

University of HUDDERSFIELD

University of Huddersfield Repository

Ao-Chan, Yolanda

Student Works: Yolanda Ao-Chan

Original Citation

Ao-Chan, Yolanda (2010) Student Works: Yolanda Ao-Chan. In: Being There - Reflections on 20 years of the International course at the Huddersfield Department of Architecture. University of Huddersfield, Huddersfield, UK, pp. 74-75. ISBN 9781682180864

This version is available at <http://eprints.hud.ac.uk/9123/>

The University Repository is a digital collection of the research output of the University, available on Open Access. Copyright and Moral Rights for the items on this site are retained by the individual author and/or other copyright owners. Users may access full items free of charge; copies of full text items generally can be reproduced, displayed or performed and given to third parties in any format or medium for personal research or study, educational or not-for-profit purposes without prior permission or charge, provided:

- The authors, title and full bibliographic details is credited in any copy;
- A hyperlink and/or URL is included for the original metadata page; and
- The content is not changed in any way.

For more information, including our policy and submission procedure, please contact the Repository Team at: E.mailbox@hud.ac.uk.

<http://eprints.hud.ac.uk/>

YOLANDA AO-CHAN

The Confucius Temple lies in the heart of Kunming city, adjacent to the fast developed area that is full of modern buildings. The strongest influence in the design lies in the surrounding environment of the site. It is the blend of the old and new that has inspired the shape and design of the new Confucian School. The journey for making the paper from the traditional bamboo scrolls to the contemporary use of pieces of paper acts as the concept for the design. Inspiration for the accommodation area comes from observation of the market space on the other side of walls, in which various blocks form an extremely lively environment.

