BASKETBALL, SOCCER, VOLLEYBALL ACTION

MARGARITIS APPOINTED ACTING COACH

Women's basketball assistant coach, John Margaritis, was named acting head coach for the coming year, and coaches for the women's soccer and men's volleyball teams were named, announced Nancy Simpson, director (Athletics) earlier this month.

Margaritis replaces Luvina Beckley, whose resignation was effective at the conclusion of her contract on May 31. A national search for a head coach conducted in the spring produced five finalists who were interviewed on the campus in June. Jenny Zorn (Geography) chair of the Intercollegiate Athletic Advisory Committee, also chaired the search committee, whose members included student-athletes, faculty, staff, a head coach and a community representative.

"Although all of the finalists had excellent credentials," noted Simpson, "none provided the necessary combination of education, Division II head coaching experience, program development success and community outreach skills that we had hoped to find in a head coach. I'm very grateful that Coach Margaritis has agreed to accept this assignment and I'm confident that he will provide needed continuity and leadership for the program during the coming season."

Margaritis will advertise immediately for a number one assistant coach. Cheryll Few, who played for the Coyotes for four years, will continue as a member of the coaching staff under Margaritis. Few, who received a bachelor of science degree in physical education in June, was a part-time assistant to Beckley last season.

Simpson hopes to begin a new search for a head coach later this year.

Margaritis, whose contract runs through June 30, 1996, served as the number one assistant coach to Beckley during the 1993-94 and 1994-95 seasons.

Since her resignation, Margaritis has overseen the women's basketball program at the university. His coaching experience includes four years as head coach at Northeastern Illinois University, an NAIA school in Chicago, four years as the number one assistant at Fresno State and three years as the number one assistant at the University of Nevada, Reno, both NCAA Division I schools. His bachelor's degree in physical education is from Northeastern Illinois University.

Margaritis, his wife and two children reside in San Bernardino.

The new women's soccer coach, Gretchen Zigante, is a former assistant coach at Colorado College. She also worked with the Olympic Development Program in Idaho and for the San Diego Soccer Club.

Having played and coached professionally in Japan from 1991-94, Zigante once played at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill when her team nabbed the NCAA Division I championship in 1986.

Eric Boyles, the new men's volleyball coach and a professional beach volleyball player himself, was head coach for the women's volleyball team for two years at Southern California College. There, he led the Vanguardians to two straight playoff berths.

In 1987, he started for the University of Calgary, Alberta team when it finished fourth nationally.

LOCAL COUPLE SETS UP TRUST WITH UNIVERSITY

The largest cash gift ever donated to CSUSB has come in the form of a charitable annuity trust from a successful, local business couple.

Just under $1.2 million, the donation is a "big boost to our Partnership 2000 campaign," says Dr. Judith Rymer, vice president for university relations at Cal State. "Most successful development programs rely heavily on these kinds of gifts," which "build a very strong foundation for the future."

The way the trust works is that the donors, who preferred to remain anonymous, receive an annuity from the interest and, if necessary, the principal for the rest of their lives. What is left upon their death goes to the university.

"This is a standard type of charitable giving vehicle that many donors in their late sixties or older use," explains Rymer, adding that the trust can give people tax advantages and the ability to promote the values they cherish beyond their lifetime.

Scholarships for students in information and decision sciences and in computer science are how Cal State will use the funds, the choices based on the donors' guidelines.

The couple, says Rymer, made the donation because they had a keen interest in education and "wanted to give something back to the community."

FAULTLINE, PANDEMONIUM APPEAR AT CAL STATE

The group Faultline will play the blues and Pandemonium the energetic sounds of the Caribbean as Cal State stages the next two concerts in its 1995 Summer Entertainment Series.

Faultline, which performs July 26, is known for its aggressive, heavy-beat blues.

On guitar and vocals is Steve Harper. A professional musician for 20 years, he has played the California blues club beach scene and toured the Pacific Northwest and Canada. Also on vocals is Patty Warder, who joined Harper in 1992. She has played leading roles in many musical theatre productions and sung with jazz and rock bands in the United States and Europe.

Drummer Tim Day's approach to percussion is more "melodic" than most drummers and has become a Faultline trademark. Rounding out the band are bassist Jeff Stone and guitarist Cary Irwin.

The Aug. 2 appearance of Pandemonium is the group's second at Cal State. The band's instrumentation is made up of a bass, a traditional drum set and four steeldrums—an instrument born in Trinidad and that grew from 1930s rhythm bands.

Led by Michael Carney, Pandemonium has performed at many venues, including the Santa Barbara County Fair, Laguna Beach Bluebird Park and the Montebello Amphitheater. Carney himself has played with such stars as Al Vizzutti and Grammy Award winner Bobby McFerrin.

Both concerts begin at 7 p.m. and will be held outdoors on the Lower Commons Plaza. Entirely free, the Summer Entertainment Series runs through Aug. 30. For a free brochure call the Student Life Office at Ext. 5234 or call the series hotline at Ext. 7053 for program information.

AMERICORPS PROJECT SHIFTS INTO HIGH GEAR

AmeriCorps worker applications are now being taken at Cal State, San Bernardino, one of three institutions in the U.S. funded for the national service program's math and literacy project, which is helping elementary schoolchildren improve their skills.

If the project is approved by the Colton Joint Unified School District at an Aug. 17 meeting of the Board of Trustees, AmeriCorps will send 20 "service givers" to two Colton schools in the first year, and in 1996-97 hire 30 more to be assigned to three others.

The grant to fund the project is an interstate grant. It was written in collaboration with districts in the respective areas of the three sponsoring institutions—the other two being The Ohio State University and the University of Texas at Austin.

The service givers will work with individuals and small groups at the kindergarten and first-grade levels, and with those youngsters who need extra support in reading, writing or math. They also will conduct workshops for parents.

Once they complete a two-week training session, corp members will be eligible to serve a maximum of two years. In return, they'll receive a living wage and an educational award to help finance college costs.

Cal State begins interviewing prospective workers July 27. For more information call Adria Klein at Ext. 880-5644.

WEIGHT WATCHERS

Eat lunch with your friends. Have fun. Lose weight.

With the success of the Weight-Watchers-At-Work-Program, it is now gearing up for another 10-week session. Why not join them? The group meets on campus at lunchtime. Call Karen at Ext. 3018 for the scoop.

FEEDING ON INDUSTRY CLUSTERS

On the menu for the next Business Partners breakfast Aug. 16 is a sizzling helping of "Hubbub Over Internationalization of Business" topped by some nice "Industry Clusters" stuffed with hot rivalry, collaboration, investment in resources and "ceaseless innovation."

Serving is CSUSB management professor and author, Lee Hanson, whose specialty is corporate strategy. Cost for the morning meal, which goes from 7:30-9, is $17 for the general public, $12 for Business Partner members, $10 for Cal State faculty and staff and $5 for current students. Reservations must be made by Aug. 11. Call the School of Business and Public Administration at Ext. 5771 for a registration form. Boneless Appetit.

THANK YOU ...

... From Pegeen Tassin (Payroll). "On behalf of the Tassin family, I would like to express my gratitude to those in the campus community who kept us in their thoughts and prayers after the death of my husband, Byron."

... And "sincere appreciation" from Irene Gonzales (School of Business and Public Administration Graduate Office) "to my campus friends who contributed their sick/vacation days to cover my medical leave of absence. The visits, phone calls, gifts and cards helped my recovery."

IN MEMORIAM

The campus extends sympathies to Michael (Custodial Services) and Denise (Upward Bound) Benton on the death of her brother, Robert Taylor, who passed away on Friday, July 7. Services were held at St. James Baptist Church in Santa Ana.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

In June, Dr. Robert Senour (Secondary and Vocational Education) presented information on "Technology in Education and Training" to the San Bernardino Shrine Club.
