

Contents

Special Issue: Epilepsy Action Diamond Jubilee

Guest Editors: Ann Jacoby and Gus A Baker

List of contributors	613
<hr/>
Introduction: Tracing the recent history of the 'falling sickness'
A. Jacoby and G. Baker	615
<hr/>
'Transfiguration'
J. Fox	617
<hr/>
What Epilepsy Action means for me
J. Cage	618
<hr/>
Has disability discrimination legislation changed the legal framework for epilepsy in the United Kingdom?
P. Lee	619
<hr/>
Living two lives
M. Davis and W. Davis	623
<hr/>
Medical management: From colony to community
A.P. Aldenkamp	625
<hr/>
Epilepsy stigma: Moving from a global problem to a global solution
E. Howell	628
<hr/>
Epilepsy stigma: Moving from a global problem to global solutions
H.M. de Boer	630
<hr/>
'Liminal Dub'
G. Cummins	637
<hr/>
Advances in understanding basic mechanisms of epilepsy and seizures
J.G.R. Jefferys	638
<hr/>
'Disjointed'
J. Fox	647
<hr/>
Managing my treatment
A. Inglis	648
<hr/>
Antiepileptic drug therapy the story so far
M.J. Brodie	650
<hr/>
Surviving brain surgery
T. Woolf	656
<hr/>
'Ictal Project'
G. Cummins	658
<hr/>
Diverse perspectives on developments in epilepsy surgery
S.J. Wilson and J. Engel Jr.	659
<hr/>
Matthew Williams and his ketogenic diet
E. Williams

	669
<hr/>
Dietary therapies – an old idea with a new lease of life
J.H. Cross	671
<hr/>
Implications for families of advances in understanding the genetic basis of epilepsy
C.L. Hammond, R.H. Thomas, M.I. Rees, M.P. Kerr and F. Rapport	675
<hr/>
The genetics of epilepsy—The past, the present and future
M.I. Rees	680
<hr/>
What needs to change for people with epilepsy?
M. Bexon	684
<hr/>
What needs to change: Goals for clinical and social management and research in the next 60 years
S.C. Schachter	686
<hr/>
Conclusions
A. Jacoby and G.A. Baker	690
<hr/>

Please note: This special issue has been edited by two guest editors: Prof. Dr. A. Jacoby and Prof. Dr. G. Baker. None of these papers were evaluated through the normal editorial and peer reviewing system for Seizure. The Editors have followed the process of paper selection but are not responsible for the content of this special issue.