

University of HUDDERSFIELD

University of Huddersfield Repository

Barber, Claire

Air presented at The Textile Society 32nd Annual Conference 'Textiles, Communication and Politics'

Original Citation

Barber, Claire (2014) Air presented at The Textile Society 32nd Annual Conference 'Textiles, Communication and Politics'. In: Textiles, Communication and Politics, 7th November 2014 - 9th November 2014, Welcome Trust, London. (Unpublished)

This version is available at <http://eprints.hud.ac.uk/23660/>

The University Repository is a digital collection of the research output of the University, available on Open Access. Copyright and Moral Rights for the items on this site are retained by the individual author and/or other copyright owners. Users may access full items free of charge; copies of full text items generally can be reproduced, displayed or performed and given to third parties in any format or medium for personal research or study, educational or not-for-profit purposes without prior permission or charge, provided:

- The authors, title and full bibliographic details is credited in any copy;
- A hyperlink and/or URL is included for the original metadata page; and
- The content is not changed in any way.

For more information, including our policy and submission procedure, please contact the Repository Team at: E.mailbox@hud.ac.uk.

<http://eprints.hud.ac.uk/>

THE TEXTILE SOCIETY for the study of the history, art and design of textiles

32nd Annual Conference Textiles, Communication and Politics

Friday 7 Nov – Sunday 9 Nov 2014

Wellcome Trust Centre, Euston Road, London, (opposite Euston Train Station)

Conference subject

The political nature of textiles can be evidenced through cloth past and present, from many different cultures. Through textiles we communicate personal and social narratives and engender cultural identity. Textiles can be the conduit to bring people together in society, revealing shared values and concerns. Textiles can commemorate events and act as propaganda or social commentary, they can tell our stories and shape our ideas. The history of textiles is highly politicised. Textiles are part of a hierarchical value system where high and low art distinctions are drawn between fine art and craft, where textiles and gender are inextricably linked. Textiles have served the political purpose of institutions and individuals but also challenged them.

The 2014 Textile Society conference explores the theme of Textiles, Communication and Politics from historical and contemporary perspectives.

Speakers: Textile historians and conservators Jacquie Hyman and Vivian Lochhead, textile practitioners Paddy Hartley (Project Façade), Nigel Hurlstone, Claire Barber and Lynn Setterington, textile theorist Gavin Fry, and fair trade and textile manufacturing specialists Seher Mirza and Labour Behind the Label.

Schedule

Friday 7th November:

An exhibition on Watts of Westminster has been curated by Mary Schoeser at the Fashion and Textile Museum. We have arranged a special tour of this exhibition and a presentation by Dr. Brenda King. Visit commences at 11am. Price on booking form. Maximum 20 people.

AGM 3.15pm Wellcome Centre (Free).

Opening conference: speaker 1 (Free).

Conference dinner in London. Venue to be confirmed (expected set menu at approx.£25 per Person).

Sat 8th November:

Main conference. £60 members/£80 non-members. Registration 9.30 -10.20
Conference commences 10.20 and finishes 5.30. Lunch and refreshments included.

Sunday 9th November:

We have arranged a special tour of the Jane Morris and Rossetti special exhibition at the William Morris Gallery at 11am. Price on booking form. Maximum 20 people.