日本 since 1945 : from postwar to post–bubble / edited by Christopher Gerteis and Timothy S. George Bloomsbury 2013

This book looks at the social, cultural and political changes that have occurred in Japan in the last 60 years, by providing case-studies from frequently discussed topics such as the changing image of “furusato”, the legacies of WWII, the late capitalist policies of Japan, and the historical impact of postwar imaginations of “Japan” and “the foreign.”

Re-inventing Japan : time, space, nation / Tessa Morris–Suzuki M.E. Sharpe c1998 Japan in the modern world

In today’s “liquid”, globalized society, it makes more sense to ask “how Japanese define Japan?” than to still ponder on “what Japan is?” This classic book of Japanese Studies analyses the way Japanese people have defined, over the modern period, such fundamental concepts as “nation,” “Japan,” “nature,” “culture,” “race,” “gender,” “civilization,” “globalization,” and “citizenship.”

日本を再発明する : 時間、空間、ネーション / テッサ・モーリス＝スズキ著 ; 伊藤茂訳 以文社 2014

「日本とは何か」という質問に答えるよりも、「日本人が日本をどのように定義してきたのか」という課題について考えたほうが流動的である現代世界に如何に有意義であろうか。日本学の古典ともいえるこの本は、次の概念に対しての日本人の考えを分析している：「国家」、「日本」、「自然」、「文化」、「人種」、「ジェンダー」、「文明」、「グローバル化」、「市民性」。

Traditions are made by those who call them “traditions.” This book employs a series of case-studies, from the so-called Japanese-style management to the national sport of sumo, to argue that much of what is today called Japanese traditional culture has been constructed during the process of modernization of the country.
