LOCAL HI SCHOOL GOING TO ATHENS REPRESENTATIVES INVITED TO ATTEND ANNUAL MEET OF SCROLOASTIC PRESS ASSN. (By CAROLINE KEA Athens, Ga., April 16.—Statesboro High School has been invited to send delegates to the fourth annual Georgia Scholastic Press Association to be held at the University of Georgia on May 8. More than fifty high schools in Georgia are expected to send representatives, and approximately 150 faculty members of the member schools of high school publications will be in attendance. John E. Dreyer, professor of journalism and publicity director at the University of Georgia and former president of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism, will address the meeting on the changes of journalism in a high school. Other speakers will be: Edward C. Crouse, instructor in journalism at the university; Dr. S. V. Sanford, dean of the university, president of the Franklin College of Liberal Arts at the university; and Dr. J. H. Henry W. Grady School of Journalism, also at the university; Dr. J. S. Stewart, state supervisor of high schools, and Paul W. Chapman, state director of vocational education. Four round table conferences will be held. One will be for faculty and business managers, and the other for circulation managers. Five loving cups donated by the Athens Banner-Herald and presented by E. B. Braswell, publisher, will be awarded to the best school paper, best magazine, and best page or column of school news in a local paper. The schools will be grouped according to size to make the competition fair. The Georgia Scholastic Press Association was organized in 1928. Its objectives are to stimulate interest in high school magazines and newspapers, to standardize the high school press, and to bring about a closer cooperation between the high school students interested in journalism and the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism of the University of Georgia. Star Route Advertiser Statesboro to Eldora The post office department announces that bids will be received in Washington, D. C., until May 5th for carrying mails between Statesboro and Eldora, Ga., for the period extending from May 15th, 1931, to July 31st, 1932. Bids on which to submit proposals and further information can be obtained upon application to the postmaster at Statesboro, Ga. Heads Back to Gang After Brief Respite Bill Hodges, colored, began his march back to the changing of Bulloch county last Thursday night after a vacation of about thirty days from that institution. His step in that direction was taken in bare feet. Entering the Rountree Hotel, where he had previously been employed, at 2 o'clock Friday morning, Hodges entered the room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Jones and succeeded in extracting from Mr. Jones' pants pocket about $15 in currency, a check for a small amount, and a gold watch. From there his next move was into the room occupied by the landlady and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Riggs. Working almost noiselessly in the dark Hodges had taken $60 in currency from Mr. Riggs' pocket and was about to leave the room when Mrs. Riggs heard a noise and aroused Mr. Riggs. Hodges made a break for the open spaces, but had difficulty in getting out the back door. There he dropped his shoes, which he had carried in his hands, and in his struggle to recover them he dropped the roll of currency which had been taken from Mr. Riggs' pocket. Officers followed the tracks and found Hodges in bed, apparently in a deep sleep, at his rooming place in the northern part of the city. In his coat pocket was found the check that had disappeared from Mr. Jones' room a few moments before. No currency was found on his person, and he insists that he knows nothing about the robbery. The shoes found at the hotel were identified by members of his family as the property of Hodges.

STATESBORO LAD WINS NAME PRIZE CURTIS LANE SUGGESTS BEST NAME FOR HEALTH TRAIN TO VISIT STATESBORO. Atlanta, Ga., April 20.—Master Curtis Lane, of Statesboro, has been declared winner of the contest among children of school age to name the health train the State Board of Health will operate over the Georgia & Florida railroad from May 4 to May 18. The name young Lane suggested is "Hygienian." The task to select the most appropriate name, one which would describe the mission the train is to perform and at the same time have an appeal that would make it "catchy" was a difficult one. Scores of replies were received. Many youngsters sent in several names. One lad sent in a list of 39 names. The winner, however, pursued the safest and wisest course and concentrated on one. "Hygienian" was the only name he suggested. In making his nomination, Curtis describes himself as follows: "I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade, and have never been absent or tardy in the six years. Good health and got a blue ribbon." This is a question many ask and which most children understand to mean a blue ribbon. The child who is a blue ribbon must be free from physical defects if possible to be so cared for. First the child must be as near as he can get to normal weight. No child ten per cent or more under weight can under any consideration be a blue ribbon child. This gives consideration to a child's general build and characteristics. The child must have teeth free from defects or must have a certificate from a dentist saying all needed work has been done. The child must have a certificate from his doctor saying the throat is not needing treatment, or not considered defective to causing any present trouble or is under-treatment to prevent trouble. No child who goes to a doctor and is examined, if treatment is advised and not carried out, is in any way a blue ribbon. Doctor's advice must have been carried out. If removal has been advised he is not blue ribbon until removed. However, if that child has defects such as tonsils needing removal and is under weight, or is O. K. except for weight, he can be placed on the dental honor roll if his teeth are in good condition, providing they are well cared for. Last but not least, posture must be good, and the child must have tried to carry out the simple health rules laid down by his school. Even though the nurse placed the child on the honor roll, if the teacher has reason to know or think the health rules have not been carried out and the posture is not good, no matter how perfect otherwise, she can take the child off the blue ribbon list. The teacher is the final judge. There are many children in the county who are from all appearances perfect specimens of health but on account of general habits of health and cleanliness will be allowed on the blue ribbon or dental honor rolls. Parents please remember: No corrections will be accepted after April 25th. Do not rush doctors and dentists the last few days and expect to get on the honor roll. No child will be considered after April 25th. Find out from the teachers who to take correction certificates to and get them by that date. If you can't get them to the teacher take them to the nurse at the court house or to the county superintendent's office. Showing of the south in actual production of useful things was said to be unusually extensive, establishing a record of new-world significance. At the present time, the south was said to manufacture 67 per cent of all the cotton goods produced in America; produces 43 per cent of the nation's lumber and all of the naval stores; it produces one-quarter of the raw materials for the United States and more than one-third of the total mineral output. Sixty per cent of the nation's petroleum and natural gas was said to be produced in the south, and 44 per cent of the coal. Blood given by Herbert J. Finn, a noted London artist, saved the life of his son. Mrs. Amy Boulton, of Chicago, confessed to stealing flowers, but was released when she said they were for her husband's grave.

LOCAL EDUCATOR HEADS STATE BODY At the meeting of the Georgia Education Association in Macon last week, Guy H. Wells, president of South Georgia Teachers College, was made president of the state association. His election was without opposition, he being the only candidate placed in nomination and receiving the entire vote of approximately 3,000 in the balloting. Mr. Wells had served as vice-president during the past year, and was elected to that office also without opposition. The election of Mr. Wells to the position of head of the Georgia Education Association is not only an honor to him, but is a distinct honor to the school and community which he represents. As president of South Georgia Teachers College for the past five years he had proved himself a tireless and resourceful worker. The future for him and the school is made the brighter by this new honor. There are many children in the county who are from all appearances perfect specimens of health but on account of general habits of health and cleanliness will be allowed on the blue ribbon or dental honor rolls. Parents please remember: No corrections will be accepted after April 25th. Do not rush doctors and dentists the last few days and expect to get on the honor roll. No child will be considered after April 25th. Find out from the teachers who to take correction certificates to and get them by that date. If you can't get them to the teacher take them to the nurse at the court house or to the county superintendent's office. Showing of the south in actual production of useful things was said to be unusually extensive, establishing a record of new-world significance. At the present time, the south was said to manufacture 67 per cent of all the cotton goods produced in America; produces 43 per cent of the nation's lumber and all of the naval stores; it produces one-quarter of the raw materials for the United States and more than one-third of the total mineral output. Sixty per cent of the nation's petroleum and natural gas was said to be produced in the south, and 44 per cent of the coal. Blood given by Herbert J. STATESBORO LAD WINS NAME PRIZE CURTIS LANE SUGGESTS BEST NAME FOR HEALTH TRAIN TO VISIT STATESBORO. Atlanta, Ga., April 20.—Master Curtis Lane, of Statesboro, has been declared winner of the contest among children of school age to name the health train the State Board of Health will operate over the Georgia & Florida railroad from May 4 to May 18. The name young Lane suggested is "Hygienian." The task to select the most appropriate name, one which would describe the mission the train is to perform and at the same time have an appeal that would make it "catchy" was a difficult one. Scores of replies were received. Many youngsters sent in several names. One lad sent in a list of 39 names. The winner, however, pursued the safest and wisest course and concentrated on one. "Hygienian" was the only name he suggested. In making his nomination, Curtis describes himself as follows: "I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade, and have never been absent or tardy in the six years. Good health and got a blue ribbon." This is a question many ask and which most children understand to mean a blue ribbon. The child who is a blue ribbon must be free from physical defects if possible to be so cared for. First the child must be as near as he can get to normal weight. No child ten per cent or more under weight can under any consideration be a blue ribbon child. This gives consideration to a child's general build and characteristics. The child must have teeth free from defects or must have a certificate from a dentist saying all needed work has been done. The child must have a certificate from his doctor saying the throat is not needing treatment, or not considered defective to causing any present trouble or is under-treatment to prevent trouble. No child who goes to a doctor and is examined, if treatment is advised and not carried out, is in any way a blue ribbon. Doctor's advice must have been carried out. If removal has been advised he is not blue ribbon until removed. However, if that child has defects such as tonsils needing removal and is under weight, or is O. K. except for weight, he can be placed on the dental honor roll if his teeth are in good condition, providing they are well cared for. Last but not least, posture must be good, and the child must have tried to carry out the simple health rules laid down by his school. Even though the nurse placed the child on the honor roll, if the teacher has reason to know or think the health rules have not been carried out and the posture is not good, no matter how perfect otherwise, she can take the child off the blue ribbon list. The teacher is the final judge. (By CAROLINE KEA)

Athens, Ga., April 21.—Miss Hulda Call, a former student at the South Georgia Teachers College, at Statesboro, and now a sophomore in the physical education department of the University of Georgia, took part Monday night in the annual dance recital presented by that department.

Miss Call, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Call, of Sylvania, took part in a group of interpretation of Spring-and with Miss Julia Terrell, Athens, gave a gypsy dance to a Hungarian melody.

She attended the 1929-30 season of S. G. T. C. and gave a solo dance on the May Day program. She was president of the Glee Club and a member of the Taurus Club, Stevens Literary Society and the basketball, soccer, baseball and track teams.

Other former S. G. T. C. students now attending the University of Georgia are Miss Rosalyn Walsh, Garfield; Eli McDaniel, Eastman; C. G. Rountree, Egypt; Miss Evelyn Simmons, Statesboro; and Ernest Holland, Statesboro.

WASHINGTON AND GEORGIA COLONY

FIRST PRESIDENT WAS BORN IN STATE YEAR GEORGIA COLONY WAS CREATED.

In the year of George Washington's birth, 1732, a group of Englishmen led by James Oglethorpe, secured from King George II a charter to found a colony on the American territory belonging to the crown. The land selected for this enterprise lay to the south of the British colonies and was north of the area claimed by Spain as part of Florida. Oglethorpe secured the permission of his sovereign to take as colonists deserters from a colony on the American territory. She never interferes with other people's affairs or gives advice until asked.

She teaches a class of little girls about ten or twelve years old. At this age girls are rosy and don't like to sit still long at a time, but Mrs. Haygood is a very quiet woman. She never interferes with other people's affairs or gives advice until asked.

I have heard her say that when she was a small girl that she learned a great many passages of Scripture and can now repeat them and she is teaching them to her class. She has been teaching for a good many years and most of the young girls of this Sunday school have at some time been in one of her classes. All the girls like her and are eager for Sunday to come so they can be with her.

Mrs. Haygood studies and reads all the papers of the day and reads all the news of the day. She takes advantage of all the Sunday school study courses, also the W. M. U. and church courses. She is a subscriber of the Christian Index and several other church papers and keeps herself well informed about the denomination of work. She is well informed on any point of any phase of the work.

In time of trouble or sorrow she will be there to comfort and help in every way possible. In times of her own sorrow she is quiet and takes her troubles to the Lord instead of "airing" them to the neighbors.

Mrs. Haygood's time is well planned so that she has plenty of time for everything that any of the organizations of the church do and is not crowded so she has to make excuses. Any person who regulates their time will not be an excuse maker. Mrs. Haygood spends her time in meditation with God and studying and reading His word so that she can pass her knowledge on to others less fortunate than she.

You will never find her riding around in her car just for the fun of riding. You always know that she is out for some good purpose such as visiting the sick, both white and colored. A good many colored people have spoken well of her for her kindness to them and in a recent time of trouble they were there to try to comfort her and return these kindnesses.

Idleness, card-playing, dancing, moving pictures and trashy literature are unthought of by her. It is an undisputed fact that she has won more souls to Christ than any other one woman in this city.

When the committee for the every-member canvass knocks on Mrs. Haygood's door there is no uncertainty in her mind as to what she will pledge for her tithes, and in this way know what she has for each point of the budget system of the church. Giving is half her living. She always has something for the poor, the needy, and a good offering for any special collection that any department of the church calls for.

Love, oh, love, her love is great and good, that everyone loves her for her goodness, kindness, gentleness, sympathy and inspiration. Her love for others and their love for her has led many to Christ that could not have been won any other way.

God, through love created men and women. So their woman through love has created souls for God. "His love and love alone that rules the world, but when the light of love is gone then all is done for love is the light of the world."

"They that love beyond the world Cannot be separated by it; Death cannot kill what never dies Nor the spirits ever be divided. That love and live in the same divine principle."

The root and record of their friendship.

Mrs. Carl Haygood has well earned the Master's great approval of her life here and she will hear "Well done good and faithful servant: thou has been faithful over a few things; I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

The decision of a Liverpool magistrate that Mrs. Ellen Morris was justified in taking money from her husband's pocket while he slept has been upheld on appeal.

Praises a Statesboro Sunday School Teacher

(By MONICA ROBINSON)

We, of the Statesboro Baptist church, are very fortunate in having a Sunday school teacher who has a good talent for teaching small girls. She, Mrs. Carl Haygood, is a very consecrated woman. Her every thought is doing something for the Lord or something to uphold His kingdom here in our little town.

Mrs. Haygood is a very quiet woman. She never interferes with other people's affairs or gives advice until asked. She teaches a class of little girls about ten or twelve years old. At this age girls are rosy and don't like to sit still long at a time, but Mrs. Haygood is a very quiet woman. She never interferes with other people's affairs or gives advice until asked.

Less than Half a Cent an Hour!

Eleven cents a day! Even a Chinese coolie would turn down such puny wages.

Yet that is the average sum (including service charges) paid by Georgia homes to this Company in the past twelve months for steady, dependable, constant attendance by the most versatile and willing servant known to history—

Electricity!

Less than half a cent an hour, on the average, is all it costs more than 100,000 Georgia homes to have this miracle-working helper on duty for them—twenty-four hours a day, no days off, no grumbling, prompt, always right on hand when needed.

Here is the perfect servant—working for wages which are by far the cheapest item in all the family budget! Less cost per day than the price of a cake of toilet soap—less than a pack of cigarettes—less than the cost of an ice cream soda.

Georgia homes are taking increasing advantage of the exceedingly low rates they now enjoy. Electric power is rapidly relieving women from the drudgery of irksome tasks about the home.

Electricity is the only essential that has gone steadily down in cost during the years in which the price of other necessities of life were advancing. And even with the reductions in some commodities the past few months, electric service is still much lower proportionately, by comparison with costs in 1913.

Rates on the residential use of electricity in Georgia homes have been reduced more than 20 per cent in the past two years!

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA RAILWAY

HEALTH TRAIN WILL SHOW MODEL FARM

Atlanta, Ga., April 22.—A model farm, built to scale by engineers of the State Board of Health, will be one of the exhibits to be included on the Hygienic health train of the State Board of Health to be operated over the Georgia & Florida railroad May 4 to 18, it was announced by Dr. T. F. Abernethy, state commissioner of health.

The farm will show a typical Georgia farm as to terrain and soil character. The buildings will be properly spaced as to hygienic requirements. The proper distance of barn, cow-lots, privy and other outhouses from the residence and the water supply, will be shown. Small buildings to represent these outhouses, as well as the family residence, are being built to be included in the exhibit.

At every stop along the route, a sanitary privy, full size, will be exhibited and at several points, will be left as permanent exhibits. These will be constructed under the supervision of State Board of Health engineers and to specifications recommended by that organization.

Drainage methods will be one of the principal features of the model farm, Dr. Abernethy said, as well as water supply and sewage and waste disposal. In addition to the visual demonstrations that will be made, there will be talks made by Dr. Winchester relative to their merits, and ample literature describing them will be distributed to those interested.

Felt Bad After Eating

"Before I started taking Black-Draught, three years ago, my health was very bad," writes Mrs. G. C. Carson, 845 Concord St., Beaumont, Texas. "I suffered constantly from constipation. I had headaches when I got up in the morning, and I felt dull and sluggish. Hardly ate a meal that my food agreed with me. Frequently I would have gas on my stomach, and I felt awful. I read about Black-Draught, and I thought it might help me. After I had taken it a little while, I felt much better. It relieved constipation. I keep it on hand so when I need a laxative I will have it. In the three years I have been taking it, I have never found anything as good for constipation."

HOW TO PROCURE A STAND OF TOBACCO

COAST LINE AGRICULTURIST EMPHASIZES IMPORTANCE OF CAREFUL CULTIVATION.

(By J. M. PURDOM, Assistant Agricultural & Industrial Agent, Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co.)
The probabilities are that the crops of tobacco can be depended upon to produce the best quality of leaves which have all been set out by the time this communication is read by the growers. Several times already I have mentioned the variability of the weather, and as the season advances it begins to look as if the spring season is two or three weeks later this year than we usually expect, particularly the warm growing spring weather which we look for at this time of the year. It requires only a little stretch of the imagination to see that it is possible for summer with its hot sun and scalding showers to open up earlier than we expect. It is, therefore, well to try to be prepared for any kind of weather that may come, and work for a good stand in the crop already planted, and not set any crops unusually late in the year.

In working for a stand of tobacco this year, if careful work has been done in transplanting, the main thing to watch for is cutworm and wireworm damage. Just as in the case of all other crops, tobacco replants in themselves usually do not amount to very much, but in the case of tobacco a replant is especially desirable in order to prevent the plants on either side of a missing hill from having too much space and too much fertilizer damage. Just as in the case of the usual crops, tobacco replants in themselves usually do not amount to very much, but in the case of tobacco a replant is especially desirable in order to prevent the plants on either side of a missing hill from having too much space and too much fertilizer damage. FORD RELIABILITY

Long, hard use shows the value of good materials and simplicity of design

EVERYWHERE you go you hear reports of the good performance and reliability of the Ford.

One owner writes—"The Ford Tudor Sedan I am driving has covered 59,300 miles through all kinds of weather. It is still giving perfect satisfaction."

Another owner describes a trip of 3217 miles in 95 hours over bad roads and through heavy rain and sleet in the mountains. "Throughout the entire trip," he writes, "the Ford performed excellently and no mechanical trouble of any kind was experienced. The shatter-proof glass undoubtedly saved us from serious injury when a prairie chicken struck the windshield while we were traveling at 65 miles an hour."

See the nearest dealer and have him give you a demonstration ride in the Ford. Then, from your own personal experience, you will know that it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

Subscription, $1.50 per Year. D. B. TURNER, Editor and Owner.

Entered as second-class matter March 23, 1905, at the postoffice at Statesboro, Ga., under the Act of Congress March 3, 1879.

Somebody who read a recent editorial in these columns wherein was mentioned the fact that truck drivers have been selling Florida oranges to the grocery merchants of Statesboro at less than the cost of transportation by railroads, has misjudged that the Times sought to defend the bus as a substitute for railroads in the upbuilding of a community.

The Times regrets that anybody has imagined even that the railroads were not a chief factor in the development and maintenance of any community.

In calling attention to the condition above set out, if the editorial had gone fully to the point in mind, it might have commented that advancing freight rates had invited the very competition which was destroying the lives of railroads. Yet it would be an error to blame railroad management for absolute responsibility for this condition.

Federal and state control of railroad operation has so circumscribed the freedom of railroad management that the wonder is more railroads have not gone out of business. When a government takes to itself authority to declare what shall be the hours of railroad employees and what shall be their wages on the one hand, and on the other limits the railroads as to what they shall charge for their services, that might be considered an Utopian dream—if it only worked.

But the trouble with most dreams is they will not work. The federal and state controls have not undertaken to guarantee that railroad earnings shall be profitable to the stockholders, however much that mistaken idea prevails. The point to which the public service commission in the public service commission is that public service corporations shall not earn above a limited profit on their operation. If public utilities fall below that limit, then it is their concern.

If one undertook to explain the cause of depression among the railroads, that cause would not be fully set out unless it attributed blame largely to governmental interference. When the government specifies hours and wages for railroad workers, it virtually fixes the cost of railroad operation. These costs necessarily affect freight rates.

In their endeavor to continue in existence, railroads have necessarily been forced to advance rates of freight and transportation. These advances have reached the point where they have invited competition which has threatened the railroad industry. In their efforts to make a profit for their own, the railroad management have gone to that elevation that permitted cheaper freight and passenger facilities to be offered for public patronage. When the railroads have lost this patronage, failure has been inevitable.

Less than thirty days ago one of Bulloch's short line railroads served the community faithfully; it had paid out monthly to employees thousands of dollars which went directly back into community building.

Office employees, train crew and section workers, with the wages received, were patrons of the merchants of the community. In turn the merchants bought produce from the farmer with the money received from the railroad employees; the merchant paid his clerks, and the clerks bought from the farmer—their own. But the less chain with the links unbroken.

When the railroad went out of business, all that revenue was diverted. New alignments were necessary. (When the Savannah & Statesboro railroad went out of commission it was indebted to the town of Statesboro for 1930 taxes—exactly $396. This money was needed to pay city employees, school teachers—to operate the city. The railroad was due the county of Bulloch for general taxes for 1931 exactly $1,272.84. The loss of this income means one of two things—the county of Bulloch must do without the things which these taxes would have paid for, or it must get the shortage from some other taxpayer.

The figures last quoted refer only to taxes for general purposes. The amount due for county-wide school purposes must be added to this—$386.65; and the amount due to the school districts through which the road operated is $304.30. Add these three county items and they total $2,068.19. Then add the city taxes and the total reaches $2,454.19.

This is the loss for one year from taxes alone. The figures do not take into consideration the loss from wages to employees, which is infinitely more than the figures given.

From whence will the county hope to recoup these losses? Will the business men of the county who have charged a few dimes in lower freight charges over the truck lines make good this shortage? We think they will not do so willingly. Will the bus and truck lines make up the shortage? Just call upon one of them for a list of their routes, and you will see the impossibility of their doing so.

And yet we are not blaming men who, in business for profit, deem it wise to cut every expense. It is that sense of self-protection which impels men to buy to the best possible advantage. In this endeavor they frequently lose sight of the ultimate results—that they thus undermine the foundations upon which they think they stand.

A skidding auto containing five passengers started two inches from a 600-foot cliff in Dover, Eng.

The bowl of a pipe made for a hotel in Paris is as big as a coal-scuttle and there are 75 mouthpieces attached to it.

THREE BILLIONS FOR ROADS One hundred and ten nations will spend $3,000,000,000 on roads during 1931, according to the Department of Commerce. Two-thirds of this great sum—$2,000,000,000—will be spent in the United States.

Thus the good roads movement is world-wide. It is realized, nowadays, that paved highways are essential to business and social progress. The quick, economical and efficient transportation of commodities and persons is one of the factors that makes for a higher developed civilization.

In the United States special attention is being paid to the problem of farm-to-market, secondary highways. The modern slogan is "Make every farmer's gate a shipping point." A large majority of American farms are still situated on roads that are about the same as they were twenty or fifty years ago.

Long-wearing but economical road materials, suitable for all hot main highways and secondary roads, have been developed. Millions of farmers can be given the full-width, weather-proof, good roads they need without increasing tax burdens. If available funds are used wisely, States can invest in nothing of greater value than permanent surfaced farm roads.

Senora Luisa Trageles, of Barcelona, recently gave birth to her 29th child.

Judges and court attaches contributed to pay the fine of an 80-year-old woman convicted of a misdemeanor in St. Louis.

WORSER THAN WAR! During 18 months of the World War, 50,510 members of the American Expeditionary Force were killed in action or died of wounds.

During the 18 months preceding January, 1931, 50,900 people were killed in automobile accidents in this country.

There could be no better illustration of the seriousness of the automobile accident situation.

According to a survey by the Travelers Insurance Company, the leading cause of accidents in 1930 was failure to give right of way, which accounted for 15 per cent of deaths and 30 per cent of injuries. Second was excessive speed, which was responsible for 21 per cent of all accidents, and third, driving on the wrong side of the road, which totaled 16 per cent.

Higher speed is a natural result of improved roads and cars. But the other two primary causes of accidents—which together accounted for 27 per cent of deaths and 47.7 per cent of injuries—amount to simple ignorance, recklessness or carelessness. They show improper training on the part of the motorist, coupled with inadequate enforcement of traffic laws. That such accidents could be at least partially curbed by examining and licensing laws, and by adequate enforcement of modernized traffic codes, is well within the limits of possibility.

THE PROVERBS

Chapter 9

1. Wisdom hath builded her house, she hath hewn out her seven pillars: she hath killed her beasts; she hath mingled her wine; she hath also furnished her table.

2. She hath sent forth her maidens; she crieth upon the highest places of the city.

3. Who is simple, let him turn in hither: for here shall he be punished, and he that is foolish shall be smitten.

4. Come, eat of my bread, and drink of the wine which I have mingled.

5. Forsake the foolish, and live; and go in the way of understanding, and thou shalt be saved: and he that despiseth shall be punished.

6. Give instruction to a wise man, and he will be yet wiser; teach a just man, and he will increase in learning.

7. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; and the knowledge of the Holy is understanding.

8. For by me thy days shall be multiplied, and the years of thy life shall be increased.

9. If thou be wise, thou shalt be wise for thyself; but if thou scornest, thou alone shalt bear it.

10. A foolish woman is clamorous; she is simple, and knoweth nothing.

11. For she sitteth at the door of her house, on a seat in the high places of the city.

12. To call passengers who go right on their ways:

13. Who is simple, let him turn hither: and as for him that wanteth understanding, she saith to him.

14. Stolen waters are sweet, and bread eaten in secret is pleasant.

15. But he knoweth not that the dead are there; and that her guests are in the depths of hell.

WHAT IS YOUR NAME?

That might be considered by some an impertinent question, but to the Vital Statistics division of the State Board of Health it is important, and to the individual without a name it is more intensely so. In fact, we might ask another question that will bring out the necessity of full and complete registration of births by asking you, dear reader, if you can legally prove what your name is.

These questions have come to us because each year in Georgia there are more than five thousand of our babies who do not have a name recorded in the Bureau of Vital Statistics, the only place for legally registering the names of the citizens of our state. This is true even after repeated efforts by letter to the parents, begging them to complete the birth record.

The good book says, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches," and every baby born in the world has the right to a name. It is further stated in the Bible that "A good name is better than precious ointment." A birth certificate should be a complete record; unless it is complete in every detail we rob the innocent child of its best right.

Let us urge you to name your baby and complete the record within the ten days prescribed by law. That is the parents' duty; the child cannot act for itself; somebody must take the necessary responsibility and see to it that the birth certificate is filed, and not only made out on the regular form, but completely made out. If an inquiry is made by your State Board of Health do not delay an answer, as the future may make this act on your child.

Shakespeare said: "Who steals my purse steals trash. But he that filches from me my good name, And makes me poor indeed—" Othello 3.3.

Robe me of that which not enriches him, And makes me poor indeed—" Othello 3.3.

What is your name, can be legally answered by your State Board of Health if the record is properly made. That good name will be safely deposited in the fireproof vaults of the State Capitol, so that in the years to come you may prove your parentage and therefore your name.

CONSOLIDATION REVAMPING STATE HOUSE OFFICIALDOM

The investigating committee appointed by Speaker Russell on the closing day of the extraordinary session of our general assembly has begun its considerable task. It is thought by many people that many of the departments, divisions and bureaus could be consolidated and made more efficient and possibly less expensive.

An unbiased study can do no harm. Many studies have already been made, some by experts, some by committees and others by business men. So far no action has been taken, and possibly it was well that none has been taken; we do not know. If consolidation tends to lessen efficiency and increase political power, it is questionable if it would be wise to consolidate. It has been said by some who have studied the question that it is doubtful whether there would really be much saving in money to our people.

There are certain departments of our government that should be removed as far as possible from politics. These are the administration of the judiciary, the elementary institutions and more particularly the State Board of Health. The necessary program for health should be free to do the right thing uninfluenced by partisan or personal political influence. The sanitation of our state, the question of infectious diseases, the administration of vaccines and sera, the distribution of biologicals, should be based on the real need and not on the political pull of any individual or clique. Admission to Alto and Greenwood should be as free and as expeditious to the poorest Georgian as to the well-to-do or the individual who has influence.

Our present organization and Board have proven the right of continuance undisturbed.

Pleading Eyes In Georgia there are many pale faces of mothers looking up with pleading eyes, fretting, feverish, drawn, wrinkled skinned babies with big, hollow eyes that cannot understand why but have pain and anguish, look at you with imploring eyes for relief—get relief from sickness. They, in their anguish, silently appeal to us, the citizens of our commonwealth, for relief, for attention for hospitalization. Our health officers ask: Why should they die, mother and baby? If our State Board of Health had the cold cash, they could save hundreds of them. Maybe not yours, but somebody's baby.

Ob, we rush for the doctor, When in pain and distress— (But a little precaution Would cost us much less.)

Georgia's commercial fishing gives employment to several thousand people and, the state department says, "constructive plans are now under way for the early rehabilitation of Georgia's oyster industry on a larger scale."

DIPHTHERIA CONTROL Death Rate Now Lowest Toxoid

A statement recently released by our State Board of Health says: "The State Board of Health is now prepared to furnish diphtheria toxoid at a cost to the people of two cents a dose or four cents for each immunization which requires two doses. The present cost was 10 cents per dose or 15 cents for each immunization. The reduced prices which were made possible by a donation of $1,500.00 from the Bankers Health and Life Insurance Company of Macon will probably be available only for the year 1931.

In spite of the modern methods of treating diphtheria, the incidence of this disease has not decreased except in local communities where vaccination has been practiced. It is true, of course, that the death rate has been lowered during the past 25 years from about 50 per cent to less than 10 per cent by means of antitoxin. But this marvelous remedy is chiefly of value as a curative agent.

Several years ago there was discovered a vaccine called toxin-antitoxin, which, when given to young children in three doses, on week apart, immunized them against diphtheria. This proved so successful that it was soon being used all over the United States. In Georgia alone several hundred thousand children have received toxin-antitoxin and in those counties and towns where the majority of the children have been immunized diphtheria is a rare disease. But toxin-antitoxin is by no means perfect. One of its short-comings is that three doses sometimes fail to produce adequate immunity. However, a new vaccine has been perfected known as toxoid which has many advantages over toxin-antitoxin. Toxoid has been given a thorough trial by numbers of Georgia physicians working in conjunction with the State Board of Health. It has been found that two doses of toxoid will afford almost perfect immunity.

Diphtheria is chiefly a disease of young childhood, ranging from babyhood to school age. Ninety per cent of the diphtheria deaths in the United States, below high school age and sixty per cent are among those of pre-school age. It should be remembered also that diphtheria is a late summer and fall disease and is least common during the spring. Both toxoid and toxin-antitoxin require two or three months to produce complete immunity. Now is the best time, therefore, to vaccinate children against diphtheria.

The State Board of Health advises that all little children under six years of age be given toxoid at once. Every baby as old as six months should have it. Parents are urged to see their family doctors about this as soon as possible.

No less than a dozen large developments in the state, running well into the millions of dollars in value, have been directly traceable to movement of attention by the magnificent field sports of the state—hunting and fishing. Figures obtained by the department of game and fish show that some states estimate the value of the "tourist crop" as high as $100,000,000. It is found that those who reap the best results are the states offering the best recreational advantages and that hunting and fishing are usually at the top of the list of attractions.

WASHINGTON—Georgia last mortality rate had a considerably lower infant mortality rate than the year previous. According to the vital statistics publication by the vital statistics section of the department of commerce, the infant death rate in the state in 1929 was only 76 for every 1,000 live births, compared with a rate of 82 for the year 1928.

The department listed Georgia as one of 11 states in the Union which had lower rates last year over the year 1928. The average rate for the country was 68.

This is an interesting news item, and is, in a measure, gratifying, but it is not enough to save 431 babies each year many times this number if we do not, when every living soul in Georgia sets his or her mind to the job of life saving. Can't you save a life, dear reader, during the next year? The responsibility is everybody's. Our State Board of Health can take money and transport it into saving lives. Money can, with limitations, of course, save lives. It pays to buy health. If appropriations were liberal enough, we could have a thousand babies' lives in 1931 instead of 411, as we did in 1929.

Keep your microbes to yourself; do not spray them on other people.
