(70.4%). Approximately 6,270 (12.7%) had a coded AE. Of the AE patients, 3.2% were taking at least one depression and/or psychotropic medication. For those reporting depressive symptoms, 70% were female, 98% Caucasian, and the mean age was 84. The mean PHQ-9 score was 5.5 (SD 2.3), and 32% were taking at least one depression and/or psychotropic medication. For those reporting depressive symptoms, 70% were female, 98% Caucasian, and the mean age was 84. The mean PHQ-9 score was 5.5 (SD 2.3), and 32% were taking at least one depression and/or psychotropic medication. For those reporting depressive symptoms, 70% were female, 98% Caucasian, and the mean age was 84. The mean PHQ-9 score was 5.5 (SD 2.3), and 32% were taking at least one depression and/or psychotropic medication. For those reporting depressive symptoms, 70% were female, 98% Caucasian, and the mean age was 84. The mean PHQ-9 score was 5.5 (SD 2.3), and 32% were taking at least one depression and/or psychotropic medication. For those reporting depressive symptoms, 70% were female, 98% Caucasian, and the mean age was 84. The mean PHQ-9 score was 5.5 (SD 2.3), and 32% were taking at least one depression and/or psychotropic medication. For those reporting depressive symptoms, 70% were female, 98% Caucasian, and the mean age was 84. The mean PHQ-9 score was 5.5 (SD 2.3), and 32% were taking at least one depression and/or psychotropic medication.