the Apaches.

Tucson, Arizona, July 12.—A courier arrived at Tombstone last night from Gen. Crook's headquarters at Silver Creek, bringing the first official information of Crook's expedition. It left American soil May 3d, marching 200 miles southeast from San Benardino on the boundary line of Chihuahua aud Soaora, following the trail of the Indians. Crook was guided by an Apache named Nadaski, who was captured near San Carlos just previous to the departure of the expedition. Leaving it at a point about 200 miles south of the line the command crossed the Sierra Madres range and advanced fifty miles over an indescribably rough trail, eight mules being killed by falling over precipices. They passed on without delay, rendered nearly barefoot by the hard rocks.

After fourteen days hard marching, night and day, the Indian camps of Chato and Bonito were discovered in the heart of the Sierra Madres in an almost impregnable position. The Apaches did not dream of an attack, for the entrance of their stronghold was next to impossible, and the warriors were principally out on a raid under Ju, only thirty-seven bucks being in camp with the women and children. The San Carlos scouts, under Capt. Crawford and Lieut. Atwood and Mickey Free, the chief of the scouts, surrounded the camp before the Indians were aware of their proximity, advancing from fifteen different points, and were near thom before they were discovered. The scouts secreted themselves behind rocks and commenced firing upon the camp, creating a perfect panic. A number succeeded in escaping, though nearly all surrendered. Seven were found dead in the camp. Five Mexican women and a little girl were recaptured. They were taken from Carmen and Chihuahua and are now with Crook in good health.

Everything in the camp was burned or carried off by the scouts. Among the property captured were 100 ponies and mules, forty being loaded with plunder, saddles, clothes, gold and silver and greenbacks, showing that they have been very successful in their raid. After the fight most of those who escaped came in. Altogether 383 prisoners were taken. The chiefs captured were Chato, Bonito, Geronimo, Nachez, Loco and Nana. The latter two were long reported dead. The chiefs say that an American boy, six years old, captured a month ago in New Mexico, is with squaws in the mountains. He it no doubt Charley McComas. surrounded the Indians before they were aware of his presence and that if he had not done so it would have taken six months and all the men in Arizona to have captured them.

As an illustration of Gen. Crook's modesty and the total absence of fuss and feathers in his make-up, it may be stated that although the fight and capture occurred on the 17th of last month, he leisurely retraced his steps to Camp Supply at Silver Creek, not sending a courier ahead to signal his movement. The first intimation had of Crook's return was the arrival of a lieutenant at Col. Biddle's head-quarters at 8 a.m. Sunday with despatches from Camp Bowie, the nearest army telegraph station. Upon making inquiry concerning the General, who was supposed to be 100 miles distant in the Sierra Madres, imagine the surprise that awaited the camp when informed that Gen. Crook was only two hours behind with the captured Apaches. About 10 o'clock the General rode into camp with an escort and greeted Col. Biddle with "Nice morning, Colonel," and straightway struck out for a wash basin, which he had spied, and was soon engaged in performing his ablutions, after which he threw himself onto a camp stool and ergaged in conversation about his campaign in an off-hand way as if hunting the fleetest and most cruel foe on the continent, in the wildest and most inaccessible country to be found was a matter of every day occurrence.

THE STAR ROUTES.

The Case Goes to the Jury

No Verdict Agreed Upon Last Night'

WASHINGTON, June 12 .- Members of the jury WASHINGTON, June 12.—Members of the jury were in their places;] the court room was well filled with spectators when the star route trial was resumed this forenoon. Soon after the court opened Judge Wylie began the delivery of his charge to the jury. He complimented the jury for their patient attention bestowed by them during the many months of trial. He would not go over the history of the case, compare and collate the edidence for the arguments of counsel had rendered that unnecessary. In the first place he would say they ments of counsel had rendered for the arguments of counsel had rendered that unnecessary. In the first place he would say they ought to decide the case upon evidence and not allow public clamor to influence them. Appeals to the jury as to the possible effect of their verdict upon the domestic relations of defendants should have no weight.

The judge continued at considerable length laying down the law. His railings as to the date of affidavits/brought the offence charged clearly within the statutes of limitation and destroyed a main reliance of defence. The charge is regarded as being strongly against the respondents, who were an anxious look.

At the conclusion of the charge bailiffs were sworn to take charge of the jury and place them in some retired room without fire or light ("Especially fire" said Ingersoll) (Laughter). A copy of the indictment was given to the jury and they retired at 3.45 o'clock p. m. The court then took a recess until o'clock tomorrow morning with the understanding that if the jury arrive at a verdict before 10 o'clock tonight the court will be reassembled to receive it.

The jury at 10 o'clock had not agreed upon verdict and were locked up for the night.

Boston, June 12.—The joint special committee on prorogation met this afternoon and carefully canvassed the question of the temporary adjournment of the Legislature. It was decided to ask the Governor to prorogate the Legislature until August 27. The committee will recommend that matters on calcadar June 19th be referred to the next Legislature.

The Governor, today, vetoed the bill to enable cities, towns, fire districts and aqueduct companies to store and sell water.

Governor Butler has written a caustic letter to the State board of charities in which he denies their right to delegate to other presons the duties to be performed for pay when members of the board hold honorary positions without salary. This is why he refuses so sign warrants for the pay of certain persons pmployed by the board under their by-laws.

He says: "The custom was but is no longer to allow certain persons connected with the State board to draw money from a state treasury in gross amounts and then pay it out to persons whom they thought ought to have it as they choose and to account for it afterward. This custom during the tin 5 he holds his office will not be observed. There is not on file at the State house any certifical list of agents and omployes of the board so the governor can know who they are and he is responsible for money used to pay them. He cannot believe that the board has the prerogative of fixing the tenure of their employes 'during board's pleasure' and cannot consent to any such innovation upon the rights of the people by any law."

The Governor says he would have gladly furnished the "reasons" requested for several of his acts had the board called upon him or consulted with him, and that by this means, perhaps, all controverted questions might have been avoided. The board, however, has been endeavoring to maintain an antagonistic position.

Halifax Rowing Association and Hanlan's Proposed Race.

Halifax, N. S., June 12.—The Halifax Rowing Association held a meeting last night to consider the new propositions of Hanlan and Lee for a double scull race with the Halifax carsmen, Hamm and Conley. The mem bers of the association took the view that they had already conceded quite enough to Hanlan and his mate, first agreeing to change the time for the proposed contest from June to August, then to have a race of four miles instead of five, as proposed by Hanlan in his challenge last year. In the new propositions of Hanlan and Lee a number of new courses were mentioned, on any of which they would row, but no reference was made to Point of Pines, Maranocook or Campbellton, at any of which places they expressed to Thomas Spellman at Lowell their perfect willingness to have the contest take place. Hamm and Conley's backers resolved not to agree to enter a race on any course now proposed, but to make another and last offer, namely, to substitute New London, Conn., for Campbellton, and agree to row at that place, Point of Pines or Lake Maranocook, allowing Hanlan and Lee to suggest two of the three at which they will row, and the Halifax Association select the one for the race to be rowed at, or the latter suggest two and Hanlan and Lee make the selection. The latter had just previously received the Baron von Brandt, German minister to China, on his return from Pekin. He stated that Baron von Brandt has proceeded to Paris. Of W. H. Leslie to be a fish dealer; of W. W. Ruby and M. J. Webb as victualers; of E. G. Foden, J. A. Whalen, W. C. Batty, Thomas Libby, Ernesto Ponce, J. M. Call, C. J. McCann, W. H. sewers were authorized and directed to build sewers in the following streets: Sheridan, from Congress to Monument streets; Monument, from Sheridan to Waterville; Adams, from Waterville to Freeman's Court; Newbury, from Hancock to Mountfort; Lafayette, from Quebec to Cumberland; Oxford, from Eim to Cedar; St. John street, extension northerly; Danforth, from May to Emery. Notice was ordered on petition for sewer in Bowdoin street in accordance with the petition of W. T. Small and others. Two petitions from physicians concerning the ringing of bells and firing of cannons on the Fourth of July were referred to Alderman Winslow to bring the matter before the com mittee on the Fourth of July.

THE HORSE RAILROAD. When the question of the horse railroad turnout, referred to above, came up, Alderman Winslow thought it would accommodate island travel. Mr. Tukesbury thought the turnout might inconvenience travel on Pearl street and incommode people at that spot. Mr Hawkes thought that a public hearing should be given all who wished to favor or oppose the turnout, and moved a notice by advertising in all the daily papers, and the motion was passed and a hearing ordered for Saturday, June 16th, at 12 m., at the proposed location

ALDERMEN'S PASSES. The Mayor then read the following rules eference to places of amusement, and an order giving them a passage. The following are the rules:

1.—No chairs, stools, or seats of any description shall be placed across the aisles or passage way in the building.

2.—No other officers shall be employed for the preservation of order in any licensed place of amusement, than members of the police force, or constables duly appointed by the Mayor and Aldermen.

3.—The Board of Aldermen reserve the right of entering all places of amusement at all times, either individually or collectively, for the purpose of assuring themselves by personal inspection, that matters are properly conducted, according to the tenor of licenses issued by them; and the same privilege is to be accorded the City Marshal and his deputies.

4.—Any infraction of the foregoing statutes or

The Mayor said in explanation of the order and rules that there is no ordinance now governing places of amusement, and the fonly reference made to the matter in the Statutes is that making the Mayor and Aldermen have watch and ward of the city.

Mr. Hawkes thought the City Charter, sec. 5, page 27, gave all the powers necessary to the board, and that additional powers yoted here would be superfluous.

watch and ward.

Mr. Hawkes asked if the City Charter quoted by him didn't confer these duties on the Marshal and police.

The Mayor didn't think the Aldermen ought to pay for admission to any place licensed by Mr. Hawkes thought the same rule would apply to a hotel or a restaurant and the Aldermen could demand a meal at such places.

Mayor Deering thought the gentleman from 5 must have changed his mind a good deal since the passage of the order at the last meeting in reference to the subject. He saw nothing inconsistent in the rules.

Mr. Tukesbury believed in the rules. He thought a building might be unsafe and that the Aldermen should see whether there was any danger from lack of care as well as danger to morals from immoral shows.

Mr. Winslow believed with Mr. Tukesbury He didn't believe any Alderman would abuse the privilege. He referred to a case where he went with the Mayor to a place of entertainment. The proprietor didn't want to let them in and asked their authority. Found a bar placed againsithe door so that people would have been crushed to death in a panic.

Mayor Deering remembered the circumstances and said these rules were for use for the board's successors and were to be attached to every license granted.

Mr. Hawkes thought it was the duty of the City Marshal to see that no place was run in such a way as Mr. Winslow had described. It was his businiss to look after such matters.

The Mayor thought the Board had more power than the marshal. He had heard nebody condemn the order passed by the Board at its last meeting, at least nobody of judgment or character. Perhaps there were some men in their dotage, or old women who criticised it. He thought no question could be made as to the right of the aldermen to enter these places.

Mr. Melcher thought the board responsible for its actions. He gave his consent to the order spoken of by the Mayor because he didn't be-reated.

Mayor Deering said the rules offered were quoted verbatim from the City of Boston rules and orders; he didn't care about the impression created if he felt he was right.

Mr. Winslow didn't think the Board had any right to demand a seat under these rules.

The Mayor understood the privilege to enter shows was conferred by the order passed at the last meating.

shows was conterred by the order passed at the last meeting.

Mr. Hawkes moved to amend the rules by striking out sections three and four. Seconded by Mr. Melcher.

The vote on the amendment stood 2 to 5. Messrs. Hawkes and Melcher voting yea.

Mr. Emery thought the order and rules fully defined the reasons why the Alderman should visit the shows and he therefore moved its passage and it was so voted.

MAINE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

The Thirty-First Annual Session.

The 3ist annual meeting of the Maine Medical Association convened at the Council chamber in City Building yesterday. The meeting was called to order by the President, Dr. G. E. Brickett of Augusta, at 10.50 o'clock, and opened by prayer by Rev. F. E. Clark of the Williston church.

The Secretary was appointed official reporter for the daily papers. It was voted that the reading of the records of the last annual meeting be omitted. The President appointed the following as a

Dr. Parsons in a few words extended the greeting of the New Hampshire society and an invitation to their neeting to be held at Concord. The President, Dr. Geo. E. Brickett of Augusta, then read a brief address, referring to the rise of the association from its organization referring in fitting terms to the past presidents, 16 of whom are now in the world. In laboring for the common welfare of the community the members of the Maine Medical Association should strenuously endeavor to secure such legislation from the state as will result in the organization and maintenance of an efficient state board of health, and in striving to maintain a scientific and honorable practice of medicine, such legislative action as will create and support a board of registration. As earnest and diligent students in their profession members were enjoined to discriminate carefull between the true and false, and to persevere in original investigation, particularly as relates to new remedies; the possibilities resulting from research in this direction have been demonstrated by the many new and elegant preparations of standard medicines now at the command of every physician. referring in fitting terms to the past presidents,

The society was enjoined to hold fast to its interest in the Portland School for Medical Instruction, the Medical School of Maine and the Maine General Hospital. For all these institutions the speaker had words of warmest praise and commendation; various suggestions of minor importance were made to the association and its adherence to the ethical code of the American Medical Association, strongly affirmed, as being sufficient and none too strong for rational, liberal, intelligent physicians who seek above all things—truth, and to all such a hearty welcome was proffered.

The Bestain the World.

An important Swedish exploring expedition under the command of Baron Nordens kiold, the discoverer of the Northeast passage, has sailed from Gothenburg to the shores of Greenland. Its principal object is to penetrate into the interior of that country, which is at present entirely unexplored. So far as is known, as soon as the inhabitable fringe on the coast is passed the interior is one vast expanse of continually accumulating ice and snow, without vegetation or a sign of life. Many attempts have been made to penetrate it, but only three of these have been even approximately successful, the utmost distance inland reached being forty-five miles, which was accomplished by Lieut-Jensen. The testimony of explorers is unanimous to the effect that everywhere the features are those of eternal winter, nothing being visible but the glacial fields riven by crevasses and overflowed in the summer time or coursed by rivers of melting snow or dotted by lakes from the same source. Here and there near the coast line are a few islands or peaks not covered, and known to the Esquimaux as "nunataks." Baron Nordenskjold, who thirteen years ago penetrated as far as thirty miles inland, holds the opinion that in the far interior there is a lofty range of mountains bare of ice and possibly wooded. He was impressed with this belief by experiencing the change in temperature owing to the dry and at times slightly warm wind which comes from the interior, and the statement that the reindeer make for inland valleys during the winter. The views of other explorers and scientists are conclusively against his theory, but the endeavor to reach the supposed inland mountain chain will be made, and, whether it proves successful or not, is likely to contribute largely to the limited stock of scientific knowledge respecting Greenland.

A LETTER to the London Truth by a Norwegian throws a good deal of light upon the constitu ional struggle in that country. The writer protests against a statement of the paper to the effect that the Norwegian Liberals are actuated by a desire to overthrow the monarchy. They are merely, he says, contending for constitutional principles. The Liberals insist on the introduction of responsible government by the admission of the members of the Ministry to seats in the Storthing or Upper House. A resolution to | year.' this effect has been carried in three successtively-elected Storthings, but King Oscar has persistently refused to sanction it. The King claims an absolute veto power, which the apparently coming to a crisis, as in April the Odelsthing or Lower House decided on the important step of impeaching the whole Court. The function of this tribunal is strictly limited to the trial of state offences, and no appeal lies against its decision. The trial is expected to result in the dismissal of a good deal of time, as each member will be placed on his trial separately. The correspondent, while repudiating Republican sentiments as the originating motive of the among the people, having been fostered by the course of King Oscar, and that his opposition to constitutionalism if persisted in is likely to cost him his throne.

W. A. CROFFUT, in his New York letter to the Detroit Post and Tribune, says he is glad Mullet has an appointment from Secretary Chandler to look after marine architecture, as it removes Mullett from the think Mullett is the funniest man now on this continent. To talk with him is as stimulating as to converse with a windmill. his denunciation is extremely picturesque, even more so, perhaps, than that of Gen. Spinner. He is always excited; always on other fist in your face and informs you confidentially in a loud voice that Gen. Grant is a dod-gasted little fool, and a bing-banged little knave, parasite and nepot, and that Senator Soandso and Secretary Soandso are dong-danged traitors and blank-blanked swindlers, thieves and pimps, the crowd hears only epithets, thinks he is applying them to you, and gathers around with a tocratic luxury of the old English halls had an inexpressible charm for him; the rustic rites of a May-Day or the festivities of an pleased smile, expecting to see the frenzied little athlete climb up on you presently and kill you. He is a funny man. And an honest man. And I am glad Chandler has pulled him up to a seat by the side of the

A LITTLE incident which strikingly indi cates the growth of temperance principles among the working classes recently occurred in connection with the International Fish Exhibition in England. Four hundred of the fishermen in attendance on the Exhibition were entertained at luncheon by the Prince of Wales on the lawn at Marborough House. On serving out drinkables to the gathering it was ascertained that one-half of the company were abstainers. The stock of temperance drinks in the royal cellar soon gave out, and the butler had to procure a fresh supply. Of all classes fishermen might be supposed the least likely to become temperance men, owing to the prevalence of the idea that stimulants are necessary in case of exposure to rough weather. But the above instance clearly shows that this notion is fast dying out.

IMPORTANT amendments have been made in the English Land Act rendering it still more acceptable to the tenants. The landlord's power of distress is abolished, thus adding greatly to the credit of the tenant, for the landlord will no longer have a prior claim. Tenants are to be compensated, on removal, for all improvements, whether made with the landlord's consent or not, In short the bill gives complete tenant right. It will be a bitter thing for the Tories to allow the passage of this bill, but they must

In seven years the consumption of wine in England has fallen from 18,500,000 gallons to 14,000,000. The advance in the science of adulteration may have something to do with the showing made by the official returns, and it undoubtedly has much to do with the decrease in the consumption of drink. But there is abundant evidence that the advance of temperance in England is genuine. Mineral waters, lemonade and tea are pushing out drink from its stronghold among the wealthy.

Avoid Being Overcome by the Reat.

"We are now prepared to attend any cases of sunstroke which may be brought to us,' said the house surgeon of Chambers Street Hospital to a New York Telegram reporter. "If the weather should turn suddenly warm we shall undoubtedly have cases before the middle of this month."

"How early do you generally have sunstroke cases?" was asked.

"Last year as early as the middle of May, and we have had them even earlier than that, but this year we have had no cases as yet, owing to the remarkable coolness of the weather.'

And his pages are steeped in a graphic realism which makes them to this day most seductive readin conjuring up the half extinct types of the steady old Dutch burghers, as in his daydreams among the romantic scenery of his favorite Hudson and the picturesque lakes what sentimental and emotional American abandoned himself with infinite self-satisfaction to English memories and associations.

Hollow. his quaint and dry and characteristic humor at its brightest, is unquestionably the second book he ever wrote—his 'Knickerbocker.' That it is terribly prolix in parts there is no denying, though that, by the by, was an essential part of its humor; and, indeed, Irving felt constrained to apologize and explain. But, in fact, he was writing the comic history of a race supposed to be slow be-yond all ordinary patience; and in his admirably droll caricature of these Dutch worthies by one of themselves he evoked a new type of originality in fiction. The keynote to the history and to the invariable unreadiness of its heroes is struck in the reminiscence of the mythical historian's ancestor, who, being charged to erect the great church at Rotterdam, consumed many months and several hundred-weight of tobacco in matursoveral number-weight of toacco in matur-ing his plans and making the preliminary surveys. And after all, the stupendous de sign fell infinitely short of its magnificent promise. If we read Knickerbocker for the "history," we should be inclined to hang ourselves, as Johnson remarked of Richardson's Sir Charles Grandison. But if we had to choose one of Irving's volumes for our companion in a journey beyond the range of libraries and bookstalls, it is upon Knicker-bocker we should unhesitatingly pitch. It is full of drollery, often dexterously concealed, and to appreciate it duly it must be read deliberately in Dutch fashion.

Irving's choice of subjects changes alto gether when his imagination has been fired by a residence in Spain. Regarded from the modern and philosophical point of view, he cannot claim high rank as a historian. He is as far removed from a Carlyle as light from darkness; but then his readableness is in the inverse ratio to his profundity. He founds his narrative on his research among recognized authorities; but he represents al do it or face the alternative of a dissolution with the prospect of certain defeat, and a still more drastic measure to follow.

Fecoganized authorities, but he represents an its events in their most dramatic aspects. In his life of Columbus how powerfully he paints the aspiring dreams of discovery of the great-minded adventurer—the study of the silent evidence which changed presump tions to assured convictions; the heart breaking disappointments and delays which had almost wearied out his iron constancy of purpose; the revival of hope from the depths of despondency when he had turned his back on the Court of their most Catholic Majesties! What can be more thrilling than the story of the night watch, when the caravel sighted the fires that were blazing on the shores of Hispaniola; a strange in-stance, by the way, of the irony of destiny, when the chance flame kindled by some In-dian savage may have precipitated by a cen-tury or more the colonization of a continent! And that existing chapter is no unworthy prelude to the story of the conquests of the great admiral and his companions. Nor did Irving turn with less enthusiasm to the neighbor of Judge Foraker, the Republican nominee for Governor of Ohio, speaks of him in the highest terms as a man of great abilities, sterling worth and archived a champions of the Cross and the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions are presented as the champion and the champions are presented as the champions are presented as the champion and the champions are presented as the champion as the champion and the champion are presented as the champion are presented as the champion and the champion are presented as the champion and the champion are presented as the cha which perhaps slightly inclines to the weak-er of the combatants and to the gay and galconfidence of all classes of his fellow citi-lant Moors, whose dissensions doomed them to defeat. But in his descriptions of the feats of gallantry on either side, still more of the frequent disasters in that mountain warfare, the American writer repeatedly reminds us of Froissart. He throws himself into the spirit of the fighting of the times, into the stories of sieges, ambushes, and surprises, as if he had been the contemporary of the heroes whose deeds he immor-talizes. The lighter and gayer side of that Moorish life is given in the charming 'Tales of the Alhambra.' How much may be legend embroidered at second hand, how much "Sunstrokes are sometimes unavoidable, but generally they are caused by carelessness or heedlessness. It a person has to go out in the hot sun much it is a good plan always to carry a cabbage leaf sewed in his hat. The moisture will keep the head cool. A free perspiration, if kept up, will also prevent a person from being overcome by the heat. Many persons, while in a perspiration, will frequently sit in a draught, and when they again go out in the hot sun and get heated they are affected by the heat. The blood may also become overheated from overdoses of alcohol, and sunstroke will result more quickly under such conditions.

BELTING Important to all who use Belting.

We have just patented a new article in Rubber Belting which is sold under the name of F. F. HOLLAND & CO., GIANT BELTING. This Belting is made up with the usual plies of Duck and Rubber, and, before putting on the out side cover, it is stitched in seams one inch apart fifty pounds. It is then stretched in its plastic state, drawing the plies so close together, that with the strong cord with which it is stitched, mate are so drawn into the plastic rubber, that they can not wear off on the outside. The outside cover then put on seamless, so that it cannot open, as is the case of Rubber Belting made in the ordinary way, and the plies being so firmly stitched, as as frictioned together, that the belt cannot separate as many belts made in the old way will, after bein used for a time, especially when run at a greag speed or in damp places.

We particularly call the attention of all Mill owners to this Belt as being in the end the cheapest belt they can buy, while the first cost is only about ten per cent more than belting made in the ordinary way. We believe t will wear more than double th length of time. For neavy main belts you will find it superior to anything made. It is also superior for Engless Belts, as we stitch the splice in such a way that it caunot separate.

ANOTHER DAY FULL OF INTEREST.

The meetings of the Friends yesterday were devoted to reports of committees on various phases and departments of church work and to discussion and action on the same. Points of general interest, however, came up all through

Just after the opening of the morning meetng the delegate from the Congregational Conference, Rev. F. E. Clark, was introduced to the meeting. In fitting sentiments and language he conveyed the greetings of his brethren, and many Friends made appropriate responses to his remarks.

A committee was appointed to make a suita, ble response to the message from the Congregational body.

Then followed the reading of the records of the representative meetings for the past year. The discussion which arose after their reading was quite general and participated in by many present. The action of Massachusetts in pass' ng a law for the instruction of youth in military tactics was heartily condemed: while earnest words were spoken against the law restoring the death penalty for murder in Maine. All agreed that it was the concern of Friends everywere to use their strongest influence against both of these laws, and with a strong intimation of what was the sense of the meeting, the subject was intrusted to the represenwere read as follows:

1—With little exception we are diligent in attending on meetings for worship and discipline, and in good measure careful to promote the attendance of our families.

2—With some exception we are in unity one with another and with the meetings to which we belong, harmoniously laboring together in gathering souls unto Christ.

3—We are engaged in frequently searching the Holy Scriptures, prayerfully seeking a right understanding by their contents under the enlightening influence of the Holy Spirit, and careful not to misguide or misapply them, with some exceptions noted in answers from two of the quarterly meetings.

The minute of the meeting was:

The presence of the Lord has been granted to us at this time as we have been drawn closely together in the bonds of Christian love and have realized the preciousness of the oneness in Christ who is the Head over all things to the church, God blessed forever.

An earnest desire has prevailed that our society might be a more earnest and efficient agency in the Lord's hands in carrying the good news of salvation to a lost and needy world Fervent supplication was offered that the Lord would remember Zion and strengthen her stakes and lengthen her cords.

The pathway of the believer with some of the trials included in the journey of human life was set forth, and the words of the Saviour received, "In the world ye shall have tribulation, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." The minute of the meeting was:

the world."

As we come near to the Saviour in fellowship with the Father and Son we get nearer to one another in love and experience, and receive a preparation to work in the Master's service.

All are not called to work in the same way, and may the Lord pour out upon us all the spirit of his life and power. In the early days of this society sharp instruments were raised up among the young, declaring the glory of the Lord with wonderful power. The cause now needs the zeal and fervor of persons of this class New life should not be subdued, but its holy energies beat in the fight direction. Powerless ourselves, let us remember "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

Living near the fountain we may be kept holy, with hands undefiled, showing forth the praises of Him who hath called up out of darkness into His marvelous light.

The committee on mission work in North Carolina and other States made their report as

The committee have continued their care during the past year and are grateful to report that their efforts have been blessed. Three schools have been sustained a portion of the year, all in Iredell county, as our limited means prevented us from extending them further. These schools were at Hunting Creek, Winthrop and Cedar Grove. That at Hunting Creek is now in session and is flourishing under the instruction of J. A. Johnson. The school numbers sixty, and closes at the end of the present month, which will complete The school numbers sixty, and closes at the end of the present month, which will complete eight months of school in that place for the past year. Again, in presenting our report to the meeting of the work done last year at Maryville, Tennessee, for the elevation of the freedmen, by giving them 2a good secular education to fit them for usefulness, and a sound Christian training that looks more to the change of a bad heart to a good one, than to a mere profession of religion, we find much that is encouraging and for which we ought to be truly thankful.

assistance from this noble gift.

The principal cause why so few were in the normal class during the fall term may be found in the fact that young men and women had made engagements to teach district schools, and to the prevalence of small pox in some sections of the Southern States near Margaville. As the colored people in East Tennessee are not numerous, the school depends for students largely on other places; and when it is more widely known that students intending to fit themselves for teachers will be liberally helped it is believed that the fall term will be more fully attended.

O. T. Maeder, Chairman.

Those present expressed their interest in this matter by coming here, and he thoughts on the subject had turned toward the kind of books which we put into Sunday schools libraries. No requisites were required of books in such a library; they should exert a good influence and be interesting. Highly wrought religious literature was to be condemned from its hurtful tendency. Some works in such libraries are so very dull that they are never taken out and so are useless.

nies are so very dull that they are never taken out and so are useless.

Between these two we must select a mean. Books which taught of flower and bird and sky as being the handlwork of the great Fatherwere useful; books which rightly described the lives of Christian worthies were needed. Not weak but strong and wholesome and real works were what the children needed; and such books would be sure to supplement Christian instruction.

Friend John Derlan spoke of the constantly increasing needs of Sabbath schools, and how weakly some schools attempted to do their work. He agreed with the former speaker and believed that the lives of the church worthies, of the noble missionaries, were the books that would be interesting. He also believed in school helps, and that the Quakers should publish their own and intelligently show the world why they believed and practised thus and so Friend Luke Woodard concurred with the views of the others; a man had better put poison in his body than poor literature in his Friend A. M. Purdy then followed with a very interesting object lesson, illustrating the fallen condition of men, their equality in the sight of God, and their purity in the eyes of God and men when they have been baptized

Friend Isaac Snarp next spoke and uttered words of courage for workers in this cause. He illustrated the progress which had been made in this work, and the advantages enjoyed by the present over the past. He congratulated the Friends on their progress in this regard and believed that Bible classes would defend the church from many dangers. Friend Emeline Tuttle followed: Friend Emeline Tuttle followed:

She believed in a catechism for she had found it necessary in her mission work, and thought this was a good way to teach the Friends' principles in Sabbath schools. This course had been successful in her Indian work. Another duty which the religious teacher owed her pupils was to bring them to Jesus; this duty was a possible one, prayer would avail here. There is no need of discouragement; look upward and press onward, believing that God is able for all things.

Friend George Barton briefly spoke of the necessity of Bible belps for certain classes, but warned those who had time for work on the lesson to be careful in its use.

Friend Mary Rogers of Kansas thought the most important thing was the conversion of the children; intellectual knowledge was not enough, we must affect and turn the heart. Friend Benj. F. Knowles spoke but a moment and was followed by the last speaker of the evening, Friend Amos Kenworthy who In the afternoon the first thing which in fitting words closed what had been throughout an interesting meeting. He spoke of the need of light even here in New England, for dark corners were to be found. Teachers should ask God to bless their classes; should have the schools full of fire and go to work as if there were souls worth saving. It is time for us to have the spirit of the Master, and live a self denying life. A public missionary meeting will be held in City Hali this (Wednesday) evening at 7.30 o'clock. Isaac Sharp, Eli Jones, Charles M.

Jones, Emeline E. Tuttle and others will address the meeting. The public are cordially invited to attend. Ferry Village.

They have also consented to the consecration of the Rev. Hugh M. Thompson as Assistant Bishop of the Diocese of Mississippi. Charles B. Merrill presented the report of the Cathedral of St. Luke. Some small expense has been laid out on the cathedral building. It is now in good condition and will not require any more outlay during the coming year, unless some addition be made to the porch. The canon's house will require some expenditure in order to make it a continued esidence for the canon. The insurance on the property expired during the past year and has een renewed at $15,000 on the cathedral building, $2000 on the organ and $2000 on the canon's house—all in five year policies. At 11 o'clock the convention attended divine service. A procession of twenty choristers and fifteen clergy entered from the robing rooms, vested, singing "The church's our foundation." The music was full and strong. The sermon was by the Lord Bishop of Quebec on The Educating Power of the Holy Scriptures, intellectually and spiritually. The Holy Communion was celebrated by the Bishop assisted by Rev. Mr. Sills of the Cathedral, Mr. Upjohn of Augusta, and Rev. F. S. Sill of New Brunswick.

Despite the hot weather a good house held the Lyceum last night. Miss Sherwood's reappearance, after her illness, was most welcome, and her act with Miss Blanche Webster a hit. Everybody was glad to see Lew Keyes and Gus Wallace again on the ends, and Keyes's hand husiness was most with the annual Keyes's hand husiness was most with the annual Minor Notes. Keyes's banjo business was met with the usual favor. A middle-piece was introduced, "Geing to the Ball," affording Miss Clara Wilbur ing to the Ball," affording Miss Clara Wilbur opportunity to enact one of her excellent lady parts. The afterpiece gave good scope to Misses Webster, Mortimer and Phillips.

The management of the Lyceum has very generously offered to give a benefit at City Hall, Saturday night, for the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Association, the proceeds of the entertainment to go to that fund. This act of liberaity will of course be heartily appreciated. In addition to the regular Lyceum company other talent will appear.

Mr. Jas. E. Murdoch, the celebrated actor, has gone to his summer residence at Folly Cove, Rockport, Mass. In the autumn he will give a series of readings at the Boston Theatre. Grimmer's orchestra will not appear at the Lyceum.

The frame of a new coal shed erecting on Soston and Maine wharf by Henry L. Paine & Co., blew over yesterday morning. The frame was about 100 feet long and considerable extra work will be necessary to put it up again. Geo. W. Adams, residing on Cumberland street, was badly hurt by falling timbers. His jaw and several ribs were broken and the full extent of his injuries are not yet known.

Limington. Very warm, sultry, summer weather the past few days, interspersed with showers a'most daily. The prospect of an abundant hay crop is good in this section and will be realized if the season continues favorable. The fruit trees show a medium heavy bloom. The prospect of a good crop is quite flattering. Capt. Malcolm McArthur, of the regular army, is here on his summer furlough.

Mr. L. J. Strout of this town has in his possession the trowel used in building the first New Sharon, Me., her maiden name being brick structure erected at St. Paul, Minn. A business meeting will be holden on Tuesday afternoon, the 19th inst.

The arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration at this place have been nearly completed. The following is a copy of the invitation, including the order of exercises, which has been forwarded to 250 at least of the nearly conversal denta.

A BEAUTIFUL STORE

The New Home of the "Domestic" Com pany.

When Fluent Block was remodelled by its owners, the Union Mutual Insurance Company Mr. Small, of Saco, and Rev. Mr. Leffingwell, of Maine, an invitation was extended to our itizens to visit the most beautiful and artistic building this side of Boston. Not that the exterior was as commanding as many others but its internal finish and furnishings were such as delighted everybody for their richness and great taste displayed in selections of marbles, and woods, in the superb frescoings, and the harmonizing of colors. The great store in the block, on the corner of Exchange and Congress streets, has awaited a tenant for some time since the rest of the block was occupied, but has now found a tenant in the person of Mr. Frank P. Moss, agent of the Domestic Sewing Machine Company, and Mr. De Witt, the President of the Union Mutual, after the store was arranged by Messrs Fascett and Stevens, exercised the same exquisite taste in its preparation for the uses to which it was to be put that marked his decoration of the remainder of the

The store proper is about thirty feet square and sixteen in height with a large private office in the rear facing on Congress street, and a room for the book-keeper, nearly as large as the private office, adjoining. This latter room would be fully as large as the other were it no t for its odd shape. These offices are separated from the main store by an elegant partitionfashioned in the Queen Anne pattern, of polished cherry, and adorned in the centre by a large plate glass mirror. The private office in inished in cherry, and has a splendid cherry scritoire, with sofa and easy chairs to corres pond, all richly upholstered and of the Queen Anne pattern. The main store is hand mely carpeted in colors to correspond with delicate frescoing of the ceiling and the deep, rich red of the walls, the red serving to absord a portion of the flood of light from the great French plate glass windows reaching from floor to ceiling, and of which two sides of Exchange streets. The frieze of the store also harmonizes admirably with the key note of color and is of a beautiful antique design Queen Anne furniture also embellishes the room, and beautiful gas fixtures with shades ornamented with delicate tracings. All styles of the "Domestic" are on exhibition in the store, and artistically arranged specimens of work showing that about every thing in the way of maccreme work, needlework, or embroidery can be done by the Domestic. The company have just introduced an entire new style of the justly celebrated bent wood-work that has so long adorned the "Dome This new style is as great an improvement over the former as that was over the old style of built up work. They are all fitted to one foot and can be taken off, or put on without the use of 'a screw driver or the turning of a screw. In the window are elegant costumes made by these machines, and a large doll beautifully dressed. Yesterday afternoon the opening of the new parlors took place and they were filled all the rest of the day and evening.

The Grand Trunk has offered to supply the New York Central with business from the Chicago and Grand Trunk. Action on this proposition has not yet been taken by the Central. The New York Central will continue to connect with Detroit by trains to Niagara Falls, and thence over the Great Western to that city. The through Chi. cago trains necssarily go by the way of the Can ada Southern, because the Michigan Central refused to take through trains from the Great Western. When the Michigan Central announced the transfer of its through passenger trains from the Great Western to Canada of | Southern, the Grand Trunk gave notice that it would not be bound, prohibiting the payment of commissions on passenger business- Out of this fact has grown the rumor that a war of passenger rates was imminent between the Grand Trunk and Central. The officers of the Central say that they will refuse to honor through tickets from the Michigan Central if the latter cut rates either directly or by the pay

It is understood that a meeting of the Trunk line railroad representatives was held in New York yesterday to discuss [the relation of the Grand Trunk and Lackawanna Railroads to the pool. Killing Weeds. The New England Farmer has an instruc-tive article with the above caption, from which we make the following extracts: Perhaps there is no single farm operation in which there has been such a needless waste of hard manual labor as in that of waste of hard manual labor as in that of field and garden hoeing. It is true, there was some excuse for making hard work of weeding and hoeing, when there were no really good ploughs, harrows or horse cul-tivators in the market, with which to suitably prepare and work the soil. A field that is but half ploughed, can not be put in good condition for planting by the use even of the best harrow or cultivator. Each operation must be properly done in its order, or all the after cultivation will necessarily be done at a disadvantage.

We never yet knew the man who had just finished a hard job at hoeing, who was quite ready and willing, as soon as the last hill was finished, to turn about and go right through the same operations again with cultivator and hoe, and yet that is just what ought to be done in many cases. But a better way is to hoe less and cultivate oftener. On no account should one use a hand hoe immediately after the first cultivating, nor should a field be cultivated the second time until the unrouted weeds have had a time until the uprooted weeds have had a little time either to die, or to catch a new hold with their roots. After one or two days, if the cultivator is run the second time, it will count against the weeds. If a field is rowed both ways, is very weeds. If a field is rowed both ways, is very weeds or grassy, and needs a good deal of work done, we would go through with the cultivator one way first, and then cross it the next day, going but once in a row each time. The third day go through again and the fourth day cross ways again. And we would continue this method until every green thing be-tween the rows has been killed. Then we tween the rows has been killed. Then we would go through and pull, or dig out the weeds in among the plants in the hills, leaving them between the rows, where, if their roots caught a new hold, they would be torn up by the cultivator the next time it passed through. Such hoeing may be done any time when not too wet to work out doors, while by the ordinary methods of cultivating and hoeing the same day, the hoe might about as well be hung on its hook as to be used in the field, for as many weeds may be set out or transplanted as killed. If we use the hand hoe at all in the field or garden, we should use it to kill weeds, and not to cultishould use it to kill weeds, and not to cultivate the land. Let the horse and cultivator, or horsehoe do that. We can not afford to dig the ground by hand in these days of improv-ed farm machinery and low prices for farm And yet we can not afford to grow weeds

And yet we can not afford to grow weeds among our crops. Nor is there any need that we should. A good horse hoe, with reversible outside teeth, that can be set so as to throw the earth either towards or from the hills, at pleasure, and with expanding braces to fit it for wide or narrow rows, may be run with perfect safety, even before the crop begins to break through the surface, and it may be run daily if necessary, till everything between rows is as dead as hay. One thorough hand hoeing is all that the very weediest of fields ever ought to require. All the hilling, where hilling is desirable. very weediest of fields ever ought to require. All the hilling, where hilling is desirable, may, and should be done by horse power.

We have been discussing methods of handling very weedy fields, such fields as have neither been well ploughed nor well cultivated previous to being planted. Where the preliminary work has been done well, no such amount of horse cultivation will be required. The smoothing harrow drawn over a thoroughly tilled and properly planted corn or potato field, will, in two hours' time, do the work of both man and cultivator for a whole day. A great many acres of cultivated land were kept clean of weeds last year without any hand labor with hoes, an occasional weed to be pulled by hand an occasional weed to be pulled by hand being all the hand labor required, and these were so scattering as not to pay for pulling, were so scattering as not to pay for pulling, except to keep the land clean for succeeding crops. By adopting better methods of cultivating and weeding our crops, we shall be better prepared to cut the early grass at the right time, instead of leaving it to go to seed, while we are grubbing and sweating among the weeds in our fields and gardens.

My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the feverand itehings were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent.
