Powell, lived two lives, one as a Negro, the other white, according to an article in the December issue of Ebony Magazine.

Early last year Demery, now 66, confessed his double-life at the Baptist church where he made announcements. "It was done on a strictly business basis," he says. "I wanted a job. Back there in the depression, they were hiring few whites and no Negroes. I lost a lot of pleasure in life just to keep a job. It was hell."

A pillar of a Negro church, active in city and state Negro organizations and a dutiful mate to a Negro wife, Demery acted out his drama in a small area covering some 40 city blocks.

According to Ebony, Demery is now living in retirement on the West Coast.

Christmas is close too. One of the foods that almost any home-maker is sure to serve during this season is cranberries. They lend a festive color and a tart certain flavor.

Cranberries were first found by the Pilgrims soon after they landed at Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts. That fact makes them tie in perfectly with that Thanksgiving turkey. Besides this cranberries are on the USDA plentiful list. Turkey is too. So you can give your family these good, good treats and still be economical.

Turkey for dinner always brings up the question of what size to shop for. This usually depends on how many persons will be seated at the festive table, and how big the appetites. For each generous serving of roast turkey allow 3-4 to 1 pound of ready-to-cook weight for birds weighing less than 12 pounds and 1/2 to 3/4 pound for each serving for birds weighing 12 pounds or over. This is because the lighter birds have more bone for the amount of meat than the heavier birds.

Serve this delicious sauce with your turkey; you, your family and friends will like it.

MUSING: Emotional Cycle — In most cases people fail to recognize any particular changes within themselves. Outside conditions, most people feel, are responsible. The reason may be that a man has not slept well, or he has had a spat with his wife. Then again, the nasty weather may be to blame for one's bad disposition. What can we do? (more next week.)

Dear Carlotta:
Should a widow accept an engagement ring? Widow.
Dear Widow:
Yes indeed, I can't imagine why she should hesitate, for it is not a question of bad taste. I am sure that the new husband-to-be would be baffled should she turn down his offer. His first thought would be, "Does her first husband mean more to her than I do?"

One marriage has ended either by death or divorce, and there is no reason at all why a widow should not wear the new ring which would be the sign that she is about to begin married life anew. Not only is the ring one way of letting it be known that she is engaged to be married, but it represents a bond between her and her fiancé. It is also a cherished ornament.

If the widow has an engagement ring from her former marriage, she will have to decide whether to put it away, or whether to have it re-set and made into a dinner ring that she could wear on the little finger of the right hand.

If she does this, she should be sure that her new husband does not object, or that the stone is not too vividly associated with

Shelby County Prepares For Foundation's Drive

The $65,000,000 March of Dimes Campaign in 1959 against the major crippling diseases of arthritis, birth defects and polio is the greatest health challenge ever presented to the American people, Mr. R. P. Bratton, Shelby County March of Dimes Director declared last week. "If the public responds with the same overwhelming support it gave in the crucial days of the polio battle," he said, "there will be launched a successful crusade which could lead to even greater medical victories than the Salk vaccine." He pointed out that with proper public support, scientists backed by the March of Dimes could quickly follow up the promising research and rehabilitation leads uncovered in polio, thereby offering new hope in discovering the cause and prevention of arthritis and birth defects. Returning from a meeting of March of Dimes leaders from Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and Missouri in Memphis, Mr. Bratton also gave details of the National Foundation's new multi-million dollar scholarship program designed to provide the nation with vitally needed health workers. He said the beginning in 1959, the March of Dimes organization would give 505 scholarships valued at $500 each year to high school graduates and college students for study in the fields of medicine, nursing, physical therapy, occupational therapy and dental-social work. The scholarship program will cost some $12,000,000 over the next ten years, he added. Commenting on the scope of the new March of Dimes activities Mr. Bratton emphasized that they constitute the most comprehensive undertaking ever attempted by a voluntary health agency. He termed the new program as one which would pit the successful polio-fighting organization against arthritis, birth defects and virus diseases in a three-pronged assault through research, patient aid and professional education. Care and rehabilitation of all polio patients would be continued as in the past, and beginning next year, direct patient assistance will be offered to young people under 19 suffering from rheumatoid arthritis and certain types of birth defects. "The entrance of March of Dimes into the fight against these diseases which crippled hundreds of thousands of persons each year will give new hope to those who suffer from them just as the formation of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis gave new hope to polio victims in 1938," Mr. Bratton said. He declared that arthritis and the other rheumatic diseases crippled more Americans than any other chronic disease, with doctors estimating that there are more than 250,000 children each year, are described by the American Academy of Pediatrics as the nation's greatest unmet childhood health problem.

Sell-Out Expected At LeMoynne Follies Show

The big extravaganza, made up of almost 50 talented Le Moynnes, will be presented in the college gymnasium, Bruce Hall on the night of Sunday, Dec. 7. Mrs. Ann Lawrence Hall, dynamic president of the chapter, said: "This is going to be a big show... one of the best ever prepared for a Memphis stage." Directing the Follies are Prof. Reginald A. Morris, Le Moynne art-instructor, and Mrs. Jewel Speight, Fred Garner is general chairman and Mrs. Wilhelmine Seales. One of the highlights of the Follies will be the crowning of a queen. ### 1,000 Hear Adam Clayton Powell At Veterans Day Program Here

"The foreign policy of the United States is no longer shaped along the Potomac, but is being written at Clinton, Little Rock, Nashville, and wherever a son of God is brutalized," Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, of New York told a Veterans Day crowd of 1,000 at the Metropolitan Baptist church last week. Making his first public appearance in Memphis as a guest of the Veterans Benefit of America, of which Atty. J. F. Estes is the president, Congressman Powell selected as his subject, "The Fight to Save America." Congressman Powell, who is pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist church in New York City, received a round of cheers as he told the audience how he had defeated a rival candidate in the election held on Nov. 4. He told the audience that as soon as he returned to Washington he would request that Atty. Gen. William Rogers investigate a report that Negroes are being denied the right to vote in Fayette and Haywood counties in Tennessee. NEW LEGISLATION Congressman Powell said that when Congress meets early next year he will introduce legislation to make the bombing of an kind of building a Federal crime, and that he will fight to prevent the appropriation of Federal funds to states which defy the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court outlawing segregation in public schools. "My whole public life has been centered around the fight for rights for Negroes," he said. As a city councilman, he said that he fought to get Negro women jobs with the telephone company where none were employed at the time, and that today 1,700 are working there. JOBS FOR NEGROES No Negroes were working in respectable positions in the transportation system of New York City at the time, he said, but as a result of his efforts there are more than 10,000 working as conductors, motormen, and ticket receivers in the city today. As a result of his militancy on behalf of the Negro, Congressman Powell, who is one of four Negroes serving in the lower house of Congress now, he said that he had been tagged as "the Eastland of the North." But the fight which was once looked upon as "the Negro problem," he said, is now the "American problem," and "the yardstick by which America is judged is its treatment of black unknowns. A New Law "Integration is an evolution of the law, and the law must be obeyed. When 'separate but equal' was the law of the land, Negroes submitted to it. Every day that America delays the rights of the Negroes, the evaluation of the country drops in the sight of the world."

Calls For 2-Year Draft To Save US

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — (UPI) — Former President Truman has called for two-year universal military training to keep this country from going to ruin like the Roman Empire. Frederick W. Richmond, industrialist and financier, who is national chairman of EOD, said: "The purpose of EOD is to show the world the positive American efforts toward solving our race relations problems. It presents a chance to effectively focus American opinion on this question. I consider equal opportunity to be one of the most important goals in American life today." Strain Kills Trucker LONDON — (UPI) — Henry Thompson, 55, collapsed and died Sunday after carrying home a child he had struck with his truck. The child, 5-year-old Philip Austin, suffered leg injuries. TAUGHT FUNDAMENTALS Truman said young men in universal military training should be taught the fundamentals of free government. "They should be made aware and become familiar with the greatest document of government ever written, the Constitution of the U.S.," he said. "Men and women should not be allowed to vote until they can answer all the questions that newly-naturalized citizens have to answer." "A universal service program of two years should teach all these things, together with an understanding of just what free government means and what has to be done to keep it." Truman said that the Romans became too rich, too fat and too lazy to assume the responsibility of the republic, dictators and hired legionnaires took over. "Peace, real lasting peace, remains our greatest goal," Truman said. "But this time, we are not just going to hope for peace, we are determined to work for it, hard and actively, with all our resources."

FBI To Give Info Regarding Dixie Bombings

J. M. Lopez, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Memphis, announced recently that special law enforcement conferences will be held in Northern Mississippi during the next few weeks. The first conference will be held in Greenville, Miss., on November 19; the second in Columbus, Miss., on Nov. 20; one in Nashville on Dec. 5, and the final one in Memphis on Dec. 9. The scheduled meetings are part of special law enforcement conferences being held throughout the United States during the months of November and December and the FBI will outline to the state and local law enforcement officials the cooperative services of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with bombings and threats of bombings against educational and religious institutions. In recent attacks the FBI has made available the full resources of its laboratory and fingerprint facilities in cases, and has immediately detailed its representatives to the scenes of such crimes. It has also covered out-of-state leads of interest to state and local law enforcing groups. FBI Director John Edgar Hoover believes that these outrages can be materially curbed by an aroused public opinion, coordinated effort on the part of federal, state and local law enforcement agencies, and by stern treatment of the perpetrators.
