A Female Adult with Persistent Medial Elbow Pain after a Fall

Ying-Hua Chung¹, Ke-Vin Chang²*

¹ Department of Family Medicine, Mennonite Christian Hospital, Hualien, and ² Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, National Taiwan University Hospital, Bei-Hu Branch, Taipei, Taiwan

Section 1 — Quiz

A 54-year-old woman had persistent right elbow pain and swelling after a fall. She also complained of numbness over her right forearm and little finger. There was no obvious fracture on the plain film. The following ultrasound image shows the axial view of the posterior medial elbow (Figure 1). What is your impression?

!Ultrasound image of the posterior medial elbow

Figure 1 The axial view of the posterior medial elbow.