

Parkinson's Disease Patient-Derived Induced Pluripotent Stem Cells Free of Viral Reprogramming Factors

Frank Soldner, Dirk Hockemeyer, Caroline Beard, Qing Gao, George W. Bell, Elizabeth G. Cook, Gunnar Hargus, Alexandra Blak, Oliver Cooper, Maisam Mitalipova, Ole Isacson, and Rudolf Jaenisch*

*Correspondence: jaenisch@wi.mit.edu

DOI 10.1016/j.cell.2009.06.017

(Cell 136, 964–977; March 6, 2009)

An acknowledgment of a potential conflict of interest was inadvertently omitted from this paper. Rudolf Jaenisch is a cofounder of Fate Therapeutics, and this should have been noted in the Acknowledgments section of the paper.

In addition, due to an editorial error, the affiliation of G.H., A.B., O.C., and O.I. was not correctly stated. They are at the Udall Parkinson Disease Research Center of Excellence, Center for Neuroregeneration Research, McLean Hospital/Harvard Medical School.