Nominations for 2008 Prize for Achievement in Information-Based Complexity

This annual prize is for outstanding achievement in information-based complexity. It consists of $3000 and a plaque and will be awarded at a suitable location. The prize committee will consist of Leszek Plaskota, University of Warsaw; Klaus Ritter, TU Darmstadt; Ian Sloan, University of New South Wales; Joseph F. Traub, Columbia University; and Henryk Woźniakowski, Columbia University and University of Warsaw. Anyone other than a current member of the prize committee is eligible. The members of the prize committee would appreciate nominations for the prize. However, a person does not have to be nominated to win the award.

The deadline for the award is March 31, 2008. The award can be based on work done in a single year, in a number of years, or over a lifetime. The work can be published in any journal, in a number of journals, or as monographs.

The prize is separate from the Journal of Complexity's Best Paper Award.
