March marks Spring, and that means many military families will start preparing for upcoming PCS moves. So this month’s topics are helping family members deal with relocation, preparing for a move, and gathering new information about the new duty station.

“The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams.”

WHO IS THE OMBUDSMAN?

Appointed by the Command, Ombudsmen are volunteers and spouses of service members within the command. As an official command representative, the Ombudsman is a point of contact for all family members connected to the command - including spouses, parents, and extended family members.

The Ombudsman Code of Ethics guarantees professionalism and confidentiality, within program guidelines.

Ombudsmen maintain current resource files with information on military and civilian community agencies that can help families solve a variety of problems, and successfully meet the challenges they face before, during, and after deployments. In addition to providing referral information, Ombudsmen can facilitate communication between the Command and family members. Ombudsmen may publish or contribute to command newsletters. Ombudsmen can also assist families in contacting the Command for a variety of reasons.

FROM THE OMBUDSMAN.....

Dear Families,

First, I want to thank all the service members for keeping us safe. I second want to thank the families for adjusting their everyday lives to support their spouses when called upon to serve.

As always, I am here for you and your families. If you have heard of any military or family programs and would like more information, or you have a question or concern about anything, please feel free to contact me at 831-238-4394 or npsombudsman@gmail.com. Contact me and I will help you find the answers to your questions or concerns.

If it is important to you, it is important to me.

Your Next Permanent Change of Station: Helping Your Child Move in the Right Direction

A Permanent Change of Station can be difficult for some families. Parents can get caught up in the work of moving and forget to plan how they will help their children cope with all of the changes. With the proper planning and action, your next move can be an exciting adventure that brings your family closer together.

BEFORE THE MOVE

- Communicate. Allow your kids (especially teenagers) time to adjust to the fact that they will be moving. Talk about the move and give your children as many choices as possible about packing, choosing a room, decorating and maintaining contact with friends.

- Reassure your children. Let your children know that if they are worried, angry or frustrated you will help them through it.

- Be positive. Tell your children the good things that may come from this move. Be careful how you talk about the upcoming PCS. Remember, issues related to moving are temporary and everyone will adjust eventually.

  Be a good role model. Expressing your feelings about this change constructively will give your children a great model for handling their feelings.

DURING THE MOVE

- Encourage everyone to work together. Each family member will feel more a part of the move if they have specific tasks. Even young children can participate by packing their favorite items.

- Pack separate bags for each child. Include special items such as much-loved blankets, toys, articles of clothing and books for each child.

  Make it an adventure. Allow time to visit special places as you travel from your former home to your new home. Talk about what you are looking forward to doing in your new home.

AFTER THE MOVE

- Contact the new school and schedule a tour. Knowing where to go will help to make your child feel more confident and comfortable on the first day. Find your child's classroom, bathrooms, cafeteria and other important places.

- Get into a routine. To help your child feel that not everything in his life has changed, try to keep most family routines like bedtime and mealtime the same.

- Access base, community and religious organizations for support. They can provide a ready structure of activities, contacts and resources for the whole family. If the family was involved with similar groups before, participating in such activities in the new location can increase feelings of familiarity.

Be patient. Some children will dive in, develop a support network of friends and become involved with school and activities without missing a beat. Other kids may need more time and assistance to feel acclimated and at ease. Feeling off-track following a move is temporary.

A Fresh Look at Portable Careers

One of the challenges military spouses face during relocation is finding employment in their area of training, education or interest. Thankfully, portable career options have increased due to new technologies like voice over IP, virtual meeting spaces and high speed Internet. Consider the following tips and suggestions as you pursue your goal of building a portable career.

PLAN AHEAD
Review the Industry Competency Models to learn more about the foundational and technical skills and competencies critical for success in a variety of industry sectors.

Find a wealth of information on occupation groups, available positions, educational requirements, salary ranges and growth sectors in the Occupational Outlook Handbook.

DEVELOP PORTABLE SKILLS
Skills used in different types of positions or occupations are considered portable. Examples of portable skills are management, technology, organizational and communication. Skills related to your talents and interests can also be portable. Photography, culinary arts or interior design are examples. Developing skills used in positions and locations anywhere are a huge plus to finding employment and building a portable career.

CONSIDER INDEPENDENT CONTRACTING
Freedom and flexibility are often important to military spouses and choosing to work as an independent contractor, also known as consultant, freelance or self-employed, allows you to set your own hours and work for yourself. Independent contracting isn't for everyone, so do your homework before you decide to pursue this direction. Examples of independent contracting positions include trade show or product presenter, online tutor, application developer, virtual assistant, fitness instructor, technical support, researcher and website design/development. Investigate self-employment or independent contracting by visiting the U.S. Small Business Association website.

SEARCH FOR PORTABLE JOBS
The Military Spouse Employment Partnership website lists open positions available from 162 MSEP employment partners all focused on offering portable career opportunities to transitioning military spouses. A number of MSEP partners offer virtual jobs in customer service, legal, accounting, counseling and a range of other positions. Others have facilities across the country making it easier to continue your career path with the same organization as you transfer to new locations. Visit the Military Spouse Employment Partnership website to learn more about partners and available jobs. Make sure to identify yourself as a military spouse when you apply for a position with a MSEP partner company, either in your cover letter or when you're asked where you heard about the position.

Be sure to check out the jobs that are available through the local Monterey MWR Office as well as the opportunities offered by local military spouses in your area...on pages 12 and 13!
March is Women’s History Month

The Library of Congress, National Archives and Records Administration, National Humanities, National Gallery of Art, National Park Service, Smithsonian Institution and United States Holocaust Memorial Museum join in paying tribute to the generations of women whose commitment to nature and the planet have proved invaluable to society.

About Women’s History Month

Women’s History Month had its origins as a national celebration in 1981 when Congress passed Pub. L. 97-28 which authorized and requested the President to proclaim the week beginning March 7, 1982 as "Women’s History Week." Throughout the next five years, Congress continued to pass joint resolutions designating a week in March as "Women’s History Week." In 1987 after being petitioned by the National Women’s History Project, Congress passed Pub. L. 100-9 which designated the month of March 1987 as "Women’s History Month." Between 1988 and 1994, Congress passed additional resolutions requesting and authorizing the President to proclaim March of each year as Women’s History Month. Since 1995, Presidents Clinton, Bush and Obama have issued a series of annual proclamations designating the month of March as "Women’s History Month."

March 3rd marks 100 years since suffragists marched on Washington. Suffragists faced a difficult road in their march towards equality. Even women opposed giving women the right to vote. One letter called it "an endorsement of nagging as a national policy."

Ten years ago, the National Military Family Association heard the same thing over and over from military parents: "How can we help our kids deal with deployment?" Our answer? A free, week-long camp experience for military kids to get to know each other, share common bonds, and have a blast!

Operation Purple Camp offers military kids a time to get away and be kids in a stress-free environment. Campers ride horses, climb towers, plummet down water slides - all in a "purple" environment. The very name of the game is to bring kids of all ranks and services, including reserve and guard components, together to enjoy a very special week of camp. This experience is unmatched by any other programs currently serving military kids.

These days, what we're hearing from military parents is: "Thank you for Operation Purple camp!" Thousands of military children have experienced the joy of camp, and this year we are focusing on getting the word out to families who have never had the opportunity to share in the fun. If your child has attended Operation Purple in the past, tell a friend and encourage them to apply! The application is available now.
