It is heartening to hear from the Attorney-General of the Government's views on assimilation of aborigines. However, Point Pearce Station has land let to non-aborigines while aborigines are refused the right to share-farm, and this situation has persisted despite the fact that the matter was brought to the Government's notice two years ago. Adult education and part-primary training at the Station recommended by education department officers many years ago is still not provided, and despite statements of laudable intentions from the Government little is done. The time for announcing good intentions is long past. We have yet to hear of the effective implementation of co-operative and training policies at the Government Stations.
