ABSTRACT

The study aims at improving the speaking learning process of the XG students of SMA N 5 Yogyakarta in the academic year 2012/2013. Video clips were implemented in this study as the teaching media in speaking teaching and learning process.

This was an action research study which consisted of two cycles. The steps of this study were identifying the problem, planning the actions, implementing and observing the actions guides, and reflecting the actions done. The research subjects were students in grade X of SMA N 5 Yogyakarta, the researcher and the English teacher as the collaborator. To obtain the data, observations and interviews were conducted. The research instruments were the observation guideline and the interview guideline. The validity of the data was obtained by applying democratic validity, outcome validity, process validity, catalytic validity, and dialogic validity. The reliability of the data was obtained by comparing three sources of the data and involving other observers in observing the actions.

The results of this study showed that there are some improvements in speaking learning process in the form of the students’ involvement, students’ motivation, students’ fluency, students’ vocabulary, students’ pronunciation accuracy, students’ grammatical accuracy, and students’ comprehension. The improvement can be seen from the students’ performances in speaking activities in the class and the interviews taken after the actions. In conclusion, the speaking learning process was improved through video clips as the teaching and learning media.
CHAPTER I
INTRODUCTION

A. Background of the Problem

English is an international language that is used broadly all over the world. The function of English is the tool for communication in which people from different nations interact.

In Indonesia, English is the first foreign language that is taught at schools. It is considered an important language to develop science, technology, art and culture and to improve international relationship between people. In this era, which is considered as a globalization and information era, Indonesian people should be able to master English so that they can compete with other people from all over the world.

To be able to master English as a foreign language, students should master the four skills of English. They are listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Speaking has been considered as the most important language skill in the classroom. It also becomes the most widely used language skill which is often used in relation to other skills. Good speaking ability is something that one should have in order to communicate with others. It is one of the four skills to be developed in the English language learning.

However, nowadays the requirements of the effective teaching and learning in SMA N 5 Yogyakarta are not adequately met because of some factors; the result of teaching speaking is not yet satisfactory. The first problem found is that students’ speaking ability is still low. Many students still have difficulties in learning speaking. They always assume that speaking skill is not important for them. Mostly, the students only learn writing and reading skill when they are in high schools. They think that they do not need to learn to speak English. They believe that writing and reading is more than speaking to get a good mark in English subject. As a result, they never really concern to learn speaking skill.

The second problem is that English teachers assume that speaking is a skill that can be acquired easily without being much learned and practiced. In line with this, the teachers only concern on linguistics competence of the students such as grammar, vocabulary, and pronunciation. Mostly, they do not give the students communicative competence in the class.

The third problem is that the media with technology or instructional media in teaching speaking is rarely implemented in the speaking classes. Many teachers prefer to use conventional techniques in teaching speaking, whereas teaching media are used as stimuli to grow students’ interest, enthusiasm, and motivation on what is being presented in particular lesson. As a result, the students’ motivation in learning is not increased and that the goal of learning process is can not be reached yet. In many cases, the students are afraid to speak English in the class. They are afraid of making mistakes in speaking English. They are still not interested and do not have any enthusiasm in speaking lesson. Thus, to follow up the condition of the school, the researcher would like to conduct a research. By conducting action research, the researcher would like to try to improve teaching learning process in SMA Negeri 5 Yogyakarta, especially the grade X students.

B. Identification of the Problem

Based on the information above, there are some problems discussed in this research. The identified problem is that getting students to is the one of the most difficult tasks confronting any English teacher. The goal of a speaking component in a language class should be to encourage the acquisition of communication skills and to foster real communication in and out the classroom.

However, there are several factors that cause problems in getting the students to communicate in the speaking class. They are as follows:

a. Internal factor

The first internal factor is the difficulty in learning to pronounce English words correctly, since English is a second language. In many cases, students still use their native language form in speaking English and it is hard to grasp the sounds of a new language. So it makes them difficult to communicate with others.

The second factor is dialect. Dialect describes a language variety where a user’s regional or social background appears in the use of vocabulary and grammar. It can be a big problem because speaking with a strong dialect can lead to misunderstanding. In the real life, sometimes students cannot understand native speakers with their native English accents, and the native speakers cannot understand them as well.
b. External factor

The first problem is related to the teacher. The teacher mostly presents inputs to students which are not interesting for them. The way of teaching also becomes a problem. A teacher who teaches monotonous way cannot motivate the students to speak English in the class. The goal of the language learning process can not be reached.

The second problem is related to the facilities and teacher’s skill. Actually there are several teaching media which can be used as input language learning process and encourage students to communicate. However, the lack of facilities and the skills of the teachers, make the media rarely used in the teaching and learning process.

The third, the biggest problem in language learning is that the students are unmotivated to learn a new thing. They are easy to get bored in the class.

C. Limitation of the Problem

It was possible for the researcher to overcome the entire problems in the speaking teaching and learning process. The problem of this research is focused on what type of teaching media which can effectively improve the speaking learning process in the class G at SMA Negeri 5 Yogyakarta. In this case is the use of video clips in the speaking class. Video clips can help students to get better understanding in the input of speaking because they are not only listening to the input but also they can see the people in the conversation as an input. Based on the interviews and discussions with the English teacher, video clips would be implemented in this research as the speaking teaching and learning media.

The researcher chose SMA Negeri 5 Yogyakarta as the setting of the research based on some considerations. First, it has English as one of their local contents subject. Second, the researcher has the experience of learning English in that school. Therefore, the researcher found that the process of teaching and learning process specially in learning speaking is not interesting and do not help students to learn speaking English.

D. Formulation of the Problem

The following is the problem the research deals with, which can be formulated as follows: “How can the speaking learning process be improved through the use of video clips as the teaching media?”

E. Objectives of the Research

Considering the formulation of the problem above, the objective of the research is to improve the speaking learning process through the use of video clips as the teaching media.

F. Significance of the Research

The researcher hopes that this research can give advantages to all the readers. The significances expected are as follows:
1. For the other researcher

   This research will give information about the theory of speaking. It also can be used as a reference for the next research in doing analysis on the same field.

2. For the English teacher, after reading this research
   a. The English teachers know the strategy to build the sense of community in the classroom.
   b. The English teachers know how to build materials creatively so that students can find the teaching and learning process more enjoyable.
   c. The English teachers know how to develop communication in the classroom which mirrors the authentic communication that occurs in the real life.

3. The students

   The students can get information about the important of speaking skill and also can increase their motivation in learning speaking.
CHAPTER II

LITERATURE REVIEW AND CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

It is stated in Chapter 1 that the research concern in the use of video clips in the teaching and learning process. This chapter discussed a number of theories related to this research.

A. Review of Theories

1. The Nature of Speaking

Speaking is one of the basic skills that must be mastered by students since it is very important for them to communicate in the class or outside the class. They must practice it especially in learning speaking in order to be fluent. Without an ability to speak, it would be impossible to have a natural communication among people. In learning speaking, most of the students face difficulties such as lack of confidence, shyness, and silence that impede a natural communication. They often make mistakes while trying to communicate in English. Students might have so many ideas to be said but they are afraid to utter or say what they suppose to say.

Moreover, the current issue of globalization requires people to be able to communicate in English as the international language. Thus, those who master English will get the benefits when they deal with their job. This is in line with Kayi’s (2006) view as follows: the ability to communicate in second language clearly and efficiently contribute to the success of the learner in school and success later in every phase of live (Internet TESL Journal, Vol. XII, No. 11).

Cameron (2001: 40) states that speaking is the active use of language to express meanings so that other people can make sense of them. She also states that speaking is much more demanding than listening on language learners’ language resource and skills. It is because speaking activities requires careful and plentiful support of various types, not just support for understanding, but also support for production.

Speaking is “the process of building and sharing meaning through the use of verbal and nonverbal symbols, in a variety of context” (Chaney, 1998:13) in Kayi (2006: 1). Speaking is a crucial part of second language learning and teaching. Without speaking, the oral communication between people cannot be occurred.

Bailley and Savage (1994) in Celce Murcia (2001: 163) state that the ability to speak a language in almost the same as knowing the language since speech is the most basic means of human communication. They also states that speaking in a second or foreign language has often been viewed as the most demanding of the four skills.

Scott and Ytreberg (2004:33) state that speaking is perhaps the most demanding skill for the teacher to reach. Speakers talk in order to have some effects on their listeners. When speaking to other people, speakers try to make their communication run as well. Speakers have to speak when they want to assert things to change their knowledge. Speakers ask other people questions to make them provide information. Speakers request things to make other people do things for them. In speaking, communication between two people should happen.

Thornbury (2005: 108) states that speaking requires the ability to cooperate in the management of speaking turns. It also typically takes place in the real-time, with the little time for the detail planning. Further, he adds the nature of speaking process means that the use of the grammar. Hence, the study of written grammar may not be the most efficient preparation for speaking.

From some definitions above it can be concluded that speaking is the ability or skill to express something through spoken medium; speaking is concerning putting the ideas into words about someone’s perception, feelings, intentions to make other people grasp the message that is conveyed. People speak to other people to make communication run well. They have to speak to express their ideas about something. If they want something, they have to say it. It makes other people know what they want.

2. Micro Skills of Speaking

Most people think that speaking the foreign language is the most difficult task of all. Experience shows that there is much in that statement. For some people, the ability to speak a foreign language is, unfortunately, not acquired very easily. Therefore, one of the most important elements in the process of acquiring the speaking skill is constant motivation and opportunity for learners to develop a feeling of achievement. Graded and sequential practice is great value in developing the speaking skill.
The goal of sounding like a native speaker is unrealistic in any course of study. The crucial element is the degree of approximation which is aimed at in the course. Continually, the teacher must play the role of a realistic evaluator. If the learners have a great amount of difficulty producing an English sounding /r/, it is not necessary to attach attention to the issue. Real communication can still take place if the /r/ sound is non-native. At every stage it is desirable for learners to use what they know and to have practice talking with native speakers, even if they do not sound like native speakers themselves.

In our daily lives, we speak more than we write. Paul (2003: 76) states that the students can listen to English at home, read English at home, and even write English at home. But, most of them have few opportunities to speak English at home. So that, speaking should be taught and practiced in the language classroom.

Brown (2001: 271) states in teaching oral communication, teachers need to show the details of how to convey and negotiate. Below are micro skills of oral communication:

a. Being able to use the language in real time (fluency).

b. Being able to pronounce the language sufficiently correctly to enable communication to take place.

c. Being able to use a range of vocabulary and grammatical structures (in the early stages, the range of grammatical structures students will use will be relatively small).

d. Talking about a range of common topics (e.g. family, school, hobbies)
e. Expressing a wide range of language functions, such as, greeting, agreeing, and so on.

f. Using different exponents to express the same function.

g. Selecting the appropriate exponent depending on the situation, their social status with regard to the person they are speaking to, or the degree of formality/informality required.

h. Knowing a range of basic scripts (how to start and finish a conversation, or how to buy things in a shop or order in a restaurant).

i. Being able to cope with insufficient language resources, by paraphrasing, simplifying, inventing a word, using the L1 as a resource, miming, and using hesitation devices.

j. Being able to cope with communication breakdowns, e.g. when they simply don't understand (by asking for repetitions).

k. Using intonation to convey meaning.

A necessary strategy for language learners is to develop an ability to communicate ideas which they do not know exactly how to express. The essential attitude to build is one of the confidences in a situation of uncertainty.

According to Brown (2001: 271) there are six types of classroom speaking performance:

1) Imitative

Imitative speaking is the most common activities that the teacher used in the class. However, the imitative activity in the class should be in limited portion.
For example, learners practice an intonation contour and a certain pronunciation. Imitation is not only for meaningful interaction purposes, but also for focusing on some particular elements of the language form.

2) Intensive

Intensive speaking is one step forward imitative. Intensive is designed to practice some phonological of grammatical aspects of language in any speaking performance. Intensive speaking can be said initiative speaking. It can be a form part of some pair work activity, where learners examine certain language forms.

3) Responsive

Responsive speaking is included short replies to teacher or student-initiated questions or comments. The form of respond itself is only short form and not extending into dialogues.

4) Transactional

Transactional speaking occurs to conveying or exchanging specific information. Conversation, for example, may have more of a negotiation nature to them than responsive speech.

5) Interpersonal (dialogue)

Interpersonal dialogue occurs to maintain social relationships than for the show of facts and information.

6) Extensive (monologue)

In this speaking activity, students at intermediate to advanced levels are mostly participating. They extend monologues in the form of oral reports, summaries, or perhaps short speeches. In the extensive monologue, the language forms are more formal and purposeful. These monologues can be planned or spontaneous.

3. The Teaching of Speaking

Speaking, especially in a foreign language, is a very demanding activity for all ages of learners. It is because in order to share understanding with other people using a foreign language, one needs to pay attention to practice details of the language. He or she needs to find the most appropriate words and also the correct grammar to convey meaning accurately. It is also very important to organize the discourse so that the interlocutor understands what the speaker say (Cameron, 2001: 40).

Harmer (2007: 345-348) states some important points related to the teaching of speaking. They are the reluctance of the students to speak and take part and the teacher’s role. He adds some useful ways to minimize the students’ reluctance in speaking, including:

a. Preparation

Giving enough time to think about how they will they speak, or, it may mean letting them practice dialogues in pairs before having to do anything more public.

b. The values of repetition

Allowing them to improve on what they did before, getting chance to analyze what they have already done, and getting them to repeat and repeat their speaking. Paul Howarth (2001 a and b), as Harmer (2007: 346) quotes, characterize the process of speaking by the pattern:

\text{Plan} \rightarrow \text{perform} \rightarrow \text{analyze} \rightarrow \text{repeat}

c. Big groups , small groups

Making sure that they get chances to speak and interact in big or small groups.

d. Mandatory participation

Allowing the students to equally engage in a task without knowing who gets the turn first and who gets the next.

In addition, there are three stages in teaching speaking (Harmer, 2001:118). They are introducing the new language, practice, and communicative activities.

1) Introducing the new language

English is the new language for the students; it should be introduced as its meaning, forms, and functions. The meaning relates to its denotation, connotation, and culture. The function relates to the social life and the form relates to its linguistics.

2) Practice

Practising a new language is not just once. A teacher should reinforce again and again so that the students become familiar and automatic in producing the language. The teacher can create an atmosphere in which the students can find the words to make them speak in a real situation.
3) Communicative activities

Communicative activities should be aimed at the communication that happens daily. Most of the time, the students are prepared to learn speaking within the text available in the students’ book. These models of dialogs, of course, are limited because the students have no chance to express their own ideas and they have no challenge to create a new situation. Because of that, the communicative activities cannot be occurred.

In relation to the teaching of speaking, Brown (2001: 275-276) proposes some principles for implementing speaking teaching techniques. They are as follows:

a. Use techniques that cover the spectrum of learner needs, from language-based focus on accuracy to message-based focus on interactions, meaning, and fluency.

b. Provide intrinsically motivating techniques.

c. Encourage the use of authentic language in meaningful contexts.

d. Provide appropriate feedback and comments.

e. Capitalize on natural link between speaking and listening.

f. Give students opportunities to innate oral communication.

g. Encourage the development of speaking strategies.

In line with the teaching of speaking, Paul (2003: 6) suggests some ways related to prepare students to communicate,
1) introducing and practising patterns in ways that feel meaningful to do students
2) practising new pattern in combination with the other patterns the students have learned
3) giving the students many opportunities to guess how to use patterns flexibly.
4) giving the students confidence to speak put in front of others by talking independently with others.
5) focusing on the questions form of new pattern, so the students can ask about the things they do not know.

In conclusion, speaking is one of the central elements of communication. The functions are interactional and transactional. Therefore, the teacher should provide learners with opportunities for meaningful communication. This requires the teachers to give guidance for the learners’ need. The learners will learn how to communicate verbally and nonverbally as their language skill develops. Consequently, the exchanges of messages enable the learner to create discourse that conveys their intentions in real communication. Furthermore, it is an aspect that needs special attention and instruction. In order to provide the effective speaking, it is necessary for teachers to examine carefully the factor that underlie speaking effectiveness. It will gradually help learners speak fluently and appropriately. It makes other people know what they want.

4. The Teaching of Speaking at SMA

Schools in Indonesia apply the School Based Curriculum (KTSP) as a reference to teach English. Speaking is an integral part in the curriculum. The teaching of speaking in Senior High Schools (SMA) should be based on the basic competency and standard of competency as stated in the standards of graduation competency. Mulyasa (2008: 109) states that related to School Based Curriculum (KTSP), National Education Department prepared standard of competency and basic competency for every subject, which is used as a guideline for the teachers in developing the School Based Curriculum in every school.

The objective of English teaching in the first grade of senior high school is to provide the students with the following skills:

a) developing communicative competence in oral and written form to achieve functional literacy level,

b) having awareness of the native and importance of English learning to enhance national competitiveness in a global society, and
c) developing an understanding of the relationship between language cultures.

a. Standard of Competency

According to the standard of competency of speaking stated in School Based Curriculum, after learning the speaking skills, the students are expected to be able to:

1) Express the meaning of a short simple transactional and interpersonal conversation related to students’ environment.

2) Express the meaning of functional oral communication and dialogue related to the student’s environment and daily life.
b. Basic Competency

The objective of teaching speaking in senior high schools (SMA) can be reflected on the basic competency that has been prepared by the government. By learning the speaking subject in the school, the students are expected to be able to:

1) Express the meaning in transactional dialogues (to get things done) and interpersonal (socialization) dialogues which use oral language accurately, fluently, and appropriate including personal introduction, greeting and leave taking, accepting and refusing an invitation.

2) Express the meaning in transactional dialogues (to get things done) and interpersonal (socialization) dialogues which are oral language accurately, fluently, and appropriately including expressing happiness, showing concern, expressing sympathy, and giving instruction.

3) Express the meaning in the form of short functional oral texts (announcement, advertisement, and invitation) accurately, fluently, and appropriately related to students’ environment.

4) Express the meaning of simple monologue texts accurately, fluently, and appropriately in the form of recount, narrative, and procedure text related to the students’ environment.

In conclusion, the objective of teaching speaking in senior high school is to prepare the students to communicate in the real life. Therefore, the teachers should help the students by implementing the basic competency and the standard competency. It makes other people know what they want.
5. Media of Teaching

Media refer to any device that brings information between a source and a receiver. In the educational context, teaching media are known as teaching aid, something a teacher uses to make a lesson clearer or more interesting. There are many ways in which teachers can make use of media in their speaking classes. The availability of videotape and internet downloads of sound and video files have vastly increased potential input for language learning.

There are three major of teaching media. They are audio, visual and audio visual media. Audio media are the kinds of media which educators produce for the students. In the English language learning, audio are used to help teachers and students with pronunciation and intonation practice. The problem is the media do not include visual and aural environment clues. If the listeners do not see the speaker’s body language and facial expression, they find it difficult to understand the speaker’s meaning.

Visual media are media that can bee seen like film strip, pictures, paintings, and photos that show what something looks like. The other form of visual media is diagrams that show relationship between concepts or maps and graphs. Visual media also include authentic things, which refer to actual objects and items brought into a classroom as examples or as aids to be talked or written about and used in teaching. It consists of a lot of media that can be seen and can be touched such as pictures, miniatures of something, and so on. Unfortunately, the visual are not appropriate for listening activities because they do not include sound effects and visual effects.
Audio visual media are media that combine visual and audio. They consist of audio for the students to listen and visual for them to see, for examples computer associated instruction, video, TV programs, DVD, and so on. These media are better than two kinds media above because they have both sounds and pictures or illustration. The most appropriate audio visual media for teaching and learning process are videos. Video shows language in use. It means that the students can see how intonation matches facial expression and what gestures accompany certain phrases (Harmer, 2007: 308). There is also an advantage of using video that is the learners’ motivation increases when they learn language using video.

Smaldino, Lowther, & Russell (2007: 323) propose some criteria that are often used to guide media selection. They are content, purposes, appropriateness, and cost, and technical quality, circumstances of use, learner verification, and validation. They also prepare some generalized principles of media selection and use as follows:

a. Media should be consistent with the objective
b. Use visual that are easy to prepare
c. Media must for students’ capabilities and learning style
d. Enable students to use actual objects
e. Allow several participants to respond simultaneously
f. Allow one to draw or write key words during the lesson
g. Are appropriate for a small group (under 25)
h. Can be used in a fully lit room.
i. Media must be appropriate for the mode of instruction.

In conclusion, the use of media in teaching speaking is really needed to improve the teaching and learning process. Media can help students to get more understanding, for example by seeing the object, and by hearing the conversation. It makes other people know what they want.

6. Video clips in Language Learning

Video clips are media that consist of visual and audio effects. Meanwhile, the researcher uses a video clip in the study as a short segment of video or a video which has been cut into several short segments with certain duration of time. These video clips can be played on the computer or television.

King in Dundar and Simpson (2000: 98) says that video clip is a dynamic medium that is better than a static text or a sound-only recording. Ravitch (2007: 148) suggests that video clip is one of the educational programs to communicate ideas that integrate different content forms as a multimedia learning. Richards and Schmidt (2002) state that video clip is audio-visual device used by a teacher to the learning. In the term of educational technology, video can also be defined as a machine and educational equipment of different sorts to assist teachers and students in language learning.

Video clips are one of the educational technologies recommended by many experts because of its advantages to the language learning. They provide both auditory and visual sources as well which is very helpful to support the students’ weaknesses one another in language learning. Video clips are easy to be controlled (stopped, paused, repeated) and presented to a group of students or individuals. Besides, they can be used as a self-study that allows the students to see facial expression and body language at the same time as they hear the stress, intonation, and rhythm of the language (Mayer and Plass et al in Chau, 2003; Burt in Dundar and Simpson, 2000).

Harmer (2007: 308) states that a video clip can provide “language in use”. It means that video clips slow the students to see a lot of paralinguistic behaviour. For example, the students can see how information matches facial expression and what gestures accompany certain phrases. Video is useful in teaching speaking because they include all the characteristics of natural spoken English language in realistic situation. English pronunciation varies from speaker to speaker and accent of speech can also changed in different speed. By using the video clips, the input of materials can be better. Students get better understanding and recognition about the content.

Furthermore, the teacher may bring native speakers into classroom (on video clip) as additional models for pronunciation, intonation, and rhythm. Watching the video clips can raise the students’ awareness of non-verbal aspects in communication. They are gesture and body language that increase listening comprehension in paralinguistic features, such as facial expression, body language, context, and setting (Chau, 2003).

Applying video clips is an innovative breakthrough that is largely used in the language learning to improve the quality of the learning process. Moreover, the students also can enjoy teaching learning activity that eases them to accept the learning material. In other words, video clips will enrich students’ knowledge and entertain them at once.

Moreover, Harmer (2001: 282) states that there are many reasons why video clips are useful for language learning. There are as follows:

a. Seeing language-in-use

The advantage of video clips is that students do not just hear language, they see it too. In addition, they can observe how intonation can match facial expression. These features can give valuable meaning clues and help viewers to see beyond what they are listening to, and interpret the text more deeply.

b. Cross-cultural awareness

Video clips allow students a look at situation far beyond their classrooms. Video clips are great value in giving students a chance to see how the other countries are look like.

c. The power of creation

When students use video cameras themselves they are given the potential to create something memorable and enjoyable.

d. Motivation

Most students show an increased level of interest when they have chance to see language in use as well as hear it, and when this is coupled with interesting tasks.

From the description above, it is clear that video clips are the effective media for teaching speaking because they contain visuals effect that can help the students to comprehend the conversation. Video clips allow the students to see actual objects. They can also be used in small class or large class. In choosing the video clips, the teacher chooses the video clips that are appropriate for students’ interest, ability and age. The video clips should be appropriate with the materials.

B. Relevant Studies

Video clips have been used as media in the teaching and learning language process especially in teaching speaking. Some studies have been conducted to investigate the use of video clip to teach speaking. The studies were done by Corporation for Public Broadcasting. This study indicates that video clips are effective teaching tools, with positive outcomes in both academic and affective learning. The conclusion of this study is that “children’s viewing of educational video clips has been shown to support significant and lasting learning gains” and that “a positive relationship has been found between childhood viewing of educational video clips and cognitive performance” (p.2). In the most recent survey, 92% of teachers said that using video clips helped them teach more effectively, and 88% said that “it enabled them to be more creative” in the classroom.

Other articles outline the discussion about the potential impact of using video clips in foreign language study. Herron, Cole, and Corrie (2000: 4-5), for example, offer evidence that showing video in the classroom allows instructors to expose language learners to authentic cultural information. Moreover, Hanson-Smith (2004: 55) describes the pedagogical benefits of using online videos as in-class learning resources.
Since there are previous studies in teaching speaking by using audio-visual media, this study tries to investigate the use of another audio-visual media: video clip. Moreover, the previous studies investigated the use of audio-visual media in teaching speaking, while this study uses video clips to investigate how effective the use of video clips in teaching speaking. Furthermore, using video clips in teaching speaking is expected to give some positive contributions for both teacher and students.

C. Conceptual Framework

Speaking is a process that involves a communication between people. However, people find difficulties in learning speaking and most of students face difficulties such as lack of confidence, shyness, and silence that impede a natural communication. Sometimes they got bored or uninterested in the lesson. In the teaching of speaking, teachers are expected to be active and creative. They have to create interesting speaking activities and give the students sufficient time to practice their speaking skill.

In teaching speaking, media can be used to help provide the context of situations. The things that cannot be brought into the classroom can be facilitated by media. So, difficulties in providing authentic situation can be abridged by media. Because in teaching speaking, speaking materials should be authentic and the use of video clips to provide authentic situation is a great idea.

Video clips as media are the teaching aids which consist of sounds for the students. Video shows the dialogued among speakers of English in various situation. The video clips allow students to use the facial expressions and body language at the same time as they hear the stress, intonation and rhythm of the language. By watching video, students can get better understanding of the materials given. Therefore, by watching and listening to conversation from video the students can be more motivated because there are a lot of difficult things that are made easy by video.

Based on the observation and interview with the teacher, in the class she uses conventional media such as cards or books in teaching speaking. The teacher asks the students to repeat, once or many times, slowly or clearly, and then ask them to practice with their friends in front of the class.

Moreover, by using video clips, the students do not realize that they are learning because they are enjoying the video and having fun of them. It is hoped that after using video clips, the students are motivated for learning speaking, be more confident with English, and enjoy the English learning activities in the classroom. An appropriate technique in teaching speaking with video clips can help students to improve their English achievement, especially the achievement that is related to the speaking ability.
CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHODS

This chapter presents the research methods that employed in the research. The discussion is organized in seven major sections, namely (1) Research Type, (2) The Target Community Setting, (3) The Subject of the Research, (4) Place and Time of the Research, (5) Data Collection Technique, (6) Data Analysis Technique and (7) Research Procedure.

A. Type of the Research

In reference to the purpose of the research, this research is defined as action research because it tries to find out the improvement of actual actions. The actions are based on planning, acting, observing, and reflecting. All parties involved work together in finding the obstacles and weaknesses of the teaching and learning process by identifying the problem, planning the actions, carrying out the actions, and doing an observation and a reflection of the actions which were implemented.

B. The Target Community Setting

The research carried out at SMA N 5 Yogyakarta. SMA N 5 Yogyakarta is one of public high school which is situated on Jl Nyi Pembayun 39 Yogyakarta. The total number of students in SMA N 5 Yogyakarta in the academic year 2012/2013 is 779 students which are derived from the 3 level of study. SMA N 5 Yogyakarta has 1 principal, 2 vice principals, 58 teachers, and 10 staff members.
There are some facilities available to support the teaching and learning process, such as a library, a multimedia room, a biology laboratory, a computer laboratory, and a language laboratory. Each facility is used well in order to improve the practice of the students.

C. Subject of the Research

The research involves a number of people, i.e. the researcher, the English teachers, and the students. Meanwhile, the research members are the English teacher of XG class at SMA N 5 Yogyakarta in the academic year of 2012/2013, and the researcher.

D. Place and Time of the Research

The research is conducted in XG class at SMA N 5 Yogyakarta in the academic year of 2012/2013. It is carried out on February 7th, February 14th, February 21st, and February 28th, 2013, in the second semester of the academic year of 2012/2013. It is conducted in 4 meetings. The English teaching and learning activities in this class are carried out 2 times a week, 80 minutes for each meeting. The English class is held every Monday and Thursday.

E. Data Collection Technique

The data of the research are quantitative. The qualitative data are in forms of a list of problems, transcripts of interview, and vignettes of classroom observation. Then, the quantitative data are in forms of scores.
The qualitative data are obtained by interviewing the English teachers and students and observing the English teaching and learning process of XG class at SMA N 5 Yogyakarta in the academic year of 2012/2013.

The quantitative data are in the form of evaluation scores. The scores are obtained by assessing the students’ speaking performance. The students’ speaking performance is assessed twice i.e. after Cycle 1 and after Cycle 2.

F. Data Analysis Technique

The analysis of the data is presented by the reflection of cycles of the research. The qualitative data are derived by doing the classrooms observations and interviews. After that, the vignettes and interview transcripts can be obtained to be selected, simplified, and transformed by summarizing and paraphrasing. The obtained data are used to interpret the data in the reflection.

G. The Validity and Reliability of the Data

1. The validity of the Data

Five validity criteria are applied to show the regularity of this study (Burn in Sanjaya, 2010: 41). They are democratic validity, outcome validity, process validity, catalytic validity and dialogic validity.

For democratic validity, in this study, the researcher interviews the English teacher and the XG students of SMA N 5 Yogyakarta (Burns, in Sanjaya, 2010: 41-42). In the interview, the English teacher and the students expressed their views, and opinions toward the actions done.

For outcome validity, the researcher emphasizes the study on the betterment of the learning process to reach the maximal result (Burns, in Sanjaya, 2010: 42). In this case, the researcher formulates the new questions related to the new problem found in the class when she tries to solve the main problem of the study. This action is done after the researcher did the reflection in the end of the class meeting.

For process validity, the researcher collects the data by doing observation and noted down everything that can be caught by the researcher’s senses (Burns, in Sanjaya, 2010: 42). In this activity, the researcher observe the students’ attitudes, class condition, the teaching technique used by the English teacher, etc. During the teaching and learning processes and described the collected data in the field note form.

For catalytic validity, the researcher tries to get the stakeholders’ responses to the changes occurring to themselves (Burns, in Sanjaya, 2010: 43). Here, the researcher tries to get responses not only from the stakeholders but also from the English teacher. In for this purpose, the researcher observe the implementation of the actions, make the reflection of the actions done in the XG class, and ask the questions to the English teacher and the XG students to know the changes they made after the researcher apply the actions during the study.

For dialogic validity, the researcher asks the English teacher as the stakeholder to participate in the process of the study by giving critiques and suggestions (Burns, in Sanjaya, 2010: 43). For this purpose, the researcher conducted reflective dialogues with the English teacher for critiques or suggestions to the actions done in the class. It makes other people know what they want.
2. The Reliability of the Data

In order to ensure the reliability of the data, besides using field notes, the researcher also use different resources to get the same data. In this study, to obtain the data about teaching processes, for instance, the researcher interviews the teacher, observes the teaching learning process, and interviews the students who attend the class (Madya, 2001: 3).

To get the data reliability, the researcher uses the triangulation technique. Here, the researcher matches the results of three sources namely: observation data, interview data, and students’ scores. It is to know whether or not the reliability of the data is evident.

For the observation, the researcher observes activities that can be caught by her senses, such the students’ attitudes during the teaching learning process, the class atmosphere, the teacher’s way in presenting the material especially information gap activities, the learning media used, etc. Here, the results of the class observation are arranged in the field note forms.

For the interview, the researcher asks questions about the implementations of information gap activities in the teaching of speaking to the 8 D students and the English teacher. Here, the results of the interviews are shown in the interview transcripts. It makes other people know what they want.

H. Research Procedure

The research was in two cycles. A cycle is a series of activities which consists of planning, implementing, evaluating, and reflecting of the problems. In his research, there are 3 actions which are implemented. The procedures are presented as follows.

1. Reconnaissance

   The first step in reconnaissance is identifying the field problems. The researcher conducted interviews to the other research members. The researcher and the English teacher identified the problems which are necessary and visible to be solved collaboratively. The second step is making a list of problems. The researcher collaborated with the English teacher to list the problems which are based on the level of difficulty. The third step is selecting the problems. The researcher and the English teacher select the problems which are based on the level of urgency. After that, the researcher and the English teacher determined the visible problems to be solved.

2. Planning

   After deciding the problems, the researcher and the English teacher discussed some plans that are appropriate to overcome the problems. The collected data from the reconnaissance was processed to create some actions to be implemented. By conducting the plans, it is expected to increase students’ speaking ability. It makes other people know what they want.

3. The Actions and the Observation

   The researcher collaborated with English teacher in implementing the actions. The researcher observed the teaching and learning process of speaking and recorded the students’ responses reactions when or after the actions took place. In reference to the observations, records, and notes, the researcher discussed collaboratively the actions and the changes that occur with other research members. The actions were implemented in two cycles. Cycle 1 is conducted in two meetings and so was the Cycle 2. The topic which is used in the implementation is related to the current high school curriculum and students’ major as well. It makes other people know what they want.

4. Evaluating and Reflection

The evaluation and the reflection are done after every cycle was completed. These are important to be done because these are used to measure whether the actions which has been implemented are successful or vice versa.

The researcher and the English teacher evaluated and analyzed the effects, obstacles, and other possibilities of developing and conducting the actions. Then the researcher got responses from the students as well through the interview.
CHAPTER IV
RESEARCH FINDING AND DISCUSSION

G. Reconnaissance

1. Identifying the Field Problems

In this step, the researcher identified some problems which occurred in the speaking teaching and learning process of class XG. This step used to conduct the preliminary observation of the English teaching and learning process.

Before going further at the existing problems in the field, it might be necessary to describe the class condition of the English teaching and learning process in the grade XG before the research was conducted, it was described in the vignette below.

Day/Date : Thursday, 24 January 2013
Time : 10.30am -12.00pm
Place : Classroom of XG, SMA Negeri 5 Yogyakarta Activity : Observation
Respondent : 1. English Teacher
2. Students
3. Researcher
The English Teacher and the Researcher entered the classroom. The students were still busy preparing their books and talking to their friends. The class was very noisy. Then, the teacher greeted the students, “Good morning everybody. How are you today?” The students responded to the greeting, “Good morning, miss. I’m fine, thank you, and you?” The teacher answered, “I’m fine too, thank you.”

Some students ask, “Mbaknya siapa (Who is she?), Ms?” then the teacher introduced the researcher and explained that the researcher would have a research for few meetings in XG.

Afterwards, the teacher started the lesson. However, she only brought some text books and LKS (students’ assignment sheets) as the media for teaching her students. Firstly, she asked the students about the previous lesson, “Ok, do you remember what we have learnt last week? (Masih ingat kemarin belajar apa (what we have learnt last time)?” the students answered, “Noooooo.” Then the teacher opened the LKS and asked the students to open page 25. Eventhough it is an English lesson but either the teacher or the students rarely use English to communicate during the lesson.

“Ok, anak-anak sekarang coba dibuka LKS halaman twenty eight. (Lets open LKS page twenty eight)” Teacher asked the students. The students opened their LKS and some of the students asked their teacher about the page.

“Halaman berapa Ms?”
“Twenty eight, dua delapan”

After all students found the page, the teacher asked a student to read the text in front of the class. “Please, read the text in front of the class.”
The students answered, “Nggak bisa (I can’t), Ms.”
“Nanti gantian (exchage later). You first.”
“Malu buk (I’m shy). Yang lain aja dulu buk (the other first).”

When the teacher persuaded the student, the other students seemed bored and sleepy, so they started talking to their friends. Then, the teacher asked the other students.

“Agnes, ayo kamu (come on). Now you read the text.”

After the students read the text, the teacher explained about the text. The teacher asked, “What the dialogue about? Isinya (The content).”

Some students answered very softly and the other students kept silent. Even, there were students smile because they could not answer the question.

When the teacher explained the lesson, some students seemed lazy and some students talked with their friends. Even, there are some students putting their head down in the table. They seemed do not interested with the activity given by the teacher. Next the teacher asked the students to do the exercise the LKS. “Silakan latihan 1 dan 2 dikerjaan. Waktunya 1 jam. (Please do exercise 1 and 2, you have one hour)”

Some students who were still confused with the instruction asked the teacher. After asking some questions, the students began to do their tasks. However, there were some students who were still confused and just started having discussion with other students.

The teacher sometimes went around the class to check the students’ work and answered some questions. Most students always used Indonesian or sometime Javanese language to ask the teacher.

After the activities above, the teacher drilled the students about the expression on the LKS. This activity took a long time until the time was up. Before closing the lesson, the teacher gave a short review what they have learnt that day and asked the students to learn and do the other tasks at home.

Field Notes 4

Besides conducting observation in the English teaching and learning process, the researcher also interviewed the students to identify the problems. Here are the example of the interview.

R  :  Kamu suka bahasa Inggris?
(Do you like English?)
S  :  Biasa aja, Mbak.
(Just ok, Ms.)
R  :  Pengen bisa ngomong pakai bahasa Inggris tidak?
(Do you want to be able to speak English?)
S  :  Gak begitu, Mbak.
(Not really, Ms.)

Interview 3

R  :  Menurut kamu, Bahasa Inggris itu sulit gak?
(In your opinion, is English difficult?)
S  :  Sulit, Mbak.
(Difficult, Ms.)
R  :  Bagian mana yang sulit?
(Which part of English subject that is mostly difficult for you?)
S  :  Pokoknya susah dipahami, Mbak.
(Basically, it is hard to be understood.)

Interview 10
Based on the observation in the English teaching and learning process and some interviews with the students, it can be identified that there were many problems that occurred.

2. The Sharpening of the Problem

Based on the identified problems, it could be seen that problems which occurred in the English teaching and learning process were related to the teacher, students, and learning materials. However, it was possible to solve all the problems through this research. Therefore, the field problems are classified based on the level of urgency. They are most urgent, urgent, and less urgent. The most urgent are those which should be overcome soon, the urgent ones are those which should not be overcome soon, and the less urgent ones are less important to overcome. Next the researcher chose the most urgent problems which should be solved. The most urgent problems were as follows.

Having determined the most urgent problems, the researcher and the English teacher discussed the problems. During the discussion, the researcher proposed the most feasible problems by considering the time, fund, and the ability of the researcher to conduct the research. The most feasible can be seen in Table 3.
3. Pre-requisite Analysis

After deciding the most feasible problems, the researcher and the English teacher did the pre-requisite analysis on the feasible problems. This stage was aimed to find the cause-effect relationship between the feasible problems. The English teacher entrusted the researcher to make pre-requisite analysis. First, the problems were arranged in such an order to show the natural cause and the effect relation with the next. Then, the researcher conducted a discussion with the English teacher to give her opinion or argument about the pre-requisite analysis. The result of the analysis was that the activities in the speaking teaching and learning process were monotonous. As a result, it could make the students lazy to study. Furthermore, the students did not get the materials well and they lack of vocabulary and grammatical mastery. In the end, they were afraid and shy to speak English.

H. The Implementation of the Actions

1. The Report of Cycle I

a. Planning

When the field problems had been formulated and the actions have been designed, the researcher and the English teacher as the collaborator made some plans for the first cycle. Based on the designed actions, the researcher and the English teacher hoped the actions would be able to create these following conditions.

   a. Students would be actively involved in the teaching and learning process.
   b. Students would be able to pronounce words correctly.
   c. Students would be encouraged to share their opinion and ideas freely.
   d. Students could improve their vocabulary mastery.
   e. Students would be motivated to learn English.
   f. The materials and activities used in the classroom would be varied, so that the students would not get bored during the teaching and learning process.

   To achieve those conditions, the researchers and the English teacher planned some actions in Cycle I. Those are as follows.

1) Selecting the materials based on the basic competency and the standard of competency for the second semester of grade X.
In this study video clips were used as the media in the teaching and learning process. The researcher selected the video clips as the media by considering the basic competency and the standard of competency for second semester of grade X. The researcher made a course grid to design the materials and activities easier.

From the discussion between the researcher and the English teacher, in Cycle I they decided to choose the standard of competency 2 and the basic competence of 2.5. The basic competency 2.5 is about expressing various intentions, the researcher and the English teacher decided to conduct action in the materials related to the expression of giving an invitation and giving and responding to compliments. Based on the standard of competency and the basic competency, the researcher chose some video clips from some sites, such as, www.youtube.com and www.britishcouncil.com as the teaching media in the teaching and learning process.

2) Making teaching media

Based on the materials planned the researcher made some teaching media that would support the teaching and learning process. The teaching media in this cycle consisted of diaries and playing cards. The researcher also prepared the speaker as one of the teaching aids.

3) Deciding the teaching and learning activities

The video clips teaching technique used in this cycle is one of the types of video clips watching activities called general comprehension. In this type of video clips classroom activity, the students watched the video clips to understand and to get as much information as possible based on what they had heard and seen. In this cycle, the researcher used video clips as the models of the language functions which would be learned by the students, so that the students would be able to know how a certain expression would be used in a certain situation. The students watched the video clips and tried to identify the language functions presented in the video clips.

Besides, the researcher also used other activities in the teaching and learning process in the form of games which were decided based on the materials and the teaching objectives. There were two games used in the first cycle. They were socializing, and amazing games. Those activities were described further as follows.

(a) Socializing game

This game aimed at having students make arrangements and complete the diaries. The researcher copied enough diaries for all the students in the class, gave each student a blank diary and wrote a list of seven different places on the whiteboard, for example, a cinema, a theatre, a concert, a restaurant, a bookstore, a mall and a market. Then she told the students that they wanted to go out every night to a different place. They had to go out with a different person every night, and they may not to go to more than one place or out with more than one person on any night. By playing this game, the students would be able to apply the expressions that they have learnt in the video clips in the different situations. They could also give the best responses for the expressions based on the situations they met in arranging the dates.

(b) Amazing game

The objective of this game was that the students would be able to give and respond any compliments based on certain situations. The researcher asked students to work in pairs. The researcher gave a card for each student containing other student’s situations. The students gave and responded the compliments in turns. After they finished with their partner, they had to exchange partner with other students. They also had to exchange their cards when they exchanged their partner.

(c) Working in pairs

In the practice stage, the teacher asked students to work in pairs to complete the tasks. It aimed at allowing students to interact and cooperate with each other during the teaching and learning process. So, they would be able to develop their speaking skills though communication and cooperation with their partners.

Those activities in the teaching and learning process aimed at solving the most important and feasible problem found in the classroom. Those problems are as follows.

4) Selecting the teaching technique

The researcher and the English teacher decided to use PPP (Presentation, Practice, Production) technique in the teaching and learning process. It consisted of three steps. The first step was presentation. In this step, the researcher presented the materials by playing video clips, asking students to identify the expressions used in the video clips and presenting other expressions. The second step was practice. In this step, students did some exercises related to the expressions they had learnt. They also practiced the expressions in pairs. The last step was production. In this step, students practiced the expressions they had learnt individually or in pairs.

5) Making lesson plans

The researcher also made lesson plans as the guidance in conducting the teaching and learning process. There were two lesson plans in this cycle. The entire teaching and learning activities scenario is shown in the lesson plans.

6) Developing research instruments

Before conducting the research, the researcher also develop some research instruments. Those were observation checklist and interview guide. The course grid was used as guidance for the teaching and learning process. The observation checklist for the teacher and the students were used in the reconnaissance and action in observation steps. The interview guides for the teacher and the students were used in the reconnaissance and reflection steps.

b. Actions and Observations in Cycle I

The actions in the first cycle were carried out in the two days of meeting on 7th February and 14th February 2013. The actions focused on implementing video clips as the teaching media to improve the students’ speaking skills. The data during Cycle I were collected through observations, interviews, and documentations. In this cycle, the researcher shared duties with the English teacher in conducting the teaching and learning process of speaking. While the researcher implemented the actions, the English teacher observed the teaching and learning process at the back of the class. The detail description is presented below.

1) The First Meeting of Cycle I

The first meeting of Cycle I was conducted on Thursday, 7th February, 2013. The allocated time was 90 minutes. In the first meeting, the teacher introduced the topics of the lesson. The topic was giving invitation expressions. Then, the teacher told the students about the lesson. In the presentation stage, the teacher played video clips as the teaching media. The video clips were used to help the teacher to deliver the materials and as the models for the students to use the expressions. When the teacher played the video clips, the students were very enthusiastic and interested to watch the video clips. However, there was a technical problem dealing with the speakers. It was not really audible and students could not hear the sound clearly. Therefore, the teacher played the video clips several times until the students got the expressions presented in the video clips. The students tried to identify the expressions used in the video clips and learn more about other expression of giving invitation.

In the practice stage, students did some tasks. In the production stage, students played the socializing game, in which they had to move around the class to complete their diaries and have arrangements with their partners using the expressions that they had learnt. They really enjoyed and enthusiastic during the game. When the allocated time was over the teacher ended the lesson by summarizing the lesson.
2) The Second Meeting of Cycle I

The second meeting of Cycle I was conducted on Thursday, 14th February, 2013. The allocated time was 90 minutes. The topics of the lesson introduced by the teacher were giving and responding to compliment expressions and the teacher told the students about the objective of the lesson. In the presentation stage, the teacher was played video clips as the teaching media. The video clips were used as the models for the students to use the expressions. When the teacher played the video clips, the students seemed very enthusiastic and interested to watch the video clips. In this meeting, the teacher used another speaker which is better from the previous one, so the students could identify and understand the expression well.

In the practice stage, the students did some tasks. In the production stage, students played the amazing game, in which they had to move around the class to give compliments to each other by using the expressions that they had learnt from the video clips. They were really happy and enthusiastic during the game. When the allocated time was over, the teacher ended the lesson by summarizing the lessons.

c. Reflection I

Having implemented some actions in Cycle I, the researcher and the English teacher conducted a discussion to make some reflections. The reflection was based in the observations during the teaching and learning process in Cycle I.
In the discussion, the data gained through observations and interviews were analyzed to evaluate the strengths and the weaknesses of the actions carried out in the first cycle. Everyone could freely express their ideas, opinions, and suggestions related to the implemented actions. The reflections were used to plan the actions implemented in the next cycle. The results of the reflections could be seen below.

1) Using video clips as teaching media

To give appropriate models of speaking English, the researcher used video clips as the main teaching and learning media. It was given as the input texts so that the students could get as much information as possible about the language use. By watching the video clips, they could learn how to apply the language in real life context and daily conversation. The following extract shows students’ opinion about the use of video clips.

| R | Kemarin kan saya menggunakan video clips untuk memberikan materi. Apakah ada perbedaan? Maksud saya, apakah video membantu untuk belajar? (I used video clips to deliver the materials, is there any different? I mean, did the video clips help you to study?) |
| S | Sangat membantu. (It is very helpful) |
| R | Kenapa? (Why?) |
| S | Video clips nya bisa jadi contoh. Jadi contohnya ga cuma Miss Citra aja. Jadi lebih menarik juga karena video clips nya bisa ditonton. (The video clips could be as a model. So the models is not only you, Miss. It is also more interesting because we can see the video clips.) |

Interview 15

From the interview transcript above, it can be seen that video clips really give a good influence to the students. The video clips give more new vocabularies related to the topic. Furthermore, the video clips were useful to give examples the use of some language functions in the real life context so that the students understood well how to use them.

Although the video clips could provide appropriate models through the native speakers’ talk and attract the students’ interest, there were some weaknesses related to the use of video clips. The use of video clips was quite time-consuming if it was not prepared well before the class started. This might be caused by some technical problems related to the teaching aids needed to play the video clips. First, the speaker was not really audible so that the students could not hear the sound clearly. Second, the LCD was not ready to use in the classroom so the preparation time was longer.

2) Applying Communicative Speaking Activities

Generally, the speaking activities such as pair work, discussion and games could improve students’ involvement and speaking learning process because students had more opportunities to speak in English. Through practicing, they learnt how to use the language in daily conversation although some of them were still shy and not confident when they performed dialogues. Eventhough somestudents still mispronounced certain words, they felt happy and interested in doing the activities. The discussions and pair group increase the interaction among students themselves. They also could be more confident to speak in English.

3) Using Classroom English during the Teaching and Learning Process.

The classroom English was regularly used in Cycle I in order to make the students familiar with the English words. Generally, the use of classroom English could effectively improve the speaking learning process. It provided students opportunities to speak English during the teaching and learning process.

Furthermore, it could increase the students’ self-confidence to communicate using English in everyday conversation. In the first and the second meetings of Cycle I, most of the students responded the teacher’s greeting and answered the teacher’s simple question in English. Therefore, the communication and interaction between the students and the teacher could happen. Moreover, not all students were confident to speak English or answer teacher’s question. Some students were shy and not confident to speak English so the researcher had to ask them more than one time.

In some cases, the classroom English was not optimally used in some parts of the activity, such as giving instructions and explaining the materials. It was because the students found difficulties in understanding what the teacher said.

Meanwhile, feedback on students’ work was given during the teaching and learning process generally improved students’ pronunciation and grammatical accuracy. The researcher drilled the students to pronounce certain words and to use the right intonation. Furthermore, vocabularies were presented before the students practice speaking. Some students actively asked the teacher if they could not know how to say certain words in English and how to pronounce them.
The handouts given during the implementation effectively helped the students in understanding and remembering the materials. The materials had been written in the handouts so that the students did not need to write all the explanation. As a result, instead of making notes of all materials, they could focus on understanding the teacher’s explanation more easily.

After doing the reflection of the actions, the researcher and the English teacher concluded some findings as follows.

1) The successful actions
   a) The goals of using video clips as a teaching media in Cycle I were successfully achieved. The students enjoyed and were really interested during the lesson. They could understand the expressions used in the videos easily and apply them in the real context. Students were enthusiastic during the lesson and they became more active during the teaching and learning process.
   b) Students pronounced words related to the topic correctly.
   c) Students learned some vocabulary related to the video clips easily by doing the vocabulary matching exercises.
   d) Students were motivated and interested to learn English by using varied video clips and activities.
   e) Some students volunteered themselves to do the exercises.

2) The unsuccessful actions
   a) There was a technical problem dealing with the speaker, so that some students could not hear the sound clearly.
b) Some students still needed some vocabulary exercises to improve their vocabulary mastery in speaking.

c) Some students had difficulties in pronouncing certain words.

Those were the successful and unsuccessful actions in Cycle I. There were some improvements on the speaking learning process which are reflected in the successful actions. However, there were still some problems faced by students in Cycle I, so that the researcher and the English teacher decided to continue with the next cycle to improve the speaking learning process. The improvement in cycle I was proven in following chart.

2. The Report of Cycle II

Cycle II was conducted as follow-up to the first cycle. There were still some research problems faced by the students in Cycle I which were had not gained yet. Cycle II was conducted on 21st February 2013 and 28th February 2013. The plans for Cycle II would be based on the reflection in Cycle I. There were successful and unsuccessful actions in Cycle I. In Cycle II, those successful actions would be maintained and even improves again. In addition, some unsuccessful actions in Cycle I would be fixed, so that those would be successful.

a. Planning II

The researcher and the English teacher as the collaborator discussed some plans that would be implemented in Cycle II according to the reflection in Cycle I. In general, the action plans in Cycle II were same as the plan in Cycle I.
However, there were some changes in some activities, because those did not work well in Cycle I.

To achieve those conditions, the researcher and the English teacher planned some actions in Cycle II. Those are as follows.

1) Selecting the materials based on the basic competency and the standard of competency for the second semester of grade X.

In this study video clips were used as the media of teaching and learning process. The researcher selected the video clips as the media of teaching by considering the basic competency and the standard of competency for second semester of grade X. The researcher made a course grid to design the materials and activities more easily.

From the discussion between the researcher and the English teacher, in Cycle II they decided to choose the standard of competency 3 and the basic competency of 3.1. The basic competency 3.1 is about expressing describing things, the researcher and the English teacher decided to conduct an action related to the describing people, place, and process. Based on the standard of competency and the basic competency, the researcher chose some video clips from some sites, such as, www.youtube.com and www.britishcouncil.com as the teaching media in the teaching and learning process.

2) Making teaching media

Based on the materials planned the researcher made some teaching media that would support the teaching and learning process. The teaching media in this cycle consisted of search puzzles and playing cards. Besides that, the researcher also prepared another speaker as one of the teaching aids because the previous one was not really audible for the students. So, some students found difficulties in understanding the video clips.

3) Deciding the teaching and learning activities

The video clips teaching techniques used in this cycle were general comprehension and video clips as springboard to creativity. The first one was the same as the previous cycle. The second one deals with the use of the video clips to encourage students’ creativity by encouraging interpretation, provoking thought, and asking for the use of the language. In this cycle the researcher used video clips as the models of the language functions which would be learned by the students, so that the students would be able to know how a certain expression would be used in a certain situation. The students watched the video clips and tried to identify the language functions presented in the video clips.

Besides that, the researcher and the English teacher also used other activities in the teaching and learning process in the form of games which based on the teaching objectives. There was a game used in the second cycle, named ‘guess who’ game. This game aimed the students to have interaction with the whole students in the class. The students have to pick their idols and then have to describe them in front the class while the other students have to guess who the idols are. The students who can guess the idols got a score and the student with the highest score got the reward.

In cycle I, the teacher applied pair work to develop students’ cooperation. However, it could not run well, because some students still tended to work by their selves. In the practice stage of cycle II, the teacher asked the students to work in pairs in completing the tasks and in production stage the teacher asked students to work in groups. It aimed at allowing students to interest and cooperate with each other intensively and maximally during the teaching and learning process, so that they would be able to develop their speaking skills through communication and interaction with the other students. By doing this, they would be able to develop their speaking skills though communication and cooperation with their partners.

4) Selecting the teaching technique

In this cycle the researcher and the English teacher used PPP (Presentation, Practice, Production) technique in the teaching and learning process. Besides that, the teacher also applied two video clips viewing techniques. Firstly, the teacher applied fast forward technique, in which the teacher pressed the ‘play’ button and then past forwarded the video clips, so that the sequence passed silently and the students had to guess what extracts were all about and what their suggestion related to the situations were. Secondly, the teacher used silent viewing technique (for language). In this technique, the teacher played the video clips a normal speed but without sound and the students had to guess what the characters were saying.

5) Making lesson plans

The researcher also made lesson plans as the guidance in conducting the teaching and learning process. There were two lesson plans in this cycle. The entire teaching and learning activities scenario is shown in the lesson plans.

b. Actions and Observations in Cycle II

1) The first meeting of cycle II

The first meeting of cycle II was conducted on Thursday, 21st February 2013. The allocated time was 90 minutes. In the first meeting, the teacher introduced the topics. The topics were describing people and place. Then, the teacher told the students about the objective of the lesson. In the presentation stage, the teacher asked students to do the vocabulary matching related to the words presented in the video clips. Next, the teacher played video clips as the teaching media. The video clips were used as the models for the students to use the expressions. When the teacher played the video clips, the students were very enthusiastic and interested to watch the video clips. The students tried to identify the expressions used in the video clips.

In practice stage, the students did some tasks. In the production stage, students played the guess who game, in which they had to give clues to their friend to find who the students are meant. They were really spirited and enthusiastic during the game. When the allocated time was over the teacher ended the lesson by summarizing the lesson.

2) The second meeting of cycle II

The second meeting of cycle II was conducted on Thursday, 28th February 2013. The allocated time was 90 minutes. In the second meeting the researcher introduced the topics. The topic was describing process. Then, the teacher told the students about the objective of the lesson. The students were very interested in the lesson especially related to ‘food’ as a topic. In the presentation stage, the researcher asked students to do matching word and the meaning related to the topics. They were extremely challenged to completely the task and they could understand the meaning of the words easily. Then, the teacher played the video as the teaching media. The videos were used as the models for the students to use the expressions. When the researcher played the video clips, the students were very enthusiastic and interested to watch the video clips. The identified the expressions of describing people in the videos. In this meeting they were able to identify and understand the expression presented in the video clips easier than the previous meeting.

In practice stage, the students did some tasks. They were completing a task based on the information from the video clips. They were very enthusiastic during completing the tasks. In this task, they did not only learn about the expressions of describing process, but also learnt the target language culture. In production stage, students played teen chef game, in which they had to create a recipe of a food in pairs based on the chosen ingredients and they had to present how to make the food in front of the class like a chef. They were really happy and interested during the game. When the allocated time was over, the researcher ended the lesson by summarizing the lesson.
c. Reflection II

The reflection was based on the observation during the teaching and learning process in cycle II. Those reflections were used to fulfill the democratic and the dialogic validity mentioned in Chapter III.

1. Using Simpler Video Clips as the Teaching Media

Video clips were effective to improve the speaking learning process. They could get appropriate models of English through video watching activity. They could learn how to use the language in real context or daily conversation. Their pronunciation and grammar accuracy, fluency, vocabulary mastery and comprehension increased. The facts were proven in the following interview:

R : Kemajuan apa yang kamu rasakan setelah menggunakan video clips sebagai media belajar speaking? (‘What improvements did you feel after using video clips as learning media?’)

S : Intonasi jadi lebih baik, vocabulary bertambah. (‘My intonation was getting better and the vocabulary mastery increase.’)

Furthermore, the technical problems related to the video clips watching activity could also be avoided during cycle II. Therefore, the time management was well-managed.
2. Applying Some Communicative Speaking Activities

Communicative speaking activities were successfully used to improve students’ confidence and ability to speak in English. They had more opportunities to speak up and applied the information they got in video clips watching activity increased. They could perform dialogues with proper words, correct grammars, and appropriate gesture. They also could pronounce words correctly and using right intonation.

Having discussion or working in pairs had helped them to understand the materials. It increased their participation, involvement, and interaction with others. Moreover, they found the teaching and learning process more exciting.

3. Using Simpler Classroom English During the Teaching and Learning Process

Using classroom English during the teaching and learning process had significantly improved the speaking learning process. It was effective to provide the students with opportunities to speak in English. The use of simple words, synonyms, nonverbal codes, and demonstration successfully helped the students to English words in certain circumstances so that they could understand the expressions easily without listening to Indonesian translation.

Meanwhile, giving feedback successfully helped the students improve their speaking skills. They found no significant difficulties in pronouncing English words and using intonation and stress patterns. It also enriched their vocabularies and increased their grammar mastery so that they could be more fluent in expressing their ideas. Since feedback given on their works including pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar were followed by drilling, they rarely made the same mistakes.

In addition, the existence of handouts as brief guidelines had helped the students to focus on the lesson. They could be more focus on teacher’s explanation.

After doing the reflection of the actions, the researcher and the English teacher concluded some improvements as follows.

1. The goals of using video clips as teaching media to provide appropriate models of English for students and to present the real situation of communication were successfully achieved.

2. Students found the video clips interesting as the teaching media.

3. Students could understand the materials given easily through video watching activity.

4. There were no technical problems during the preparation of the video watching activity so that it was not time-consuming.

5. Students got more sufficient opportunities to practice the target language in a real situation though the use of classroom English and communicative speaking activities.

d. Finding of cycle II

   According the reflections in the cycle II, it could be concluded that video clips as teaching media were successful to improve the speaking learning process. It could be seen from the improvement, fluency, grammatical accuracy, pronunciation accuracy, vocabulary and comprehension.

The researcher and the English teacher as the collaborator found out that students were enthusiastic and interested in doing the tasks in cycle II. They showed good involvement during the teaching and learning process of speaking and cooperation in completing the tasks. They also showed the improvements related to some speaking ability indicators, including: involvement, fluency, grammatical accuracy, pronunciation accuracy, vocabulary and comprehension.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS, IMPLICATION AND SUGGESTIONS

This chapter presents three main sections; namely conclusions, implications, and suggestions. The discussion of each part is presented below.

A. Conclusions

It can be concluded that the implementation was successful to improve speaking learning process through the use of video clips as teaching media. The group work and pair work activities supported with the other actions, which are the use of classroom English and the use of media that were implemented in the first and second cycle could run effectively. Based on the classroom observations and the interviews with the English teacher and the students, the positive results from the actions implemented were obtained. They included the improvement of the classroom interaction, students’ participation, cooperation, and motivation in the teaching and learning process. The improvement was described below.

1. The researcher and the English teacher as the collaborator implemented some actions to solve the problems. The actions were conducted in two cycles, in which each cycle consisted of two meetings. They applied video clips as the teaching media in the teaching and learning process. They also did a reflection in each cycle to evaluate the implemented actions and found out successful and unsuccessful actions.
2. The use of video clips as the teaching media could improve speaking learning process. The improvement could be seen from the results of the classroom observation.

3. The use of the classroom English was effective to make the students be familiar with English. They became more confident and brave to respond to the teacher’s questions and instructions. They were also confident to communicate with the researcher, i.e. asking questions and asking for help or solution for their learning problems. Since the students could respond to the researcher’s talk well, the interaction between the two also improves. Moreover, the feedbacks on the students’ works also completely increased their motivation to speak in English fluently, grammatical and pronunciation accuracy, and appropriately. In addition, the handouts of the materials given in every meeting could make the time allocation be able to be managed properly so that the students had more time to watch the video clips and to do the speaking tasks.

4. The pair and group work activities were effective to improve the interaction among the students. Through, the pair and group work activities, the students could build their communication during the teaching and learning process. They learned, shared opinions and ideas, talked to and helped each others. These were effective to improve the students’ cooperation and interest to work with their friends. The students were excited to work with their friends in finishing the tasks. As the result, their interaction during the teaching and learning process in the class could be improved.
B. Implications

Based on the conclusions of the research finding, the implications of the research are presented as follows.

1. The use of video clips as the teaching media could improve students’ motivation and active involvement during the teaching and learning process. It is because the use of video clips in the teaching and learning process could increase students’ enthusiasm. The students did not feel bored and sleepy when the teaching and learning process was in progress. It implies that the use of video clips helps the teacher to improve students’ motivation and active involvement in the teaching and learning process.

2. The use of video clips as the teaching media could improve the speaking learning process. It was because the use of video clips as the teaching media could be used as models for the students in using certain expressions in certain situations. In addition, the video clips were also accompanied by some activities enabling students to practice the expressions they had learnt from the videos in the different situations. Furthermore, students would be able to develop their speaking skills in the real world context. It implies that the teacher needs to use video clips as the teaching media to improve the speaking learning process.

3. It is important to use classroom English in the teaching and learning process. The teachers need to use gesture, mimics, and other non-verbal language besides using simple language expressions to improve the students’ comprehension on classroom English. It implies that English should be used regularly so that students will be more familiar with English by paying attention and practicing the expressions.

4. Based on the research findings, it could be seen that there were some successful and unsuccessful actions in the use of videos as teaching media in the teaching and learning process. Teacher must be selective and creative in choosing and designing many kinds of media that can help to improve the classroom interaction in the English teaching and learning process. The teachers also need to use media in every lesson to warm up the students, to present the new topics and attract their attention. It implies that it is important to use various and interesting media to support class activities.

C. Suggestions

After conducting the research, the researcher proposed some suggestions for the English teacher, students, and other researchers. The suggestions are as follows.

1. For the English teacher

It is important for the English teacher, especially the English teacher in SMA N 5 Yogyakarta to improve the speaking learning process. The teacher needs to develop their speaking skills and create an enjoyable classroom atmosphere in the classroom so that they will be motivated to learn. In addition, the teacher should choose the appropriate activities by considering the students’ need, age, interest, and readiness. The teacher also should consider the time management of the activities. It must be well arranged in order to avoid the lack of learning time of a certain activity. The teacher also should be creative in designing and planning the activities before implementation. Moreover, the use of classroom English also carries some positive effects to the teaching and learning process. Thus, it is important to the teacher to use classroom English during the lesson. Furthermore, they are also suggested to maximize the use of any media to make the teaching and learning process more interesting. These will determine the success of the classroom activities.

2. For the principal of SMA N 5 Yogyakarta

   It is expected that the principal will support the English teaching and learning process by giving a teacher-training and professional developing so the teacher will get more knowledge and experiences in teaching English to high school students.

3. For the students

   The students are suggested to be more active to practice English, especially in speaking. In this case, video clips as the teaching media can be one of the alternative materials to practice speaking since video allows them to see the use of particular expression in certain contexts. In addition, through the implementation of pair and group work activities in the teaching and learning process, it can improve the classroom interaction. Therefore, the students also should be more willing to speak in English.

4. For other researchers
This study is mainly intended to improve the speaking learning process of the students in the tenth grade of SMA N 5 Yogyakarta. Therefore, the other researchers are recommended to continue and to improve this research in order to find out other efforts to improve the English speaking learning process. They are suggested to explore more about the pair and group work activities and media in order to make the English teaching and learning process more interesting
